JANUARY

The Riponshire Advocate

BEAUFORT.

No. 2249 — {Registered at Ballarat Post Office, Melbourne for transmission by post as a newspaper} — BEAUFORT, SATURDAY, JANUARY 8, 1921. — PRICE, 3d

KAY'S "LINSEED COMPOUND," for Coughs and Colds. Of proven efficacy for chest complaints.

VICTORIAN PRODUCERS' CO-OPERATIVE COMPANY, LIMITED.

Nominal Capital, £250,000;
Subscribed Capital, £140,000;
Paid-up Capital, £101,000.
Reserve Fund, £50,000.

Head Office: 589-605 Collins St., Melbourne
Branches and Agencies throughout the State.

The Largest, the Strongest, the most Progressive Co-operative Company in the Southern Hemisphere.

GOVERNMENT MERKAT AGENTS. WOOL, SHEEPSKINS, HIDES, CALF & KIP SKINS, FURS.
1918 PRICES. WOOL, GRAIN, HIDES, SKINS, TALLOW, OILS, SPECIALTIES, ANIMALS, FARM PRODUCE, GOLDEN COMBINGS, GENERAL MERCHANDISE, LAND BROKERS.
Highest Prices obtained. Proceeds remitted promptly.
Suppliers of all Farmers' Requisites.
Agents for Farmers' and Settlers' Co-operative Insurance Co. of Australia Ltd
Last year Rebates paid Shareholders equalled 12 % on the paid-up capital of the Company.
Interview Local Agent or write Head Office for full particulars of benefits and how to become a Shareholder.
GEO. PRINGLE, Local Agent.

WEDNESDAY, 19TH JANY.
RAILWAY HOTEL, BEAUFORT.

W. L. THOMAS
DENTIST
Visiting Personally

Good Stuff. Reliable Assistants.

Branches: BALLARAT, PORT PIRIE, &c.

Studied Under
Doctor of Dental Surgery of America, also Dr. and Dentist from Royal College of Surgeons, Ireland.

PAINLESS EXTRACTIONS 1/-
GUARANTEE FIVE POUNDS IF ANY PAIN

During the last three weeks Mr. W. E. Thomas has been using an improved new discovery. No pain during and after teeth extraction (1a.) Quick healing. Live nerves removed without twinges. Gold or silver wired artificial teeth. Strongest and most natural in the world. Will return money in full if do not give utmost satisfaction after 4 months' use. Those with unsuitable teeth unable to enjoy good meals, should see Mr. Thomas. Methods perfect. Proved so by thousands of users throughout Australia. Hundreds passed direct without return. Made teeth for good people who have been informed that nothing could be done for them.

Mastication genuine, complete upper lower, is from 12 to 25 lb. Natural teeth up to 250 lb. Resilient Teeth, usable power mastication.

Many have said to us they would not part with their Teeth for £500 or £1000.

The secret of long life, health and youthful appearance is the thorough mastication of food. Spaces between grinders should be filled with artificial. If others decay they should be stopped or additional teeth added to plate.

Decayed Teeth predispose Indigestion, Cancer, Appendicitis, other diseases. My NEW SYSTEM Fitting Artificial Teeth only one visit necessary.

Beaufort, Kooringa, March 16, 1916.

Mr. W. E. Thomas, Dentist.

Dear Sir—The extractions you made for me have not caused me any pain, and I feel very well indeed. Every tooth you have put in fits well, and I can masticate the food as well as the natural teeth, and have no fear of any of them coming out. Wishing the dentist—W. G. GILLETT.

Mr. W. E. Thomas, Dentist. Ballarat.

Sir—Six weeks ago you removed thirty teeth for me without the slightest pain. Dentures fitted perfectly. My friends cannot detect which are my own teeth and which are your artificial teeth, which you successfully construct. Yours, Mrs. and Miss GIBBONS.

What the "Argus" (Melbourne) said:—"Several surgeons are employed by Mr. Thomas who have brought with them from Europe and America the best ideas relating to Dentistry."

Address Letters
W. E. THOMAS
DENTIST,
Box G.P.O. ADELAIDE — Box G.P.O. MELBOURNE

TESTIMONIAL.—Several people have told me to go to Thomas's if I wanted good teeth with new method suction; so strong in full upper and lower that with a direct pull my hardest hardly moves them. They are just like my natural ones were. Words can take five thousand pounds from me without teeth and not stop my enjoyment of life, before could not. Signed, J. Patterson, Kadina, July 24, 1916.

WHAT'S A DAY'S WORK?

The most difficult task of the Coal Commission seems to be to find out how much coal cutting is a "darg," or day's work for a miner. It appears that in a good "place" a man will cut four tons of coal in a shift, yet, for all that, the yearly output of coal per man was only 220 tons last year.

It is rather interesting to glance at other forms of work, and to see just how much other toilers do in a day.

Take ploughing, for instance. The man who, with a single horse plough turns an acre in a day, is well earning his money. In completing his task, he will have walked and guided the plough about fourteen miles.

Harvesting in the old days used to be slow work, and the man who cut by hand half an acre of wheat was doing well. With the modern horse-cutter and binder there is a great speeding up, and one man, with the assistance of two "shockers," has been known to cut and bind twenty acres of wheat in one day.

Some wonderful records were put up in munition factories during the war. In November, 1916, a workman belonging to the Woolwich Arsenal told the London Munitions Tribunal that he had made seventy-eight shells during a six-hour shift—something that had never been done before.

The feats achieved by riveters in the shipyards were startling. In May, 1915, Robert Farrant, of Bromley-by-Bow, set up a record of 4,276 rivets in a day, to be beaten a week later by Daniel Deviney, who, working at a Clyde shipyard, drove as many as 4,520 rivets in a day.

Two Americans—Charles Knight and Tom Moore—successively beat this amazing achievement; but in the end the record remained in British hands, for on May 23rd William Moore, of Barrow-in-Furness, drove 5,894 rivets in the course of a single working day. These were high tensile steel rivets, much more difficult to beat than the mild steel rivets used in the previous competitions.

At one time the setting of three hundred bricks was considered a [illegible] bricklayer. But at [illegible] using a special soft [illegible] has been known to [illegible] during an eight hour [illegible] tinue this average [illegible]

[illegible] no easy task. Take [illegible] ice. These average [illegible] to be separately [illegible]. Seventy boxes is [illegible] fair day's work, [illegible] been known to pack [illegible] twenty boxes in a [illegible] had to handle and [illegible] thousand oranges to [illegible] task. The work our [illegible] since when marching [illegible] beyond that of an [illegible]. The world's [illegible] is held by a de[illegible] London Rifle Bri[illegible] 1914, these men—[illegible]—marched from [illegible] a distance of [illegible] in fourteen hours twenty-three minutes. They were in full kit, and carried rifles, a total weight of forty-two pounds, yet not a man fell out. The next best achievement is that of the French Foreign Legion, of which a battalion covered easily fifty miles in fifteen hours thirty-three minutes.

BEAUFORT RAINFALL.

| | '90 | '91 | '92 | '93 | '94 | '95 | '96 | '97 | '98 | '99 |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Jan. | 181 | 112 | 203 | 40 | 149 | 462 | 107 | 8 | 61 | 80 |
| Feb. | 190 | 20 | 33 | 80 | 202 | 341 | 126 | 94 | 108 | 53 |
| Mar. | 324 | 107 | 156 | 149 | 73 | 96 | 267 | 104 | 124 | 57 |
| Apr. | 320 | 249 | 63 | 117 | 406 | 71 | 144 | 58 | 309 | 13 |
| May | 156 | 151 | 191 | 94 | 229 | 330 | 342 | 208 | 356 | 375 |
| June | 414 | 350 | 261 | 350 | 301 | 404 | 298 | 339 | 129 | 309 |
| July | 99 | 160 | 156 | 105 | 565 | 180 | 250 | 258 | 317 | 128 |
| Aug. | 277 | 405 | 289 | 194 | 117 | 385 | 159 | 197 | 302 | 240 |
| Sep. | 190 | 237 | 410 | 250 | 307 | 128 | 383 | 301 | 114 | 364 |
| Oct. | 261 | 131 | 161 | 90 | 190 | 39 | 278 | 460 | 113 | 291 |
| Nov. | 95 | 91 | 56 | 72 | 246 | 215 | 76 | 409 | 186 | 73 |
| Dec. | 10 | 83 | 86 | 0 | 267 | 16 | 76 | 42 | 429 | 70 |
| Tot. | [illegible] | [illegible] | [illegible] | [illegible] | [illegible] | [illegible] | [illegible] | [illegible] | [illegible] | [illegible] |

1919.—January, 141 points; February, 83; March 618; April, 79; May, 201; June, 390; July, 312; August, 225; September, 485; October, 307; November, 161; December, 117.

1911.—January, 47; February, 248; March, 491; April, 90; May, 311; June, 295; July, 152; August, 16; September, 690; October, 308; November, 43; December, 191.

1912.—January, 26; February, 40; March, 260; April, 238; May, 144; June, 366; July, 158; August, 18; September, 180; October, 114; November, 197; December, 261.

1913.—January, 71; February, 199; March, 266; April, 128; May, 204; June, 186; July, 187; August, 246; September, 117; October, 112; November, 52; December, 113.

1914.—January, 36; February, 11; March, 91; April, 108; May, 215; June, 270; July, 140; August, 41; September, 237; October, 56; November, 142; December, 361.

1915.—January, 145; February, 41; March, 60; April, 158; May, 315; June, 376; July, 187; August, 277; September, 404; October, 306; November, 102; December, 57.

1916.—January, 52; February, 111; March, 4; April, 250; May, 54; June, 311; July, 377; August, 268; September, 416; October, 437; November, 374; December, 446.

1917.—January, 97; February, 120; March, 141; April, 156; May, 279; June, 267; July, 267; August, 256; September, 236; October, 341; November, 270; December, 270.

1918.—January, 136; February, 91; March, 399; April, 497; May, 379; June, 289; July, 238; August, 400; September, 238; October, 139; November, 161; December, 136.

1919.—January, 52; February, 204; March, 149; April, 79; May, 12; June, 211; July, 266; August, 153; September, 252; October, 158; November, 68; December, 22.

1920.—January, 20; February, 32; March, 106; April, 97; May, 216; June, 382; July, 252; August, 44; September, 303; October, 54; November, 161; December, 112.

1921.—January, 20; 1914, 14-14; 1915, 31-92; 1916, 25-13; 1917, 25-84; 1918, 32-61; 1919, 31-85; 1920, 36-32; 1921, 12-12.

STACK MEASUREMENT.—To find the contents of an oblong stack with perpendicular ends, multiply the length by the average width (between bottom and eaves) and the product by the height from the ground to the eaves. For the top multiply the area at the eaves by half the height to the right. The weight may be ascertained very accurately by measuring the cubic contents of a truss, and from this calculating the height of a cubic foot.

KAY'S "LINSEED COMPOUND," the "Sure-to-relieve" remedy, for Coughs and Colds. Of proven efficacy for chest complaints.

REMEDY FOR HEADACHES, BACKACHE, NEURALGIA, Etc.

Headaches, Backaches, and Neuralgia, and a hundred and one other ailments which a large proportion of all ages, are usually attributable to the poisons of the blood and exhausted nerves, are now within reach of all. The obvious remedy is to purify and enrich the blood, and to restore the nervous system by using Hean's Celebrated Nerve Nuts, which are compounded according to the prescription of an eminent nerve specialist, and are manufactured by a qualified chemist of over 25 years' experience. The way in which Nerve Nuts build up the system and dispel neuralgic aches and pains is most gratifying to users.

WHAT IS AN ACRE? 5 yds. by 968 yds. contains 1 acre. 10 yds. by 48. 3½ yds. contains 1 acre. 20 yds. by 242 yds. contains 1 acre. 40 yds. by 121 yds. contains one acre. 80 yds. by 60½ yds. contains 1 acre. 70 yds. by 68. 1-12 yds. contain 1 acre.

To-morrow or to-night, maybe, you will find something that you prize highly. Nearly everybody loses something at some time or other, but in Beaufort few things are lost that can not be recovered through a small ad. in the "Riponshire Advocate." It's easy to mail an ad. to the "Advocate," or just call at the office and tell us your trouble.

BEAUFORT MOTOR GARAGE.

PROPRIETORS—COATES BROS. (E. F. C. Coates, late A.I.F., and W. R. Coates).

First-class Fitter and Turner and Mechanic employed.

Repairs a Specialty at Moderate Charges.

HARVEY-FROST VULCANISING DONE. GOODYEAR TYRES AND TUBES STOCKED; also GENERAL ACCESSORIES.

CARS FOR HIRE DAY OR NIGHT. 'Phone 35.

BEFORE YOU CHOOSE YOUR XMAS. AND NEW YEAR GIFTS, —VISIT BENNETT'S PHARMACY.—

NEW GOODS FOR XMAS.
British Xylonite Mirrors, Combs, and Brushware. English, French and American Soaps and Perfumery; the Original "Gegenuberdem" Eau de Cologne, Decanters of Lavender Water and Eau de Cologne, Perfume Sprays, Military Hair Brushes, Thermos Flasks, Shaving Sets in Nickel and in Oak.
Cameras and all Photographic Goods at Melbourne Prices. Negatives developed and printed. Enlargements made.
—ASK FOR XMAS CALENDAR.—

C. G. BENNETT, M.P.S.A., PHARMACEUTICAL CHEMIST, NEILL STREET, BEAUFORT. 'Phone 29.

Telephone 12. J. W. HARRIS
CHEMIST & DENTIST.
For Accuracy, Confidence, Satisfaction.
HAVELOCK STREET, BEAUFORT.
THESE STERLING REMEDIES—Harris' Rheumatic Powders, Harris' Influenza Mixture, Harris' Toothing and Cooling Powders for Children.
Surgery Hours—Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.; Friday, 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.; Saturday, 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.; Sunday, 10.30 a.m. to 12.30 a.m.

FAMOUS PAINLESS DENTISTRY.

WONDERFUL NEW IMPROVEMENT. Artificial teeth and extractions. W. E. Thomas's famous visiting.

Wednesday, 19th Jany.

The Tonic that is Almost World-Famous, and which men of all Professions Praise—!

Clergymen, Solicitors, Journalists, Editors, Commercial Business Men and Women throughout Australia.

HERE is the testimony to Clements Tonic, Ltd., from Mr. DAVID EDELSTEIN, J.P., who for years was Sergeant of Detectives, Melbourne, and who occupied a responsible post in the service:—

Wagmatcha, Rt. Bendwick.
CLEMENTS TONIC LTD.

During the past two years I have been a patient sufferer of nervous and general debility, which became so acute that my health was seriously impaired.

I was unable to do the work, and recommended medicines, the plenty of out-door exercise, but none instructive, and worthless.

Instead of my health improving, I grew worse, and was forced to a friend to make the recommendation to try Clements Tonic, which I do, and have much to say, that after taking it I thoroughly regained my good health.

Clements Tonic is the best medicine I have ever used. I have held the position of Detective Sergeant of Detectives in Victoria for many years, and speak with some authority upon the benefits that would result from the judicious use of this great medicine.

I am, Sirs,
DAVID EDELSTEIN, J.P."

Take Clements Tonic home with you tonight. When you get it you get good health too. All Chemists and Stores sell it through-out the Commonwealth and N.Z.

Clements Tonic Ltd., Rosella.

STEVENSON BROS.
BUILDERS AND CONTRACTORS
HAVELOCK STREET, BEAUFORT.
Estimates submitted for work in building line.

Mr. R. BERNARD LURATI,
RECOMMENDED BY DENTAL STAFF, Vic. (Late Australian Imperial Force),
VISITS BEAUFORT EVERY THURSDAY
And may be Consulted at the COMMERCIAL HOTEL, NEILL STREET. Hours from 1 till 5.

Painless, up-to-date Dentistry at Moderate Fees.
Consultation and Advice free.

Surgery and Laboratories at Rialto Chambers, Sturt Street, BALLARAT, opposite City Hall.
'Phone 1217, Ballarat.

THEO. W. SCHLICHT,
AUCTIONEER,
STOCK AND STATION AGENT.
BEAUFORT.

AGENT FOR—
Yorkshire Insurance Company.
H. E. Carter & Co.
Wm. Crosby & Co. and Federal Manure Co.

'Phone 9.

W. H. HALPIN,
AUCTIONEER.
HOUSE, LAND, STOCK, GENERAL COMMISSION AGENT & VALUATOR.

KELLY & McDONALD,
AUCTIONEERS,
STOCK AND STATION AGENTS,
BEAUFORT, LEXTON, CARRANBALLAC AND BUANGOR.

AGENTS FOR—
DALGETY & CO.
NEW ZEALAND INSURANCE CO.
T. ROBINSON & CO. PTY. LTD.
R. HORNSBY & SONS LTD.
MT. LYELL MANURES.
BUICK MOTOR CARS.

E. A. FAY.
LAND, ESTATE AND GENERAL COMMISSION AGENT, MIDDLE CREEK, N.S.

DISTRICT AGENT FOR—
GIPPSLAND & NORTHERN CO-OPERATIVE SELLING AND INSURANCE CO.
WISCHER'S MANURES.
S. G. VALENTINE & CO. (LAND).
Cash buyer of Grain. Highest Price.
Clearing Sales arranged. Farms for sale, including some in pick of Mallee.

SANDS & JOHNSON,
BUILDERS, CONTRACTORS, AND UNDERTAKERS,
NEILL STREET, BEAUFORT.

Concrete and Metal Work,
Picture Framing.
Cabinet-making and Upholstering.

Notice to Ladies.

IF your hair is falling do not neglect it, for delay often proves disastrous. Call and receive expert advice free from

M. PATERSON,
HAIR SPECIALIST AND HAIR WORKER.

Switches, Toupés, Transformations and Wigs made to order.
Ladies' Combings made up.
Latest Electrical Appliances, including Violet Ray.
The Cheapest House in Ballarat for Presentation Goods and Toilet Requisites. A large variety to select from. Buy your presents here for young and old and save money.

NOTE ADDRESS:
M. PATERSON,
24 BRIDGE ST., BALLARAT
Phone 806.

W. R. GLOVER
Late F. G. Prince, BUTCHER
HAVELOCK ST., BEAUFORT.

ONLY PRIME MEAT KEPT.
SMALL GOODS A SPECIALTY.

My Motto—
"Cleanliness, Quality, Civility."

Customers Waited upon Daily for Orders.

CONSIGN YOUR WOOL, GRAIN, SKINS, HIDES, TALLOW,
TO
THE AUSTRALIAN ESTATES & MORTGAGE CO. LTD.
Wool Warehouses: 573 to 579 COLLINS ST., MELBOURNE.
The Company act Strictly as Selling Brokers.

Curtains refreshes Carpets

A ROOM WITH SHABBY RUGS

is like a person in shabby shoes. No matter how fine the other furnishings or the other clothing may be, we always look down.

Now that people are beautifying their homes with new furniture, it would be a pity if they spoiled the effect by having old Rugs on the floors.

We have a fine show of Rugs, Mats, Dixie Mats, Carpets, Linos and Floor Coverings, the prices of which are very reasonable.

In Curtainings our range of Cretonnes, Casement Cloths, Madras Muslins, etc., is most complete, and every price represents a welcome saving.

Will you let us help you to select the new Rugs and Window Curtains? Call to-day.

Tunbridge's
Complete Furnishing Arcade
Sturt and Armstrong Streets
BALLARAT

BRIDAL PORTRAITS OF RARE BEAUTY.

WE produce the most perfect Bridal Portraits obtainable. This is a big thing to say, but when Brides from all parts of Australia come to us to be photographed, what other conclusion can we come to? Our fame does not travel the length and breadth of the Commonwealth without sufficient reason—and that reason is the quality of our work. The latest styles in Bridal Veils, Dresses, Bouquets, Buttonholes, always ready for the Sitters. Four large dressing rooms.

Every sitter is photographed in two positions, and a proof submitted from each.

Studio open every Saturday afternoon.

ENLARGED PHOTOGRAPHS.

An enlarged photograph of your Soldier Son or Brother would make an excellent memento. Permanent enlarged portraits, any of the following sizes:—

| Size of Photo. | Size of Mount. | Frame. | Price. |
|---|---|---|---|
| 10 x 8 | 15 x 13 | 3 bush | £1/10/- |
| 12 x 10 | 20 x 16 | Solid | £1/15/- |
| 15 x 12 | 25 x 17 | Oak with | £2 |
| 15 x 17 | 30 x 25 | Gilt filigree | £2/5/- |

Mail us a photo. You will be satisfied. Our name guarantees that. We are doing beautiful enlarged photos in all order for £1/10/- complete.

RICHARDS & CO., WORLD-FAMED PHOTOGRAPHERS, STURT STREET, BALLARAT.

J. C. DRAKEMS, Prop.

There is Nothing Better than HEARNE'S
Bronchitis Cure
For COUGHS, COLDS on the CHEST, CROUP and WEAK LUNGS.

This Medicine can be given with PERFECT SAFETY and the URGENT CONFIDENCE to the YOUNGEST CHILD, as it does NOT contain, and has NEVER contained any poison or harmful drugs. It is very pleasant to take, and children take it readily, even CLAMOR for it. HEARNE'S BRONCHITIS CURE is prepared by our MR. W. G. HEARNE who is a REGISTERED CHEMIST with nearly forty years' experience.

The REMEDY with the REPUTATION

Obtainable locally and direct to
W. G. Hearne & Co. Ltd.
GEELONG, VICTORIA.
Sydney, N.S.W.
Wellington, N.Z.

Always ask for "HEARNE'S"

"For the Blood is the Life."

YOUR BLOOD WANTS PURIFYING.

IF YOU are troubled with Eczema, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Boils, Sores or Eruptions of any kind continually bursting through the Skin.

IF YOU have that constant itching and inflammation of Piles.

IF YOU are suffering the aches and Pains of Bad Legs, Abscesses, Ulcers, Scrofulous and Ulcerated Sores, Glandular Swellings or Blood Poison.

IF YOU are in the grip of Rheumatism, Sciatica, Lumbago, Gout, etc.

All these are sure signs of clogging blood impurity, calling for immediate treatment through the blood, so don't waste your time and money on worthless lotions and messy ointments, which cannot get below the surface. What you want and what you must have is a medicine that will go right to the root of your trouble, a medicine that will thoroughly free the blood of poisonous matter, which alone is the true cause of all your suffering. CLARKE'S Blood Mixture is just such a medicine. It is composed of ingredients which quickly attack, overcome, and expel from the blood all impurities (from whatever cause arising), and by rendering it clean and pure, can be relied on to effect a lasting cure.

The True Value of CLARKE'S BLOOD MIXTURE is certified by a most remarkable collection of unsolicited testimonials from grateful patients of all classes—patients who have been cured after doctors and hospitals have given them up as incurable—patients who have been cured after trying many other treatments without success—patients who not only have been cured of the particular Skin or Blood Complaint from which they were suffering, but also have found great improvement in their general health. (See pamphlet round bottle.)

Clarke's Blood Mixture is pleasant to take and warranted free from anything injurious to the most delicate constitution of either sex, from infancy to old age.

CLARKE'S BLOOD MIXTURE
THE WORLD'S BEST BLOOD PURIFIER.
CURES ALL SKIN and BLOOD DISEASES.
OF ALL CHEMISTS AND STOREKEEPERS.
REFUSE SUBSTITUTES.

Frootoids
For Constipation, Biliousness, Bad Breath, Headache, Indigestion.
A Delightful Family Medicine

JANUARY

PUBLIC LIBRARY 11 JAN 1921 VICTORIA

The Riponshire Advocate

BEAUFORT.

No. 2249 | Registered at General Post Office, Melbourne for transmission by post as a newspaper. | BEAUFORT, SATURDAY, JANUARY 8, 1921. | PRICE, 3d

KAYS' "LINSEED COMPOUND," for Coughs and Colds. Of proven efficacy for chest complaints.

VICTORIAN PRODUCERS' CO-OPERATIVE COMPANY, LIMITED.

Nominal Capital, £250,000;
Subscribed Capital, £140,000;
Paid-up Capital, £101,000.
Reserve Fund, £50,000.

Head Office: 589-605 Collins St., Melbourne
Branches and Agencies throughout the State.

The Largest, the Strongest, the most Progressive Co-operative Company in the Southern Hemisphere.

GOVERNMENT WHEAT AGENTS. FOOL-HARDY & CO., Stock & Station & Market Agents. WOOL, GRAIN, HIDES, SKINS, TALLOW, CHAFF, POTATOES, ANIMALS, FARM PRODUCE SOLD ON CONSIGNMENT. EXPERT LAND SALESMEN.

Highest Prices obtained. Proceeds remitted promptly.

Suppliers of all Farmers' Requisites.

Agents for Farmers' and Settlers' Co-operative Insurance Co. of Australia Ltd.

Last year Rebates paid Shareholders equalled 12 % on the paid-up capital of the Company.

Interview Local Agent or write Head Office for full particulars of benefits and how to become a Shareholder.

GEO. PRINGLE, Local Agent.

WEDNESDAY, 19TH JANY., RAILWAY HOTEL, BEAUFORT.

W. L. THOMAS DENTIST

Visiting Personally

Good Staff. Reliable Assistants.

Branches: BALLARAT, PORT PIRIE, etc.

Studied Under Doctor of Dental Surgery of America, also Dr. and Dentist from Royal College of Surgeons, Ireland.

PAINLESS EXTRACTIONS 1/-

(FORFEIT FIVE POUNDS IF ANY PAIN)

THE WORLD'S BEST!

An opportunity of consulting one who has built up some of the best practices in Australia. 20 years shareship in one of the largest Wholesale and Importing Companies.

[illegible] Melbourne, spoke for [illegible]

T. Morse Resilient Tooth.

SOMETHING QUITE NEW.

Delightfully natural LIVE TOOTH FEELING patient experiences during mastication most gratifying. Mounted on a new base known as cellonoid in strength.

During the last three weeks Mr. W. E. Thomas has been using an improved new discovery. No pain during and after tooth extraction (Ia.) Quick healing. Live nerves removed without twinge. Gold or silver wired artificial teeth. Strongest and most natural in the world. Will return money in full if do not give utmost satisfaction after 4 weeks' trial. Those with unsuitable teeth unable to enjoy good meals, should see Mr. Thomas. Methods perfect. Proved so by thousands of users throughout Australia. Hundreds posted direct without return. Made teeth for good people who have been informed that nothing could be done for them.

Mastication genuine, complete upper-lower, is from 12 to 25 lb. Natural teeth up to 250 lb. Resilient Teeth, double power mastication.

Many have said to us they would not part with their Teeth for £500 or £1000.

The secret of long life, health and youthful appearance is the thorough mastication of food. Spaces between grinders should be filled with artificial. If others decay they should be stopped or additional teeth added to plate.

Decayed Teeth predispose Indigestion, Cancer, Appendicitis, and other diseases. My NEW SYSTEM Fitting Artificial Teeth only one visit necessary.

Bern, Kowinga, March 10, 1916.

Mr. W. E. Thomas, Dentist.

Dear Sir—The extracting you made for me were quite painless. The teeth you made for me have had one of tooth from you, and have not asked the loss of the original teeth, but have already been taken more work out of them than the old ones.—G. GILLETT.

Ballarat, Victoria, Australia.

Ballarat, Victoria, Australia.

Mr. W. E. Thomas, Dentist.

Dear Sir—It is now nearly thirty months ago since you fitted me with a set of teeth, and I am pleased to state that they have given satisfaction in every respect, which I cannot say of a set I had before from other dentists.—GEO. GLOVER.

What the "Argus" (Melbourne) said:—"Among discoveries are those made by Mr. Thomas, of Ballarat, who has made a study of teeth, and claims the latest word in dentistry." Address Letters

W. E. THOMAS DENTIST,

Best G.P.O. ADELAIDE — Best G.P.O. MELBOURNE

WHAT'S A DAY'S WORK?

The most difficult task of the Coal Commission seems to be to determine how much coal cutting is a "darg," or day's work for a man. It appears that in a good "place" a man will cut four tons of coal in a shift, yet, for all that, the yearly output of coal per man was only 220 tons last year.

It is rather interesting to glance at other forms of work, and to see just how much other toilers do in a day.

Take ploughing, for instance. The man who, with a single horse plough turns an acre in a day, is well earning his money. In completing his task, he will have walked and guided the plough about fourteen miles.

Harvesting in the old days used to be slow work, and the man who cut by hand half an acre of wheat was doing well. With the modern horse-cutter and binder there is a great speeding up, and one man, with the assistance of two "shockers," has been known to cut and bind twenty acres of wheat in one day.

Some wonderful records were put up in munition factories during the war. In November, 1916, a workman belonging to the Woolwich Arsenal told the London Munitions Tribunal that he had made seventy-eight shells during a six-hour shift—something that had never been done before.

The feats achieved by riveters in the shipyards were startling. In May, 1915, Robert Farrant, of Bromley-by-Bow, set up a record of 4,376 rivets in a day, to be beaten a week later by Daniel Deviney, who, working at a Clyde shipyard, drove as many as 4,430 rivets in a day.

Two Americans—Charles Knight and Tom Moore—successively, beat this amazing achievement; but in the end the record remained in British hands, for on May 23rd William Moses, of Barrow-in-Furness, drove 5,884 rivets in the course of a single working day. These were high tensile steel rivets, much more difficult to beat than the mild steel rivets used in the previous competitions.

At one time the setting of three hundred bricks was considered a day's work for a bricklayer. But at piecework, and using a special soft mortar, a man has been known to lay 1,400 bricks during an eight hour day, and to continue this average for days on end.

Packing fruit is no easy task. Take oranges, for instance. These average [illegible] and each fruit has to be separately wrapped in paper. Seventy boxes is considered a very fair day's work, but a man has been known to pack one hundred and twenty boxes in a ten-hour day. He had to handle and wrap eighteen thousand oranges to accomplish this task. The work our men did in France when marching in full kit is far beyond that of an ordinary labourer. The world's marching record is held by a detachment of the London Rifle Brigade. In April, 1914, these men—sixty-two in number—marched from London to Brighton, a distance of fifty-two miles in fourteen hours twenty-three minutes. They were in full kit, and carried rifles, a total weight of forty-two pounds, yet not a man fell out. The next best achievement is that of the French Foreign Legion, of which a battalion covered easily fifty miles in fifteen hours thirty-three minutes.

BEAUFORT RAINFALL.

| | '99 | '00 | '01 | '02 | '03 | '04 | '05 | '06 | '07 | '08 | '09 |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Jan. | 141 | 118 | 256 | 40 | 149 | 462 | 107 | 6 | 41 | 90 | 211 |
| Feb. | 180 | 20 | 33 | 80 | 202 | 341 | 195 | 94 | 166 | 53 | 91 |
| Mar. | 204 | 407 | 104 | 149 | 79 | 96 | 267 | 89 | 89 | 107 | 192 |
| Apr. | 236 | 749 | 461 | 11 | 495 | 71 | 144 | 58 | 369 | 18 | 202 |
| May | 195 | 151 | 151 | 94 | 229 | 330 | 235 | 242 | 264 | 256 | 375 |
| June | 414 | 340 | 361 | 355 | 301 | 404 | 298 | 339 | 126 | 300 | 298 |
| July | 99 | 180 | 146 | 105 | 565 | 180 | 253 | 356 | 317 | 126 | 143 |
| Aug. | 277 | 402 | 208 | 194 | 117 | 325 | 109 | 107 | 302 | 240 | 273 |
| Sep. | 180 | 237 | 410 | 190 | 107 | 129 | 253 | 191 | 114 | 264 | 76 |
| Oct. | 261 | 153 | 91 | 70 | 195 | 38 | 279 | 459 | 113 | 99 | 141 |
| Nov. | 152 | 91 | 50 | 73 | 242 | 213 | 76 | 402 | 160 | 172 | 158 |
| Dec. | 104 | 81 | 96 | 50 | 207 | 16 | 246 | 42 | 439 | 70 | 117 |
| Tots. | 2,543 | 2,929 | 2,417 | 1,412 | 2,888 | 2,611 | 2,163 | 2,387 | 2,600 | 1,895 | 2,267 |

1910.—January, 141 points; February, 93; March 618; April, 78; May, 211; June, 290; July, 312; August, 239; September, 405; October, 257; November, 164; December, 158.

1911.—January, 47; February, 742; March, 491; April, 80; May, 351; June, 395; July, 352; August, 168; September, 600; October, 366; November, 49; December, 52.

1912.—January, 26; February, 62; March, 202; April, 238; May, 184; June, 308; July, 154; August, 176; September, 313; October, 118; November, 257; December, 172.

1913.—January, 75; February, 192; March, 380; April, 159; May, 304; June, 168; July, 183; August, 148; September, 168; October, 125; November, 249; December, 117.

1914.—January, 88; February, 11; March, 91; April, 300; May, 153; June, 74; July, 310; August, 45; September, 68; October, 66; November, 142; December, 148.

1915.—January, 148; February, 31; March, 60; April, 164; May, 316; June, 225; July, 166; August, 277; September, 44; October, 366; November, 122; December, 24.

1916.—January, 140; February, 111; March, 4; April, 230; May, 54; June, 314; July, 377; August, 148; September, 418; October, 437; November, 274; December, 108.

1917.—January, 87; February, 160; March, 141; April, 15; May, 279; June, 207; July, 320; August, 43; September, 286; October, 341; November, 232; December, 125.

1918.—January, 136; February, 19; March, 300; April, 207; May, 38; June, 128; July, 200; August, 180; September, 239; October, 214; November, 40; December, 158.

1919.—January, 18; February, 264; March, 149; April, 38; May, 354; June, 211; July, 206; August, 193; September, 360; October, 188; November, 49; December, 121.

1920.—January, 30; February, 34; March, 106; April, 47; May, 416; June, 187; July, 232; August, 67; September, 343; October, 127; Dec., 42.

Tots.—1910, 2,543; 1911, 2,929; 1912, 2,417; 1913, 1,412; 1914, 2,888; 1915, 2,611; 1916, 2,163; 1917, 2,387; 1918, 2,600; 1919, 1,895; 1920, 2,267.

STACK MEASUREMENT.—To find the contents of an oblong stack with perpendicular ends, multiply the length by the average width (between bottom and eaves) and the product by the height from the ground to the eaves. For the top multiply the area at the eaves by half the height to the right. The weight may be ascertained very accurately by measuring the cubic contents of a truss, and from this calculating the height of a cubic foot.

REMEDY FOR HEADACHES, BACKACHE, NEURALGIA, Etc.

Headaches, Backaches, and Neuralgia, and a hundred and one other ailments which are the result of all ages, are usually attributable to impurities of the blood and exhausted nerve cells. The obvious remedy is to purify and enrich the blood, and to rest and tone nervous system by using Bean's Nerve Nuts, which are compounded according to the prescription of an eminent nerve specialist and are manufactured by a qualified chemist of over 25 years' experience. The nerve builders Nerve Nuts tone up the system and dispel neuralgic aches and pains is most gratifying to users.

WHAT IS AN ACRE?—3 yds. by 968 yds. contains ¼ ac. 10 yds. by 48 yds. contains ½ acre. 20 yds. by 242 yds. contains 1 acre. 40 yds. by 121 yds. contains one acre. 80 yds. by 60½ yds. contains 1 acre. 70 yds. by 68 1-12 yds. contain 1 acre.

Tomorrow or to-night, maybe, you will lose something that you prize highly. Nearly everybody loses something at one time or other, but in Beaufort few things are lost that can not be recovered through a small ad. in the "Riponshire Advocate." It's easy to mail an ad. to the "Advocate," or just call at the office and tell us your trouble.

BEAUFORT MOTOR GARAGE.

PROPRIETORS—COATES BROS. (E. P. C. Coates, late A.I.F., and W. R. Coates).

First-class Fitter and Turner and Mechanic employed.

Repairs a Speciality at Moderate Charges.

HARVEY-FROST VULCANISING DONE. GOODYEAR TYRES AND TUBES STOCKED; also GENERAL ACCESSORIES.

CARS FOR HIRE DAY OR NIGHT. 'Phone 35.

BEFORE YOU CHOOSE YOUR XMAS. AND NEW YEAR GIFTS, —VISIT BENNETT'S PHARMACY.—

NEW GOODS FOR XMAS.

British Xylonite Mirrors, Combs, and Brushware; English, French and American Soaps and Perfumery; the Original "Gegenbauden" Eau de Cologne, Decanters of Lavender Water and Eau de Cologne, Perfume Sprays, Military Hair Brushes, Thermos Flasks, Shaving Sets in Nickel and in Oak.

Cameras and all Photographic Goods at Melbourne Prices. Negatives developed and printed. Enlargements made.

—ASK FOR XMAS CALENDAR.—

C. G. BENNETT, M.P.S.A., PHARMACEUTICAL CHEMIST, NEILL STREET, BEAUFORT. 'Phone 29.

Telephone 12. J. W. HARRIS CHEMIST & DENTIST.

For Accuracy, Confidence, Satisfaction, HAVELOCK STREET, BEAUFORT.

Tasan Stabling Essences—Harris' Rheumatic Powders, Harris' Influenza Mixture, Harris' Teething and Cooling Powders for Children.

Hours—Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.; Friday, 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.; Saturday, 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.; Sunday, 10.30 a.m. to 12.30 p.m.

FAMOUS PAINLESS DENTISTRY.

WONDERFUL NEW IMPROVEMENT. Artificial teeth and extractions. W. E. Thomas's world's leading.

Wednesday, 19th Jany.

The Tonic that is Almost World-Famous, and which Men of all Professions Praise—!

Clergymen, Solicitors, Journalists, Editors, Commercial Business Men and Women throughout Australia.

HERE is the testimony to Clements Tonic Ltd. from Mr. DAVID EDELSTEIN, J.P., who for years was Member Scarport of Directories, Banks, and also endorsed a most honorable career in the world's State:—

"Warrnambool, 26 February, 1920.

St. Marys Rd., Randwick.

CLEMENTS TONIC LTD.

During the past two years I have been a patient sufferer of nerves and general debility, which became so acute that my health was seriously impaired.

I was advised to try the country and prescribed medicine and plenty of out-door exercise, but gave instruction proved worthless.

Instead of my health improving it seemed to get worse, until I took a friend's advice and commenced to use your Clements Tonic, which I am thankful to say did me good, and by using it I thoroughly regained my good health.

Clements Tonic is the best medicine I have ever used. I have held the position of Grand Master Sergeant of Debate in Victoria for many years, and speak with some authority upon the benefits that would result from the judicious use of this great medicine.

I am, Sire,

DAVID EDELSTEIN, J.P."

Take Clements Tonic home with you to-night. When you get it you get world's health tonic. Chemists and Stores sell it throughout the Commonwealth and New Zealand. Clements Tonic Ltd., Rozelle.

STEVENSON BROS., BUILDERS AND CONTRACTORS HAVELOCK STREET, BEAUFORT.

Estimates cheerfully given. Work in hand.

Mr. R. BERNARD LURATI, RICHMOND ON DENTA, Sharp St. (Late Australian Imperial Forces), VISITS BEAUFORT EVERY THURSDAY And may be consulted at the COMMERCIAL HOTEL, NEILL STREET. Hours from 1 till 5.

Painless, up-to-date Dentistry at Moderate Fees. Consultation and advice free.

Surgery and Laboratories at Rialto Chambers, Sturt Street, BALLARAT, opposite City Hall. 'Phone 1217, Ballarat.

THEO. W. SCHLICHT, AUCTIONEER, STOCK AND STATION AGENT, BEAUFORT.

AGENT FOR—
Yorkshire Insurance Company.
H. R. Carter & Co.
Wm. Crosby & Co. and Federal Manure Co.

'Phone 9.

W. H. HALPIN, AUCTIONEER, HOUSE, LAND, STOCK, GENERAL COMMISSION AGENT & VALUATOR.

KELLY & McDONALD, AUCTIONEERS, STOCK AND STATION AGENTS, BEAUFORT, LEXTON, CARRANBALLAC AND BUANGOR.

AGENTS FOR—
DALGETY & CO.
NEW ZEALAND INSURANCE CO.
T. ROBINSON & CO. PTY. LTD.
R. HORNSBY & SONS LTD.
MT. LYELL MANURES.
BUICK MOTOR CARS.

E. A. FAY, LAND, ESTATE AND GENERAL COMMISSION AGENT, MIDDLE CREEK RS.

DISTRICT AGENT FOR—
GIPPSLAND & NORTHERN CO-OPERATIVE SELLING AND INSURANCE COY.
MUSCHER'S MANURES.
S. G. VALENTINE & CO. (LAND).
Cash buyer of Grain. Highest Prices. Clearing Sales arranged. Farms for sale, including some in pick of Stalker.

SANDS & JOHNSON, BUILDERS, CONTRACTORS, AND UNDERTAKERS, NEILL STREET, BEAUFORT.

Concrete and Metal Work.
Picture Framing.
Cabinet-making and Upholstering.

Notice to Ladies.

IF your hair is falling do not neglect it, for delay often proves disastrous. Call and receive expert advice free from

M. PATERSON, HAIR SPECIALIST AND HAIR WORKER.

Switches, Toupés, Transformations and Wigs made to order.
Ladies' Combings made up.
Latest Electrical Appliances, including Violet Ray.
The Cheapest House in Ballarat for Presentation Goods and Toilet Requisites. A large variety to select from.
Buy your presents here for young and old and save money.

NOTE ADDRESS:
M. PATERSON,
24 BRIDGE ST., BALLARAT.
Phone 805.

W. R. GLOVER, Late F. G. Prince, BUTCHER HAVELOCK ST., BEAUFORT.

ONLY PRIME MEAT KEPT.
SMALL GOODS A SPECIALTY.
My Motto—
"Cleanliness, Quality, Civility."
Customers Waited upon Daily for Orders.

CONSIGN YOUR WOOL, GRAIN, SKINS, HIDES, TALLOW, TO THE AUSTRALIAN ESTATES & MORTGAGE CO. LTD.

Wool Warehouses: 573 to 579 COLLINS ST., MELBOURNE.

The Company act Strictly as Selling Brokers.

Curtains refonnes Carpets

A ROOM WITH SHABBY RUGS

is like a person in shabby shoes. No matter how fine the other furnishings or the other clothing may be, we always look down.

Now that people are beautifying their homes with new furniture, it would be a pity if they spoiled the effect by having old Rugs on the floors.

We have a fine show of Rugs, Mats, Dixie Mats, Carpets, Linos and Floor Coverings, the prices of which are very reasonable.

In Curtainings our range of Crotonnes, Casement Cloths, Madras Muslins, etc., is most complete, and every price represents a welcome saving.

Will you let us help you to select the new Rugs and Window Curtains? Call to-day.

Tunbridge's Complete Furnishing Arcade Sturt and Armstrong Streets BALLARAT

BRIDAL PORTRAITS OF RARE BEAUTY.

WE produce the most perfect Bridal Portraits obtainable. This is a big thing to say, but when brides from all parts of Australia come to us to be photographed, what other conclusion can we come to? Our fame does not travel the breadth and breadth of the Commonwealth without sufficient reason—and that reason is the quality of our work. The latest styles in Bridal Veils, Diademes, Bouquets, Bertrandias, always ready for the Sitters. Four large dressing rooms.

Every sitter is photographed in two positions, and a proof submitted from each.

Studio open every Saturday afternoon.

ENLARGED PHOTOGRAPHS.

An enlarged photograph of your father, son or brother would make an excellent memento. Permanent enlarged portraits, any of the following sizes:—

| Size of Photo. | Size of Mount. | Frame. | Price. |
|---|---|---|---|
| 10 x 8 | 15 x 13 | 8 inch | £1/15/- |
| 12 x 10 | 20 x 16 | Gold | £1/15/- |
| 15 x 12 | 26 x 21 | Oak with Gilt Slip | £2 £2/5/- |
| 22 x 17 | 30 x 25 | | |

Mail us a photo. You will be satisfied. Our same guarantee that. We are doing beautiful enlarged photos in oil color for £1/15/- complete.

RICHARDS & CO., WORLD-FAMED PHOTOGRAPHERS, STURT STREET, BALLARAT.

J. C. DRAKEMIN, Prop.

There is Nothing Better than HEARNE'S Bronchitis Cure

For COUGHS, COLDS on the CHEST, CROUP and WEAK LUNGS.

This Medicine can be given with PERFECT SAFETY and the GREATEST CONFIDENCE to the YOUNGEST CHILD, as it does NOT contain, and has NEVER contained any poisons or harmful drugs. It is very pleasant to take, and children take it readily—even CLAMOR for it. HEARNE'S BRONCHITIS CURE is prepared by our MR. W. G. HEARNE who is a REGISTERED CHEMIST with nearly forty years' experience.

The REMEDY with the REPUTATION that obtainable (easily) Post direct to W. G. Hearne & Co. Ltd. GEELONG, VICTORIA. Sydney, N.S.W. Wellington, N.Z.

Always ask for "HEARNE'S"

"For the Blood is the Life."

YOUR BLOOD WANTS PURIFYING.

IF YOU are troubled with Eczema, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Boils, Sores or Eruptions of any kind continually bursting through the Skin.

IF YOU have that constant itching and inflammation of Piles.

IF YOU are suffering the aches and Pains of Bad Legs, Abscesses, Ulcers, Scrofulous and Ulcerated Sores, Glandular Swellings or Blood Poison.

IF YOU are in the grip of Rheumatism, Sciatica, Lumbago, Gout, etc.

All these are sure signs of clogging blood impurity, calling for immediate treatment through the blood, so don't waste your time and money on useless lotions and messy ointments, which cannot get below the surface of the skin. What you want and what you must have is a medicine that will go right to the root of your trouble, a medicine that will thoroughly free the blood of poisonous matter, which alone is the true cause of all your suffering. CLARKE'S Blood Mixture is just such a medicine. It is composed of ingredients which quickly attack, overcome, and expel from the blood all impurities (from whatever cause arising), and by rendering it clean and pure, can be relied on to effect a lasting cure.

The True Value of CLARKE'S BLOOD MIXTURE is certified by a most remarkable collection of unsolicited testimonials from grateful patients of all classes—patients who have been cured after doctors and hospitals have given them up as incurable—patients who have been cured after trying many other treatments without success—patients who not only have been cured of the particular Skin or Blood Complaint from which they were suffering, but also have found great improvement in their general health. (See pamphlet round bottle.)

Clarke's Blood Mixture is pleasant to take and warranted free from anything injurious to the most delicate constitution of either sex, from infancy to old age.

CLARKE'S BLOOD MIXTURE

THE WORLD'S BEST BLOOD PURIFIER.

CURES ALL SKIN and BLOOD DISEASES.

OF ALL CHEMISTS AND STORENEEPERS.

REFUSE SUBSTITUTES.

Frootoids

For Constipation, Biliousness, Bad Breath, Headache, Indigestion.

A Delightful Family Medicine

Commonwealth Bank of Australia
"NEAR OFFICE" SYDNEY.
OPEN FOR ALL CLASSES OF
General Banking Business
in the Principal Cities and Towns of Australasia; Albuquerque (Britain); London (2).
Savings Bank Department
at all Branches; at Sub-Branches; Agencies; Post Offices throughout Australia, and at Parcels, New Zealand, Solomon, and other Islands of the Pacific.
3½ Interest on Deposits up to £1,000.
3½ Interest on Amounts over £1,000 up to £1,300.
JAMES KELL, Sir DENISON MILLER, K.C.M.G.,
Deputy Governor. Gen. Inc. Inc. Governor.

COUGLE'S
WHERE THE BEST VALUES ARE.
Special Reductions
In All Classes of
DRAPERY,
CLOTHING,
BOOTS & SHOES.
Our Large and Comprehensive
Stocks of
SUMMER GOODS
Are most Moderately Priced.
Inspection and Comparison
most Cordially Invited.
G. H. COUGLE,
THE STORE FOR GOOD VALUES.
BEAUFORT.

STATE SAVINGS BANK OF VICTORIA
THE 'FARMERS' BANK!
Credit Foncier Loans on Farm Properties.
Two-Thirds of Valuation up to £2,000 at 6 per cent.
Repayable over 27½ years £3/15/ half-yearly for each £100.
Special Terms for Returned Soldiers, Dependents, Red Cross and Transport Workers.
Three-Fourths of Valuation up to £2,000 at 5¾ per cent.
Repayable over 30¼ years £1/15/ quarterly for each £100.
Application Forms at any State Savings Bank, or by writing to Inspector-General.
Head Office, State Savings Bank, Elizabeth Street, Melbourne. GEO. E. EMERY, Inspector-General.

The Riponshire Advocate.
Published every Saturday Morning.
Printed and published by the proprietor, Arthur Parker, at "The Riponshire Advocate" Office, corner of Fraser and Lawrence Streets, Beaufort.
SATURDAY, JANUARY 8, 1921

Successful Pedestrian.

Mr Douglas Rogers, of Beaufort was the Sheffield handicap at a sports meeting at Burrumbeet on Xmas. Day.

Rainfall for Year.

The rainfall at Beaufort for December, 1920, amounted to 85 points against 221 points for December, 1919. For the twelve months 26.56 inches were registered, compared with 20.16 inches for 1919.

Heavy Rain.

Following several days of oppressive weather, rain set in at Beaufort on New Year's Night and continued at intervals until 5 p.m. on Sunday; a total of 333 points being registered. Some of the showers which fell on New Year's Night were unusually heavy. By morning all creeks and streams were flooded, some of the flats being inundated.

Bush Fire.

A bushfire, which was erroneously reported to be either at Chute or Raglan, occurred at Amphitheatre on Xmas. Day, and destroyed about 1000 acres of grass and fencing, belonging to Messrs Morgan, Bird, and Cocking, before being subdued by the bush fire brigade and willing helpers.

Passing Aeroplane.

An aeroplane passed over Beaufort on Saturday evening on the way to Ararat. It was a "Herald" machine, with Capts. H. A. Rigby and F. S. Huxley were aboard. The aviators accomplished the journey from Melbourne in two hours, and ran into a rain storm when half-way. The plane again flew across Beaufort about 5 p.m. on Sunday on the return journey. On both occasions it was travelling at a high altitude.

Xmas. Eve.

Although there did no appear, to the casual observer, to be as many people in the streets of Beaufort as usual on Xmas. Eve, shopkeepers report that their takings exceeded those on the previous Xmas. Eve. One leading business man asserted that his receipts for the night were the best for 28 years. There were a number of attractive window displays, and the holiday spirit was reflected in the bright, happy faces of both the children and adults.

The Holidays.

Xmas. Day passed quietly at Beaufort. There being no local fixtures, most people spent the day at home. In the afternoon picnic parties were in evid-nce at the local Park and Mt. Cole. The Athletic Club's sports on Boxing Day filled in the day for most local residents. There was no rowdyism on New Year's Eve. The Monday following New Year's Day being a holiday, many people spent the week-end in the city and elsewhere. On New Year's Day a good contingent attended the Burrumbeet races, picnic parties were in evidence at Mt. Cole and the Beaufort Park, and the sporting fraternity took advantage of the occasion for shooting and fishing excursions.

Beaufort Bowling Club.

The Beaufort bowling green promises to be one of the town's very best institutions. The green will not be officially opened until 15th Jany., but the members have already "christened" it, and large groups of players may be seen on the green each evening. The bowling green is an undoubted improvement to the town, and it is to be hoped that it will be widely supported. When the local players have had a little practice, no doubt there will be many visiting teams wending their way to Beaufort, and vice versa. The first match was played on Tuesday, 28th ult., when Messrs Betheras and Bowe (Beaufort), played Messrs Craig, of Warrnambool, and Harmer, of Mildura. There was some good play, many excellent shots being made on both sides. The local pair won, after a good game, by 16 to 12; Beaufort thus winning the first match played on the local bowling green.

Trawalla Estate.

As the result of the objections raised by the Ripon branch of the Returned Soldiers' League against the proposed private sale of the homestead at Trawalla Estate, with 5000 acres of land surrounding it, the house and the 5000 acres are to be sold by auction early this month. Mr Dermody, an officer of the Closer Settlement Board, was in the Beaufort district on Tuesday and formally took possession of Trawalla Estate. Two local returned soldiers (Messrs W. I. Halpin and J. Ellis) have been placed in charge. It is proposed to survey and sub-divide the 5,000 acres of the Estate purchased for the soldier settlers almost immediately. This will commence as soon as similar work now in progress on Mt. Bute Estate is completed, so that the Soldier Settlement Board can deal with applications for blocks as early as possible.

Driving Without Lights.

As the habit of driving and cycling without lights is becoming pronounced among residents of Beaufort and district, offenders are warned that the local police are taking measures to strictly enforce the by-law prohibiting this dangerous practice.

Local Cyclists.

In the mile wheel race of £8 at the Maryborough sports on New Year's Day, E. R. Martin (Beaufort), 120 yds., rode second in the second heat; J. L. McEvoale (Clunes), 20 yds., being third. McEvoale was disqualified in the final. In the first heat of the half-mile (£6), McEvoale, 10 yds., obtained third place.

Case of Snakebite.

On Monday Mrs Shaw, who is on a visit to relatives at Waterloo (the Stevens family), was bitten on the foot by a snake. The reptile struck her shoe, and it was not at first thought that the fangs penetrated the flesh. After about three hours had elapsed she became drowsy, and was treated for snakebite. Under treatment she soon recovered.

Accident.

Mr Thos. Wright, 29 years of age, who is a resident of Footscray and a rubber worker, had the misfortune to meet with an accident on Tuesday while visiting relatives in the Beaufort district, of which he was formerly a resident. While cutting down a tree he was struck on the back of the neck by a falling limb and severely injured. The injured man was taken to the Ballarat Hospital in an ambulance, and admitted to that institution for treatment. He is a son-in-law of Mr Boyd, sent., of Beaufort.

Bush Fire Brigade.

The annual meeting of the Stockyard Hill and Lake Goldsmith Bush Fire Brigade was held in the Lake Goldsmith school on night inst. Mr M. Exell acted as chairman. The secretary and treasurer (Mr Wm. Lynch) produced a statement showing a credit balance of £7/6/. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:—Mr M. Exell, captain; Mr Thos. Mulcahy, vice-captain; Mr Wm. Lynch, secretary and treasurer. Owing to the abundance of grass, it was decided to have the fire cart attended to; and a small tank and hose, to be placed in a waggonette when required, are to be purchased. The usual scale of fees was adopted.

Commercial Hotel Closes.

At the end of 1920 the Commercial hotel, Beaufort, the licence of which was recently surrendered, was closed. There are now only three hotels in the town and one in the district, whereas some 15 years ago there were nine in Beaufort and eleven in the district. The owner of the Commercial hotel is Mr W. P. Schilling, and his son Mr Theo. W. Schilling intends to utilise the building for an auctioneer's office and residence. Mr Theo. W. (Mr. J. Lidgewood) is leaving with his wife and family for Geelong, of which city he was a resident some years ago.

Railway Service Curtailed.

The curtailed railway service necessitated by the coal shortage came into operation on Wednesday. Passenger trains will reach Ballarat from Melbourne at 11.8 a.m. and 8.8 p.m. (the former being known at Beaufort as the mid-day train). The Ballarat express from Melbourne is running as usual. Trains for Stawell will leave Ballarat at 5.40 a.m. (reaching Beaufort at 7 a.m.) and 11.23 a.m.; and arrivals from Stawell are timed for 6.44 p.m. and 12.50 p.m. (known at Beaufort as the 5.30 and 11.30 respectively). The mixed train from Stawell reaching Beaufort at 8.30 a.m., and the one from Ballarat arriving here at 6.45 p.m., have been cancelled. The Skipton train will leave Ballarat at 1.15 p.m. on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, arriving in Ballarat from Skipton at 9.15 a.m. on Monday, Wednesday, Friday, and Saturday. The use of the telephone will be strictly adhered to, and intending travellers would do well to familiarise themselves with it.

Successful Pupils.

The following Beaufort and district candidates were successful at the recent examinations held at Ballarat under Mr R. J. Shanks, in connection with the London College of Music:—Primary—William Day, Gladys Packham, Molly O'Brien, Jack Frame, Ethel Hillman, Molly O'Loughlan; elementary—Athol Buchanan, Alma Holdsworth, Donald McDowell, Marjorie Lancey, David Skewes, Minnie Jess; intermediate—Bessie Buchanan, Nellie Frager, Jack O'Brien; advanced Intermediate—Doris Tucker, Nellie Martin. The above named are all pupils of Miss Eva Nickols, A.C.M.; Beaufort, and the results obtained reflect credit upon her. In all 17 of Miss Nickols' pupils were entered, and all passed; two obtaining honors, eight first-class passes, and seven passes.

PERPETUT VIRION.—MORRIS & MARCHANT, Opticians, of 298 Lit. Collins St., will visit Beaufort on Tuesday, Jan. 18th (Morning only), and may be consulted at the Mechanics' Reading Room. Appointments made by Mr Bennett.

Messrs W. H. Halpin & Son and Kelly & McDonald (auctioneers in conjunction) announce the sale of blocks of land, homes, cattle, sheep, harness, etc., also valuable township property, at residence of Mr J. Holdsworth, Beaufort, on Thursday, 20th inst., at 1.30 p.m.

The lady friends of members of Beaufort Bowling Club meet at Mechanics' Institute on Monday evening to make arrangements for afternoon tea in connection with opening ceremony.

Applications are invited for position of sexton for Beaufort Public Cemetery.

The homestead portion of Trawalla Estate, comprising 5000 acres and improvements, is to be sold at Scott's Hotel, Melbourne, on Friday, 14th inst.

The weather has been very oppressive at Beaufort during the past two days; the thermometer registering 96 degrees in the shade on Thursday and 89 on Friday.

Mr Tom Green is acting as relieving operating porter at the Beaufort railway station during the absence on sick leave of Mr Lee. Brasher. Mr Green was stationed here permanently some years ago, and served with the A.I.F. for several years in the late European war.

Mr C. W. Minchin, of Beaufort, celebrated his 92nd birthday on Wednesday. Mr Minchin, who held the position of clerk of courts here for over 50 years, retired a few years ago. He is still hale and hearty, despite the fact that he has been very lame for many years. Only the other day he was out walking.

Messrs. Kelly & McDonald hold a sale of 14 acres land, 8-roomed house, barn, shed, stables, 10 cattle, and 2 ponies, c/o. Mr A. Kowley, at Waterloo, on Saturday, 22nd inst.

A much appreciated New Year's gift has been made by Mrs Bridges to each employee on the Trawalla Estate. The property has now passed into the possession of the Crown for repatriation purposes, and to mark the winding up of the estate Mrs Bridges presented to each employee a cheque. The amounts thus distributed ranged from £1,50 to over £5 in accordance with length of service. Most of the employees, it may be mentioned, had records of nearly 30 years' service, and at the death of Admiral Bridges not long ago each benefited to the extent of one year's salary or wages under the will.

In a cricket match at the Eastern Oval on Monday between Ballarat and Maryborough, Mr J. H. Hay, the well-known Beaufort cricketer, made top-score (58) for Ballarat. Six wickets were down when James and Hay became associated. James batted carefully, but Hay, after an over or two, laid the wood on, and made some nice hits, especially on the leg. He pleased the crowd—the largest for the season—and he was frequently applauded. When the score had reached 178 James retired for a well-made 29. Hay continued till he had made 58, when he was bowled by Peart. He hit eight fours.

OBITUARY.

MRS. F. JESS.

We regret to record the death of Mrs Kitty Jess, wife of Mr Frank Jess, of Banyena; the sad event occurring at that place early in the week. The deceased, who spent the greater part of her life in the Beaufort district, was the youngest daughter of Mrs Kelly, senr. (formerly licensee of the delicensed Eremerai hotel). She possessed many sterling qualities, and her amiable disposition and breezy manner endeared her to all who knew her. Deceased, who was in her early thirties, leaves a widower and young family, for whom much sympathy is felt in their sad bereavement. The remains of the late Mrs Jess were interred at Banyena.

MR. ROBT. SINCLAIR, SENR.

One of Beaufort's oldest identities passed away on Wednesday night in the person of Mr Robt. Sinclair, senr., who had attained the ripe age of 88 years. Deceased had been bedridden for four years, and death was due to senile decay. He was born at "Forse" House, Thurso, Caithness (Scotland), in 1832, being a son of the late Mr James Sinclair, of "Forse" Estate. He voyaged to Australia in the ship "Bengal" (Capt. Lyons) in 1856, and married at Coleraine in 1854, when 22 years of age, and his wife survives him. The couple celebrated their diamond wedding seven years ago. As a young man the late Mr Sinclair was a great horseman, and while living on a station at Coleraine met and formed a friendship with a kindred spirit in the person of the late Adam Lindsay Gordon, the poet, in many of whose verses the horse and feats of horsemanship are prominently featured. He could relate many interesting incidents of Gordon's early career in the land of his adoption. The late Mr Sinclair's love of a good horse remained with him throughout life, and his old age he was often to be seen examining the points of any steed that took his fancy, the latter being passing through the railway station on their way to the Melbourne Cup never failed to attract deceased's attention if the old gentleman was able to be about. Deceased came to Beaufort in 1855, and followed the luck of the diggings here and elsewhere with varying success. He was a resident of the town for 66 years, and a colonist of 71 years' standing. Deceased leaves a widow, three daughters, and one son (the latter being Captain R. A. D. Sinclair, M.B.E. (general secretary of the Country Townspeople's League and a member of the Ripon Shire Council). Flags were flown at half-mast in the town as a last tribute to the deceased, whose remains were privately interred in the Beaufort Cemetery yesterday (Friday) afternoon. The funeral was attended by a number of relatives and friends of the family. Rev. A. H. Ross read the Presbyterian burial service. The coffin (which was covered with beautiful floral wreaths and emblems) was borne to the grave by Messrs J. W. and J. A. Harris (nephews of deceased). J. Cowan, of Mr J. Wotherspoon, Messrs Sands & Johnson, of Beaufort, were the undertakers.

Make your District Known

Concerning some parts of the district news comes but seldom. This is not entirely our fault; we have no miracle power of knowing what is happening at all the places within our area of circulation. It is the fault of residents in the latter places.

Will some man or woman take the matter in hand and cause the silence to cease.

If no one else is doing it for your district, will you try on these lines?

Send accounts of public and social events in your township and neighborhood, such as weddings, deaths, accidents, concerts, matters touching district industries, etc.

Write the names of persons very distinctly.

Write only on one side of the paper. Give information; but let criticism alone.

Write your name and address on some corner—not for publication, but to prove good faith.

ELECTRIC LIGHTING SCHEME.

As the cost of the Beaufort electric lighting scheme will exceed the estimate by £1000, the president of Ripon Shire (Cr. D. R. Hannah) convened a public meeting of ratepayers at the Shire Hall on Thursday night, to consider the advisability or otherwise of going on with the proposal. Fourteen ratepayers were in attendance. Prior to the commencement of the meeting, an informal discussion took place, during which it was mentioned that there were 120 promised consumers, the estimated revenue per year being £7 per house. If the scheme were abandoned now, it was stated that it would cost the Shire £50 for the electrical engineers' estimates, report, and travelling expenses, which would be debited against the scheme in the minutes of the Shire, and slight it up again in the future. The opinion was expressed that the estimate for pumping for the town water supply could be safely increased from £50 to £150 or £100. The rather small attendance was put down to people forgetting the meeting owing to holidays intervening.

Cr. W. H. Halpin (who was voted to the chair) said he was sorry the shire president was not here, but he was busy harvesting. He also apologised for the absence of Cr. R. A. D Sinclair, and said they regretted the circumstances responsible for his non-attendance.

In answer to a question, the chairman said there were 120 promised consumers, and the electrical engineers' estimate was only based on 100.

Mr E. J. Muntz—The only item he was doubtful about was the £7 per year average per tenement. Perhaps you must remember the fact that that included the railway station, post-office, Mechanics' Institute, and all the public houses in the town, which would make it alright. They must admit that any amount of tenements would only pay £3 or £4 per year.

Mr J. R. Wotherspoon—There was not the slightest doubt it would be a grand thing for the town.

Mr Muntz—They thought the amount at first allowed for wages insufficient.

The chairman—He did not think the public meeting necessary. The council should have taken the responsibility at last meeting.—[Mr Young—Hear, hear.]—The £5,000 estimate was based on 100 consumers, and they had 120. It would cost £1000 extra, and they had 20 extra consumers, so why hesitate about going on with it? An extra £1000 would have been provided same.

"Never venture.

Why, they were going to take in the town, which they were going to prosper, they'd light. Smaller towns. No town had ever turned it down when it was installed. After the first year, they would get 25 per cent. of consumers coming through Beaufort the darkest town in the district, should be lighted for six months in the year electric light they would not every night in the year.

Mr J. R. Wotherspoon—They also paid £50 more for an engine than the estimate for it for the whole year. Th taken into consideration the industries might be established there. Perhaps in a year that present ones such as chaff-cutting might take power. A £7 average per consumer was within the mark. Contrary to what some people thought, the electrical engineers did not want to go on the cheap. They had to pay for what they pay. Mr Christie had told him that if they got 120 consumers it would be quite safe to go on with it. He (the speaker) was disappointed, he hoped they would not turn it down.

Mr D. R. Troy—His name did not appear on the list of consumers, but he did not say it would not. At the same time he thought they were as safe to go on cautiously. He was not an expert, but had given the Ripon Shire Council a loan of £5,000 outlay Beaufort showed an annual profit of £25. The speaker quoted figures which he previously gave at a shire council meeting in regard to the cost of the undertaking, and loss, and cost of wages and fuel in various towns. The same having been extracted from official balance sheets.

The chairman—I think we are on a really good footing.

Mr Muntz—The point was whether it was wise to go on with the scheme or was a little while and see whether they could save much. They would have to alter it considerably to save £1000, and in saving £1000 they would only save £100 per year interest and sinking fund. That would be only for consumers. The estimated revenue of £700 he would assume was correct; if the prospect of others putting it in were realised, it would then be alright. A great many people had promised to put in, but they would not use anything like the estimated revenue.

The chairman—On the other hand a great many would use more.

Mr Troy—A lot of householders would not pay more than £5 per year, but if they could get it back in the form of the scheme were gone on with, it would be a great convenience. He felt that he would install the light at his private expense if he was sure of the light, but he at his firm's shop, but he did not feel satisfied in his mind that they should go on with it.

The chairman—People would never be satisfied. Contrary to what some thought, the electrical engineers did not want to go on the cheap. They had to pay for what they pay. Mr Christie had told him that if they got 120 consumers it would be quite safe to go on with it. He (the speaker) was disappointed, he hoped they would not turn it down.

Mr D. R. Troy—His name did not appear on the list of consumers, but he did not say it would not. At the same time he thought they were as safe to go on cautiously. He was not an expert, but had given the Ripon Shire Council a loan of £5,000 outlay Beaufort showed an annual profit of £25. The speaker quoted figures which he previously gave at a shire council meeting in regard to the cost of the undertaking, and loss, and cost of wages and fuel in various towns. The same having been extracted from official balance sheets.

The chairman—I think we are on a really good footing.

Mr Muntz—The point was whether it was wise to go on with the scheme or was a little while and see whether they could save much. They would have to alter it considerably to save £1000, and in saving £1000 they would only save £100 per year interest and sinking fund. That would be only for consumers. The estimated revenue of £700 he would assume was correct; if the prospect of others putting it in were realised, it would then be alright. A great many people had promised to put in, but they would not use anything like the estimated revenue.

The chairman—On the other hand a great many would use more.

Mr Troy—A lot of householders would not pay more than £5 per year, but if they could get it back in the form of the scheme were gone on with, it would be a great convenience. He felt that he would install the light at his private expense if he was sure of the light, but at his firm's shop, but he did not feel satisfied in his mind that they should go on with it.

The chairman—People would never be satisfied. Contrary to what some thought, the electrical engineers did not want to go on the cheap. They had to pay for what they pay. Mr Christie had told him that if they got 120 consumers it would be quite safe to go on with it. He (the speaker) was disappointed, he hoped they would not turn it down.

Mr Muntz—Speaking as a resident of the town—he had nothing to do with the estimates and was not here in his official capacity—he knew that these engineers had based their estimate on what they had done other work for. That £7 seemed high, but they had in mind dozens of places and estimated the receipts on what they were getting at other places. They took the actual figures, and he thought they were reliable. The proper procedure, he thinks, was to carry a motion that people like the Troy and Muntz with the shire should go on with it, and put it in. The running cost of electricity in Melbourne was cheaper than ours. He was in the Tarrant Motors establishment the other day and saw them dismantling the motors and adjusting the belts to run the machines by an oil engine. The engineer told him it would cost them £1 per day to run on oil, against 2/ or 3/ by electricity. The Eureka Pottery and Tile Co. was running on electricity, and found it would cost them £1 per day to run the machines by steam or suction gas, the cost of electricity being fully one-third cheaper. That was a fact that wanted bringing home.

Mr S. Young—About 12 years ago a petition was put on the council table for installing electric lights. Only two signed it—Mrs Jackson and himself. He was still in favor of it, and if they had had it 12 years ago they would not have been talking about it to-night. If they did not decide to put it in to-night, they would be here in another 12 months talking about it.

The motion was then put, and unanimously carried.

The chairman—Thank you. I am very pleased.

MIDDLE CREEK.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT).

The first load of the new season's wheat was delivered at the local railway siding by Mr A. W. Kelpher, on Saturday, 4th inst. The grain is of good quality, and was received by Mr E. A. Fay, local agent under the local grain receiving scheme, for the co-operative wheat group.

A heavy fall of rain occurred here on Saturday night, and continued until Sunday afternoon, about three inches being registered. It has had the effect of hindering harvesting operations, where there is still reaping here, and has also damaged some of the stacks which were partly built. The fall is not widespread, but it has benefited the grass which will shoot now will be turned off later on by the hot weather which is sure to follow.

FAMOUS PAINLESS DENTISTRY.
WONDERFUL NEW IMPROVEMENTS. Artificial teeth and extractions. W. E. Thomas personally visiting—Wednesday, 19th Jany.

The annual meeting of the Beaufort Bowling Club is to be held in the Mechanics' Institute on Monday evening at 8 o'clock.

The monthly meeting of the Ripon Shire Council will be held on Monday. Tenders are invited for several contracts.

F. O'BRIEN begs to let the people of Beaufort and surrounding districts know that he has opened a GARAGE in the street, Beaufort, and is ready for action. No job is too big, or no job is too small. Guaranteed for quickness, accuracy, and lowest possible charges. Every job I do is done and will stand the inspection of all-comers. All jobs which I have done here in this town so far are my references, so when you put one to the test you also will judge for yourself.
J. F. O'BRIEN,
MOTOR ENGINEER.

AMUSU PICTURES.
NOW SOLELY BY RETURNED SOLDIERS.
SOCIETIES' HALL, BEAUFORT.
SATURDAY (TO-NIGHT.)
William S. Hart, in "MAGGON TRACK."
Lila Lee, in "THE HEART OF YOUTH."
USUAL PRICES: Adults 1/6 and 1/1; Children, half-price.

Australian Natives' Association
THE Fortnightly MEETING of the Beaufort Branch will be held in the MECHANICS' INSTITUTE on TUESDAY Evening next, at 8 o'clock sharp.
W. J. BRUCE JOHNSON, Secretary pro tem.

Religious Services.

SUNDAY, JANUARY 9TH, 1920.

CHURCH OF ENGLAND.—Beaufort, 11 and 7, Rev. R. Ewing. Wood.

METHODIST CHURCH.—Beaufort, 11, Christ; 2, Waterloo; 3.30; Raglan, 7.30 p.m., Rev. J. Coltman. Raglan, 3; Beaufort, 7.—Mr C. Waldron. Main 7.30.—Mr C. J. Pearce.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.—Beaufort, 11 and 7, Rev. A. H. Ross. 1.30; Buangor, 3 p.m., Mr A. H. Ross.

USEFUL READY RECKONER.
Every farmer should paste this table of weights in his pocket book.
One quarter equals 28lb.
Two quarters equal 56lb.
Three quarters equal 1bus. 24lb
One cwt. equals 1 bus. 52lb
Two cwt. equal 3bus. 4lb
Three cwt. equal 3bus. 56lb
Four cwt. equal 7 bus. 28lb.
Five cwt. equal 9bus. 00lb.
Six cwt. equal 10bus. 32lb.
Seven cwt. equal 12bus. 64lb.
Eight cwt. equal 14bus. 96lb.
Nine cwt. equal 18bus. 48lb.
Ten cwt. equal 19bus. 40lb.
Eleven cwt. equal 20bus. 32lb.
Twelve cwt. equal 22bus. 24lb.
Thirteen cwt. equal 24bus. 16lb.
Fourteen cwt. equal 26bus. 8lb.
Fifteen cwt. equal 30bus.
Sixteen cwt. equal 29bus. 12lb.
Seventeen cwt. equal 31bus. 44lb.
Eighteen cwt. equal 33bus. 36lb.
Nineteen cwt. equal 35bus. 28lb.
Ten tons equals 37bus. 20lb.
Two tons equal 74bus. 40lb.
Three tons equal 112bus.
Four tons equal 149bus. 20lb.
Five tons equal 186bus. 40lb.
Six tons equal 224bus.
Seven tons equal 261bus. 20lb.
Eight tons equal 298bus. 40lb.
Nine tons equal 336bus.
Ten tons equal 372bus. 40lb.
Eleven tons equal 410bus. 40lb.
Twelve tons equal 448bus.
Thirteen tons equal 485bus. 20lb.
Fourteen tons equal 522bus. 40lb.
Fifteen tons equal 560bus.
Sixteen tons equal 597bus. 20lb.
Seventeen tons equal 634bus. 40lb.
Eighteen tons equal 672bus.
Nineteen tons equal 709bus. 20lb.
Twenty tons equal 746bus. 40lb.
Twenty-one tons equal 784bus.
Twenty-two tons equal 821bus. 20 lb., and so on.

BEAUFORT ATHLETIC CLUB.

BOXING DAY SPORTS.

Officials:—President, Mr A. E. Crick; vice-presidents, Messrs J. A. Bates and J. T. Glover; judges, president, Messrs Bates, W. J. Stevenson, D. Stevenson (cycling and footracing), and D. R. Hannah (woodchopping); referee and timekeeper, Mr R. A. D. Sinclair; starter, Mr T. Williams; assistant-starter, Mr W. O'Sullivan; bellman, Mr T. Dickman; stewards, Messrs W. R. Glover, P. Grant, R. Pitcher, A. Boyd, H. Cuthbertson, J. Day, and G. H. Couglе; protest committee, president, referee, and Mr D. Stevenson; handicappers, Messrs A. James (V.A.L. footracing), E. W. Robinson (woodchopping), W. R. Glover and J. Bates (cycling); W. R. Glover (trout); committee to arrange logs, Messrs D. Stevenson, A. Boyd, and W. H. Halpin; ticket seller, Mr W. Stevens; gate-keepers, Messrs H. Norman and C. Loe; secretary, Mr A. Parker.

The cool, fine weather experienced at Beaufort on Boxing Day was very welcome after the trying heat of the preceding week. A fine rain which fell on Sunday allayed fears of bush fires. Therefore there was a good attendance of residents of the town and district, together with a sprinkling of visitors from other parts of Victoria, at the local Athletic Club's 48th annual sports carnival, held in the Park. The gate money amounted to £84, against £76/5/3 at the 1919 meeting. As a loss of £26 was incurred by the 1919 sports, the prize money for 1920 was reduced from £140 to £100, but this reduction did not appear to adversely affect the popularity the club has enjoyed for many years among the sporting public. The fact of there being a big counter attraction at Ararat took the Middle Creek and Raglan contingent to that town, and made some folk dubious as to the success of the Beaufort sports, but, happily, their fears did not materialise, for 24 pedestrians accepted for the Sheffield handicap for £37 in prize money, against 28 last year for prize money amounting to £60. This year there were also 21 acceptors for the Sprint, and the long-distance races, too, attracted good entries. The open woodchopping and cycling, however, were not up to the standard of previous years, far too few entries being received. This fact is hard to account for, as fair prizes were offered. As these are the most popular forms of sport with the public, the club cannot afford to dispense with them, despite the fact that the discouraging response to their efforts to cater for axemen and cyclists would seem to justify their doing so. In the majority of events on the programme (including the local novice chop), the number of entries was satisfactory, and an enjoyable day's sport was provided. No accidents or disputes occurred, and everything went off smoothly. The Sheffield handicap, 120-yds. heats, 440-yds. handicap, and 440-yds. novice handicap were keenly contested events, and several local lads, including the boys Day, Stevens, and Hannah, showed good form. The boys Day and Stevens, and Hannah, showed good form. The boys Day and Stevens, and Hannah, showed good form. The boys Day and

Commonwealth Bank of Australia
HEAD OFFICE SYDNEY.
OPEN FOR ALL CLASSES OF
General Banking Business
in the Principal Cities and Towns of Australia and the Russian Dominions; London (3) Savings Bank Department at all Branches and Savings Bank Agencies. 1,232 Post Offices throughout Australia, and at Papua, New Guinea, Nauru and other Islands of the Pacific
3% Interest on Deposits up to £1,000.
3½ Interest on Amounts over £1,000 up to £1,300.
JAMES KELL. Sir DENISON MILLER, K.C.M.G.,
Deputy Governor. Governor.

The Riponshire Advocate.
Published every Saturday Morning.
(Printed and published by the proprietor, Arthur Parker, at The Riponshire Advocate Office, corner of Pratt and Lawrence Streets, Beaufort.)
SATURDAY, JANUARY 8, 1921

Successful Pedestrian

Mr Douglas Rogers, of Beaufort won the Sheffield handicap at a sports meeting at Burrumbeet on Xmas Day.

Rainfall for Year

The rainfall at Beaufort for December, 1920, amounted to 85 points, against 221 points for December, 1919. For the twelve months 26.56 inches were registered, compared with 20.16 inches for 1919.

Heavy Rain

Following several days of oppressive weather, rain set in at Beaufort on Tuesday afternoon and continued at intervals until 5 p.m. on Sunday; a total of 333 points being registered. Some of the showers which fell on New Year's Night were unusually heavy. By morning all creeks and streams were flooded, some of the flats being inundated.

Bush Fire

A bushfire, which was erroneously reported to be either at Chute or Raglan, occurred at Amphitheatre on Xmas Day, and destroyed about 1000 acres of grass and fencing, belonging to Messrs Morgan, Bird, and Cocking, before being subdued by the bush fire brigade and willing helpers.

Passing Aeroplane

An aeroplane passed over Beaufort on Saturday evening on the way to Ararat. It was a "Herald" machine, and Capts. H. A. Rigby and F. S. Huxley were aboard. The aviators accomplished the journey from Melbourne in two hours and ran into a rain storm near Buangor. The plane again flew across Beaufort about 5 p.m. on Sunday on the return journey. On both occasions it was travelling at a high altitude.

Xmas. Eve

Although there did no appear, to the casual observer, to be as many people in the streets of Beaufort as usual on Xmas. Eve, shopkeepers report that their takings exceeded those on the previous Xmas. Eve. One leading business man asserted that his receipts for the night were the best for 28 years. There were a number of attractive window displays, and the holiday spirit was reflected in the bright, happy faces of both the children and adults.

The Holidays

Xmas. Day passed quietly at Beaufort. There being no local fixtures, most people spent the day at home. In the afternoon picnic parties were in evidence at the local Park and Mt. Cole. The Athletic Club's sports on Boxing Day filled in the day for most local residents. There was no rowdyism on New Year's Eve. The Monday following New Year's Day being a holiday, many people spent the week-end in the city and elsewhere. On New Year's Day a local contingent attended the Burrumbeet races, picnic parties were in evidence at Mt. Cole and the Beaufort Park, and the sporting fraternity took advantage of the occasion for shooting and fishing excursions.

Beaufort Bowling Club.

The Beaufort bowling green promises to be one of the town's very best institutions. The green will not be officially opened until 15th Jany., but the members have already "christened" it, and large groups of players may be seen on the green each evening. The bowling green is an undoubted improvement to the town, and it is to be hoped that it will be widely supported. When the local players have had a little practice, no doubt there will be many visiting teams wending their way to Beaufort, and vice versa. The first match was played on Tuesday, 28th ult., when Messrs Bethness and Bowe (Beaufort) played Messrs Craig, of Warrnambool, and Harmer, of Mildura. There was some good play, many excellent shots being made on both sides. The local pair won, after a good game, by 16 to 12; Beaufort thus winning the first match played on the local bowling green.

Trawalla Estate.

As the result of the objections raised by the Ripon branch of the Returned Soldiers' League against the proposed private sale of the homestead at Trawalla Estate, with 8000 acres of land surrounding it, the house and the 8000 acres are to be sold by auction early this month. Mr Dermody, an officer of the Closer Settlement Board, was in the Beaufort district on Tuesday and formally took possession of Trawalla Estate. Two local returned soldiers (Messrs W. I. Halpin and J. Ellis) have been placed in charge. It is proposed to survey and sub-divide the 35,000 acres of the Estate purchased for the soldier settlers almost immediately. This will commence as soon as similar work now in progress on Mt. Bute Estate is completed, so that the Soldier Settlement Board can deal with applications for blocks as early as possible.

DEATH.

SINCLAIR.—5th January, 1921, at his residence, Beaufort, Robert Sinclair, son of late Arthur Sinclair, "Fores," Thurso, Caithness, aged 88 years.

IN MEMORIAM.

JONES.—In loving memory of my dear wife and our darling mother, Jane Jones, who died at Ararat on January 2nd, 1919.
Nothing but memories as we journey on,
Longing for a smile, and a face, that is gone.
None know the depths of our regret,
But we remember what others forget.
At the heavenly gates she will meet us,
Where we shall be united, never more to part.
For we are only parted.
Just for a little while
Dearest by her loving husband, children, and grandchildren

Driving Without Lights.

As the habit of driving and cycling without lights is becoming pronounced among residents of Beaufort and district, offenders are warned that the local police are taking measures to strictly enforce the by-law prohibiting this dangerous practice.

Local Cyclists

In the mile wheel race of £8 at the Maryborough sports on New Year's Day, R. R. Martin (Beaufort), 120 yds., rode second in the second heat; J. L. McEvale (Chute), 20 yds., being third. McEvale was disqualified in the final. In the first heat of the half-mile (£6), McEvale, 10 yds., obtained third place.

Case of Snakebite

On Monday Mrs Shaw, who is on a visit to relatives at Waterloo (the Steven family), was bitten on the foot by a snake. The reptile struck her shoe, and it was not at first thought that the fangs penetrated the flesh. After about three hours had elapsed she became drowsy, and was treated for snakebite. Under treatment she soon recovered.

Fatal Accident.

Mr Thos. Wright, 29 years of age, who is a resident of Footscray and a rubber worker, had the misfortune to meet with an accident on Tuesday while visiting relatives in the Beaufort district, of which he was formerly a resident. While cutting down a tree he was struck on the back of the neck by a falling limb and severely injured. The injured man was taken to the Ballarat Hospital in an ambulance, and admitted to that institution for treatment. He is a son-in-law of Mr Boyd, senr., of Beaufort.

Bush Fire Brigade

The annual meeting of the Stockyard Hill and Lake Goldsmith Bush Fire Brigade was held in the Lake Goldsmith school on 29th inst. Mr M. Ewell acted as chairman. The secretary and treasurer (Mr Wm. Lynch) produced a statement showing a credit balance of £7/16/. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:—Mr M. Ewell, captain; Mr Thos. Mulcahy, vice-captain; Mr Wm. Lynch, secretary and treasurer. Owing to the abundance of grass, it was decided to have the fire cart attended to, and a small tank and pump to be placed in a waggon, ette when required, are to be purchased. The usual scale of fees was adopted.

Commercial Hotel Closes.

At the end of 1920 the Commercial hotel, Beaufort, the licence of which was recently surrendered, was closed. There are now only three hotels in the town and one in the district, whereas some 15 years ago there were nine in Beaufort and eleven in the district. The owner of the Commercial hotel is Mr W. P. Schlitzki, and his son, Mr Theo. W. Schlitzki intends to utilise the building for an auctioneer's office and residence. The licensee (Mr W. J. Lidgerwood) is leaving with his wife and family for Geelong, of which city he was a resident some years ago.

Railway Service Curtailed.

The curtailed railway service necessitated by the coal shortage came into operation on Wednesday. Passenger trains are timed to reach Ballarat from Melbourne at 11.8 a.m. and 8.8 p.m. (the former being known at Beaufort as the mid-day train). The Adelaide express from Melbourne is running as usual. Trains for Stawell will leave Ballarat at 5.40 a.m. (leaving Beaufort at 7 a.m.) and 11.23 a.m.; and arrivals from Stawell are timed for 6.44 p.m. and 12.50 p.m. respectively at Beaufort as the 5.30 and 11.30 respectively). The mixed train from Stawell reaching Beaufort at 8.30 a.m., and the one from Ballarat leaving here at 6 45 p.m., have been cancelled. The Skipton train will leave Ballarat at 4.15 p.m. on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, arriving in Ballarat from Skipton at 9.15 a.m. on Monday, Wednesday, Friday, and Saturday. The new time-table is to be strictly adhered to, and intending travellers would do well to familiarise themselves with it.

Successful Pupils.

The following Beaufort and district candidates were successful at the recent examinations held at Ballarat under Mr R. J. Shanks, in connection with the London College of Music:—Primary—William Day, Gladys Peckham, Molly O'Brien, Jack France, Ethel Hillman, Molly O'Loughlan; elementary—Athol Buchanan, Alma Holdsworth, Donald McDonald, Marjorie Lancey, David Skewes, Minnie Jess; intermediate—Rhaita Buchanan, Nellie Frazer, Jack O'Brien; advanced Intermediate—Doris Tucker, Nellie Martin. The above named are all pupils of Miss Eva Nickols, A.L.C.M., of Beaufort, and the results obtained reflect credit upon her. In all 17 of Miss Nickols' pupils were entered, and all passed; two obtaining honors, eight first-class passes, and seven passes.

PERFECT VISION.—MORRIS & MARCHANT, Opticians, of 238 Lit. Collins St., will visit Beaufort on Tuesday, Jan. 18th (morning only), and may be consulted at the Mechanics' Reading Room. Appointments made by Mr Bennett.

Messrs W. H. Halpin & Son and Kelly & McDonald (auctioneers in conjunction) announce the sale on 20 acres of land, horses, cattle, sheep, harness, etc., also valuable township property, at residence of Mr J. Holdsworth, Beaufort, on Thursday, 20th inst., at 1.30 p.m.

The lady friends of members of Beaufort Bowling Club meet at Mechanics' Institute on Monday evening to make arrangements for afternoon tea in connection with opening ceremony.

Applications are invited for position of sexton for Beaufort Public Cemetery.

The homestead portion of Trawalla Estate, comprising 8000 acres and improvements, is to be sold at Scott's Hotel, Melbourne, on Friday, 14th inst.

The weather has been very oppressive at Beaufort during the past two days; the thermometer registering 96 degrees in the shade on Thursday and 89 on Friday.

Mr Tom Green is acting as relieving operating porter at the Beaufort railway station during the absence on sick leave of Mr Leo Brasher. Mr Green was stationed here permanently some years ago, and served with the A.I.F. for several years in the late European war.

Mr C. W. Minchin, of Beaufort, celebrated his 92nd birthday on Wednesday Mr Minchin, who held the position of clerk of courts here for over 50 years, retired a few years ago. He is still hale and hearty, despite the fact that he has been very lame for many years. Only the other day he was out walking.

Messrs. Kelly & McDonald hold a sale of 14 acres land, 8-roomed house, buggy shed, stables, 10 cattle, and 2 ponies, a/c. Mr A. Keeley, at Waterloo, on Saturday, 22nd inst.

A much appreciated New Year's gift has been made by Mrs Bridges to each employee on the Trawalla Estate. The property has now passed into the possession of the Crown for repatriation purposes, and to mark the winding up of the estate Mrs Bridges presented to each employee a cheque. The amounts thus distributed ranged from £5/0 to over £100 in accordance with length of service. Most of the employees, it may be mentioned, had records of nearly 30 years' service, and the death of Admiral Bridges not long ago each benefited to the extent of one year's salary or wages under the will.

In a cricket match at the Eastern Oval on Monday between Ballarat and Maryborough, I. H. Hay, the well-known Beaufort cricketer, made 100 score (58) for Ballarat. Six wickets were down for 105 when James and Hay became associated. James batted carefully, but Hay, after an over or two, laid the wood on, and made some nice hits, especially on the leg. He pleased the crowd—the largest for the season—and he was frequently applauded. When the score had reached 178 James retired for a well-made 24. Hay continued till he had made 58, when he was bowled by Peart. He hit eight fours.

OBITUARY.

MRS. F. JESS.

We regret to record the death of Mrs Kitty Jess, wife of Mr Frank Jess, of Bacchus Marsh, the sad event occurring at that place early in the week. The deceased, who spent the greater part of her life in the Beaufort district, was the youngest daughter of the late Kelly, who formerly licensee of the deliciousness Eurambeen hotel). She possessed many sterling qualities, and her amiable disposition and breezy manner endeared her to all who knew her. Deceased, who was in her early thirties, leaves a widower and young family, for whom much sympathy is felt in their sad bereavement. The remains of the late Mrs Jess were interred at Banyena.

MR. ROBT. SINCLAIR, SENR.

One of Beaufort's oldest identities passed away on Wednesday night in the person of Mr Robt. Sinclair, senr., who had attained the ripe age of 88 years. Deceased had been bedridden for 12 years, and death was due to senile decay. He was born at "Fores" Estate, Thurso, Caithness (Scotland), in 1832, the eldest son of the late Mr Arthur Sinclair, owner of "Fores" Estate. He voyaged to Australia in the ship "Benvalla" and landed in 1849. He was married at Coleraine in 1854, when 21 years of age, and he and his wife survived the Coleraine Diamond Wedding seven years ago. As a young man, the late Mr Sinclair was a great horseman, and while living on a station at Coleraine met and formed a friendship with a kindred spirit in the person of the late Adam Lindsay Gordon, the poet, in many of whose verses the horse and the feats of horsemanship are prominently featured. He could relate many interesting incidents of Gordon's early residence in the land of adoption. The late Mr Sinclair's love of a good horse remained with him through life, and in his old age he was often to be seen examining the points of any good specimen of the equine race. Racehorses passing through the railway station at Beaufort, on their way to the Melbourne Cup never failed to attract the attention of the old sportsman. The deceased came to Beaufort in 1855, and followed the luck of the diggings here and elsewhere. For a long period he was a resident of the town for 66 years, being one of the oldest of the residents. Deceased leaves a widow, three daughters, and one son, the latter being Captain R. A. D. Sinclair, M.B.E. (general secretary of the Country Women's Association of Victoria and a member of the Ripon Shire Council). Flags were flown at half-mast in the town as a last tribute to the deceased, whose remains were privately interred in the Beaufort Cemetery yesterday (Friday) afternoon. The funeral was attended by a number of relatives and old friends of the family. Rev. A. H. Ross read the Presbyterian burial service. The coffin (which was covered with beautiful floral tributes and wreaths) was borne to the grave by Messrs J. W. and J. A. Harris (members of deceased's Council, and Mr J. Wotherspoon. Messrs Sands & Johnson, of Beaufort, were the undertakers.

Make your District Known.

Concerning some parts of the district news comes but seldom. This is not entirely our fault. We have no aircraft (now or knowing what is happening at all the places within our area of circulation. It is the fault of residents in the district alone.

Will some man or woman take the matter in hand and cause the silence to cease.

If no one else is doing it for your district, will you try on these lines?

Concerning social and public and social events in your township and neighbourhood, such as weddings, deaths, accidents, concerts, matters touching district industries, etc.

Write the names of persons very distinctly.

Write only on one side of the paper.

Give information; but let criticism alone.

Write your name and address on some corner—not for publication, but to prove good faith.

ELECTRIC LIGHTING SCHEME.

As the cost of the Beaufort electric lighting scheme will exceed the estimate by £1000, the president of Ripon Shire (Cr. D. R. Hannah) convened a public meeting of ratepayers at the Shire Hall on Thursday night, to consider the advisability or otherwise of going on with the proposal. Fourteen ratepayers were in attendance. Prior to the commencement of the meeting, an informal discussion took place, during which it was mentioned that there were 120 promised consumers, the estimated revenue per year being £1200 per annum. If the consumers were abandoned now, it was stated that it would cost the shire £50 for the electrical engineers' estimates, reports and travelling expenses, which would be debited against the scheme in the event of the people taking it up again in the future. The opinion was expressed that the estimate for pumping for the town water supply could be safely increased from £50 to £150 or £100. The rather small attendance was put down to people forgetting the meeting owing to holidays intervening.

Cr. W. H. Halpin (who was voted to the chair) said he was sorry the shire president was not here, but he was busy harvesting. He also apologised for the absence of Cr R. A D Sinclair, and said they all regretted the circumstances responsible for his non-attendance.

In answer to a question, the chairman said there were 120 promised consumers, and the electrical engineers' estimate was only based on 100.

Mr J. Muntz—The only item he was doubtful about was the £7 per year average per tenement, but they must remember the fact of convenient and adapted the railway station, post-office, Mechanics' Institute, and all the large houses in the town, which would make it alright. They must admit that any amount of tenements would only pay £3 or £4 per year.

Mr J. R. Wotherspoon—There was not the slightest doubt it would be a grand thing for the town.

Mr Muntz—They thought the amount at first allowed for wages insufficient.

The chairman—He did not think the public meeting necessary. The council should have taken the responsibility at last meeting.—[Mr Young—Hear, hear.]—The £5,000 estimate was based on 100 consumers, and they had 120. It would cost £500 extra, and they had 20 extra consumers, so why hesitate about going on with it? An estimate of £6,000 would have been provided for just the same. "Never venture, never win." If they were going to take an interest in the town, which they presumed was going to prosper, they should have pleased the crowd—the largest for the season—and he was frequently applauded. When the score had reached 178 James retired for a well-made 24. Hay continued till he had made 58, when he was bowled by Peart. He hit eight fours.

COUGLE'S
WHERE THE BEST VALUES ARE.
Special Reductions
In All Classes of
DRAPERY,
CLOTHING,
BOOTS & SHOES.
Our Large and Comprehensive
Stocks of
SUMMER GOODS
Are most Moderately Priced.
Inspection and Comparison
most Cordially invited.
G. H. COUGLE,
THE STORE FOR GOOD VALUES,
BEAUFORT.
'Phone 22.

STATE SAVINGS BANK OF VICTORIA
THE "FARMERS' BANK" !
Special Terms for Returned Soldiers, Dependents, Red Cross and Transport Workers.
Credit Foncier Loans on Farm Properties.
Two-Thirds of Valuation up to £2,000 at 6 per cent.
Three-Fourths of Valuation up to £2,000 at 5¾ per cent.
Repayable over 27½ years £3/15/ half-yearly for each £100.
Repayable over 30½ years £1/15/ quarterly for each £100.
Application Forms at any State Savings Bank, or by post to Inspector-General.
Head Office, State Savings Bank. GEO. E. EMERY,
Elizabeth Street, Melbourne. Inspector-General.

J. F. O'BRIEN begs to let the people of Beaufort and surrounding districts know that he has opened a GARAGE in main street, Beaufort, and is ready for action. No job is too big, or no job is too small. Guaranteed for quickness, accuracy, and lowest possible charges. Every job I do is done and will stand the inspection of all-comers. All jobs which I have done here in this town so far are very satisfactory, so when you put one to the test you also will judge for yourself.
J. F. O'BRIEN,
Motor Garage and Motor Engineer.

AMUSU PICTURES.
RUN SOLELY BY RETURNED SOLDIERS.
SOCIETIES' HALL, BEAUFORT.
SATURDAY (TO-NIGHT.)
William S. Hart, in "MAGGON TRACK."
Lila Lee, in "THE HEART OF YOUTH."
USUAL PRICES: 1/6 and 1/1; Children, half-price.

Australian Natives' Association
THE Fortnightly MEETING of the Beaufort Branch, A.N.A., will be held in the MECHANICS' INSTITUTE on TUESDAY Evening next, at 8 o'clock.
J. BRUCE SMITH, Secretary pro tem.

Religious Services.

SUNDAY, JANUARY 9TH, 1920.

CHURCH OF ENGLAND.—Beaufort, 11 and 7; Trawalla, 3—Rev. W. C. Wood.

METHODIST CHURCH.—Beaufort, 11: Chute (Wesley), 3.30; Raglan, 7.30—Rev. E. H. Coltman. Raglan, 3: Beaufort, 7.—Rev. J. Waldron. Main Lead, 7.30—Mr V. J. Parker.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.—Beaufort, 11 and 7; Middle Creek, 3.30; Buangor, 3—Rev. A. H. Ross.

USEFUL RAIDY RECKONER.

Every farmer should paste this table upon weights in his pocket book.

| | |
|---|---|
| One quarter equals | 28lb. |
| Two quarters equal | 56lb. |
| Three quarters equal | 1bus. 84lb |
| One cwt. equals | 1 bus. 56lb |
| Two cwt. equal | 3bus. 44lb |
| Three cwt. equal | 5bus. 32lb |
| Four cwt. equal | 7 bus. 20lb. |
| Five cwt. equal | 9bus. 20lb. |
| Six cwt. equal | 11bus. 12lb. |
| Seven cwt. equal | 12bus. 4lb. |
| Eight cwt. equal | 14bus. 56lb. |
| Nine cwt. equal | 16bus. 48lb. |
| Ten cwt. equal | 18bus. 40lb. |
| Eleven cwt. equal | 20bus. 32lb. |
| Twelve cwt. equal | 22bus. 24lb. |
| Thirteen cwt. equal | 24bus. 16lb. |
| Fourteen cwt. equal | 26bus. 8lb. |
| Fifteen cwt. equal | 28bus. |
| Sixteen cwt. equal | 29bus. 52lb. |
| Seventeen cwt. equal | 31bus. 44lb. |
| Eighteen cwt. equal | 33bus. 36lb. |
| Nineteen cwt. equal | 35bus. 28lb. |
| One ton equals | 37bus. 20lb. |
| Two tons equal | 74bus. 40lb. |
| Three tons equal | 112bus. |
| Four tons equal | 149bus. 20lb. |
| Five tons equal | 187bus. 40lb. |
| Six tons equal | 224bus. |
| Seven tons equal | 261bus. 20lb. |
| Eight tons equal | 298bus. 40lb. |
| Nine tons equal | 336bus. |
| Ten tons equal | 373bus. 20lb. |
| Eleven tons equal | 410bus. 40lb. |
| Twelve tons equal | 448bus. |
| Thirteen tons equal | 485bus. 20lb. |
| Fourteen tons equal | 522bus. 40lb. |
| Fifteen tons equal | 560bus. |
| Sixteen tons equal | 597bus. 20lb. |
| Seventeen tons equal | 634bus. 40lb. |
| Eighteen tons equal | 672bus. |
| Nineteen tons equal | 709bus. 20lb. |
| Twenty tons equal | 746bus. 40lb. |
| Twenty-one tons equal | 784bus. |
| Twenty-two tons equal | 821bus. 20 lb., and so on |

BEAUFORT ATHLETIC CLUB.

BOXING DAY SPORTS.

Officials:—President, Mr A. E. Crick; vice-presidents, Messrs J. R. Bates and J. T. Glover; judges, president, Messrs Bates, W. J. Stevenson, D. Stevenson (cycling and footracing), and D. R. Hannah (woodchopping); referee and timekeeper, Mr R. A. D. Sinclair; starter, Mr T. Williams; assistant-starter, Mr W. O'Sullivan; bellman, Mr T. Dickman; stewards, Messrs W. R. Glover, P. Grant, R. Pitcher, A. Boyd, H. Cuthbertson, J. Day, and G. H. Cougle; protest committee, president, referee, and Mr D. Stevenson; handicappers, Messrs A. James (V.A.L. footracing), K. W. Robinson (woodchopping), W. R. Glover and J. Bates (cycling), W. R. Glover (trot); committee to arrange logs, Messrs D. Stevenson, A. Boyd, and W. H. Halpin; ticket seller, Mr W. Stevens; gatekeepers, Messrs H. Norman and C. Loe; secretary, Mr A. Parker.

The cool, fine weather experienced at Beaufort on Boxing Day was very welcome after the trying heat of the preceding week, and the rain which fell on Sunday allayed fears of bush fires. Therefore there was a good attendance of residents of the town and district, together with a sprinkling of visitors from other parts of Victoria, at the local Athletic Club's 48th annual sports carnival, held in the Park. The gate money amounted to £64, against £76/8/2 at the 1919 meeting. As a loss of £28 was incurred by the 1919 sports, the prize money for 1920 was reduced from £140 to £100, but this retrenchment did not appear to have affected the popularity the club has enjoyed for many years among athletes and the public. The fact of there being a big counter attraction at Ararat took the Middle Creek and Buangor contingent to that town, and made some folk dubious as to the success of the Beaufort sports, but, happily, their fears, did not materialise, for 24 pedestrians accepted for the Shelford handicap for £37 in prize money, against 28 last year for prize money amounting to £50. This year there were also 21 accepted for the Sprint, and the long-distance races, too, attracted good entries. The open woodchops and cycling, however, were not up to the standard of previous years, far too few entries being received. This fact is hard to account for, as fair prizes were offered. As these are the most popular forms of sport with the public, the club cannot afford to dispense with them, and unless the fact that the discouraging response to their efforts to cater for axemen and cyclists would seem to justify their doing so. In the majority of events on the programme (including the local novice chop), the number of entries was satisfactory, and an enjoyable day's sport was provided. No accidents of a serious character occurred, and the weather (fortunately for the spectators, it was not too hot) was ideal for sports purposes. The grass taking of the hotels of the district, that the light had to bear its own cost, the consumers having to pay for it. Unless the rest of the ratepayers clearly understood that, there would be trouble.

The chairman—They had already let them know that.

Mr Muntz—If it came to the state of the few refusing to carry the baby, who was going to bear the cost?

The chairman—You are meeting a difficulty before it arises.

Mr J. R. Wotherspoon—They might well let that fly stick to the wall. There were a few who always hung off any new undertaking, and afterwards came right into it.

Mr W. J. Bruce Johnson, in seconding he motion, said his opinion was that a town the size of Beaufort without electric light, if not asleep, was in a trance. He had been in many places when on the railways, and the towns with electric light looked alive as far as business was concerned, whilst those without it seemed to be dead. For that reason alone, it would pay business men to pay more for it, as the outlay would be returned in other ways. They had put £60 on to the estimate for wages and increased the cost of depreciation, sinking fund, and interest, which brought the expenditure up to £1,145, against £1,251 in receipts, allowing for an extra 20 subscribers at an average of £7. The yearly station and fees of £28 was in the 1919 sports, the prize money for 1920 was reduced from £140 to £100, but this retrenchment did not appear to have affected the popularity the club has enjoyed for many years among athletes and the public. The fact of there being a big counter attraction at Ararat took the Middle Creek and Buangor contingent to that town, and made some folk dubious as to the success of the Beaufort sports, but, happily, their fears, did not materialise, for 24 pedestrians accepted for the Shelford handicap for £37 in prize money, against 28 last year for prize money amounting to £50. This year there were also 21 accepted for the Sprint, and the long-distance races, too, attracted good entries. The open woodchops and cycling, however, were not up to the standard of previous years, far too few entries being received. This fact is hard to account for, as fair prizes were offered. As these are the most popular forms of sport with the public, the club cannot afford to dispense with them, and unless the fact that the discouraging response to their efforts to cater for axemen and cyclists would seem to justify their doing so. In the majority of events on the programme (including the local novice chop), the number of entries was satisfactory, and an enjoyable day's sport was provided. No accidents of a serious character occurred, and the weather (fortunately for the spectators, it was not too hot) was ideal for sports purposes. The grass is at its best and quality, and was received by Mr E. A. Fey, local agent under the local fertilisers scheme, for the co-operative wheat group.

Rain to the extent of half an inch occurred here on Saturday night, and continued until Sunday afternoon, about three inches being measured in the Park. The rain, although a welcome one, came too late to be of much benefit to the crops. Reports received from different parts of the State indicate that those farmers who were liberal with the manure have reason to bless their generosity. Thus we get from practical farmers corroboration of results obtained on Government farms, viz., that on those soils the climatic conditions were favorable to growth, the difference between large and light dressings carried. They were abnormal, and a good, if not reasonably well supplied with fertilising material, had a chance to develop to the utmost of its yielding capacity. Nevertheless, it was a great disappointment on the average 100 pounds of super, to the acre paid better than 60 or even 80, and then on the average the farmer who did a spare the manure fell made more money than the man who did. The fact to which attention mentioned was noted where no fertilisers were used. In such a season a poor soil frequently yields as heavy as a fertile. But that fact does not convince the farmer, who knows that, in the average year, and so he as confidently relied upon as the Sahara Western Wimmera wheat growers are as keenly observant as any in Australia. The crop competitions annually held there have demonstrated attention upon the methods which produce the best results. Almost to a man they have demonstrated the value of heavy dressings. An interesting feature of the system followed is provided by Mr C. J. Gates, of Lake Bolac. For the past four years he has been applying 100 pounds of super, to the acre, and obtained such results, that he has found it tempting to apply still heavier dressings. Mr Gates's crop last year received a maximum of 112 pounds, but his crop returns are not yet available to show the results. Mr Gates's method of farming is increasing in popularity, because the results are not more liberal for the last seeding. Nowadays, the late sowings are cropping as well, if not better than, early. Mr Glass is convinced as to the value of heavy dressings, not alone in regard to the crop, but also because of the more liberal showing of feed in the stubble. With heavy manuring he has got beyond the experimental stage; it has come to stay.

Tenders are invited for remodelling &c., Beaufort State school.

ANNUAL MEETING BEAUFORT & BUSH FIRE BRIGADE, Shire Hall, Beaufort, on MONDAY, 10th inst., at 8.30 p.m. All interested, or their officers; general.

A. P. ROGERS, Captain.
B. HALPIN, Secy.

LOST, 9 Comeback Ewes, 1 Lincoln Ram (Ross Brandel), 6 woolly Lambs, top notch. Seen on back road to Lake Bolac. Finder rewarded. Apply W. H. HALPIN.

Department of Public Works, Melbourne, 5th January, 1921.
TENDERS will be received until 12 Twelve o'clock on Thursday, the 27th January, for the following:—Ballarat State School No. 90, Beaufort, Deposit, Security, £5 0s.
Particulars and Conditions may be seen at the Works Office, and at the Police Station, Beaufort, and Inspector of Works, Ballarat.

SHEEP DOGS OF BRAZIL.

TENDERS, addressed to the President of the Shire of Ripon, and enclosed in a sealed envelope, marked "Tender for Sheep Dogs," will be received up to 11 a.m. Saturday, 15th January, 1920, for the following work:
Contract 1721. Rest Riding.—Supply of 800 cubic yards of Ripon's Lane.
Contract 1721. West Riding.—Supply of 800 cubic yards on the Beaufort and Streatham road.
Plans and specifications may be inspected at Shire Hall, Beaufort; also at the Office of the Shire Engineer, Lessor or any tender not necessarily accepted.
R. J. HUNTER, R.C.E., Shire Engineer.
Shire Office, Beaufort.

RAGLAN.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

A concert and ball were given on the 22nd ult. by the young people, on the occasion of the return of the ball plants, which had been through the hands of Messrs Woodward, of Ballarat, for repairs. It proved to be in splendid order, and gave every satisfaction. The concert was a creditable effort on the part of the young people, the various items being nicely rendered. The choruses were especially good. The accompaniments were played by Miss Doris Tucker in excellent style. Unfortunately, the evening was very warm, and this resulted in the attendance being less than usual. The programme was as follows: Chorus, "Take me Back to Dingville," company; violin solo, G. Gillingham; song, Mr W. J. Parson; song and chorus, "If I had Been a Girl," "Mr C. Smith and company; song, "The Stowaway," Mr C. Stevenson; song, Mr P. A Panther; song, "I'd Like an Egg for Tea," Mr G. Cuthbertson; chorus, "Your Girls," men of company; song, "You're in Style," Miss I. Grant; song, W. L. Smith; song, "Pal o' Mine," Mr S. S. Smith; song, Miss S. Grant; violin duet, Miss S. Grant and G. Gillingham; song, "Every Cloud has a Silver Lining," company; song and chorus, "The Only Girl I Love." Miss I Grant; duet, Misses A. Stevenson and I. Grant; song, "Smiles," Mr C. R. Stevenson; song, "I Wonder if the Girls," Miss I. Grant; song, "Bubbles, Blow," Mr S. S. Smith; song, "Dreaming of You," Miss I. Grant; song, "I'm Tired," Mr P. A. Panther. The ball was not as successful as usual, the weather being too warm for dancing. The music was supplied by Misses P. Panther, C. Stevenson, and Messrs G. and N. Gillingham and J. Stevens (violins). Messrs W. D. and S. Smith shared the duties of M.C.

GOOD PRACTICES TRIUMPH.

VALUE OF FERTILISERS.

In the year 1920 in interesting strides was made in our knowledge of wheat growing in Victoria. It showed beyond possibility of doubt that it pays to increase the amounts of superphosphate used in sowing the crop. Heavier allowances have proved that they put money in the pockets of the farmers. Following upon the information gained in 1919, that in the dry year also heavy allowances pay, the result is specially instructive. Up to the early spring 1920 was a comparatively dry year. Then abundant rains fell, and continued at intervals throughout the remainder of the growing period of the crop. Reports received from different parts of the State indicate that those farmers who were liberal with the manure have reason to bless their generosity. Thus we get from practical farmers corroboration of results obtained on Government farms, viz., that on those soils the climatic conditions were favorable to growth, the difference between large and light dressings carried. They were abnormal, and a good, if not reasonably well supplied with fertilising material, had a chance to develop to the utmost of its yielding capacity. Nevertheless, it was a great disappointment on the average 100 pounds of super, to the acre paid better than 60 or even 80, and then on the average the farmer who did a spare the manure fell made more money the man who did. The fact to which attention mentioned was noted where no fertilisers were used. In such a season a poor soil frequently yields as heavy as a fertile. But that fact does not convince the farmer, who knows that, in the average year, and so he as confidently relied upon as the Sahara Western Wimmera wheat growers are as keenly observant as any in Australia. The crop competitions annually held there have demonstrated attention upon the methods which produce the best results. Almost to a man they have demonstrated the value of heavy dressings. An interesting feature of the system followed is provided by Mr C. J. Gates, of Lake Bolac. For the past four years he has been applying 100 pounds of super, to the acre, and obtained such results, that he has found it tempting to apply still heavier dressings. Mr Gates's crop last year received a maximum of 112 pounds, but his crop returns are not yet available to show the results. Mr Gates's method of farming is increasing in popularity, because the results are not more liberal for the last seeding. Nowadays, the late sowings crop as well, if not better than, early. Mr Glass is convinced as to the value of heavy dressings, not alone in regard to the crop, but also because of the more liberal showing of feed in the stubble. With heavy manuring he has got beyond the experimental stage; it has come to stay.

Presents for Everybody
at Wotherspoon's.
THE EVENT OF THE YEAR.
OUR GREAT XMAS. FAIR.
Christmas, the Gift Season, comes but once a year. Make this one a time of joy. Show your goodwill by bestowing gifts on your friends.
That vexing question, what shall I buy?
Need not trouble anyone who visits our Store.
See the wonderful range of Presents in great profusion.
How easy it is to choose when looking over our stock.
And the prices too, are absolutely right.
Whatever you do, do not miss our Xmas. Fair.
Our Xmas. Fair commences on Wednesday, Decr. 8th, 1920.
Our fine Circular gives full details.
ALWAYS AT YOUR SERVICE—
J. R. WOTHERSPOON & CO.,
BEAUFORT (ALSO AT BUANGOR).

PRELIMINARY NOTICE.

CLEARING SALE BY AUCTION.
SATURDAY, 22ND JANUARY, 1921, At WATERLOO, at 2 p.m.

LOST, Gold Bangle, on Boxing Day. Reward. Apply this office.

LOST, Buggy Whip. Reward. Apply this office.

AUCTION SALE.

230 ACRES LAND, WORKS, CATTLE, SHEEP, HARNESS, ETC.
ALSO VALUABLE TOWNSHIP PROPERTY.

THURSDAY, 20TH JANUARY, 1921, At 1.30 p.m., at the residence of the late MRS. J. HOLDSWORTH.

W. H. HALPIN & SON and KELLY & McDONALD (AUCTIONEERS in conjunction) have been favored with instructions from the Executors to the Estate of J. HOLDSWORTH, to SELL, by Auction, on the above date, as follows:—

LAND.

Lot 1. All that piece of Land, being Allotments 15A, 15B1, 15B2, 16A, and 17B2, containing 278 a. 1 r. 31 p., Parish of Woodmans Hill, Crown Portion 15, adjoining the properties of Messrs J. McDonald and T. E. White. The improvements on the above property consist of 8-roomed House, 2 portable Rooms (8 x 10), detached Cottage (8 rooms), Dairy, Coal shed, large Barn, and other Outbuildings. This property is well watered, with good fencing, and is permanently watered by springs and the Middle Creek running through the property. Title, freehold.

Lot 2. All that piece of Land, being Allotment 32E, Parish of Enfambous, County of Ripon, containing 50 a. 3r. 36p. This property is well-fenced and situate on the Stockyard Hill road, about 4 miles from Beaufort. Title, freehold.

Lot 3. All that piece of Land, being Allotment 9A, Parish of Enfambous, county of Ripon, containing 9a. 1r. 15p., adjoining the property of Messrs. J. Betes and D. Stevenson. Leasehold.

Lot 4. All that piece of Land, containing 1 rood (or thereabouts), being Allotment 6, Section 34, Township and Parish of Beaufort, adjoining the Mechanics' Institute, on which is erected Shop and Dwelling, containing 3 rooms and bathroom, also other Outbuildings, comprising Building 24ft x 20ft, Barn 4 Shed 36 x 15, iron roof; Stable, 27 x 15, iron roof; Buggy Shed, iron roof.

Lot 5. Adjoining Lot 4 of Land, being Allotment 1, Section 14B, Township and Parish of Beaufort, County of Ripon, containing 1 rood (or thereabouts), situated opposite Mr J. Cochrane's, on Main road. Exceptionally good building site.

Lot 6

THE SPECTRE OF WYDCOMBE GRANGE.

By ARTHUR W. MARCHMONT.

Chris Quennell sat in a corner of the third-class carriage in the Midland express as it tore its way northward. She was enjoying her journey across the winter landscape, and a magazine and some papers lay on her lap unheeded as she gazed out of the window.

She was gifted with a great share of her ancestor's beauty, and the charm of her present surroundings both interested and amused her. Now and again a smile flitted across her pensive, expressive features as she tried to picture the kind of reception in store for her, and her chief impression was amusement.

Her mother had made no enthusiastic response when she had written to announce her intention of visiting her husband's relations. Chris had gathered from her letter that the family, through a lamentable tragedy, had lost their heir. Mr. Quennell's death—"My dear Margaret, I wish you added one word of regret to help you, and I am going to do it now, that is, if you like the motion. Kiss—no!—this was his late wife—Sheila's stamp of a brother whom, like a woman, she imagined he loved. He died years ago, and left a bigger stamp of a son—Maurice Gresham—and Eleanor, when she died, asked me to help him if I could. People seem to look on me as a sort of amateur relieving officer. This young fellow has now done what his father's son was sure to do—ruined himself—and, like most men in that condition, concludes it is time he married. It's a sour remedy sometimes, and generally useless, but it may pay in this case. If you like to send your eldest daughter, Christabel—I choose her because I like the name—up to me for a month, I'll have the scamp here; and if they hit it off for the sake of the money, and she thinks she can cure him, I'll give them ten thousand pounds to live on, and do more when I die and don't want it myself. If after a month she deems the scamp too dear at the price, I'll give her five hundred pounds as a reward for her prudence. I've never seen the fellow, so she must judge for herself. But she stands to win anyway. If she decides to come, just wire me, and pack her off as soon as possible. If she decides not to come, write."

"I shall go, mother, of course," said Chris, promptly, the moment she heard the letter. "Not to marry the scamp, dear, but to earn that five hundred pounds."

"You're an idiot, child," said the mother, a sour-what hapless woman, whom the struggle with the world had worn out.

"Things, dearie? What things shall I want, shut up in a rambling, ramshackle old hall house in Cumberland? I'll just take such frocks as we can make possible in a day's sewing. And I'll start to-morrow. Think what lots of things five hundred pounds will do for us all."

"I wish you could win over your Uncle Gregory," said the mother weakly; adding, a little nervously, "I wonder what this young Gresham is like?"

"Don't think I'm going for that, mother," said the girl quickly.

But the question was not absent from her thoughts as the train rattled north and finally put her down at the junction, where a slow "stopping train" picked her up again and carried her to the small station from which there was a seven-mile drive to her uncle's house, Wydcombe Grange.

The drive was made in an old-fashioned chaise, up and down hills, over moors, and through wild lanes; and when she reached the long, many-gabled, illkept house, the winter night had closed in, and all the place looked desolate and weird.

The house was not much pleasanter inside—ill-lighted, dismal, and bare of comforts, while the girl's first reception was the reverse of cheerful.

A gaunt, bony, forbidding-looking woman received her with a rude stare and scarcely returned the pleasant greeting which Chris gave.

"You can't expect much here, you know," she said, bluntly; "but if you don't like it, you can go back the way you came."

The girl having heard a north country brusqueness, took this as a specimen of it, and made no answer, following the woman. She opened a door, and, putting her head in, said to someone, "Here's the other," and then made way for Chris to pass into a room, very large and very barely furnished, save for a couple of roomy easy-chairs by the fire, in which two men sat talking. They rose as the door opened.

"You should be more civil in your tone, Hudson," rapped out the sharp grating voice of an old man; and at the rebuke the woman grunted angrily.

"Come and shake hands, Christabel and let me look at you. You're not very pretty, but you've a taking face—for a girl." The, he shook his head. "Too good, I think, to be wasted on such a scamp as this good-for-nothing. You don't need any introduction—you two. You know what you're here for, so you may as well take stork of one another."

Chris laughed, and having not the least thought of looking on the man as a prospective husband, she was quite unembarrassed. But she was glad to see that her companion for the little comedy was pleasant, to look upon.

"An unconventional meeting, Cousin Chris," he said, in a baneful voice, with a smile that made his face very bright—"but I am very glad to see you."

"A scamp, he was very much like his father, his face belied him, for to-her his eyes seemed especially frank and honest, and they lingered on her quite long enough for her to see them clearly.

"I hope we shall be good friends," she answered. "I have had a long journey, and I'm glad to be my home?" she asked, and then the giant woman was called in again to show her the way.

When she returned to the drawing-room, having taken off her hat and jacket, she took her seat, and was talking pleasantly to the old man, when it tend such obvious signs of weariness, and the young man was invited in for Chris to eat, the former went out of the room, saying he would go and do what his mother had asked. As he passed Chris, he paused and slipped a substantial book, and a pen, into her lap.

"Put my name on the page where you like," said her uncle, as the door closed on the retreating figure. "Hudson's a good creature, and then he's about her mother, Sheila, and I can't think of dropping a name merely because there was money to be made by doing so.

"Different man wouldn't sell himself either," he returned, laughing heartily. "But you see I'm not a different man, so I'm here. And so, for the matter of that, are you. Why are we here?"

"Uncle Gregory told me that if I came for a month, till Christmas, and made his scheme failed—if I declined to turn reformer—I should have a sum of five hundred pounds. Is that right, Uncle?"

"Good! Lovely!" he cried, laughing again. "That's why I come. I've got the money, and I promise. I wanted to tell you, but I didn't know how. But I'm really not such a brute as I seem, and I'm no hand at my uncle's money. I'm bad, but not so bad as that. I'm awfully glad you spoke of it. Truth is, I was trying to drive you into saying something of the kind. As we understand each other, we shall be friends, as well as cousins and conspirators."

He stopped and held out his hand, looking down into her eyes with such a frank, honest look that she gave him hers, and they shook hands cordially.

"Now we've got to get through a month together, and I propose that we do the pleasant, so we can make the time a jolly one," and with that he began to chatter away on a hundred subjects, drawing her out, listening to her when she spoke, telling her anecdotes of all kinds, and proving himself such an entertaining companion that when they got back to the Grange she was flushed with the exercise, pleased with the bracing air, and told herself she had spent one of the jollest mornings she had ever had in her life.

The days slipped away in this fashion. If her cousin was the rascally scamp her uncle declared and he himself confessed, he found the change to the hills entirely to his liking. Seven a-thought did he appear to give to his billiards or his drink. When the days were fine the two went for walks, when wet they read together, and Gresham found an old volume in the dusty library which told him the history of the family and of the house.

"I'm glad there's a ghost here," he said one afternoon when they had been reading about one and sat back in the great armchairs by the fire to rest. "It'll come in handy for Christmas. But she, seems an aimless sort of spectre, as small, and pitiful as a sheet, and moans and sighs and groans about the place for the most part. Should like to see her. I'd have a pot at her with my revolver."

"She only comes when death's about," broke in the harsh tone of the housekeeper, who had entered the room unobserved. "If you'd seen her you wouldn't laugh."

"Have you seen her?" asked Chris.

"I know what I know," was the reply. "But if you were to shoot, the bullet would lodge in your own heart, if you paid attention."

"If we catch a sight of her it'll be a good title to carry back to town," said Graham, laughing. "You've less than a week now to be shut up here" he added.

Chris said nothing, but sat gazing into the fire and surprised herself by having to repress a sigh of regret.

"You'll be glad to be back with your people, I suppose?" His voice was a little eager, and when she gave no answer he picked up the poker and lunged rather viciously at the logs, send a blaze of sparks up the chimney. "It's been awfully dull here for you, of course." He looked across at her in the leaping light of the flames, but she hid her face and said nothing.

He waited for an answer, and when it did not come he got up and pushed back his chair, exclaiming, "It's a beast of a place," and went out of the room, leaving her very thoughtful and a little sad.

Three nights later, on the day before Christmas Eve, they went out together—they were always together—into the hall ghost-hunting. It was a long broad passage, and through the windows the brilliant moonlight flooded, making the shadowed corners glooming and dark by contrast.

She opened one of the casements and stood by it gazing out.

"Looking homeards?" said Gresham, at length, in a low voice that was almost like a crem.

"I wonder what they are all doing?" she replied, after a pause.

"You've only three days more of prison."

"Prison?" echoed Chris, lifting her eyes to his. "It has been no—Ah, you mean you are weary of the company and miss those things you can't have here. I forget, but you have played your part so well I"—She sighed but finish.

"I have felt my part," he answered, gently. "And when the curtain is rung down I shall—May I make a confession to you?"

"Another?" she asked smiling.

"Yes, and the worst of all in one sense, and yet the best. When the curtain rings down it will be on the sweetest act of my life. I hate this deception, and I'm glad it is going to be the signal for that curtain to fall. I know you will hate me for what I'm going to say."

But it was not from hatred that her heart was beating too quickly for her to trust herself to speak.

"I've been a cad a scrub, pitiful scoak. All that other confession of mine was a lie. But this one's true, and I can't bear that you should go away with it unsaid. I'm not Maurice Gresham at all! I'm Tod Talbot, his younger brother. Uncle Gregory doesn't know it, and I come down here to cheat him out of the money for Maurice's sake. And now—well, I'm punished enough for my fraud. I love you, Chris, with all my heart and soul; and you'll never speak to me again, I know. I'll tell Uncle Gregory the hit about I met and he kicked out of the house. I suppose. Try not to say too hard things, Cousin Chris, for I shall remember them all my life, and I'm a cowardly begger when I think of that. I'd have told you before, if I tried, when I found I loved you, though that was the first day, and I don't pretend to be a saint. Tears trembled in the girl's eyes, dimming the landscape, and making the moon grin and the wide sweep shimmer and glisten. But she had nothing to say.

His desperation was infinitely delightful to her, and while her judgement told her he had behaved abominably, his heart whispered that nothing he could do could kill her love for him, or make the thought that he loved her other than sweet and delicious.

Being unused to the ways of women he did not understand her silence, but feared to speak again.

Thus they stood a long time in silence, until a weird sound commencing in a low croon and swelling to a wild, mournful moan, broke the stillness of the night.

Chris started and shivered, and then clung to her companion, who felt her hand grasp his and put his arm round the trembling girl.

"It's the spectre of Wydcombe Grange," she said, when the sound died away; and he did not contradict her. He could forgive any spectre that brought Chris into his arms.

After a moment's interval, the sound was repeated.

"There's some derelment here," he said, after the second cry, to which both had listened very critically. "I heard a man's voice in a sort of guttural whisper between the two."

"So did I," said Chris, who, with a return of her common sense, gently disengaged herself from her companion's arms.

At this point a door at the further end of the hall was rattled violently, and then sang open without any apparent cause.

"I wish I had my revolver," said Gresham, running to the place and searching it, but without result.

Soon afterwards Hudson, the housekeeper, came in from the kitchen crying and holding her apron to her face. She was almost hysterical, and asked them if they had heard the moaning, and said that it meant death; that her dear old master had been taken ill and would surely die.

"Whose man's voice was that I heard?" said Gresham, sharply.

At the woman was more agitated than before, and cried and moaned and waved her arms about.

"I didn't hear it. I hoped it wasn't there—this time. Oh, poor dear master! When that is heard, it's sure death." And more than that she could not be got to say.

Thus, in the confusion that followed, and the trouble caused by the old man's illness, the explanation between Chris and his cousin could be carried no further.

The evening was a gloomy one. The uncle ruilled, but remained in his bedroom—which was on the ground floor—and whether of the injuriant to him, he told them not to stay.

The next day Gresham was sent off to bring the doctor, and when he returned he had to ride back again for the medicine.

Thus Chris and he scarcely exchanged a word during the day, and as the old uncle was very ill, they took table, was present at dinner, which for once was in the evening, it was agreed mutually, but without words—as young people in such circumstances can agree—to postpone telling him the truth about Gresham's deception until he should be better.

Late that evening the crisis came. Chris had been in her uncle's room, and needing something from the kitchen, she had reached the door of communication between the kitchen and the rest of the house when she was startled by hearing a man's voice on the other side of it. Instantly the suspicion of the previous evening occurred to her, and jumping to the conclusion that there was going to be a repetition of the spectral moaning, she resolved to fathom the mystery.

Realising that if she opened the door she would probably disclose the intruder, she ran upstairs and along the passages, and down by a second staircase, which took her nearer to the kitchen. She listened intently as she went, but heard nothing, and found the way clear as she crossed an open space and entered the kitchen, which was empty.

Crossing this, she heard the voices again—Hudson's and a man's—speaking in a very low tone. Unable to hear what was said, she stood a minute irresolute, and then, to her consternation, a door just outside the kitchen which led up from the cellars was opened cautiously, and Chris had barely time to dart back across the room and hide when Hudson and the man entered.

She would have fled but was afraid lest she should make a noise and be caught; and she stood listening, with fear-quickened pulses.

She soon learnt the whole story. The man was the housekeeper's son, and had been concealed for some days in the cellars, having been asked to the place by the woman to help in carrying out a horrible purpose—the murder of her old master.

The latter had made a will greatly benefiting Hudson, and believing now, from the manner of the woman, that his scheme to bring the cousins together in marriage was likely to be successful, he had told the woman that his will would be altered. She resented this ungrity, and determined to poison him before he had time to make the alteration. The first dose of poison had been given on the previous night, and they meant to complete the deed that night. None of the other servants knew the man was on the house, and they had been sent out purposely by Hudson, to be out of the way.

Further than that, Chris learnt that Gresham had been drugged, and she heard the two discuss what was to be done in regard to herself—that she was also to be drugged.

The deliberate callousness of the plot turned the girl cold and sick with fear, while the helplessness of her position appalled her. She was alone in the house with the murderers, save for the man, who had been drugged, and another, who, old and ill, was to be the victim.

She tried to get away, but as she moved a board creaked.

"Curse the old place!" exclaimed the man, starting nervously at the sound. "One might think it was haunted, really.

"It's only rats or something," answered Hudson, with a laugh. "Don't be scared. Get your shot on and go and give the old man another fright. It nearly killed him last night, and I took care to tell him that it meant his death-day, and told the doctor, too. The old man believes he is dying. So he is—but not as he thinks. Give that young Lummon gell a good fright, too. And if she tries to get bedroom and make a row, and find some way of quietening her, while you stop in and carry that young fool up to his room, and lock him in. Then the place is be still, and we can do our best and attempt to touch her drew away instinctively. In doing this, she trod on the sheet, and heard the sound of something that had fallen to the ground, and the improvised spectre stood revealed as a tall, pale, but resolute girl, with one arm grasping the plastol, and murmuring prayers for rescue.

The man uttered a gruff oath, his rage all the greater because of the cowardice he had before shown, and rushed towards the girl to seize her.

"Back, or I'll fire," she said, levelling the revolver.

"No more of your tricks wi' me, you young hussy," he scowled, without stopping.

In the quick succession three shots rang out, waking the echoes through the still house, followed by a cry of pain and a wild scream; and when the smoke cleared, the man was lying bleeding and moaning on the floor, and the woman had disappeared.

Chris ran to her uncle's room, and found he was still apparently unhurt, though unconscious.

The preparations which the two had made to kill him remained by the side of his bed.

She swept them into the fireplace, and having made sure that the woman was not concealed in the room, she locked the door, and ran upstairs to her cousin's room.

Hudson was the first to present from her terror, and came out slowly and cautiously, holding a light in one hand and a revolver in the other. In the dim light she saw the man under insensible her belongs. Then

With a dramatic gesture she pointed to the door, exclaiming:

"Let me at em!"

Whereupon the burglar, who had politely retreated a step responded:

"Don't mind me, madam, but I had no intention of taking you."

With a clatter and a roar the steam-shovel dug its relentless claws into the bank, picked up about a carload of the earth, and dumped it into the waiting truck.

"That's not it," answered a tired-looking man who was standing by. "It makes me wild to see a piece of machinery taking the bread out of hundreds of men's mouths."

"Don't quite see how you make that out!" remarked the foreman in charge of the gang.

"Well, isn't that machine doing the work quicker than a number of men with picks and shovels could do it?"

"That's so," agreed the foreman, and according to that argument, wouldn't be better still to employ 10,000 men with toothpicks and salt spoons?"

It was his first trip to London, although he was no longer young. But he thoroughly enjoyed the sights and sounds of the busy London streets. In fact, since he came from the other side of the border, he enjoyed these more than the cinemas and theatres, where you have to pay to go in.

One afternoon he lingered to listen, to a small but hardworking band of alleged musicians who were performing in a small side street.

When the "selection" was ended, the visitor to London approached the leader of the orchestra and asked, bluntly:

"What's the name o' that tune ye've fix' pipeyd?"

"The Death of Nelson," sir," replied the musician promptly, with visions of large tips and requests for encores.

"Well, mon," replied the other, as he shook his head and moved off, "a' I can say is, ye gave him an awfu' death!"

A policeman is the only man whose advice is taken. If a man doesn't take his advice he is run in.

If men could make money as easily as they can make love we should all be millionaires in a short time.

She: "And now, Charlie, I suppose you will have to speak to papa about this."

He: "Yes, dearest, I suppose I must." (After a pause): "Has your father got a telephone?"

If a man does not fall in love until he gets on the shady side of forty he invariably makes up overtime in an effort to make up for neglected opportunities.

The geography class was in session, and the teacher pointed a finger at a boy in the back row.

"Here, one man and, we have the far-retreating country of Russia. Willie, what is Russia?" asked, looking over her pupils and settling on one small boy at the end of the class, "what do we see on the other hand?"

Willie, hopeless with fright, hesitated a moment, and then answered:

"Warts!"

Mrs. Crawford: "Haven't you ever discovered a way to get money out of your husband?"

Mrs. Crabshaw: "Oh, yes. All I have to do is to threaten to go back to mother, and without a word he hands over the railway fares."

"I understand you said I hadn't enough sense to come in out of a shower of rain," said Dobson.

"I did not," replied Gadspur. "What I did say was, that—"

"I merely remarked to a friend that if there was a tax on brains the Government would owe you money."

"Humph! I suppose you've been everywhere?" sneered Gibson, as the great explorer finished relating his experiences.

"No," replied the traveller. "Not everywhere. I haven't yet visited the place the tax-driver told me to go to when I refused to tip him."

Little Jane was saying her prayers. "And please," she begged, "make Rome the capital of Turkey."

"Oh, Jane," exclaimed her mother, "why did you say that?"

"Because I put it like that in my examination papers to-day."

Nurse: "I lost sight of the child, ma'am, and—"

Alarmed Mother: "Good gracious, why didn't you speak to a policeman?"

Nurse: "I was speaking to one all the time, ma am."

One of the most famous wells in existence is that at Grenelle, in the outskirts of Paris, where the water is brought from a depth of 1,794ft. A well in Scotland is said to be the depth of 3,100ft. in the 'seventies.

WISE AND OTHERWISE.

"This is rather a curiosity," remarked an artist the wife of a visiting a lady in her studio.

"Is she?" she replied in a tone of "I was out in the country one day," he went on, "and had all my materials with me except a canvas. But I found the prettiest little scene that I took out my handkerchief, stretched it upon my case, and painted the picture."

"Dear me!" exclaimed the lady. Then a look of horror came over her face as she went on: "Didn't you'll ever be able to wash all that paint out of it?"

Horror! A burglar! Miss Tabitha Tomkins raised her nightcaped head from her pillow, her short old body from her bed, but undaunted.

In the dim light she saw the man under insensible her belongs. Then

With a dramatic gesture she pointed to the door, exclaiming:

"Let me at em!"

Whereupon the burglar, who had politely retreated a step responded:

"Don't mind me, madam, but I had no intention of taking you."

With a clatter and a roar the steam-shovel dug its relentless claws into the bank, picked up about a carload of the earth, and dumped it into the waiting truck.

"That's not it," answered a tired-looking man who was standing by. "It makes me wild to see a piece of machinery taking the bread out of hundreds of men's mouths."

"Don't quite see how you make that out!" remarked the foreman in charge of the gang.

"Well, isn't that machine doing the work quicker than a number of men with picks and shovels could do it?"

"That's so," agreed the foreman, and according to that argument, wouldn't be better still to employ 10,000 men with toothpicks and salt spoons?"

It was his first trip to London, although he was no longer young. But he thoroughly enjoyed the sights and sounds of the busy London streets. In fact, since he came from the other side of the border, he enjoyed these more than the cinemas and theatres, where you have to pay to go in.

One afternoon he lingered to listen, to a small but hardworking band of alleged musicians who were performing in a small side street.

When the "selection" was ended, the visitor to London approached the leader of the orchestra and asked, bluntly:

"What's the name o' that tune ye've fix' pipeyd?"

"The Death of Nelson," sir," replied the musician promptly, with visions of large tips and requests for encores.

"Well, mon," replied the other, as he shook his head and moved off, "a' I can say is, ye gave him an awfu' death!"

A policeman is the only man whose advice is taken. If a man doesn't take his advice he is run in.

If men could make money as easily as they can make love we should all be millionaires in a short time.

She: "And now, Charlie, I suppose you will have to speak to papa about this."

He: "Yes, dearest, I suppose I must." (After a pause): "Has your father got a telephone?"

If a man does not fall in love until he gets on the shady side of forty he invariably makes up overtime in an effort to make up for neglected opportunities.

The geography class was in session, and the teacher pointed a finger at a boy in the back row.

"Here, one man and, we have the far-retreating country of Russia. Willie, what is Russia?" asked, looking over her pupils and settling on one small boy at the end of the class, "what do we see on the other hand?"

Willie, hopeless with fright, hesitated a moment, and then answered:

"Warts!"

Mrs. Crawford: "Haven't you ever discovered a way to get money out of your husband?"

Mrs. Crabshaw: "Oh, yes. All I have to do is to threaten to go back to mother, and without a word he hands over the railway fares."

"I understand you said I hadn't enough sense to come in out of a shower of rain," said Dobson.

"I did not," replied Gadspur. "What I did say was, that—"

"I merely remarked to a friend that if there was a tax on brains the Government would owe you money."

"Humph! I suppose you've been everywhere?" sneered Gibson, as the great explorer finished relating his experiences.

"No," replied the traveller. "Not everywhere. I haven't yet visited the place the tax-driver told me to go to when I refused to tip him."

Little Jane was saying her prayers. "And please," she begged, "make Rome the capital of Turkey."

"Oh, Jane," exclaimed her mother, "why did you say that?"

"Because I put it like that in my examination papers to-day."

Nurse: "I lost sight of the child, ma'am, and—"

Alarmed Mother: "Good gracious, why didn't you speak to a policeman?"

Nurse: "I was speaking to one all the time, ma am."

One of the most famous wells in existence is that at Grenelle, in the outskirts of Paris, where the water is brought from a depth of 1,794ft. A well in Scotland is said to be the depth of 3,100ft. in the 'seventies.

The Riponshire Advocate.

No. 2250 | Registered at General Post Office. Wednesday for transmission by post as newspaper | SATURDAY, JANUARY 8, 1921. | PRICE, 3d

SANDS & JOHNSON, BUILDERS, CONTRACTORS, AND UNDERTAKERS, NEILL STREET, BEAUFORT.

Concrete and Metal Work, Picture Framing, Cabinet-making and Upholstering.

VICTORIAN PRODUCERS' CO-OPERATIVE COMPANY, LIMITED.

Nominal Capital, £250,000; Subscribed Capital, £140,000; Paid-up Capital, £101,000. Reserve Fund, £50,000.

Head Office: 599-605 Collins St., Melbourne. Branches and Agencies throughout the State.

The Largest, the Strongest, the most Prosperously Constructive Company in this Southern Hemisphere.

GOVERNMENT WHEAT AGENTS. WOOL-BROKERS, GRAZIERS, BEEF & RABBIT SELLERS.

LIVE STOCK, WOOL, SKINS, HIDES AND TALLOW, CHAFF, POTATOES, AND ALL FARM PRODUCE ON CONSIGNMENT. EXPERT LAND VALUERS.

Highest Prices obtained. Proceeds rendered promptly.

Suppliers of all Farmers' Requisites. Agents for Farmers' and Settlers' Co-operative Insurance Co. of Australia Ltd

Last year Rebates paid Shareholders equalled 12 % on the paid-up capital of the Company.

Interview Local Agent or write Head Office for full particulars of benefits and how to become a Shareholder.

GEO. PRINGLE, Local Agent.

WEDNESDAY, 19TH JANY., RAILWAY HOTEL, BEAUFORT.

Benefit by Experienced Dentist's Visit

Average Fees for Artificial Teeth, &c.

W. E. THOMAS

Skill in mouth management, natural teeth, teeth, gums, and other diseases of the mouth. Plate in plates fitted against the present, but proportionate together with the teeth, and the teeth, and the bracing there is why I charge £7 without charge up to £7.

The appreciation patients is evident and many thanks of satisfied customers in the district. Patients who appreciate some longer Assurance that the work will last longer, and centre or money back. Regular fees, if easy, from years. Bad teeth altered, broken, and made good. Repairs Repaired. Dentist, Kaniva, July 12 1920.

CALL FIRST VISIT—Bank: Beaufort, Every Tuesday.

RECENT TESTIMONIALS—(Many Others)

Also Regards Painless Extractions

Twenty years in this town, by South Australian, Victorian and Riverina Hall. Double plates lasting, could not eat. Several months ago Mr. Thomas made an upper and lower; can masticate anything.—(Signed) G. GRAHAM, 4/11/1919. Mount Gambier.

Full plates you made for me can get on well with. Couldn't with others, which cost me ten guineas.—(Signed) J. R. Hughes, Woorak, Vic. 1/11/1919.

Two supplied me such a dead, disturbing fit, I gave you fifted satisfactory from start.—(Signed) A. SMITH, 2/10/1919.

Three sets of teeth, but could not eat. Cost several pounds. Plates from W. E. Thomas fit and wear.—(Signed) J. H. FARMER, Narrisorrie. 7/11/1919.

Two full upper and lower sets made from Mr. Thomas, cost 12 guineas. Could not masticate. W. E. Thomas made new plates. Can manage any food.—(Signed) J. J. BILBY. 7/11/1919.

Full sets your system. Can chew meat, apples, nuts; others not can manage.—(Signed) C. G. HOFFMAN, Victoria South, Horsham. 18/11/1918.

Plates made England; couldn't wear them. By W. E. Thomas' New System, can eat as well as with natural teeth.—(Signed) S.J.H., Ballarat. November 18, 1918.

Full upper lower plates constructed your new System. Masticate well from commencement. Others paid Ten Guineas elsewhere; no use. (Signed) R. RULE, 19/9/19. Dadyalup.

Four plates, could not wear them. Broke and hurt. Yours, more than satisfied from the start.—(Signed) A. G. HAYDEN, Border Town. 11/12/1919.

Full and numbers my family teeth from you four years ago. Perfect. We were able at our own. No trouble as in other cases.—(Signed) G. H. EVANS, Netherby, Halls.

COUNTRY CORRESPONDENCE

Address: W. E. THOMAS, Box G.P.O., Adelaide. Box G.P.O., Melbourne.

Testimonials—Several people here said one to go to Thomas's if I wanted said teeth with new method suction; so I went to Mr. Thomas and found that with Mr. Thomas my hardest hardly move them. Wonderful! Not take five minutes to fit upper set. Not hurt the gums. Fit perfect. Not like other dentists. Fees reasonable. Thomas's Method.—(Signed) F. Schulz, Kaniva, July 12 1920.

KAYE "Lineered compound," the "Secret part Remedy," for Coughs and Colds. Of over 50 years' unchanged fame.

A COURAGEOUS PRACTICE.

LIBERAL MANURIAL DISTINCTIONS.

At Bacowerby Agricultural College, in South Australia, a 1 lb. of Mr. Bagshaw's owl, an acre or super, is supplied with cereals. This courageous policy not only greatly stimulates the wheat yields, but assures a gradual improvement in them and the grazing value of the stubbles. As fast the cropping capacity is steep at Bowerworthy has more than doubled since generous manuring was adopted. In the Wimmera district, partly from evidence available at Bowerworthy, and largely from results in the departmental plots at Longcompoing Agricultural College, the allowance has shown a lately systematic increase in the last four years. At Longcreenong an application of 10cwt. 1 cwt. an acre appears to pay best, while at Longcompoing 1 cwt. has been found to be as those at Bowerworthy, it will be probably found that 2 cwt. will give an all-round advantage over 1½ cwt. Wimmera farmers are board gauged and closely study the data being accumulated by the scientific officers at the Department of Agriculture. Mr. Bagshaw's owl experiments were selected, but the rest of the property of Bacowerby Agricultural College, it is resolved to notify the trustees (Messrs Cochran, Hughes, and Rule) that the Bacowerby Property Company will be ready to take charge of the property, and has been to take charge of the property and also to take the crop, their thanks for the use of same, and the re-organisation of the property, and the Bacowerby Property Company will be ready to take charge of the property,

Commonwealth Bank of Australia
HEAD OFFICE SYDNEY.
OPEN FOR ALL CLASSES OF
General Banking Business
in the Commonwealth and Trans-Tasman (New Zealand and New Britain); London (2); and Agents throughout the World.
Savings Bank Department
at all Branches, and Savings Bank Agencies at 2802 Post Offices throughout Australia and at Papua, New Britain, Solomon and other Islands of the Pacific.
3½ Interest on Deposits up to £1,000.
3 Interest on Amounts over £1,000 up to £1,500.
JAMES KELL, Deputy Governor. Sir DENISON MILLER, K.C.M.G., Governor.
Head Office for Victoria: 350 Collins Street, Melbourne. J. ROSS, Manager.

COUGLE'S
WHERE THE BEST VALUES ARE.
Special Reductions
In All Classes of
DRAPERY,
CLOTHING,
BOOTS & SHOES.
Our Large and Comprehensive
Stocks of
SUMMER GOODS
Are most Moderately Priced.
Inspection and Comparison
most Cordially Invited.
G. H. COUGLE,
THE STORE FOR GOOD VALUES.
BEAUFORT.
'Phone 22.

STATE SAVINGS BANK OF VICTORIA
THE 'FARMERS' BANK!
Credit Foncier Loans on Farm Properties.
Two-Thirds of Valuation up to £2,000 at 6 per cent.
Repayable over 27½ years £3/15/ half-yearly for each £100.
Special Terms for Returned Soldiers, Dependents, Red Cross and Transport Workers.
Three-Fourths of Valuation up to £2,000 at 5½ per cent.
Repayable over 30½ years £1/15/ quarterly for each £100.
Application Forms at any State Savings Bank, or by writing to Inspector-General.
Head Office, State Savings Bank, Elizabeth Street, Melbourne. GEO. E. EMERY, Inspector-General.

J. F. O'BRIEN begs to let the people of Beaufort and surrounding districts know that he has opened a GARAGE in main street, Beaufort, and is ready for action. No job is too big, or no job is too small. Guaranteed for quickness, accuracy, and lowest possible charges. Every job I do is done and will stand the inspection of all comers. All jobs which I have done here will show for so far are very satisfactory, so when you put me to the test you also will judge for yourself.
J. F. O'BRIEN, MOTOR ENGINEER.

AMUSU PICTURES.
RINK SAFELY BY RETURNED SOLDIERS.
SOCIETIES' HALL, BEAUFORT.
SATURDAY (TO-NIGHT.)
THE TEST OF HONOR (J. Barrymore)
OUT OF LUCK (D. Gish).
USUAL PRICES. 16 and 11; Children half-price.

Religious Services.

SUNDAY, JANUARY 16TH, 1921.

CHURCH OF ENGLAND.—Beaufort, 8 and 7; Middle Creek, 11; Trawalla, 3.—Rev. W. C. Wood.

METHODIST CHURCH.—Beaufort, 11 and 7; Main Lead, 2; Raglan, 3.—Rev. E. H. Coltman, Raglan, 7.30.—Mr C. Waldron, Chute, 3.—Mr G. Boyd.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.—Lexton, 11; Waterloo, 3; Beaufort, 7.—Rev. A. H. Ross.

Messrs W. H. Halpin & Son will hold a Sale of Work in the Mechanics' Institute, Beaufort, on Saturday, 29th inst., at 10.30 a.m. sharp.

MARRIAGE.

SPICER—JAGGAR.—On the 26th November, at the Presbyterian Church, Point Cook, Victoria Yarra, by the Rev. John T. Lauton, M.A., George A. E. Iaia A.I.F., youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Spicer, of Raglan, to Rona Estelle, elder daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jaggar, of Wellington, New Zealand.

IN MEMORIAM.

SUMMERS.—In loving remembrance of my dear mother, who died January 16th, 1921.
What would I give to clasp your hand,
My loving mother to see,
To hear your voice, to understand
Which means so much to me.
Inserted by her loving daughter, J. Y.

G. & R.
LOCAL LAND BOARD.
SCHEDULE of application, &c., to be dealt with at the Court House, Beaufort, on Thursday, 27th January, 1921, at 2 o'clock:—Parish and town of Beaufort—Saml. Young, 3 acres, allot. 29 and land adjoining Sec. 31A. Town of Chute: applicant for forfeiture:—Parish of Raglan—R. G. Lilley, 34 acres, allotment 40, Sec. 55A.
CHAS. J. JOY, Land Officer.
District Lands Office, Ballarat, 13/1/21.

The Riponshire Advocate.
Published every Saturday Morning.
(Printed and published by the proprietor, Arthur Parker, at "The Riponshire Advocate" Office, corner of Pratt and Lawrence Streets, Beaufort.)
SATURDAY, JANUARY 15, 1921.

Accident.

Mr Thos. Dickman, of Beaufort, sustained an injury to the shoulder on Wednesday through being thrown from a horse.

Snake Seen in Town.

On Sunday night Mr J. Whitfield saw a snake in Neill-street, Beaufort, near the Methodist Church. One had previously been seen on several occasions in a vacant allotment in the same locality which is used by Messrs Stevenson Bros. for storing old timber. Some weeks before Xmas, a snake was killed on the street in the vicinity, and on Wednesday another was killed on the Ararat road within the town boundary.

Personal.

Mrs Alan Goodie, of Beaufort, has been in indifferent health for some time past. Mr W. F. Schlicht, a well-known business man, was seriously ill during the Xmas holidays, and was an inmate of Nurse Hallas' private hospital for a number of days. He is now convalescent.—Mrs W. Anderson, of Beaufort, was taken to the Ballarat Hospital by motor ambulance a fortnight ago, and it was understood that an operation for appendicitis would be necessary.

Beaufort Athletic Club.

A meeting of the Beaufort Athletic Club was held on Monday evening. Present—Messrs A. E. Crick (president), Howe, Hannah, Cuthbertson, Parker, and Kelly. The secretary submitted an approximate statement of receipts and expenditure in connection with the Boxing Day sports, the former amounting to £186/16/11 and the latter to £189/9/9, leaving a credit balance of £2/12/7. Accounts amounting to £03/3/6 were passed for payment. On the suggestion of the secretary, £1 was voted to Mr Thomson for marking out the athletic scratches on Xmas Day. Mr W. Stevens was appointed auditor at a fee of £1/1/, on motion of Messrs Hannah and Howe. The fixing of date of final meeting was left in hands of the president and secretary.

"Electricity and Progress Dead."

The action taken by the Ripon Shire Council on Monday in deferring the Beaufort electric lighting scheme for 12 months occasioned great surprise in the town, and was regarded as a serious setback to what was regarded as a foregone conclusion was the subject of much comment by townspeople interested in the movement. The cost, which when the estimate of £5000 was exceeded by £1000, convened a public meeting, at which expressions were given to the willingness of the people to bear the extra expense, in face of this fact many cannot comprehend what they regard as a sudden change of heart on the part of those who previously indicated that they would insist the light if the residents of Beaufort were prepared to contribute a ratio per unit sufficient to make the scheme a paying proposition. It is of course, applicable to only one section of the community, namely, those who are of the opinion that the council was perfectly justified in its action, as the scheme was too expensive in view of the hard times ahead and the certainty of big reductions in prices later on. The flag on Cr. W. H. Halpin's office was flying at half-mast on Tuesday morning. When asked why was dead, that gentleman (who has taken the leading part in the proposal to electrically light the town) sadly replied, "Electricity and progress," and added that as the adoption of the scheme would have meant increased prosperity and it would have been a paying concern, he could not understand why the council turned it down.

Beaufort Cemetery Trust.

The annual meeting of the Beaufort Cemetery Trust was held at the Shire Hall on Thursday night. Present—Messrs Muntz (in the chair), O'Sullivan, Stevenson, and Parker (secretary). On the resignation of John Johnston as sexton was accepted, to take effect on 31st inst. and William Fitzpatrick was appointed to the position. The secretary reported that during the past year there were 16 interments and 9 sales of ground; the revenue from both sources amounting to £46/15/6. This is a decrease of £31/10/ on the previous year. Expenditure was in fair order, having been repaired and strengthened during the past year. When funds are available, the lodge and entrance gates might be painted. Naturally, in such a season as this, there is a large quantity of high grass in the cemetery; and it would be advisable to consider the best means of removing it, so as to prevent the spread of fire. The paths are in fair order. The Catholic portion of the cemetery is in a satisfactory condition as the result of the recent working bee by members of that denomination. If other adjustments were to follow this example, a vast improvement would be made in the appearance of the cemetery. The sexton, after a service of a little over seven yrs, has resigned his position, and applications have been called with a view to filling the vacancy. The balance-sheet now presented to you shows that the receipts for the past year amounted to £69/15/6, and the expenditure to £69/15/, leaving a Cr. balance of £11/9/6, as against £34/0/2 at the beginning of the year.—Received. The accounts having been examined and found correct, the balance-sheet and abstract were adopted, and the secretary was instructed to forward a copy to Board of Public Health.

Beaufort Fire Brigade.

There was a fair attendance of members at the monthly meeting of the Beaufort Fire Brigade on Monday night; Capt. Greenwood (foreman) occupying the chair. It was decided to send a team to the annual demonstration, to be held in March at Warrnambool.

A Silly Joke.

Some mischievously-disposed person with rather a warped sense of humor amused himself early in the week by hoisting a bough to the top of the flagpole on Camp hill, and running another branch up to half-mast. As considerable expense was incurred in placing the flagstaff there, anyone who is caught at these kind of tricks will not escape punishment.

Bush Fire Brigade.

Owing to a deadlock being reached at the annual meeting of the Beaufort Bush Fire Brigade on Monday night (which is reported on page 1), the trustees (Messrs R. A. D. Sinclair, J. M. Stuart, and J. B. Cochran) met on Wednesday afternoon and decided to call a public meeting to consider the advisability or otherwise of winding up the affairs of the brigade. In the meantime, if the fire-cart and appliances are required, they can be had on application to either of the three trustees.

Heavy Hailstorm.

On Sunday an unusually heavy hailstorm was experienced in the vicinity of Derry Farm, Lake Goldsmith, the property of the Ward family. It lasted about 10 minutes, and hailstones as large as pigeon eggs fell. The ground was covered in a white mantle, and the locality looked as if it had been covered. The disturbance must have been an isolated one owing to the fact that none of the neighbors had a similar experience.

Beaufort Bowling Green.

Beaufort bowlers and their lady friends are looking forward to spending a pleasant afternoon on Saturday, when the local club's green in Neill-street will be officially opened. The rinks look fit for the most ardent and fastidious wooer of "Kitty" to play on, thanks to the careful attention given them by the caretaker (Mr Mair). Visiting bowlers will be present from various clubs in Ballarat and Western. Meetings were held by the club on Friday night, 7th inst., and Tuesday last, at which arrangements were completed for opening day, on which a gymkhana will take place. A varied programme of games was compiled, and stewards appointed to organise and get off same. Details in connection with the hiring and erection of a marquee were also attended to. It was reported that the membership of the club is increasing, about 40 members having been enrolled up to the present. The popularity of the game is plainly indicated by the large number of non-playing players at the green every week night and half-holiday, and their only complaint is that the curtain of darkness is dropped too early. At a well-attended meeting of the lady friends of the bowlers on Monday night, it was decided to provide afternoon tea at the opening function on Saturday, and as the coffers of the club are not overflowing, a charge of 1/ per head is to be made.

After several days of sultry weather, there was a cool change at Beaufort on Sunday night, when a fine rain fell. This week the weather has been cool. There was a fine rain again on Thursday, four points being recorded.

Considerable interest was taken by the many friends of the contracting parties in a wedding which took place at the Beaufort Methodist Church on Wednesday, when Mr William West, a Sailor's Gift returned soldier, was married to Mrs Gilles (a soldier's widow): the bride being the eldest daughter of Mr and Mrs Bryant, of Beaufort town.

The attendance at the Amusu Picture Co's. entertainment at Beaufort on Saturday night was not as good as usual, owing to the opposition attraction. The star films were the fine drama, "Ashes of Vengeance" and "Heart of Youth" (featuring Lila Lee), and the powerful anti-German war-time drama, play, "Waggon Track," in which Bill Hart figured in the leading role. Tonight (Saturday) a special programme of films will be screened.

Preparations are being made by Mr Chant, Opticians, of 108 Lit. Collins St., will visit Beaufort on Tuesday, Jan. 18th (morning only), and be at the residence of the Mechanics' Reading Room. Appointments made by Mr Bennett.

Messrs W. H. Halpin & Son and Kelly & McDonald (auctioneers in conjunction) announce the sale by auction of land, horses, cattle, sheep, harness, &c., also valuable household furniture, at residence of Mrs J. Holdsworth, Beaufort, on Thursday, 20th inst., at 1.30 p.m.

Messrs. Kelly & McDonald hold a sale of 14 acres land, 5-roomed house, milking shed, stables, 10 cattle, and 2 ponies, at Mr A. Kenny's, Waterloo, on Saturday, 22nd inst. They will also offer for sale, c/o Mr R. Holdsworth, at their office, Beaufort, on Saturday, 19th inst., at 3 p.m., 320 acres land.

A wonderful opportunity of obtaining from W. E. THOMAS the new strong TRUEFITE and ANTOFORM TEETH, most suitable in the world for comfort, appearance of the human face (square, tapering, or oval), also for biting and chewing food. They are of exquisite shade, the colour being most natural. Last a lifetime. This latest system, with new way of making plates, is the secret which gives satisfaction. Patients also obtain the advantage of our large stock of teeth, bought before the recent hundred per cent. rise in price. The latest in Painless Extractions, 1/ (equal to 5/-). Call first visit Beaufort, Wednesday, 19th inst.

During the Xmas holidays Miss Ida Johnston, a young school teacher, had a fortunate escape from drowning in the Avoca River, Sandhurst, and incidentally the hero of the tragedy, which there was demonstrated, Miss Johnston, who is not a good swimmer, got out of her depth and into a hole, or water sat get into difficulties. She was noticed by Mr J. Hannah, who, on the strength of the presence of mind to throw her a lifebelt, plunged into the river, and succeeded in reaching her safely and bringing her ashore. He was presented with a silver medal, and kept himself albeit until recently.

CORRESPONDENCE.

We do not in any way identify ourselves with opinions expressed by our correspondents.

A NUISANCE.

To the Editor, Ripon shire Advocate.

Sir,—Residents of the northern end of Beaufort have for some time been occasionally subjected to a good deal of annoyance by the prolonged and seemingly purposeless blowing of a steam-engine whistle, as Mr J. A. Harris' old sawmill is in story, where a saw-bench is now worked. They were treated to another long, earsplitting performance last Saturday afternoon, and as this kind of thing is becoming intolerable, and has been mistaken by residents in other parts of the town for a signal from a railway train in distress, I would ask that the inspector of nuisances was approached and asked if he has any power to check this unreasonable noise.—Yours &c.,
"SORE."

RIPON SHIRE COUNCIL.

MONDAY, 10TH JANUARY, 1921.

Present—Crs. Hannah (president), Elder, Halpin, Russell, Beggs, McDonald and Rodda; Cr Stewart also attended after lunch.

The minutes of the previous meeting, as typed and circulated, were taken as read and confirmed.

An apology for his absence was received from Cr. Sinclair.

The president said that at last meeting, as councillors were aware, Cr. Sinclair had lost his father, and the sympathy of his colleagues went out to him. He had proved to be a very old man, and in the natural order of things could not expect to live much longer. But death was always sad, no matter at what age it came. He moved that a letter be sent to Cr. Sinclair, expressing their sympathy for him in his bereavement. Seconded by Cr. Russell, and carried.

CORRESPONDENCE.

From secretary to Forests Commission, notifying that commission will visit Beaufort on 9th, there, re Mt. Cole State Forest, and would be glad to meet representatives of the shire and other interested parties. The president said that Cr. Sinclair and other residents had met the commission in conference. They promised to let the council know their decision, but as nothing had come to hand they would have to wait until they heard from them. The commission had given them the idea that they had no intention of opening it at the present time. They had been on the mount for two days, and it should be left to them, and the council abide by their decision. Received.

From Hon. J. Drysdale Brown, M.L.C., re same effort.—Received.

From Analytical Laboratory, intimating that seven samples of foodstuffs forwarded by Inspector Kelly for analysis complied with the standards.—Received.

From Public Health Department, intimating that the question of the provision of medical officers is recommended by the Commission of Public Health, for boroughs and shires, a minimum of £50 per annum for a population of 5,000 or less and an allowance for travelling to be agreed to between medical officer and council, and that the salary should be increased at the rate of £10 per 1000 of the population over 5,000.—Received, the president expressing the opinion that they would have to do away with one of their health officers.

From Public Health Department, drawing attention to requirements of Commission of Public Health respecting the proposed Roman Catholic Hall, Beaufort, communicated to architects, and asking for report by shire engineer on proposed new building.—Received.

From Education Department, re engineer's report that drain at boys' urinal at Beaufort State school is of faulty construction, stating that Public Works Department has been asked to furnish a report on the matter.—Received.

From State Rivers and Water Supply Commission, asking if council has any objection against the granting of the application of F. J. Carland for lease of Sec. 22.18p. of water reserve, south of allot. 24, sec. 1, parish of Raglan.—The engineer said there was a great deal of report. They were getting their necks in a noose. They had appointed a man at last meeting, and now they had a petition, and now found that the fences were cut. It should have been reported to the council straight away, as this was only making a fool of the council. He thought the North Riding members had been very lax in their duties. Cr. Halpin—Talk sense; you can't teach us our duties. Cr. Rodda retorted that the Common managers had not had a meeting for years. Cr. Halpin said he was not going to sit there and be insulted by Cr. Rodda. The president said it was not right for Cr. Rodd to criticise his colleagues. Cr. Rodda said if it were not the Common managers' fault it was the council's fault for not having a meeting. The president said there was something in what Cr. Rodda had said as to the management, but that was not the fault of the North Riding members, as the whole council was responsible. The very fact of the wires being cut and cattle getting out of the paddock showed that the management was lax. He was hoping that under the new management things would alter, and that the fences would be kept in proper repair. The herdsman should either attend the council meetings or send a report to let them see how things were going. Cr. Halpin said he was not going to take any blame for lax management. When he knew the fences were down or cut he had reported it to the office, and if it had not been attended to he was not to blame. The president replied that he was not blaming Cr. Halpin personally. Cr. Halpin retorted that it was downright impudence on the part of Cr. Rodda to blame the North Riding members. Cr. Elder then moved that the petition be received and no action taken. Seconded by Cr. McDonald, and carried. Cr. Halpin—On behalf of the ratepayers signing the petition I thank you for receiving the deputation.

The engineer (Mr E. J. Muntz, B.C.E.) reported as follows:—

1. Land applied for by Mr Guyatt includes most of the land in the centre of the town formerly occupied by cottages held under miners' rights. Provided that land required for children's playground is reserved, there seems no reason why portion should not be selected. As this practically abandons Waterloo as a town ship, the question of maintenance of water supply will come in later.—Cr. Halpin said that Mr Guyatt was leaving the district and was going on with the application. The engineer said it would change out of the Riding, and would be in the heart of the township. If Waterloo revived it was just the place where houses under miners' rights would be put. It was decided, on the motion of Crs. Beggs and Halpin, that the council has no objection to a grazing license being issued, but considering the land should not be permanently parted with in view of the possibility of its being required for residential purposes.

2. Mr Bradshaw is proceeding with earthwork on his contract, but is not ready for crusher. I suggested that he should interview the council today. I anticipate considerable difficulty in getting team for crusher.—Action of president and Cr. Elder in getting a guarantee from Contractor Bradshaw that he would start crushing on Monday was endorsed, on motion of Crs. Rodda and McDonald.

3. The Beaufort water supply is holding out very well this year, thanks to the frequent showers. Beaufort's reservoir is still practically full.—Received.

4. Mr J. Nothnagel is still unable to do any work.—Received.

5. I have called tenders for three contracts, returnable to-day. Owing to resolution, I cannot recommend the lowest tenders.—Received.

The engineer said the lowest tenders were £90, but the reason the tenders were not accepted was that the contractor's estimate was £30 less than the tenders were received for the West Riding metalling contracts, and he had no more time to get in other tenders. He would have looked for the bar door. In regard to what the president said about the glasses, witness had nothing to do with the glasses, but had been used that morning. He washed glasses every morning, and there were 30 odd on a tray that he had washed that morning. The glasses were perfectly dry and there was no sign of any trading.

The P.M.—The licensee is not charged with trading.

Witness, in answer to Supt. Nicholson, stated that the men paid for their meals before parting with the money.

The P.M.—You know the bar door should be closed. Why did not you close it? It is the duty of the licensee to keep it into the bar every time to get change.

Witness said he would undertake this appeal, seeing it was a technical offence.

The P.M.—It is an absolute breach of the law. There is no technicality about it. Defendant would be fined £5.

Supt. Nicholson asked for 7/- costs, which were allowed.

COLLECTOR'S LICENCE.

Mitchell Welsh applied for renewal of a collector's licence, which was granted.

TRUANCY CASES.

Senior-constable J. T. Ellis, summoned James Grant for neglecting to send his daughter, Isabel, to school the required number of days. The prosecuting officer gave evidence that the girl was aged 13 years and nine months, and had a mile and a half from the school. The defendant said he had sent the girl to school on one half-day, that on another day she was detained by a Doctor, and that she was home a full day owing to a cold. In answer to the P.M., Constable Evans said the parents were not poor people. Defendant was fined 5/, including costs.

Same v. Mary Johnston, for similar offence. Defendant said her daughter, George Tiley (of whom she is guardian). Defendant said she thought she kept the boy home one half-day and half-holiday. They were sorry to depend on the outside ridings for the interest on the loan, and it would not be right to ask the outside ridings would have to carry the burden on their shoulders. Witness said he guarantee from the people here that they would be prompt to attend on all possible occasions. She would be fined 5/.

ALLEGED OBSCENE LANGUAGE.

Constable A. G. Evans v. William Nicholas King, using obscene language in a public place at Beaufort on 30th Dec., 1920.

Same v. Thos. Frederick Grantley, same offence.

King pleaded guilty; Grantley's plea being not guilty.

Supt. Nicholson, in outlining the evidence, said a sale was held at the Commercial hotel on the date in question; a number of women being present. These two young men had a dispute, and used filthy and disgusting language in the presence of the whole company. A man named Webb told them they were ashamed of themselves for being such boys.

George William Webb, laborer, Beaufort, stated that he was at the Commercial hotel sale on 31/12/20. He knew the two defendants there. They were having an argument, and used a little bit of rough language. There were two things he took exception to. In his opinion one defendant was as bad as the other. He heard Grantley use one expression he did not care too much for. He heard language written on the pavement. Grantley said he did not mean it. Webb said he did not mean it, and he was sorry he had said it. Defendant told him what he meant, and one went had to another. After they had done so, Webb said he was wanted to meet him to settle it. Defendant was not in a fit state to do anything at present, and came for Constable Evans to the place. He was sitting on the bar parlor sofa, and the footpath. Witness was getting the bar door open. Defendant said he had not had any intention of fighting. Witness said he was not in a fit state to do anything. Defendant said he had not had any intention of fighting. Witness said he was not in a fit state to do anything at present, and came for Constable Evans to the place. He was sitting on the bar parlor sofa, and the footpath. Witness was getting the bar door open

(COPYRIGHT.)

SUSPECTED

BY F. P. RATHBUN.

PART ONE.—CHAPTER I.

WHAT LAY BEHIND THE LOG

William Clayton and Robert Wincraft, amateur visitors in the settlement of Brooksdale, but not as strangers in the village, halted and speaking acquaintance had entered in the June afternoon when, and from opens, they had strolled from the hotel to the edge of the village. Clayton gave a nod to the village, and were watching the stream for a glimpse of the speckled trout, slightly, if not famous, when suddenly the attention was aroused by a strange cry, which came from the crest of the hillside.

To Wincraft it was—to carry no intelligence, but the attitude became on the spot, and not long. It was the fire projected from speed, pass and resolution and he appeared for no bribe to be looked at the direction from which the sound had come. He had recognised in that cry, the Masonic appeal for aid in deadly peril. The elevation from which the alarm had come extended for miles down the valley. Almost at top it was heavily wooded, but on the side next to the limit it was covered with growth of tall bushes. Here and there a few trees interspersed, which would sound many devious paths.

It was from this hillside labyrinth that the mystic alarm had been sounded; and Clayton stood more less while it was twice repeated, trying vainly to fix the exact spot the wilderness of bushes whence the summons came.

"What in the world is the matter?" demanded Wincraft.

"Hark!" said Clayton, speaking rapidly, and holding up a hand to Wincraft for silence. "Help me locate that voice!"

And then, straining at once the sense of hearing and of sight, the two stood still. For a moment there was no sound save that made by the rippling of the waters over the shallows.

Directly there came down to them a new cry which, if possible, made Clayton's heart throb still faster, for it was the shorter, sharper cry of an Odd Fellow in distress.

This like the first, was repeated, it was now evident to both that the voice came from a small cluster of oaks two-thirds of the distance to the top of the hill. Wincraft was about to point out the place when Clayton asked:

"Are you a—a member of any secret society?"

"No."

"Well," said Clayton, speaking hurriedly, "up there in those oaks is some one in deadly peril, being murdered, perhaps. I am going to the chief. Will you help me?"

"Yes," Wincraft answered, with a convex promptness and earnestness. At a bound they crossed the small cream side by side, and started for the hill at a pace which was a killing one, considering the nature of the ground before them. At first they attempted to follow a straight course through the thick growth of saplings and bushes, but soon finding that impossible, they took to the paths which seemed to run in every direction but the right one.

And so the two—trained men, enter the first path which promised to take them nearer the place they sought, run, now this way, now that, never quite in the direction they wished, but always drawing nearer to oaks. They had not lost breathed the hill before their breathing became so laboured as to be painful. But without a halt they followed the devious way, encouraged occasionally by a view of the oaks from places where the bushes were sufficiently low for them to see over their tops. At last, after having traversed twice the distance a straight route would have been, they entered a path, at the farther end of which, and just far away, they saw the oaks. Making a dash, they arrived, panting, at the end of their race to their surprise, they found the place deserted. And looked about in astonished disappointment for an explanation of the cries they had heard. Beneath the oaks the ground was free from any bushes, and the view unobstructed except by the trunk of a fallen tree which lay near the opposite side of the grove. All this they marked while they looked about them. They saw nothing to indicate that they were not the first persons who had recently visited the place. They had expected to find some one there injured or dead, but there was not even the evidence of a struggle to be seen.

Clayton attempted a halloo. Wincraft repeated it, and they listened for an answer; but none came. Wincraft was the first to rally sufficiently from the effect of the run to attempt an investigation.

"We must make a search," he said, and started to walk through the grove. He had nearly reached the fallen tree which has been spoken of, when he stopped short with the exclamation, "Great Scot! Here's a dead woman!"

Clayton hurried to his side, and saw, but a few feet distant, what he had taken concealed from view by the tree trunk, the prostrate form of a woman. The pallor of the face was sufficient to tell him that she was looking at a corpse and at a victim of Odd Fellow in distress.

This like the cries, was repeated, it was now evident to both that the voice came from a small cluster of oaks two-thirds of the distance to the top of the hill. Wincraft was about to point out the place when Clayton asked:

"Are you a—a member of any secret society?"

"No."

"Well," said Clayton, speaking hurriedly, "up there in those oaks is some one in deadly peril, being murdered, perhaps. I am going to the chief. Will you help me?"

"Yes," Wincraft answered, with a convex promptness and earnestness. At a bound they crossed the small cream side by side, and started for the hill at a pace which was a killing one, considering the nature of the ground before them. At first they attempted to follow a straight course through the thick growth of saplings and bushes, but soon finding that impossible, they took to the paths which seemed to run in every direction but the right one.

And so the two—trained men, enter the first path which promised to take them nearer the place they sought, run, now this way, now that, never quite in the direction they wished, but always drawing nearer to oaks. They had not lost breathed the hill before their breathing became so laboured as to be painful. But without a halt they followed the devious way, encouraged occasionally by a view of the oaks from places where the bushes were sufficiently low for them to see over their tops. At last, after having traversed twice the distance a straight route would have been, they entered a path, at the farther end of which, and just far away, they saw the oaks. Making a dash, they arrived, panting, at the end of their race. To

Commonwealth Bank of Australia
HEAD OFFICE SYDNEY.
OPEN FOR ALL CLASSES OF
General Banking Business
Savings Bank Department
3% Interest on Deposits up to £300.
3% Interest on Amounts over £300 up to £500
JAMES KELL, Sir DENISON MILLER, K.C.M.G.
General Manager. Governor.

COUGLES
WHERE THE BEST VALUES ARE
Special Reductions
In All Classes of
DRAPERY,
CLOTHING,
BOOTS & SHOES.
Our Large and Comprehensive
Stocks of
SUMMER GOODS
Are most Moderately Priced.
Inspection and Comparison
most Cordially Invited.
G. H. COUGLE,
THE STORE FOR GOOD VALUES.
BEAUFORT.
'Phone 22.

STATE SAVINGS BANK OF VICTORIA
THE FARMERS' BANK!
Credit Foncier Loans on Farm Properties.
Two-Thirds of Valuation up to £2,000 at 6 per cent.
Repayable over 27½ years £3 15 half-yearly for each £100.
Application Forms at any State Savings Bank, or by writing to Inspector-General.
GEO. E. EMERY, Inspector-General.
Head Office, State Savings Bank, Elizabeth Street, Melbourne

Special Terms for Returned Soldiers, Dependents, Cocoa Growers and Transport Workers.
Three-Fourths of Valuation up to £2,000 at 5¾ per cent.
Repayable over 30½ years £1 15 quarterly for each £100.

J. F. O'BRIEN begs to let the people of Beaufort and surrounding district know that he has opened a GARAGE in Main street, Beaufort, and is ready for action. No job too big or no job too small. Guaranteed for quickness, accuracy, and lowest possible charges. Every job I do is done and will stand the inspection of all comers. All jobs which I undertake here in town so far are very satisfactory, so when you come to me the test you also will judge for yourself.
J. F. O'BRIEN,
MOTOR ENGINEER.

AMUSU PICTURES.
RUN SOLELY BY RETURNED SOLDIERS.
SOCIETIES' HALL, BEAUFORT.
SATURDAY (TO-NIGHT.)
"A SPORTING CHANCE" (E. Clytoon)
"THE SPIRIT OF THE LAND" (Lyons)
USUAL PRICES. 1/6 and 1/1; Children, half-price.

Religious Services.

SUNDAY, JANUARY 23rd, 1921.

CHURCH OF ENGLAND.—Beaufort, 11 and 7: Raglan, 3.—Rev. H. Coltman.

Raglan, 7.30—Mr V. J. Parson: Waterloo, 7.30—Mr C. Boyd. Chute, 3—Mr C. Waldron.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.—Beaufort, 11 and 7: Middle Creek, 3.30: Buangor, 3—Rev. A. H. Rose.

—Messrs W. H. Halpin & Son will hold a clearing sale, as Mr B. Martinon, of Buildings, furniture, &c., at the Fitzroy hotel, Waubra, on Saturday, 29th inst., at 12.30 p.m. sharp.

DEATH.

MARTINEZ.—On 7th January (result of accident), Anselmo, dearly loved eldest son of J. Martinez, of Beaufort, loved brother of Sally, Hylda, Leslie, Doris (deceased), Harold, and Elvira, aged 3 years. Interred Ballarat 14th January.

In the midst of life, we are in death.
Silent as I linger cold.

Ripponshire Advocate
Is published every Saturday Morning
by the proprietor
Mr. Thomas Andrew at his office
Beaufort
SATURDAY, JANUARY 22, 1921.

Police Court

Before Capt. Jones, P.M., at Ballarat, on Monday.

Driving Mishap

Mr. N. S. M'Leod, of Beaufort, was fined £1 and costs for a charge of driving a motor car with a mishap when Mr. Hodgson, of Raglan, fell from the wheel of a motor cycle, and received a fractured collar bone and slight injuries to his head.

Gates Smashed by Train

Two passenger trains from Stawell to Beaufort, which passes through Beaufort at 8 p.m., collided at the gates at the Eagles and railway crossing on Monday evening. The gate keeper, Mrs. Ward, had opened the gate, and the train was going per pedal when the engine caught it. She was thrown in a stunning injury from the shock. Mr. Wills, who was waiting for the train, did not hear it approaching, and he was within a short distance of the gates.

Thrown From Vehicle

Owing to a horse being frightened by a lawn-mower, the grounds, and plunging wildly, Miss A. Tipper was thrown out of a vehicle in front of Mr C. Morrell's residence Beaufort, on Monday. Miss Maggie Preston, who was with her, jumped out and tried to assist her out, but the horse bolted, and was caught before it damaged the vehicle or harness. Tipper sustained severe bruises and abrasions, and was taken to Nurse Bellas private hospital. Miss Preston escaped with a slight shaking.

The Pictures.

The Annual Picture Co.'s weekly entertainment at the Societies Hall, Beaufort, was well attended on Saturday night. The programme was diversified and interesting. One of Barrymore figured in the leading role of the star picture, "The Test of Honor," and Dorothy Gish was featured in "Out of Luck." The accompanying big film was enjoyable. Patrons can look forward to another excellent programme on 23rd (Saturday).

"Liquidating" a Debt

Ex-Lieut. J. M. Prentice, an old Beaufort boy who has had varied experiences as a soldier and traveller since he took the dust of his home town from his feet and sought "fresh fields and pastures new," was one of the guests at the opening of the bowling green on Saturday. After humorously touching upon the chances he was afraid bowling would give rise to, he hinted at a pleasant method of "liquidating" the debt by taking up the game, along with a large deficit, the members of which held a caucus and decided to take a hand in connection with the club. In a very little time they drank themselves into a state of solvency. (Laughter). He congratulated those responsible for the green. It was a great pleasure to come back and discover that the town "prosperous enough to warrant the expenditure of £500 on something of this nature.

"His Darkest Hour"

At the opening of the Beaufort bowling green on Saturday, Cr. W. H. Halpin was subjected to a good deal of good-humored chaff in regard to the failure of the proposal to electrically light Beaufort. Mr R. Hoyer vice-president of the Ballarat bowling association set the ball rolling by remarking that he had noticed that a flag in the town had been flying at half-mastmourning for the electric lighting scheme having fallen through. That meant they would have the night bowls which they would have had if they had been allowed to electrically light the great Halpin, he presumed, a pavilion would be built and hedges grown round the place. Until these improvements were completed, the ladies could look upon it as a safe resort, and see their husbands coming home in good time. (Laughter.) In calling upon Cr. Halpin to speak, Mr J. H. Witherspoon (president of the club) said many of them had read the story, "His Darkest Hour." It had been Cr. Halpin's darkest hour for the past week (Laughter). He had taken upon himself the work of trying to get the electric light for Beaufort, and he thought at when he first mentioned it at a meeting of residents that they had seen him gradually infusing his own enthusiasm into everyone. The enthusiasm got hotter, and after the council had decided on having it, the estimate was ordered and the poles were placed before a public meeting, which unanimously decided to have it. That was alright, and when it was again brought before the council they thought it was only a formal matter, but they came a "cropper." (Laughter.) He was much grieved and hoisted his flag at half-mast because the electric light had "gone dead." He was going to join the club even though they did not have the electric light. Cr. Halpin, in reply, said it was refreshing to see that a certain section were prepared to pay. The green was a decided acquisition to the town. At last council meeting one councillor had had the impertinence to say that Beaufort had not gone ahead for the past 10 years. He (Cr. Halpin) mentioned that there were few better country towns in the State of Victoria, and they had gone ahead second to none for a country place, and all that was wrong with Beaufort was that it was not sufficiently advertised, and that the conservatism which characterised a certain section ought to be wiped out. He was sorry the electric light had "gone dead." It was his pet subject, and he would really like to see the town have it, as he believed the prosperity ahead of the place warranted it.

"Liquidating" a Debt

Ex-Lieut. J. M. Prentice, an old Beaufort boy who has had varied experiences as a soldier and traveller since he took the dust of his home town from his feet and sought "fresh fields and pastures new," was one of the guests at the opening of the bowling green on Saturday. After humorously touching upon the chances he was afraid bowling would give rise to, he hinted at a pleasant method of "liquidating" the debt by taking up the game, along with a large deficit, the members of which held a caucus and decided to take a hand in connection with the club. In a very little time they drank themselves into a state of solvency. (Laughter). He congratulated those responsible for the green. It was a great pleasure to come back and discover that the town "prosperous enough to warrant the expenditure of £500 on something of this nature.

"His Darkest Hour"

At the opening of the Beaufort bowling green on Saturday, Cr. W. H. Halpin was subjected to a good deal of good-humored chaff in regard to the failure of the proposal to electrically light Beaufort. Mr R. Hoyer vice-president of the Ballarat bowling association set the ball rolling by remarking that he had noticed that a flag in the town had been flying at half-mastmourning for the electric lighting scheme having fallen through. That meant they would have the night bowls which they would have had if they had been allowed to electrically light the great Halpin, he presumed, a pavilion would be built and hedges grown round the place. Until these improvements were completed, the ladies could look upon it as a safe resort, and see their husbands coming home in good time. (Laughter.) In calling upon Cr. Halpin to speak, Mr J. H. Witherspoon (president of the club) said many of them had read the story, "His Darkest Hour." It had been Cr. Halpin's darkest hour for the past week (Laughter). He had taken upon himself the work of trying to get the electric light for Beaufort, and he thought at when he first mentioned it at a meeting of residents that they had seen him gradually infusing his own enthusiasm into everyone. The enthusiasm got hotter, and after the council had decided on having it, the estimate was ordered and the poles were placed before a public meeting, which unanimously decided to have it. That was alright, and when it was again brought before the council they thought it was only a formal matter, but they came a "cropper." (Laughter.) He was much grieved and hoisted his flag at half-mast because the electric light had "gone dead." He was going to join the club even though they did not have the electric light. Cr. Halpin, in reply, said it was refreshing to see that a certain section were prepared to pay. The green was a decided acquisition to the town. At last council meeting one councillor had had the impertinence to say that Beaufort had not gone ahead for the past 10 years. He (Cr. Halpin) mentioned that there were few better country towns in the State of Victoria, and they had gone ahead second to none for a country place, and all that was wrong with Beaufort was that it was not sufficiently advertised, and that the conservatism which characterised a certain section ought to be wiped out. He was sorry the electric light had "gone dead." It was his pet subject, and he would really like to see the town have it, as he believed the prosperity ahead of the place warranted it.

—Legislation to provide for a 70 days camp for citizen force recruits is contemplated.

BEFORE YOU CHOOSE YOUR XMAS. AND NEW YEAR GIFTS —VISIT BENNETT'S PHARMACY.
NEW GOODS FOR XMAS
British Xylonite Mirrors, Combs, and Brushware; English, French and American Soaps and Perfumery; the original "Gegenwart" Genuine Eau de Cologne, Decanters of Lavender Water and Eau de Cologne, Perfume Sprays, Military Hair Brushes, Thermos Flasks, Shaving Sets in Nickel and in Oak.
Cameras and all Photographic Goods at Melbourne Prices. Negatives developed and printed. Enlargements made.
—ASK FOR XMAS CALENDAR.
C. G. BENNETT, M.P.S.A.,
PHARMACEUTICAL CHEMIST,
NEILL STREET, BEAUFORT.
'Phone 29

Telephone 2. J. W. HARRIS Telephone 2.
CARRIAGE BUILDER, &c.
For Accuracy, Confidence, Satisfaction, HAVELOCK STREET, BEAUFORT
THREE STRONG REASONS:—Best Materials, Skilled Workmanship, Moderate Terms
Tanking and Cooling Powders for Children.
Hours—Mon., Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.; Friday, 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.; Saturday, 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.; Sunday, 10.30 a.m. to 12.30 p.m.

GEORGE GOE TONG (Ballarat's representative of the leading Chinese Herbalists) visits Beaufort every two weeks, and may be consulted at the Camp Hotel. All diseases skilfully treated. Advice free.
Next visit to Beaufort—Thursday, January 20th.

Accident

A young man named Lilley, a resident of Raglan, and the youngest son of Mr and Mrs D. Lilley, accidentally cut his right foot with an adze a few days ago. The wound was a deep one, and required stitching.

Alleged Disobedience of Maintenance Order.

For alleged disobedience of an order for maintenance of his wife and child, some again his, by the Castlemaine Court, Thomas Fitzsimons, formerly resided at Beaufort but latterly at Ballarat, was arrested here by the local police on Monday, 10th inst. The alternative being 14 days in default, he was arrested and handed over to Melbourne Gaol.

Citizen Force Training.

Captain A. H. Kennedy, commanding the Beaufort Company, 12th Regiment, has received a letter from Lieut.-Colonel Rutherford, commanding the 12th Regiment, stating that the following is the allotment of the Beaufort Company for training on Monday evening, the 31st inst.—Sergeants, 3; Corporals, 3; Lance-Corporals, 2; Privates, 32; total, 40. The company will be mustered at the Drill Hall at 7.30 p.m. from which time the roll will be called at 7.45 p.m. Every man who has not completed his training of the 1920 quota will be required to attend. Commencing at 7.45 p.m. training will be carried out under the organisation, to the 9th Battalion, Fifth Brigade, Fifth Division, which was formerly known as the 12th Regiment.

Bowls.

A competition for bowls commencing on Saturday, 29th inst., has been arranged on the Beaufort bowling green. Following is the draw:—A. J. Harris v. W. J. Sleeman; J. Lillis v. A. Harris; Dr. G. A. Lodge v. Dr. S. E. Humphreys; W. H. Halpin v. D. Stevenson; H. E. Sugg v. H. Lillis; J. A. Harris v. A. Wolfenspoon; J. R. Wother spoon v. H. Hoyer; J. R. Kelly v. W. Hoy; N. B. Acton v. M. Parker; J. Watkin v. J. Day; E. Stewart v. R. Halpin; E. J. Munt v. J. Fulks; J. Miles v. J. Day; J. McCaughey; J. F. O'Brien v. G. C. Bennett. The first round must be completed on Wednesday next, to facilitate to keep their games. One game was played on Thursday evening, J. Kelly, seated by T. Day, v. Dr. Bowie, who scored 21 to his opponent's 11.

Overworked

Although the fact that the operating staff at the Beaufort railway station is overworked was brought under notice in the press some weeks ago, nothing has been done by the Commissioners to afford the men relief. It is rather too much to expect men to carry out this responsible work for 12 and 14 hours at a stretch on a main line station, when the appointment of an additional operating porter or an assistant station master would obviate the necessity for such long shifts. The revenue at the station is very considerable, and it was a number of years ago, when a larger staff was employed, and when the 35,000 acres of Lawalla, recently purchased by the Soldiers' Settlement Board, is settled by the 80 soldiers who intend to apply for blocks, the local revenue must be substantially increased.

A Veteran Bowler

Speaking at the opening of the Beaufort bowling green on Saturday, Mr W. Raine, of Learmonth, mentioned that there had been a bowling green at Learmonth for 50 years. He was the only living member of the original bowling club.—[A voice, Give him a rally. Applause]. They had not enough members to form two rinks and hoped to have the pleasure of friendly competition with the Beaufort club for many years to come. There was no more social game than bowling in the world. Another speaker (Mr Mitchell, of Stawell) stressed the point that bowling was a game for the younger men as well as the older ones, and pointed out that the younger men became keener than the veterans, and the more they played the keener they got. Mr R. Hoyer (vice-president of the Bowling association and representative of Ballarat and Wendouree Club) congratulated the Beaufort and Learmonth, was the first president of the Ballarat Association and practically commenced the game in Victoria. There were now 700 or 800 bowlers in Ballarat, and a good deal of that was due to Mr Raine. He was pleased to see him here.

The Weather.

Warm weather was again experienced at Beaufort this week, the shade temperatures being as follows:—Tuesday, 78 degrees; Wednesday, 88; Thursday, 89; Friday, 86.

Special Wood Trains.

On Wednesday and Thursday a special train of firewood was sent away from the Beaufort railway station.

Beaufort's War Trophy.

A communication has been received from the War Trophies Committee, stating that if the trustees are willing to send the 9.2 howitzer gun from Beaufort on to Rainbow, a bigger trophy than a trench mortar will be sent here. The trustees will meet as soon as possible and consider the offer.

Obituary.

Mrs W. H. Glover, of Beaufort, suffered a bereavement in the death, on Saturday, Mr John Murphy, passing away at his residence, Ballarat. Deceased left a widow, four sons, and three daughters to mourn their loss.

Departing Residents

Mr Arthur Rowley, of Waterloo, is selling his property and leaving the district. The departure of Mr and Mrs Kowley and family will be regretted by a large circle of friends. Mr Bernard Martenson, for many years proprietor and licensee of the deliemed Fitzroy hotel, Waterloo, is selling out and migrating to another part of the State. By reason of his jovial nature and happy knack of spinning amusing yarns about his selectorial days, Mr Martenson was very popular as a publican, and his many friends will be sorry to lose him.

AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.

Eight members of the Beaufort Agricultural Society were present at a general meeting held at the Shire Hall on Monday night to revise the prize list. Mr Percy Kelly (president) occupying the chair. Mr D. R. Hannah apologised for the absence of Messrs R. Halpin and G. C. Bennett, and said the latter intended to donate 10/6 to the society. A committee was received re the Agricultural Office's proposal for the revision of the prize-schedule was then proceeded with. The special class for sheep was adopted without alteration. In the class for lambs, the prizes for ram and four ewe draught horses were reduced from £3 and £1 to £2 and £1. The words "must be in foal or with foal at foot," were added to the sections for pure-bred mares and mare suitable for breeding ram stallions. It was resolved to stipulate that exhibitors of foal mares must be prepared to sign a declaration that exhibit is their property. Prizes for pony, 14.2 hands, were reduced from £3 and £1 to £2 and £1. The prizes for pony, 13.2 hands and pony under 13.2 hands, were cut down from £2 and £1 to £1 and 10/. The prizes for best rider, boy or girl, were reduced from £5 and £3 to £3 and £2. The prizes for best rider, lady, 14.2 hands, were reduced from £1/10/ and 10/ to £1 and 10/, and the section for pony 14.2 hands, was deleted. The prizes for lady's hackney were reduced from £1/10 and 10/ to £1 and 10/. The second prize for best lady rider was struck out. The prizes for pony hackney were reduced from £2/10 and £1 to £2 and £1. The height of the jump for hunter hackney, not less than 12 st was reduced from 4 ft. to 3 ft. The prize for harness over hackney were reduced from £2/10 and £1 to £2 and £1. It was decided to cut out the time test trot for horses and ponies, and to make the other two trots, for hackney and pony, open to all district events open and unregistered last two years; performances to be asked for competitors handicapped, the prizes to be £2 and £1. In the class for five District trots for pony and horses were reduced from £2 to £1 and 10/, and the prizes for the trot for pony were reduced to 14 h. The prize for the flag race were reduced from £2 to £1 to £1 and 10/. It was resolved to run the trots and other horse events on Tuesday, 23rd inst., and to get the judging in the ring started before lunch. The secretary said Mr T. W. Morrison had given a special prize for square eggs. He mentioned that Mr Hoyer wished to run a buck-jumping and boxing show, but it was resolved not to allow same, on motion of Messrs Halpin and Hannah. Mr R. Witherspoon suggested posting up a notice in the ring, which they thought were to come off. Mr Troy drew attention to a prize of £25 given by Governor-General for growers of vegetables at the Royal show, who must first compete in their own country shows, and suggested that the secretary bring it under the notice of exhibitors. The class for grain, roots, and hay was left as at present, as were also those for fruit and vegetables and dairy produce. It was decided to give £1 as a prize for best collection of vehicles, in addition to the prize of £1/1 for best farmer's implements, £1 for best other sections in class E (agricultural implements) being struck out. The class for poultry was not altered. A prize for best collection of square eggs donated by Mr T. W. Hannah was added to the miscellaneous class, and it was resolved to stipulate that roses, dahlias, and cut flowers shown be grown by exhibitors. The classes for dogs and swine were passed without alteration. In the cattle class the prizes for dairy cow were increased to £3 and £1 cows to be judged by butter test. Mr Hannah suggested that the committee re-arrange of prize-winners be displayed in the parade before the judging held for years. The matter of obtaining a band to play during the parade was left in the hands of the president and secretary; it being suggested that an endeavor be made to get the Ballarat Municipal Band to come up. The same officers were also asked to arrange for a good entertainment for show-night, it being considered that a picture show would be the most popular. Messrs D. R. Hannah, P. Kelly, W. Lynch, and D. F. Trow were appointed a committee to discuss the expenses of a band. The next meeting for the purpose of selecting judges and stewards was fixed for Saturday night, 29th inst., at 8.30 p.m.

—Two of the members of the Federal Country Party in the House of Representatives, Messrs Gibson and Marwick, when the Bill to reduce the salary of the Prime Minister refused to accept the increased pay of £1000 a year which members of the Commonwealth Parliament have recently voted themselves, have changed their minds, and have agreed to take the higher remuneration.

—Engineer-Commander H. P. Mackenzie, who has been in charge of the Trawalla Estate from the executors of the late Sir Arthur Rickman, has retired from the Royal Navy after 19 years' service. During the war he was engaged in the Admiralty on the secret units of the Royal Navy—the battleship H.M.S. Centurion, the light cruiser H.M.S. Dunedin, and it was his work for most of the war in addition with the Royal Oak in the historic Jutland fight three weeks after the completion of the ship, and with the Dunedin in the Baltic Sea. Captain Mackenzie was for some years serving on the Australian station, firstly on H.M.S. Powerful in 1908, and later on the great battleship Australia in 1915, where he was Admiralty Inspector of Coal for the inspection of coal supplies for the Navy. He was recently placed on the retired list at his own request. It will be interesting to learn that the new owner hopes to continue the work of improvement which he began retained the services of Mr T. P. Gilbey, manager of Trawalla for the late Rear-Admiral Bridges. "Captain" MacKenzie is 1915 married the younger daughter of the late Mr William Weatherley, of "Woolloongong," Mortlake, and they have recently been relatively to England on private business, and on his return with Mrs MacKenzie, enter into residence at Trawalla.

A wonderful opportunity of obtaining from Mr E. Thomas the new Grand TRUEBYTE and ANOTOVORN TEETH, most suitable in the world for various shapes of the human face (square, tapering, or oval), also for biting and chewing food. Testimonials of over 4000 people who are being most natural. Last a lifetime. Fitted while you wait. The secret of making plates, is the secret which gives satisfaction. Patients also obtain the advantage of our large stock of teeth, bought before the recent hundred per cent. rise in price. The latest in Painless Extractions, 1/- (equal to 5/-). Call first visit Beaufort, Wednesday, 2nd February.

Messrs. Kelly & McDonald hold a stock sale at Warrak on Friday, 28th inst. and also at Lexton on Wednesday, 2nd prox.

BEAUFORT BOWLING GREEN.

OPENING DAY.

A long-felt want among those who do not indulge in the more strenuous forms of sport has been filled in Beaufort by the formation of a bowling club. Judging by the interest and enthusiasm displayed by large gathering of residents of the town and district, the game seems to have come to stay. A green has been laid down in Neill street at a cost of about £500, and so improvements will be added as the years go by, it will no doubt become an ornament to the town. The opening function took place on Saturday afternoon, in the presence of a large attendance of local people and visiting bowlers from other clubs in neighbouring towns. Eighteen car loads of people came to Beaufort for the occasion. The club house was gaily decorated with flags. The weather was gloriously fine, and most of the lady visitors were their summer raiment, thereby lending to the scene the touch of colour necessary to give it a gala appearance. The drab attire of the men generally presents a striking contrast to the high-water mark dating a gala occasion among the fair sex. The men, however, have the latter, did not have the usual monopoly, their domain being trespassed upon by the bowlers, those colored blazers made quite a show. The afternoon was spent up-rising afternoon tea was provided in a large marquee by the lady members of the club, and all participated freely of most of those present; the proceeds going towards the funds.

Mr J. R. Wotherspoon (president), who introduced the visitors, said he had personally welcomed the representatives of the Avarat, Stawell, Learmonth and Ballarat clubs, viz., Mr W. G. Gibbs, M.H.R., and all the other visitors. The green had cost about £500, but he would not say how much had been paid off. A good deal had been paid, but the club was still in debt, and was looking after the cash as well. They must get rid of the debt, and he hoped that it was an old bowlers' game.

Cr. C. R. Harris, president of Ripon Shire, said it was a great pleasure to come here to-day to dedicate this green, open and free to all. It was a great for him to be in the position of chairman of the council during the year he was in office he opened it. If anyone had told him six months ago that this green would be opened about the middle of January, he would not have credited it. He had not been at all sanguine about the possibility of the Beaufort people establishing a green. He was very pleased to see that it was come to the beginning of their bowls, and that the green was about to be opened under most favorable circumstances. He was one of the people interested in the bowls and also a member of the shire council, and anything that was done to beautify the town he always had his support, and should be supported by the local council. He hoped they would have many enjoyable games on the green. Although the whole £500 expended on it had been paid, a big proportion of it had been. In looking round and noting the interest taken by the local people and visitors in the opening of the green, he felt quite sanguine that it would come to stay. He was sure the Beaufort people would see that it was kept in a condition equal to that of any green in Ballarat, Ararat, or elsewhere in the district. [A voice: Better.—Laughter.]—The president had been complimented by the visitors on the magnificent green. Of course it was not as good as greens that had been laid down for some years, but he believed they would eventually have one equal to any in the State. He had come here to make a long speech, and he had great pleasure in declaring the green open for play. (Applause).

Mr W. G. Gibson, M.H.R., said it was a great pleasure to be asked to take the opening of their green. He was sure they would never regret the money spent on the green down. They might have some people who had a set on bowls, but they only needed to start them bowling to remove it. He was certain this green would be a huge success, as great as any town was one of the beauty spots. Every town had a sporting attract in town, and Australians were essentially a sporting people. No other generation would be a spectator of no use to any other form of sport also. There were games suited to men of all ages. There was the game of cricket in the summer, and football for winter and summer, and the game of bowls was the second of Mr J. R. Wotherspoon—(laughter)—and he was pleased to see the game between wickets and play football. The older men must have some game, and bowls was just suited there for the North and golf for the winter. He was certainly pleased to see the sporting spirit in the town to make the club one of the best in the place. After a day at the counter or business, there was nothing like trying conclusions with a friend or fellow-citizen, and a pleasant evening or an a half-holiday. He was pleased to be present, and to accept the invitation to be present, and apologised for the absence of the Hon. D. S. Oman (Minister of Lands), who had intended to accompany him, but was prevented owing to his being called away from Mr Oman's and the speaker's sympathy with the green in the success of the club, and participate of by most of those present; he was proud of the funds. Mr J. Witherspoon (president), who introduced the representatives of the Avarat, Stawell, Learmonth and Ballarat clubs, viz., Mr W. G. Gibbs, M.H.R., and all the other visitors. The green had cost about £500, but he would not say how much had been paid off. A good deal had been paid, but the club was still in debt, and was looking after the cash as well. They must get rid of the debt, and he hoped that it was an old bowlers' game.

Cr. C. R. Harris, president of Ripon Shire, said it was a great pleasure to come here to-day to dedicate this green

COPYRIGHT.

SUSPECTED.

BY F. P. RATHBUN.

CHAPTER II.

CHAPTER III.—(Continued.)

CHAPTER IV.

CHAPTER V.

DAN AS A SINANCIER.

[illegible]

The Riponshire Advocate.

BEAUFORT.

No. 2252 | Registered at General Post Office, Melbourne, for transmission by post as newspaper | BEAUFORT, SATURDAY, JANUARY 29, 1921. | PRICE 3d

VICTORIAN PRODUCERS' CO-OPERATIVE COMPANY, LIMITED.

Nominal Capital, £250,000
Subscribed Capital, £140,000
Paid-up Capital, £101,000
Reserve Fund, £60,000.

Head Office: 589-605 Collins St., Melbourne
Branches and Agencies throughout the State.

The Largest, the Strongest, the most Progressive Co-operative Company in the Southern Hemisphere.

GOVERNMENT WHEAT AGENTS, WOOL-SELLING BROKERS, SHEEP & RABBIT SKIN AGENTS.
LIVE STOCK, WOOL, GRAIN, HIDES, SKINS, TALLOW, PRODUCE SELLERS ON COMMISSION.
EXPERT LAND VALUERS.
Highest Prices obtained. Proceeds rendered promptly.
Suppliers of all Farmers' Requisites.
Agents for Farmers' and Settlers' Co-operative Insurance Co. of Australia Ltd
Last year Rebates paid Shareholders equalled 12 % on the paid-up capital of the Company.
Interview Local Agent or write Head Office for full particulars of benefits and how to become a Shareholder.
GEO. PRINGLE, Local Agent.

WEDNESDAY, 2ND FEBY.
RAILWAY HOTEL, BEAUFORT.

How to Make Good Family Cough Mixture and Save Much Money.

Obtain from chemist or store a bottle of HEENZO (registered name for Heinz's Essence), and add it to a large breakfastcupful of [illegible] sweetened with treacle or honey and sugar as per easy directions printed on the label, and you will at once have a family supply of superior quality cough, lung, and throat mixture. No boiling or forcing is needed, the mixing being a matter of a few moments, so save the user much.

If you do not need a Family Supply of Cough Mixture, ask for HEENZO Cough Diamonds

Price, 1/6 per tin.

BEAUFORT RAINFALL.

[illegible]

1910.—January, 141 points; February, 35; March, 215; April, 1; May, 103; June, 203; July, 232; August, 228; September, 465; October, 237; November, 102; December, 183.
1911.—January, 61; February, 742; March, 46; April, 1; May, 91; June, 251; July, 165; August, 166; September, 420; October, 206; November, 49; December, 39.
1912.—January, 20; February, 49; March, 299; April, 228; May, 164; June, 266; July, 183; August, 176; September, 53; October, 119; November, 267; December, 275.
1913.—January, 50; February, 193; March, 342; April, 96; May, 184; June, 93; July, 382; August, 246; September, 321; October, 112; November, 161; December, 75.
1914.—January, 86; February, 11; March, 91; April, 96; May, 33; June, 74; July, 210; August, 93; September, 88; October, 55; November, 142; December, 18.
1915.—January, 115; February, 31; March, 40; April, 104; May, 215; June, 108; July, 108; August, 277; September, 401; October, 205; November, 122; December, 24.
1916.—January, 340; February, 113; March, 6; April, 209; May, 56; June, 314; July, 327; August, 174; September, 53; October, 137; November, 374; December, 93.
1917.—January, 97; February, 105; March, 141; April, 156; May, 27; June, 207; July, 203; August, 436; September, 206; October, 341; November, 104; December, 43.
1918.—January, 126; February, 99; March, 209; April, 39; June, 237; July, 299; August, 189; September, 155; October, 214; November, 42; December, 125.
1919.—January, 13; February, 264; March, 148; April, 58; May, 234; June, 211; July, 236; August, 135; September, 356; October, 155; November, 66; December, 221.
1920.—January, 20; February, 24; March, 166; April, 97; May, 215; June, 52; July, 232; August, 674; September, 345; October, 119; November, 104; December, 48.
1921.—January, 20; February, 24; March, 166; April, 97; May, 215; June, 52; July, 232; August, 674; September, 345; October, 119; November, 104; December, 48.
Total, 1909, 2848.; 1910, 2.; 1911, 2.; 1912, 2.; 1913, 2.; 1914, 2.; 1915, 2.; 1916, 2.; 1917, 2.; 1918, 2.; 1919, 2.; 1920, 2.; 1921, 2.

TENNIS.

A team of tennis players from Learmonth visited Beaufort on Saturday, and tried conclusions with the local club in an enjoyable match. There was a good attendance of spectators. The Beaufort ladies provided afternoon tea. This large entertainment, and making plates, is the secret key which gives satisfaction.

Patients who obtain the advantage of our large stock of the strongest and most beautiful teeth (about thirty thousand), bought before the recent hundred per cent. rise in price.

The latest in PAINLESS EXTRACTIONS, 1/- (equal to 5/-).

Call First Visit.

Visiting Personally

Good Staff Reliable Assistants

Country Work at Ballarat Surgeries, Ballarat

PAINLESS EXTRACTIONS 1/- (FORFEIT FIVE POUNDS IF ANY PAIN)

THE WORLD'S BEST!

20 years shareholder in one of the largest Wholesale Dental Importing Companies.

Work guaranteed 7 years, or money back. Repairs, if any, free of charge 7 years. £2,000 guarantee bond is placed in Commonwealth Bank, Melbourne, spoke for itself.

Also

A wonderful opportunity of obtaining from W. E. THOMAS the new strong TRUEBYTE TEETH, and ANATAFORM TEETH most suitable in the world for various shapes of the human face (square, tapering, or ovoid) as shown above, also for being and chewing food. They are of exquisite shade, the colour being most natural, and will last a lifetime. This latest system, with new way of making plates, is the secret key which gives satisfaction.

Patients also obtain the advantage of our large stock of the strongest and most beautiful teeth (about thirty thousand), bought before the recent hundred per cent. rise in price.

The latest in PAINLESS EXTRACTIONS, 1/- (equal to 5/-).

Call First Visit.

Visiting Personally

Good Staff Reliable Assistants

Country Work at Ballarat Surgeries, Ballarat

PAINLESS EXTRACTIONS 1/- (FORFEIT FIVE POUNDS IF ANY PAIN)

THE WORLD'S BEST!

20 years shareholder in one of the largest Wholesale Dental Importing Companies.

Work guaranteed 7 years, or money back. Repairs, if any, free of charge 7 years. £2,000 guarantee bond is placed in Commonwealth Bank, Melbourne, spoke for itself.

Also

The Morse Resilient Tooth.

SOMETHING QUITE NEW.

Delightfully natural LIVE TOOTH FILLING patient experience during the treatment is most gratifying.

Mastication pressure of a complete upper and lower set of artificial teeth is from 12 to 25 lb., whereas with our own natural teeth it is anything up to 250 lb. Resilient Teeth will give double power of mastication.

Many have said to us they would not part with their Teeth for £500 or £1000. Therefore the best is cheap Money.

The secret of long life, health and youthful appearance is the thorough masticating of food; round teeth instead of decayed. Spaces between grinders should be filled with artificial. Teethers decay they should be stopped or additional teeth added to plate.

Decayed Teeth produce Indigestion, Cancer, Appendicitis, other diseases. NEW SYSTEM Filling Artificial Teeth only one visit necessary. Thousands Sets posted direct patients without return.

Our Teeth add charm and beautify woman; improve and strengthen facial characteristics of a man. Can transform badly shaped mouth into a pretty one.

From now, Money back if can't Satisfy

Address Letters

W. E. THOMAS
DENTIST,
Box G.P.O. ADELAIDE or Box G.P.O. MELBOURNE

W. E. THOMAS DENTIST

HEAVY MANURIAL DRESSINGS.

SEVERAL EXPERIENCE.

[illegible]

CHUTE.

(FROM A CORRESPONDENT.)

[illegible]

Eyes front! The man whose perspective is in the past, can't see the chances coming his way.

THEO. W. SCHLICHT,
AUCTIONEER,
STOCK, STATION & COMMISSION AGENT,
BEAUFORT.

AGENT FOR—
Yorkshire Insurance Company.
H. R. Carter & Co.
Wm. Crosby & Co and Federal Mourne Co.

'Phone 9.

W. H. HALPIN,
AUCTIONEER,
HOUSE, LAND, STOCK, GENERAL COMMISSION AGENT & VALUATOR.

KELLY & McDONALD,
AUCTIONEERS,
STOCK AND STATION AGENTS,
BEAUFORT, LEXTON, CARRANBALLAC AND BUANGOR.

AGENTS FOR—
DALGETY & CO.
NEW ZEALAND INSURANCE CO.
T. ROBINSON & CO. PTY. LTD.
R. HORNSBY & SONS LTD.
MT. LYELL MACHINES.
BUICK MOTOR CARS.

SANDS & JOHNSON,
BUILDERS, CONTRACTORS, AND UNDERTAKERS,
NEILL STREET, BEAUFORT.

Concrete and Metal Work.
Picture Framing.
Cabinet-making and Upholstering.
Telephone No. 41

BEAUFORT MOTOR GARAGE.

PROPRIETORS—COATES BROS.
(E. F. C. Coates, late A.I.F.,
and W. R. Coates).

First-class Fitter and Turner and Mechanic employed.
Repairs a specialty. Moderate Charges.
HARVEY-FROST VULCANISING DONE.
GOODYEAR TYRES and TUBES STOCKED, also GENERAL ACCESSORIES.
CARS FOR HIRE DAY OR NIGHT.
'Phone 35.

Mr. R. BERNARD LURATI,
RECORDED BY DENTAL BOARD, VIC.
(Late Australian Imperial Force),
VISITS BEAUFORT EVERY THURSDAY
And may be Consulted at the COMMERCIAL HOTEL, NEILL STREET, Hours from 1 till 5.

Painless, up-to-date Dentistry at Moderate Fees.
Consultation and advice free.

Surgery and Laboratories at Rialto Chambers, Stuart Street, BALLARAT, opposite City Hall.
'Phone 1317, Ballarat.

STEVENSON BROS.,
CONTRACTORS
HAVELOCK STREET,
BEAUFORT.
Estimates submitted for all work in building line.

W. R. GLOVER
Late E. G. Pearce, BUTCHER
HAVELOCK ST., BEAUFORT.
ONLY PRIME MEAT KEPT.
LARD, GOOSE A SPECIALTY.
My Motto
"Cleanliness, Quality, Civility."
Customers Waited upon Punctually for Orders.

E. A. FAY.
LAND, ESTATE AND GENERAL COMMISSION AGENT, MIDDLE CREEK R.S.
DISTRICT AGENT FOR—
GIPPSLAND & NORTHERN CO-OPERATIVE SELLING AND INSURANCE COY.
WISCHER'S MANURES.
N. S. VALENTINE & CO. (LAND).
Cash buyer of Grain. Highest Price.
Clearing sales arranged. Farms for sale, including some in pick of Mallee.

Notice to Ladies.
If your hair is falling off and neglect it, for delay often proves disastrous. Call and seek advice free from
M. PATERSON,
HAIR SPECIALIST AND HAIR WORKER
Switches, Tonics, Transformations, Wigs made to order.
Ladies' Combings made up.
Latest Electrical Appliances, including Violet Ray.
The Cheapest House in Ballarat for Foundation Goods and Toilet Requisites. A large variety to select from.
Buy your presents here for yourself and save money.
NOTE ADDRESS:
M. PATERSON,
24 BRIDGE ST., BALLARAT.
Phone 896

School Children

school with wet feet. Apart from the risk from infection, especially when coupled with the risk from infection, especially when [illegible] Whooping Cough, Measles, Diphtheria, Influenza, etc., are about. Mothers of School Boys and Girls Scouts can be absolved from all ANXIETY if they have a bottle of in the house, as one dose of this Medicine at the first indication of a 'cold' will at once 'nip in the bud' what might otherwise prove to be a serious illness. Cork the bottle up—the rest will keep.

Hearne's Bronchial Cure

For Coughs, Croup, Colds on the Chest

The REMEDY with the REPUTATION.

From all CHEMISTS and STORES.

W. G. HEARNE & CO. Ltd.,
GREYTOWN, VICTORIA.
Sydney, N.S.W. Wellington, N.Z.

2/6 4/6

Clements—of Course!

To maintain healthy moods and cheerfulness, [illegible] of Course!

Clements Tonic

Is unequalled as a blood and nerve tonic, and for debility, anæmia, and all female ailments.

The nearest chemist keeps Clements Tonic. Ask for it. Insist on having it. Accept no substitute. Obtainable everywhere.

"For the Blood is the Life."

YOUR BLOOD WANTS PURIFYING.

IF YOU are troubled with Eczema, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Boils, Sores or Eruptions of any kind continually bursting through the Skin.

IF YOU have that constant itching and inflammation of Piles.

IF YOU are suffering the aches and Pains of Bad Legs, Abscesses, Ulcers, Scrofulous and Ulcerated Sores, Glandular Swellings or Blood Poison.

IF YOU are in the grip of Rheumatism, Sciatica, Lumbago, Gout, etc.

All these are one sign of sluggish blood impurity, calling for immediate treatment through the blood, so don't waste your time and money on temporary measures, but remove the cause which causes the trouble before the surface of the skin. What you want and what you must have is a medicine that will get into the blood of your trouble, a medicine that will thoroughly free the blood of the poisonous character, which is the root cause of your trouble. Clarke's Blood Mixture is just such a medicine. It is composed of ingredients which directly attack the root cause, and cleanse the blood of impurities from Stomach or constipation, and by rendering it clean and pure, can be relied on to offer a lasting cure.

The True Value of CLARKE'S BLOOD MIXTURE is certified by a most remarkable collection of testimonials from grateful patients of all classes—testimonials which have been cured after trying many other treatments without success—patients who have spent fortunes in vain, who have tried Clarke's Blood Mixture, and have found great improvement in their health, commencing with the [illegible] bottle.

Clarke's Blood Mixture is pleasant to take and warranted free from anything injurious to the most delicate constitution of either sex, from infancy to old age.

CLARKE'S BLOOD MIXTURE

THE WORLD'S BEST BLOOD PURIFIER.

CURES ALL SKIN and BLOOD DISEASES.

OF ALL CHEMISTS AND STORKEEPERS.

REFUSE SUBSTITUTES.

CONSIGN YOUR WOOL, GRAIN, SKINS, HIDES, TALLOW, TO THE AUSTRALIAN ESTATES & MORTGAGE CO. LTD.

Wool Warehouses: 573 to 579 COLLINS ST., MELBOURNE.

The Company act Strictly as Selling Brokers.

The Health That Lasts

What can bring you greater satisfaction than the knowledge that your health rests upon a firm foundation? With this in view, it is well to bear in mind that care bestowed upon maintaining the vigour of the digestive organs always brings an ample reward, for the reason that their condition so largely influences the general health. A most successful and satisfactory method of keeping the digestive system at a high level of efficiency is the occasional use of Beecham's Pills. A medicine which, as everyone knows, has won golden opinions all over the world for the relief and prevention of ailments connected with the stomach, liver, bowels. Widespread popularity is Beecham's Pills as here in Australia, a remedy for dyspepsia, indeed their reputation is to-day as great as ever. There is no better household remedy for keeping the digestive right, the liver active, the bowels regular and the blood pure. For the good of your Health

Take Beecham's Pills.

Sold everywhere in boxes. Special size, 1s.1d and 2s.6d. Ladies' Size, 2s.6d and 4s.6d.

Curtains refonkes carpets

A ROOM WITH SHABBY RUGS

is like a person in shabby shoes. No matter how fine the other furnishings or the other clothing may be, we always look down. Now that people are beautifying their homes with new furniture, it would be a pity if they spoiled the effect by having old Rugs on the floors.

We have a fine show of Rugs, Mats, Dixie Mats, Carpets, Lines and Floor Coverings, the prices of which are very reasonable.

In Curtainings our range of Cretonnes, Casement Cloths, Madras Muslins, etc., is most complete, and every price represents a welcome saving.

Will you let us help you to select the new Rugs and Window Curtains? Call to-day.

Tunbridge's Complete Furnishing Arcade Sturt and Armstrong Streets BALLARAT

Frootoids

For Constipation, Biliousness, Bad Breath, Headache, Indigestion.

A Delightful Family Medicine

THE ORCHARD.

SELECTION OF SITE.

PREPARATION OF SOIL FOR ORCHARD.

A good start in life is of just as great importance in the vegetable as in the animal kingdom; and although we move not have an ideal location for fruit, we can manipulate our soil so as to create conditions most favourable to success.

The ideal location for an orchard is an elevated, retentive yet well drained soil, having more or less lime in its composition. Frost trees, and the apple especially, will not stand sour soils or wet feet for any length of time.

The elevated location on account of its superior air drainage has the advantage of a greater freedom from blossom and frost damage, the trees, under ordinary conditions, maturing better, and fruit being more highly coloured.

Other things being equal, a moderate north or northeast slope would have some decided advantages in soil and atmospheric conditions not obtained otherwise. As the sun's rays would be less direct we naturally would expect a greater degree of humidity and cooler conditions, which are favorable factors to production and the longevity of the orchard. On the other hand, fruit in such a location will not mature as early or have the colour.

If anything, these elevated locations are not to be lacking in the basics, and plenty of humus, together with a retentive subsoil, is, in my estimation, the greatest soil factor to consider when planting the orchard. Otherwise any soil that will produce an average crop of maize is plenty good enough for orcharding without adding fertility until the trees come into full bearing.

Humus and retentive are relative terms. A soil containing plenty of humus will retain from 50 per cent. to 75 per cent. more moisture than otherwise possible. This can most easily be obtained by ploughing under the green crop, such as rye or clover.

On the stiffer clay subsoils I would also use a subsoil plough the day before planting; working up the soil thoroughly with a disc and smoothing harrow early in the season as the conditions are favourable.

Thorough preparation in anticipation one year previous to planting, and getting the right sorts set early and firmly in good soil is the greatest step towards a successful orchard.

THE DAIRY

HAY TEA AND YOUNG CALVES.

"Hay tea has its uses and abuses as a substitute for milk in calf-feeding. Very often a farmer finds himself short of milk in the winter and early spring, and is loth to knock a fine calf on the head.

In such a case he may resort to the old-fashioned substitute of "hay tea," and if he does so he will be wise if he bears the following suggestions in mind.

"Hay tea" to be of much value should be made from "yolling hay," that is to say, from hay saved from yolds, or in the yolding side. Coarse hard hay does not make good hay tea. Hay with plenty of clover in it, is the best. Then it is no use just pouring boiling water on the hay and straining off. The hay should be left in the water until all the nutriment in it is boiled out. It will then be more concentrated.

It is as well to gradually accustom the calf to this new food by mixing some milk with it at first, and by degrees give more "hay tea" and less milk.

As the milk is reduced and the hay tea increased, add a little good meal. Any reliable brand of 'calf meal will do, or linseed meal boiled to a jelly will answer the purpose almost as well. Prepare the calf meal added according to the directions given with the tin. As the calf gets older the meal can be given dry to the calf after it has had its "hay tea." There is thorough digestion of a meal when an animal has drunk it dry because there is thorough mastication. The animal must masticate very thoroughly before it can swallow a dry food.

A very little meal will then suffice a calf, and it is less trouble than making a "mash" for the calf reared entirely on "hay tea" is not much of a specimen as a general rule—big bellied, long legged, and lantern jawed.—"New Zealand Dairyman."

POULTRY ITEMS OF INTEREST.

Too many chicks spoil the brood.

A chick in the nest is worth two in the mind.

The less the hale the stronger the chicks.

The proof of the hatching is the chirp of the chicks.

The chick will never grind with the grit it never gets.

Grit is a virtue in man and fowl. The latter the hen the smaller the profits.

Prudence may be golden, but not in a hen.

Smile awhile, and while you smile another smiles; and soon there's miles and miles of smiles—and life's worth while because you smile.

It is hard to realise that Mr. Bute is the chairman of 1st, and changed from a sheep run to a community of 1, let us hope, thriving farmers. Over 1000 acres cut up the Bute holding range, at the extreme south-east of the great Western Plain, station holders have greatly improved the sheep carrying capacity of their properties by cutting up some one-third of which they applied good dressings of super. They attribute the increased wool match to the landings up of the land as to the super. Results almost as good might have been obtained if the nutmeg applied at the right time, had been distributed broadcast on the grass without cultivation. The last four years' results out Mr Bergin's farms are illuminating and significantly indicate what policy he should adopt. In 1916 he applied 112 lbs. an acre of super on 115 acres of fallow and 85 acres of stubble, harvesting 5,250 bushels of wheat, or better than 34 bushels to the acre. In 1917 the same allotment was applied to 200 acres of fallow, from which 10,225 bushels of 32 lbs. to the acre, was obtained. The same allotment in 1918 gave 3,825 bushels from 200 acres of fallow, or 29,58 bushels to the acre, while in 1919 (semi-drought) they yield from 275 acres of fallow, well worked, and given 112 lbs. of super, was 5,750 bushels, or 20.15 bushels to the acre. The grand aggregate for four years, with 112 lbs. of super to the acre from 875 acres, was 27,063 bushels, or 32.40 bushels to the acre. Surely this should convince every farmer as to the value of heavy dressings.

CHUTE.

(FROM A CORRESPONDENT.)

A tennis club has been formed at Chute, and is giving much to popularise the game locally. Mr Gilbert Smith is the president. On Saturday, 15th inst., the Beaufort St. Andrew's Club sent a team to Chute, which defeated the locals rather easily. The match was much enjoyed, and the Chute players hope to set the game a-going in the near future.

On Wednesday evening, 19th inst., a second-hand euchre tournament was held at Chute in aid of the funds of the Tennis Club. The prizes were donated by Messrs G. C. Bennett, Troy Bros., J. R. Wotherspoon & Co., and Kelly & McDonald, of Beaufort. In the ladies' division first prize was won by Mrs Gilbert Smith, and second by Miss Ellen Boyl. Mr Wm. Newey annexed first prize in the men's division, and Mr J. McKenzie obtained second. Mr P. Tregone and Mr Frank Carland carried off the "booby" prizes.

THE AUSTRALIAN ESTATES & MORTGAGE CO. LTD.

WOOL, GRAIN, SKINS, HIDES, TALLOW, TO

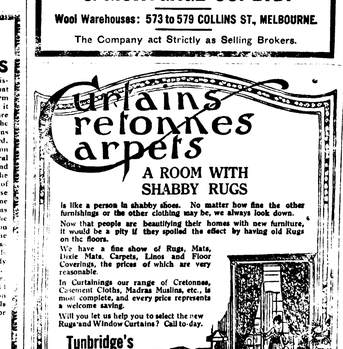
Wool Warehouses: 573 to 579 COLLINS ST., MELBOURNE.

The Company act Strictly as Selling Brokers.



Commonwealth Bank of Australia
HEAD OFFICE SYDNEY.
OPEN FOR ALL CLASSES OF
General Banking Business
in the Principal Cities and Towns of Australia and Relief New Britain; London (2)
Savings Bank Department
at all Branches and Branch Agencies. 2602 Post Offices throughout Australia, and at Papua, New Britain, Bougainville, and other Islands of the Pacific.
3½% Interest on Deposits up to £1,000.
3 Interest on Amounts over £1,000 up to £1,200.
JAMES KELL. Sir DENISON MILLER, K.C.M.G.
General Manager. Governor.

The Riponshire Advocate.
Published every Saturday Morning.
(Printed and published by the proprietor, Arthur Parker at "The Riponshire Advocate" Office, corner of Pratt and Lawrence Streets, Beaufort.)
SATURDAY, JANUARY 29, 1921.

COUGLE'S
POPULAR HALF-YEARLY
SUMMER SALE!
COMMENCES WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 2nd, 1921.
Every Department offers convincing proof of mighty Helpful Bargains in wanted Seasonable Goods.
Keener Values are not to be found anywhere.
G. H. COUGLE,
THE STORE FOR GOOD VALUES,
BEAUFORT.
'Phone 22.

STATE SAVINGS BANK OF VICTORIA
THE FARMERS' BANK!
Credit Foncier Loans on Farm Properties.
Two-Thirds of Valuation up to £2,000 at 6 per cent.
Repayable over 27½ years £3/15/ half-yearly for each £100.
Special Terms for Returned Soldiers, Dependents, Red Cross and Transport Workers.
Three-Fourths of Valuation up to £2,000 at 5¾ per cent.
Repayable over 30½ years £1 15/ quarterly for each £100.
Application Forms at any State Savings Bank, or by writing to Inspector-General.
Head Office, State Savings Bank, Elizabeth Street, Melbourne. GEO. E. EMERY, Inspector-General.

THE BRIDE-ELECT
AND HER BRIDAL PORTRAIT.
IN choosing the maker of her Bridal Portrait the Bride-Elect should select THE RICHARDS & CO. STUDIOS.
The latest styles in Bridal Veils, Wreaths, Bouquets, Buttonholes always ready for the Studios. Four large dressing rooms.
Every sitter is photographed in three positions, and a proof submitted from each Three Positions—Three Proofs.
Studio open every Saturday afternoon.
ENLARGED PHOTOGRAPHS.
An enlarged photograph of your Soldier Son or Brother would make an excellent memento.

| Size of Photo. | Size of Mount. | Frame. | Price. |
|---|---|---|---|
| 10 x 8 | 15 x 12 | Black | £1/10/- |
| 12 x 10 | 20 x 16 | Solid | £1/15/- |
| 15 x 12 | 23 x 17 | Oak with gilt lines | £2 |
| 20 x 16 | 30 x 25 | | £3/10/- |

Mail us a photo. You will be satisfied. Our name guarantees that.
RICHARDS & CO., WORLD-FAMED PHOTOGRAPHERS,
J. C. DEARDEN, Prop. STURT STREET, BALLARAT.

BEFORE YOU CHOOSE YOUR
XMAS. AND NEW YEAR GIFTS
VISIT BENNETT'S PHARMACY.
NEW GOODS FOR XMAS
British Xylonite Mirrors, Combs, and Brushware: English, French and American Soaps and Perfumes; the Original "Gegenuberden" Eau de Cologne, Decanters of Lavender Water and Eau de Cologne, Perfume Sprays, Military Brushes, Toilet Flasks, Shaving Sets in Nickel and in Oak.
Cameras and all Photographic Goods at Melbourne Prices. Negatives developed and printed. Enlargements made.
AGENT FOR XMAS. CALENDAR.
A. E. BENNETT, M.P.S.A.,
PHARMACEUTICAL CHEMIST,
STURT STREET, BEAUFORT.
'Phone 29.

IN MEMORIAM.

GEORGE.—In loving memory of our dear son and brother (1917), Driver S. E. George, who died of influenza, January 29, 1919, at Camp Hospital, Fareham, Hants.
To-day brings back sad memories
Of our dear boy we love so much,
And those who think of him to-day
Are those who loved him best.

GEORGE.—In loving memory of Driver S. E. George (Eric), who died 1st Feby., 1919, at Moore's Hospital, Weymouth.
I love you a thought in the hour of leisure,
I love you a blessed in the hour of pleasure
I love you a prayer in the hour of care
You are never forgotten in the hour of prayer
Inserted by Ivy.

Snake in Town.

During the week a tiger snake was seen in the town near Mr T. D. Bailes' residence.

A.W.N.L. Organiser.

Mrs McLean, an organiser in connection with the Australian Women's National League, has been visiting members of the Beaufort branch during the week.

Scouts' Visit.

The Ballarat St. Peter's troop of Boy Scouts arrived in Beaufort on Friday, and will camp at the local Park for the week-end. Scoutmasters E. S. Bailes and Foster are in charge.

A Snakekiller Bitten

A foxterrier, owned by Mr Geo. Wilson, of Beaufort, met its death by snake bite on Tuesday. The animal had earned a reputation as a snakekiller, and many a reptile had come to its end owing to the dog's pluck and skill. The terrier had accounted for no less than six or seven snakes recently, but like every animal which gets its skill at dodging against the lightning like rapidity of the snake at striking, it was sure to be fatally bitten sooner or later. Unfortunately, Mr Wilson was unable to take necessary measures in time to save the dog's life.

Walking Across Australia

Aidan de Brunne, who is attempting to walk from Freemantle to Sydney in 85 days, passed the South Australian-Victorian border at Serviceton on Friday, 21st inst., at 5 p.m., and expects to reach Melbourne on Sunday or Monday. At present he is somewhat behind his schedule, and will have to improve on his average of 33 miles a day to reach Sydney within the prescribed time. The following details of the walk are of interest:—Freemantle to Kalgoorlie (387 miles), 104 days; across Western Australia, 24 days; across Nullabor Plain, 11 days; across South Australia, 34 days; total mileage to Nhill, 1,946 miles. He reached Beaufort about 11 a.m. on Friday, and left shortly afterwards for Ballarat. After a short stay of a few hours in Melbourne, he will enter on the last stage of his journey.

Agricultural

Mr Samuel Boyle, of Lake Goldsmith, carted in the first load of new season's wheat to the Beaufort railway station. The grain was bought by Mr George Fringe (local agent for the Victorian Producers' Co-operative Co. Ltd.), on behalf of the co-operative wheat group. It is anticipated that anything between 5000 and 6000 bags of wheat have been grown in the district this season. The yields are good. The largest grower is Mr Geo. Tupper, Beaufort, whose area under wheat is 500 acres, and will average about nine bags to the acre. Messrs Cuthing Bros. of Lake Goldsmith, have a splendid crop of 120 acres, which is averaging about 10 bags to the acre. The grain is of fine quality, and as a result of the late rains is very well filled. As far as can be ascertained, this year should constitute a record for the largest acreage of wheat grown in the district. It represents a tremendous increase on last year, when only 500 bags were sent away. Out crops this year have also been bountiful, and threshing operations have yielded a return from the best crops of from 50 to 60 bushels per acre, and an average yield of fully 30 bushels to the acre.

A wonderful opportunity of obtaining from W. E. THOMAS the new strengthened TREBSITE and ANOTOFORM TEETH, most suitable in the world for various shapes of the human face (square, tapering, or oval), also for biting and chewing food. They are of exquisite shade, the colour being most natural. Last a lifetime. This latest system, with new way of making plates, is the secret which gives satisfaction. Patients also obtain the advantage of our large stock of teeth, bought before the recent hundred per cent. rise in price. The latest in Teeth, less Extractions, 1/; (equal to 5/-). Call and see them at 20 Lyons Street, Ballarat.

Messrs W. H. Halpin & Son announce the sale of township property, on Mr. Mr R. Noble, on Thursday, 3rd prox.

Messrs Kelly & McDonald hold a stock sale at Lexton on Wednesday, 2nd prox.

Mr G. J. McCaughey, hairdresser and tobacconist, Beaufort, advertises a change of hours and his new price-list.

Mr Geo. Goe Tong, Chinese herbalist, Ballarat, will visit Beaufort fortnightly (two weeks) on Tuesdays instead of Thursdays.

In order to bring up the universal training scheme to the maximum state of efficiency, drills for cadets classed as non-effective will be held to enable them to make up deficiencies.

About 6,600,000 slips are being issued in connection with the Commonwealth census on 4th April.

The Warrnambool Council, by a majority of one vote, has decided to adopt the unimproved land values system of rating.

Alfred Heller, of Gilgandra, who has broken more limbs than any other man in Australia, has made a further break. He fell out of a sulky on Thursday and broke his arm. This is his 44th break.

As far as it goes, Sir Joseph Cook's circular to the heads of Federal departments, directing that economy must be observed, is a welcome sign that something will be done.

During the past few days American wool buyers have been in Geelong taking extensive purchases for export. The buyers desire to land the wool in America to escape the import duties to be imposed shortly.

Shipowners have written to the maritime unions demanding assurances in regard to job control, and a continuity of industrial peace.

Work was resumed at the Wondraggi State coal mine on Thursday. There will be no relief from the train restrictions for the week-end.

BEAUFORT SCHOOL COMMITTEE.

SHELTER SHED, &c.

A meeting of the Beaufort school committee was held at the Shire Hall on Friday night, 21st inst., Messrs Muntz, Sinclair, W. J. Stevenson, S. Buchanan, A. L. Wotherspoon, and Seager being in attendance. Mr Seager presided until the chairman (Mr Sinclair) arrived. Mr H. J. Buchanan and Mrs J. R. Hughes were present as representatives of the Beaufort Ladies' Club "To provide a shelter shed, the sum of £60/9/ has been raised locally by the school committee, school children, and Thistle Club. The club set out to raise £35, and obtained £32, of which £24/18/ was collected by Mrs J. R. Hughes and Misses M. Thurman, J. Stevens, and S. Hughes (the three last-named being members of the school teaching staff). The Education Department is adding pound for pound up to £60. A departmental design of a shelter shed divided into two 20 x 10 compartments was inspected. After some discussion as to the lack of protection from driving rain on the eastern side, and as to whether two spaces 20 x 10 sheds would not be more suitable, the design submitted was adopted, on motion of Messrs Seager and Stevenson; Mr Muntz pointing out that two sheds would mean that they would have to raise another £30 or £40, without assistance from the Department. Mr Buchanan considered that the shed should open toward the school instead of toward the west. Mr Muntz said it would increase the wall by 20 ft. and cost another £20. After further discussion as to the best type of shed to erect and the most desirable part of the school ground in which to place it, it was arranged to meet at the school ground on the following Monday night and come to a decision as to a site. The Thistle Club representatives then withdrew, and were thanked by the chairman for their attendance and assistance. The ordinary business was then proceeded with. The correspondent (Mr Muntz) was directed and ask Sir A. J. Peacock (Minister of Education) to at once look into the matter of new fencing, as the former Minister (Mr Hutchinson) had promised Mr Sinclair that the fence would be renewed. Mr Sinclair said he would be in Melbourne the following Friday, and would also speak to the Minister himself. Mr Muntz suggested that Sir A. J. Peacock be also asked to have the school ground enlarged. Some of the ground they wished to take is was vested in the Ballarat diocesan trustees, and another part was practically a reserve. Mr Sinclair said he thought the Church of England was agreeable to hand its part over for the use of the children. Routine correspondence in reference to the teacher's residence, the election of Mr A. L. Wotherspoon as a committeeman, and the University appeal for assistance in raising £100 000 for developmental work, was received. In reply to a question, Mr Muntz said he did not know what had been done in regard to establishing higher elementary classes at the school. He did not think it wise to do anything further until Mr Evans returned from his holiday. As with the school residence, the trouble was that the Department did not deal with the committee, but through the head teacher, Mr Stevenson—They should draw attention to that. All the correspondence about the residence had gone to the secretary and teacher. He was not finding fault with the teacher, but the Department. Mr Sinclair—They should request the Department to correspond with the school committee. Mr Stevenson—They were making the school committee feel small. Mr Sinclair—It was the act of the school board of advice. They had no alternative. Mr Stevenson—It was the Education Department to send all correspondence to the secretary and teacher. Dealing with their business direct to the correspondent of the committee. Mr Seager—Nothing had been done on the building had been dumped on the Departmental site, beyond calling for tenders. Accounts amounting to 35/ were passed for payment. In answer to Mr Wotherspoon, Mr Muntz said the committee had never received a red cent. Mr Stevenson—They were allowed £10 a year to spend, but did not handle any of it. Mr Wotherspoon said he understood that at Mildura the committee got an allowance every month for a meeting. It was resolved to meet every two months in future, on the motion of Mr Stevenson, seconded by the chairman to call special meetings at any time, if necessary. It was mentioned that Mr Evans (head teacher) was slightly indisposed, but improving at any time. Mr Stevenson—Would that affect the proposed higher elementary classes? He (Mr Stevenson) but we need to get them established before he goes. Mr Muntz—The teacher Evans had told him it would be quite alright. Mr Stevenson—If the Department were as long over it as the school residence, the committee would need to shake them up. The Government were getting worse every day. Mr Sinclair—So it will till it comes a cropper. Mr S. S. Buchanan suggested that Mr Muntz should write Mr Evans, and if he was not going alright with the higher elementary school proposal, get the committee to meet. The suggestion was adopted. Mr Wotherspoon asked if it would be any purpose if a cricket chisel being started at the school. Mr Muntz—The Department would provide teachers, but the parents had to supply the material.

The coming of saw farmers to the Albury district has had an important educational effect in the direction of teaching farmers the importance of the old school the suitability of the Murray Pine for the cultivation of the valuable new industry, Sir Sodrag says.

According to Mr G. H. Knibbs, the Commonwealth statistician, for the month of December, 1920, there was a general decrease of 1.2 per cent. in prices of food and groceries (of commodities) compared with the preceding month. All the States, except West Australia, show decreases. The decrease in Victoria was 1.7 per cent. (0.6 per cent.), followed by Victoria (1.7 per cent.), Queensland and Australia (1.6 per cent.), and New South Wales (0.9 per cent.). There was a slight increase of 0.6 per cent. in West Australia.

The South Australian Commissioner of Public Works, Mr Lyons, announced on Tuesday that the Government had decided to erect the Ferry Engineering Co. for steel and iron work of a building at Port Adelaide, on a river conservation basis, River Murray. A tender for the contract amounts to more than £5000.

On the Foundation Day holiday on Monday, country post and telegraph offices will be open from 9 a.m. to 10 a.m. for all classes of postal and telegraphic business, except money order business. The first letter delivery only will be affected, provided letter boxes are usually made not later than 10 a.m. Offices usually closing after 5p.m. will close at that hour, and be despatched as on ordinary days.

BEAUFORT POLICE COURT.

MONDAY, JANY. 24TH, 1921.
(Before Messrs J. R. Wotherspoon and L. T. G. Smith, J's.P.)

STOCK OWNERS FINED.

Senior-constable J. T. Ellis, prosecuting officer for the Shire of Ripon, proceeded against James A. Harris on a charge of being, on 12th inst., the owner of three horses found in Burton street, Beaufort, without any person in charge.

Defendant pleaded not guilty.

Senior-constable Ellis gave formal evidence.

Hugh McDougall, herdsman for the Shire of Ripon and town ranger, stated on oath that on the morning of January 13th, he found three horses belonging to Mr Harris in Burton street, no person being in charge. He put them in the court yard. Later a man named Welsh took the horses and said they belonged to Mr Harris. Witness interviewed defendant, who said they were his property, and that they had got out of his paddock.

Defendant—What time did you get them?

Witness—5.30 in the morning.

James A. Harris, the defendant, gave evidence that he left the horses in charge of Wm. Welsh. His paddock was properly fenced, and he kept them there at night. Welsh put them in, and accidently turned the opening. He would refer their worships to section 222 of the Local Government Act.

Senior-constable Ellis—Did I understand you to say the horses were put in the paddock? Well and hearty.

Defendant—The night before the 13th, at about 7.30. I was away at the time.

The senior-constable—What size is the paddock?

Defendant—About 4 of an acre. He had five animals there, and there was a gate called in it. He fed his horses there every night, and did not graze them at all. The rails were in the posts with barbed-wire on top. The sliprails were wired on top, as the horses might know them from the posts with barbed-wire hung put there so that they could not get out.

To Mr Wotherspoon—Welsh told him he would drive them out next morning.

Senior-constable Ellis—Is there not any other way of securing a sliprail?

Defendant—There was none better than the way he did it.

The senior-constable—Don't you think you could bore a hole through the post and put a bolt and peg them in?

Defendant—He had holes bored at the ends, which Mr McDougall saw.

In answer to the bench, the senior-constable said he was asking witness to whether a slipral could be made secure by taking a little trouble.

Defendant—A peg was put in at each end of the slipraile every night. He had adopted another plan of making it a four-wire fence.

The senior-constable—Can you understand how the horses got out if the pegs were in properly?

Defendant—I cannot, but they got out.

The senior-constable—I hold that if the pegs were put in properly, the horses could not get out.

Defendant—Part of a horse's mane was on the barbed-wire. He had shown it to the herdsman.

Mr Wotherspoon—If the horses got out of the yard you say wandering.

Defendant—It was unfair for a man to be prosecuted who was really not guilty at all. There was no wilfulness. It seemed he was always getting into trouble.

Mr Wotherspoon—The horses were wandering, and there was nothing else to do.

Senior-constable Ellis—They were dealing with the 13th schedule. Defendant was not charged with wilfulness, if Mr Harris' excuse were taken that the rails were knocked down, any person could do it, and could swim the same excuse, and they would have no means of keeping cattle off the streets.

Defendant—He thought section 222 overcame that.

Mr Wotherspoon—Common sense said, "Put a gate there, and lock it." If such excuses were allowed there would be horses out, they could not do it if it were locked.

Senior-constable Ellis—Under the Police Offences Act wilfulness had to be shown, and the onus was upon the defendant here.

Defendant—Does not section 222 overcome that?

The senior-constable—The Council adopted the 13th schedule and by-law No. 11. They had nothing to do with section 222 at all.

After reading section 222, which refers to a stray, Mr Wotherspoon said they were not dealing with this at all. They were dealing with the 13th.

Subsequent to the two magistrates holding a consultation for a few seconds, Mr Wotherspoon said the bench considered they had no option but to fine defendant 5/ for each horse, with 6/ costs.

Harold George, who was similarly charged in regard to a cow found wandering in Cummins street on 18th Jany., was fined 5/ and costs.

Formal evidence was given by the senior-constable.

Hugh McDougall, sworn, stated that on 18th Jany. at 5 a.m. he found a cow in Cummins street; no person being in charge. He put it in the court yard, after Harold George took possession of it and said it was his property.

Hugh George, the defendant, stated on oath that he put the cow in a paddock next to his home on the evening of the 12th Jany. The gate was barred when he put her in, but when he got up in the morning, she was missing. He looked all over the common for her, and was coming to report the loss when he in the court yard Mr McDougall was coming from his home. The defendant asked him what time it was and he said "Half-past five," and he said, "Four o'clock in the morning." He then asked the herdsman where he got it, and Mr McDougall said, "Out of your back gate at home."

To Mr Wotherspoon—He did not know whether she got out, but she was shut in the paddock the previous night.

Mr Wotherspoon—You don't suppose anyone would open the gate? You are charged with being the owner.

In answer to Mr Smith, defendant said he would not continue similarly, if he was let off this time.

Hugh McDougall stated on oath that on 13th Jany. he found a cow in Walker street, with no person in charge. He put it in the court yard and interviewed Mr Patching, who said the cow was his property.

Mr Wotherspoon said that, considering it was defendant's first offence, the bench had decided to fine him 2/6, with 6/ costs.

IS THE EARTH ROUND?

It will scarcely be believed that the question of the shape of the earth could ever have disturbed the peaceful atmosphere of the Law Courts.

Yet in 1870 the question, in fact, if indeed, did come before three learned judges, and the case excited a good deal of interest and amusement. The circumstances were as follows:—

The plaintiff, one Hampden, on error, in opinion that the world was not round, and issued an advertisement, in a paper called "Scientific Opinion," challenging philosophers, divines, and scientific professors to prove the contrary from Scripture, reason or fact. He deposited £500 in a bank, to be forfeited to anyone who could prove to the satisfaction of any intelligent referee that there was such a thing as a convex railway, canal, or lake.

The challenge was taken up by no less a person than the late Professor Alfred Russell Wallace, who proved to the satisfaction of the referee the curvature to and from the Bedford Level Canal between Witney Bridge and Welsh's Dam (six miles) to the extent of five feet more or less, and the £500 was paid over to him.

But he did not keep it. The plaintiff apparently began to see that he was making a fool of himself, and brought an action, and recovered back his deposit, on the ground that the whole affair was a wager, and therefore illegal.

SURROUNDINGS THAT INSPIRE

It has been stated recently that drugs become a necessity to some people when seeking inspiration.

We would imagine that some of our famous novelists, however, have less harmful methods of stimulating imagination.

Mr. Jerome K. Jerome, for example, when thinking out a new plot wanders from room to room, apparently deeply interested in the clocks with which his house is provided.

Mr. E. F. Benson finds his ideas come more readily when playing or listening to music. Mr. W. W. Jacobs cannot work unless his desk is in apple-pie order, pens and pencils in symmetrical rows, and so on. Most of Mr. R. S. Hichens' novels are written in large hotels, the bustle of which he finds exhilarating.

When "composing," Mrs. C. N. Williamson must have pretty things to look at, which once induced a gallant interlocutor to remark that he presumed she kept a mirror on her desk.

There was a horse fair on in the village, and quite a number of carts and conditions of horses were being offered for sale. Every old crock in the district seemed to be there.

The auctioneer stood ready to begin business — which looked like being quality; but, as each lot came up with an aged steed, thin, gone in the knees, and walking on three legs, "Here we go" started the auctioneer, looking at the steed disgustedly.

"Fifteen pounds!" came the stolid reply.

The auctioneer looked pained and surprised.

"I want to know your price — not the weight of the animal!" he remarked.

USEFUL HEAVY RECKONER.

Every farmer should paste this table of weights in his pocket book.

One quarter equals 28lb.
Two quarters equal 56lb.
Three quarters equal 84lb.
One cwt. equals 1 bus. 2lb.
Two cwt. equal 2bus. 4lb
Three cwt. equal 3bus. 6lb.
Four cwt. equal 4 bus. 8lb.
Six cwt. equal 11bus. 12lb.
Seven cwt. equal 12bus. 14lb.
Eight cwt. equal 14bus. 0lb.
Nine cwt. equal 15bus. 2lb.
Ten cwt. equal 16bus. 4lb.
Eleven cwt. equal 20bus. 8lb.
Twelve cwt. equal 21bus. 0lb.
Thirteen cwt. equal 24bus. 16lb.
Fourteen cwt. equal 25bus. 8lb.
Fifteen cwt. equal 26bus.
Sixteen cwt. equal 30bus. 32lb.
Seventeen cwt. equal 31bus. 24lb.
Eighteen cwt. equal 32bus. 16lb.
Nineteen cwt. equal 33bus. 8lb.
One ton equals 37bus. 20lb.
Two tons equal 74bus. 40lb.
Three tons equal 112bus.
Four tons equal 149bus. 20lb.
Five tons equal 186bus. 40lb.
Six tons equal 224bus.
Seven tons equal 261bus. 20lb.
Eight tons equal 298bus. 40lb.
Nine tons equal 336bus.
Ten tons equal 373bus. 20lb.
Eleven tons equal 410bus. 40lb.
Twelve tons equal 448bus.
Thirteen tons equal 485bus. 20lb.
Fourteen tons equal 522bus. 40lb.
Fifteen tons equal 560bus.
Sixteen tons equal 597bus. 20lb.
Seventeen tons equal 634bus. 40lb.
Eighteen tons equal 672bus.
Nineteen tons equal 709bus. 20lb.
Twenty tons equal 746bus. 40lb.
Twenty-one tons equal 784bus.
Twenty-two tons equal 821bus. 20 lb., and so on.

Mr D. C McGrath, M.P., speaking on Wednesday night at the annual meeting of the Ballarat Branch of the Returned Soldiers' League, protested against the proposal to give military titles to men who were not professional soldiers. He had not one word to say personally against the men who served in the ranks of the military titles were applied. He said that it was a joke to talk of Australia dropped military titles, no matter, the Chinese were honeycombed with generals, colonels, captains, lieutenants, warrant officers, sergeants or corporals. The remarks of Mr McGrath were well received by the meeting.

"Do unto others as you would they should unto you" is a golden rule, and it would be well if we all put it into practice more frequently than we do. Many are apt to find the Government following the example of certain other members of the animal kingdom, and robbing the store. There are some bakers, for instance, who have bought flour largely at a business price from, but they now find themselves confronted with a demand from the Government for another 2½ per cent. on what they hold over five tons. It is all very confusing; but now that we are paying so high for Parliamentary talent, and presumably getting the best brains in the country, then it would be presumption to question the wisdom of it.

RETURNED SOLDIERS' LEAGUE.

Twenty members of the Ripon branch, R.S.S.I.L.A. were present at the monthly meeting at the Shire Hall, Beaufort, on Saturday night. Mr Gilbert Smith (president) occupied the chair.

CORRESPONDENCE.

From Ballarat district council, re supplying copies of minutes of State and district council meetings. The president reported that same had been brought up at a special council meeting. On motion of Messrs S. Young and E. S. Buchanan, copies are to be obtained.

From War Service Homes Commission, re applications for advances, and suggestion how applicants' interests could be protected in event of a refusal being necessary. Received.

From headquarters, re issue of a second length of defence tweed to members, and stating that maximum amount for widows and mothers of fallen soldiers was 5 yds., the maximum for a soldier being still 4 yds.—The secretary said the ballot for the 1920 issue had to be completed yet. The president—They should arrange to delight for another ballot. The matter was left in the hands of the committee, on motion of Messrs J. McDevitt and G. Wilson.

GENERAL BUSINESS.

Accounts amounting to £42/17/6 were passed for payment, on motion of Messrs W. Kay and F. Dooley.

The president said that at the last council meeting in Melbourne, it was proposed to call in the large badge and issue a smaller one of very neat design.

The secretary said he had had half-a-dozen enquiries as to whether the branch was getting any more ties.

Mr McLeod—If they took his advice, they would let ties alone at the present time.

The president—They had a slight loss on it last time, and if they fed his horses some trouble.

On motion of Messrs A. Vowles and H. McDougall, junr., the secretary was instructed to inquire, and if the price were satisfactory, obtain two more chests of ties.

The secretary—In the event of Mr Wallish not taking on the distribution, he would distribute it from the next meeting a working bee were held to pack it.

The other was accepted with thanks, on motion of Messrs McDougall and Vowles.

Mr Kay—Were the two jobs of looking after Trawalla given through the league?

The appointment of two caretakers of the estate by the Closer Settlement Board's inspector was then discussed in camera at considerable length.

The president—To show they should support their league, their objection to the proposed perpetual sale of Trawalla had carried weight, and it had been put under the bushes, although it did not realise quite as high a price as they expected.

Mr Vowles—Would it be too late to put a few firebreaks around the estate?

A voice—If a fire started, they had better get out and not wait to put it out.

The peg were put in properly, the horses could not get out.

Defendant—Part of a horse's mane was on the barbed-wire. He had shown it to the herdsman.

Mr Wotherspoon—If the horses got out of the yard you say wandering.

Defendant—It was unfair for a man to be prosecuted who was really not guilty at all. There was no wilfulness. It seemed he was always getting into trouble.

Mr Wotherspoon—The horses were wandering, and there was nothing else to do.

Senior-constable Ellis—They were dealing with the 13th schedule. Defendant was not charged with wilfulness, if Mr Harris' excuse were taken that the rails were knocked down, any person could do it, and could swim the same excuse, and they would have no means of keeping cattle off the streets.

Defendant—He thought section 222 overcame that.

Mr Wotherspoon—Common sense said, "Put a gate there, and lock it." If such excuses were allowed there would be horses out, they could not do it if it were locked.

Senior-constable Ellis—Under the Police Offences Act wilfulness had to be shown, and the onus was upon the defendant here.

Defendant—Does not section 222 overcome that?

The senior-constable—The Council adopted the 13th schedule and by-law No. 11. They had nothing to do with section 222 at all.

After reading section 222, which refers to a stray, Mr Wotherspoon said they were not dealing with this at all. They were dealing with the 13th.

Subsequent to the two magistrates holding a consultation for a few seconds, Mr Wotherspoon said the bench considered they had no option but to fine defendant 5/ for each horse, with 6/ costs.

Harold George, who was similarly charged in regard to a cow found wandering in Cummins street on 18th Jany., was fined 5/ and costs.

Formal evidence was given by the senior-constable.

Hugh McDougall, sworn, stated that on 18th Jany. at 5 a.m. he found a cow in Cummins street; no person being in charge. He put it in the court yard, after Harold George took possession of it and said it was his property.

Hugh George, the defendant, stated on oath that he put the cow in a paddock next to his home on the evening of the 12th Jany. The gate was barred when he put her in, but when he got up in the morning, she was missing. He looked all over the common for her, and was coming to report the loss when he in the court yard Mr McDougall was coming from his home. The defendant asked him what time it was and he said "Half-past five," and he said, "Four o'clock in the morning." He then asked the herdsman where he got it, and Mr McDougall said, "Out of your back gate at home."

To Mr Wotherspoon—He did not know whether she got out, but she was shut in the paddock the previous night.

Mr Wotherspoon—You don't suppose anyone would open the gate? You are charged with being the owner.

In answer to Mr Smith, defendant said he would not continue similarly, if he was let off this time.

Hugh McDougall stated on oath that on 13th Jany. he found a cow in Walker street, with no person in charge. He put it in the court yard and interviewed Mr Patching, who said the cow was his property.

Mr Wotherspoon said that, considering it was defendant's first offence, the bench had decided to fine him 2/6, with 6/ costs.

RAGLAN.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

There was a good muster of members at a meeting of the Raglan sports committee on Saturday night. It was reported that a good entry for all events had been received, and that, given fine weather, a good day's sport was anticipated. Mr R. Taylor's offer for the publican's booth was accepted, and Mr J. A. Blay's for the fruit and lolly stall. Mrs W. Johnston agreed to take the luncheon and afternoon tea booth. A company of Hall and Fitzpatrick's was secured to give an entertainment in the evening, and it was decided that a boil and supper would follow.

RAGLAN SPORTS.

The following are the handicaps for the Raglan sports, to be held on Monday, 31st January:

| | 100 yds. 11dcp. Yds. | 220 yds. 11dcp. Yds. |
|---|---|---|
| A. R. Lorch | 8 | 19 |
| H. Smith | — | 20 |
| A. McPherson | 8 | 24 |
| Reg. Robinson | 9 | 28 |
| W. Quigle | 10 | 25 |
| N. P. Dooney | 11 | 22 |
| L. Lenny | 12 | 26 |
| E. Pitcher | 13 | 26 |
| E. Stevenson | 13 | 26 |
| J. Fisher | 13 | 25 |
| S. Carey | — | 25 |

J. A. BATES, G. CUTHBERTSON, } Handicappers.

| | Underhand Secs. | S. Block Secs. |
|---|---|---|
| J. J. Dunn | — | 3 |
| W. Anderson | scr. | 3 |
| J. Crick | 12 | 15 |
| E. Broadbent | 12 | 15 |
| D. May | 15 | — |
| W. Stokes | 25 | 25 |
| H. Boyd | 20 | 25 |
| E. George | 25 | — |
| Gil. Smith | 25 | 25 |
| R. Gardiner | 25 | 25 |
| J. Quigle | 20 | 25 |
| C. Broadbent | — | 20 |
| H. Smith | 20 | — |

Handicappers.

| | Youths' Class. Secs. |
|---|---|
| Jack Davis | scr. |
| Reg. Herbert | 10 |
| W. Connor | 10 |
| H. Dunn | 10 |
| E. Boyd | 18 |

W. CONNOR, GEO. R. BOYD, } Handicappers

One-mile Bicycle Race.

| | Yds. |
|---|---|
| J. L. McErvale | 75 |
| H. F. Smith | 45 |
| R. Martin | 100 |
| R. Lilley | 160 |
| R. Martin | 120 |
| R. Crocker | 220 |
| J. S. S. Smith | 220 |
| J. L. Crick | 220 |

GEO. R. BOYD, HUGH F. SMITH, } Handicappers.

BALLARAT STOCK MARKET.

Tuesday.

Cattle—184 head of cattle were yarded for to-day's market. Competition was keen, and prices ruled at about equal to late rates. Quotations:—Prime bullocks, £20 to £22; good, £17 to £19; useful, £13 to £16; heat cows, £10 to £11/10/; good, £9 to £10; useful, £10 to £12. Calves—41 penned, mostly middling descriptions, a few nice quality; best sold at £13/5/. Sheep—A fair yarding, 5434 being penned. For prime quality competition was keen, and prices eased a little, but middling to fine sorts ruled about as to mand was good, and for such prices were a shade better than last week. Quotations:—Wethers, 25/ to 26/; good, 24/ to 27/; useful, 19/ to 21/; ewes—prime, 24/ to 26/; good, 22/ to 24/; useful, 17/ to 20/.

District sales:—11 sheep, Mr P. M. Ball, Raglan, crossbred wethers 28/6/; crossbred ewes 24/10; 100 comeback wethers, Messrs Osman Bros. (Streatham), to 24/10, averaging 23/2; 68 ewes, Mr J. L. Lenny, Raglan, crossbred wethers to 22/, comebacks 20/9 to 21/4, 71 lambs (shorn) 26/10 to 24/1, averaging 25/9; 2 crossbred ewes, Mr J. F. Sparrow, Snake Valley, 21/10 to 20/7, 58 shorn lambs 26/1 to 23/10, averaging 25/ for 56; purebred ewes, Mr L. Greenbank, Snake Valley, 23/ 1 of shorn lambs 29/7; 1 shorn cow, Mr R. F. Thompson, Skipton, £11; 4 woolly lambs, Mr D. Stewart, Wongan, 30/7.

BOWLS.

Keen interest has been taken in the first round of the Beaufort Bowling Club's single competition for "cuffs" for Mr A. Betheras' trophy. Several of the games were well contested, and particularly those between G. C. Bennett and J. F. O'Brien, and W. H. Halpin and D. Stevenson, in which the winners beat their opponents by very narrow margins. Following are results of the games:—

T. M. Bowe beat P. Kelly, 21—8; L. Walsh beat J. Day, 21—18; G. C. Bennett beat J. F. O'Brien, 21—20; R. Halpin beat T. Stewart, 21—11; R. H. Hamilton beat A. L. Wotherspoon, 21—15; Les. Miles beat G. J. McCaughey, 21—10; J. T. Ellis beat R. S. Seager, 21—14; Dr. G. A. Bedie beat Dr. S. E. Humphreys, 21—4; W. H. Halpin beat D. Stevenson, 21—20; N. H. Acton beat A. M. Parker, 21—9; E. J. Emery beat J. R. Wotherspoon, 21—6; E. J. Muntz beat A. Betheras, 21—8; D. Stevenson, G. H. Cougle, and T. W. Schlicht each had a walk-over, their opponents (J. W. Harris, A. H. Hughes, and J. A. Harris) forfeiting their games by non-attendance.

The draw for the second round is as follows:—Ties to be played off by Wednesday next:—E. J. Muntz v. W. J. Stevenson, T. W. Schlicht v. W. H. Halpin, L. Miles v. D. R. Hannah v. Dr. G. A. Eadie, L. Watkin v. E. J. Emery, R. Halpin v. T. B. Acton, T. M. Bowe v. G. C. Bennett, G. H. Cougle, a bye.

DEATH IN A TRAIN.

An old and well-known resident of the Beaufort district, in the person of Mrs Johanna Fitzpatrick, of Nerring, passed away suddenly on Thursday under very sad circumstances. She had been spending a month's holiday in Melbourne with one of her daughters, and was returning by the train which reaches Beaufort at midday, intending to break her journey at Burrumbeet to pay a visit to one of her sons (Mr Martin Fitzpatrick, who resides there. When the train was at Ballarat, the late Mrs Fitzpatrick (who had previously appeared in good health) became suddenly ill, but recovered and continued the journey. Later she again became very ill, and a doctor was sent for. Dr. G. A. Eadie, who was on the Beaufort platform when the train arrived. The patient, however, was beyond all human aid, having died between Ballarat and Burrumbeet. The body was removed to the residence of Mr Wm. Fitzpatrick (a son of deceased). The late Mrs Fitzpatrick, who was 86 years of age, and a remarkably active woman for her years, was a native of Ireland, and came out to Australia as a young woman. She was the relict of Mr Martin Fitzpatrick, who predeceased her some years ago. The deceased resided at Nerring for many years, and was a colonist of over 50 years' standing. She was of a generous, good-natured disposition, and made many friends, who will sincerely regret her death. She leaves a grown-up family of three sons and three daughters, to whom deep sympathy is felt. The death was reported to the Beaufort police, and by them to the district coroner (Mr W. W. Harris, P.M.), who referred it back to a local justice of the peace. Being satisfied from statements made by the police and his own personal knowledge that death was due to natural causes, Mr J. R. Wotherspoon, J.P., signed an order for burial. The remains of the deceased were interred in the Beaufort Cemetery yesterday (Friday) afternoon.

STACK MEASUREMENT.—To find the contents of an oblong stack with perpendicular sides, multiply the length by the average width (between bottom and eaves) and the product by the height from the ground to the eaves. For the top multiply the area at the eaves by half the height to the right. The weight may be ascertained very accurately by measuring the cubic contents of a truss, and from this calculating the height of a cubic foot.

The annual meeting of subscribers to the Beaufort Mechanics' Institute will be held on Monday evening, 14th February.

The position of High Commissioner for Australia in London still remains vacant. Mr and Mrs Pixley have been officially farewelled by the Australia House staff.

Judged by the experiences of the present season, the outlook for orchardists in Victoria is very enc

(COPYRIGHT.)

SUSPECTED.

BY F. P. RATHBUN.

SYNOPSIS OF PREVIOUS PARTS.

William Cayton and Robert Wincraft, summer visitors in the little town of Brookside, had met as strangers in the village hotel, and a spasmodic acquaintance had ensued. When our story opens they are strolling along enjoying the scenery, when suddenly their attention is aroused by a strange cry, which Cayton recognises as a secret signal for aid. Making a search they discover the dead body of a young woman beside a fallen tree. Lying near her dress is an Odd Fellow's badge. Leaving Wincraft in charge of the body, Cayton hurries away for help. Five miles from Brookside is the city of Seaboard, which dwells Mr. Millroe and his wife. The latter is very much younger than her husband and is jealous to see that she does not keep regard for Walter Waywood, her husband's private secretary, and she is much disturbed when informed that Waywood is about to be married to a certain Miss Ranlee. The reader is then introduced to a pair of village vagabonds who, after a night of drinking, are to find themselves in an old barn on the outskirts of the town. Peeping through a crack in the wall to see if the way is clear, one of them, Daniel Webster, utters an exclamation of surprise, and calls his friend, Sandy, to his side. They see a young man whom they recognise as one Eugene Murtis; he is carrying a gun, and from his actions they conclude he is up to no good. On reaching the town Dan and Sandy hear of the murder, and are sure in their own minds that Murtis is the assassin. They therefore determine to levy blackmail, and with that object in view Dan interviews Murtis. Mr. Murtis, thinking that the fellow is alluding to an exploit of his, quite foreign to the murder, gives Daniel Webster a couple of dollars to keep his mouth closed.

PART THREE.

CHAPTER V.—(Continued.)

Dan went from Murtis's room to Sandy, who was anxiously awaiting him, and made a formal accounting by giving him half of the money and all of the abuse and threats which he had received.

At first Sandy was inexpressibly disappointed at what he considered the disproportion of the money to the threats and abusive language, and was strongly inclined to suspect his coadjutor of giving him what he termed "the double cross." Indeed, he so charged him, in a phraseology which left no reasonable doubt of his sincerity.

However, Dan soon satisfied his suspicious friend that he was not only "square," but had been most judicious.

"In the first place, Sandy," said Dan, when his judgment as well as his honour had been questioned, "let me tell you that when that there Murtis is riled he's the savagest brute you ever see. He wouldn't think no more of fixing you an' me if we spoiled his game than he did of fixing somebody else" (Dan did not quite believe this, but in the interest of the integrity of the secret, he desired that Sandy should); "and he ain't the kind of a feller that you can bulldoze and make dance to your tune. I guess you'd ha' thought so if you'd ha' been up in his room. It looked one spell if he was goin' to make me walk turkey. His cheek! But, anyway, here's the point. I didn't want no big money NOW. You know it wouldn't lasted us a week, an' then we'd be broke again. Now, we can go to him any time an' get a dollar or two. Don't you see that in the end we'll git ten times as much, and we'll git it along as we need it."

Sandy began to see and approve.

"Oh, I ain't called Daniel Webster for nothin'," Dan resumed, boastingly. "I've fixed it so that we'll have money just about when we want it after this—see? I know Murtis; he is a big-hearted feller naturally; always tipping everybody what does anything for him, an' now we're fairly solid with him we'll git a dollar any time; an' when he's a little lushy 'long late in the night, as all the sports git now an' then, why, we'll get a 'V' just as easy as a plunk. You'll see!"

But all at once Sandy saw a new objection.

"Hold on!" he exclaimed. "You've run it all into the sand, after all. Can't you see he'll leave here in the fall, like all the rest, an' we won't see no more of him."

"There you're off again!" Dan returned, confidently. "I've thought of all that. He'll come back. I've heard him say at the Sundown more'n a score of times that Brookside had saved his life an' that he'd be here every summer unless he got cured, an' he didn't ever expect to see that done. You see," Dan explained, "he's got somethin' ailin' his lights, or his liver, or some darn tender thing or 'nother in him."

Sandy's last doubts were now removed, and he apologised for those he had raised. He fully ratified all of Dan's proceedings, and partook of that worthy's confidence in their well-provided future.

"It's just exactly," said Dan, "like gittin' a pension. It's a sure thing, all velvet, an' dead easy. Why, I know men that went to war, slept outdoors in the mud for three or four years, and only git four dollars a month. We'll git more'n that, an' without goin' to no blanky war, neither."

CHAPTER VI.

AT THE INQUEST.

The body found by Cayton and Wincraft at the oak grove was, on the morning after its discovery, identified as that of Marion Ranlee, a resident of Seaboard, an irreproachable maiden, who had left her father's house on the forenoon of her death, with no thought, as far as was known, of going out of the city, the same Marion Ranlee of whose marriage engagement to Walter Waywood a rumour had come, two weeks before, to disturb the serenity of Mr. and Mrs. Millroe.

On the day fixed for the inquest, the coroner's inquest on the remains, the little town hall of Brookside was filled to its full capacity by an anxious crowd of people, who were in waiting to the evidence. There were a number of persons present from Seaboard, some who had been subpoenaed by the coroner to testify, and others who were there as friends of the deceased. Among the latter class was one who, when the relation which he had borne to the dead girl came to be whispered about, became the object of general observation. This was Herbert Glenmont, who had been the accepted lover of Miss Ranlee, until he had been discarded by her to favour the suit of Walter Waywood.

He was a well appearing, earnest-looking man, apparently thirty-two or thirty-three years old, considerably older than Miss Ranlee, and the senior of his rival by a half dozen years. He was rather tall and large-boned, with no superfluous flesh. His complexion was dark, and his eyes so dark that at a little distance they looked to be black. He was an earnest, thoughtful-looking man, and quite the opposite, in appearance, of his rival, who was of light complexion, medium height, had blue eyes, and a tendency to be stout. To increase the difference between the men, Glenmont was somewhat careless of his dress, while Waywood was particular of his. Although they both appeared to be agreeable gentlemen, yet their dissimilarity was so striking that it was difficult to conceive upon what theory of selection the same woman, within one year of her life, could have loved each of them.

Glenmont seemed much affected by the occasion, and listened to the evidence with strained attention, and, either from indifference or unconsciousness, did not appear to notice that he, more than another, was an object of interest to those about him.

The hearing was dragging itself slowly along while the circumstances already before the reader were being put in evidence. Cayton had testified to the facts within his knowledge, and returned to his seat, where he was feeling somewhat bored by listening to a repetition of his own testimony by Wincraft, who was then on the witness-stand when, at the suggestion of Frank Lenfair, who had accompanied him from Seaboard, and between whom and himself there existed a close friendship of long standing, he and his friend left the crowded and ill-ventilated hall for a short walk in the open air.

Lenfair, who had very little of his companion's sedate and dignified appearance, was somewhat younger than Cayton, was, like him, a bachelor, and also, like him, a merchant, although one of only moderate means, and hence doing a business which in volume was insignificant when compared with that done by Cayton's firm. As they walked they fell into a conversation concerning the men who had been lovers of the dead girl, a part of which is given here for what light it may furnish the reader in forming conclusions touching two persons of the first importance to this narrative. The subject was introduced by Lenfair, who said:

"Will, carefully recall the appearance of the two lovers, the accepted and the rejected one, and tell me which of them takes this murder the most to heart."

"That is a difficult thing to do," Cayton returned. "It is hard to judge of the depths of a mourner's sorrow by his conduct at the funeral, the visible evidence of grief is so much a matter of temperament.

"True," Lenfair rejoined. "But this is not quite a funeral, nor are the motives which may be supposed to control the behaviour of these two persons identical with those influencing a mourner at a funeral. For these lovers might be expected, it seems to me, to repress their feelings while in the presence of a miscellaneous crowd, who are more inclined to criticise than to sympathise; especially should this be true of the rejected one. So that, as there is no apparent reason to suspect a forced appearance of grief, there seems to be a fair opportunity to judge of their sorrow by the differences with which the two men are affected by the murder of the woman they loved. What a pity it is, Will, that every woman who has to decide between two lovers could not possess a sort of second sight that would enable her, before making her decision, to see the effect which her sudden death, were it to occur, would have on them. So many men of twenty-five and upward love for the fun of the thing, or for convenience, or for almost any insufficient reason, or even for no reason at all; just loaf along into it, as you might say, without knowing or caring much why or wherefore. But what do you say? Did the dead girl most love the lover who loved her most?"

"Well," Cayton answered thoughtfully, "I don't know. It affects them very differently; that is quite sure. It seems to me that the one whom I should expect to feel it the least—the discarded one — really is the more deeply grieved."

"I agree with you," Lenfair responded. "His appearance here at all—I understand he is not a witness—involving a willingness to face this crowd in the role of a cast-off suitor, is pretty good evidence that the sentiments he professed actually existed, don't you think so?"

"It surely is," said Cayton. "And now, how about the successful wooer, Lenfair?"

"Well," Lenfair began, somewhat doubtfully, "he seems to feel bad, of course, and wears a lugubrious countenance, but his sorrow seems perfunctory. There is an entire absence of the acute interest in the proceedings so conspicuous in the manner of the other. Waywood, in short, acts as though he were here from necessity instead of choice and would be glad it it was all over."

"Then," said Cayton, inquiringly, "your opinion is that——"

"The girl made a mistake."

"I am afraid so," Cayton assented. "But, however that may be, Mr. Glenmont must need be a brave man, morally as well as a sincere one, to pursue the course he takes; and I honour him. I shall be glad if, before he goes away, we may have the opportunity to let him know that at least one man in the world understand and respect him."

The contrast in the behaviour of the two lovers was, indeed, striking. While both, evidently, were deeply affected Waywood seemed the more distressed, and—unlike Glenmont, who, apparently oblivious of himself, keenly watched the legal proceedings—was passive, and appeared to be conscious that he was unpleasantly conspicuous before the people.

Cayton and Lenfair soonest returned to the hall and again became part of the audience. The hearing consumed nearly the entire day, only to result in general disappointment; for its object—the detection of Marion Ranlee's slayer—was not attained.

It was proved that on the day of her death she left her home in Seaboard at half past ten o'clock in the morning, with the avowed purpose of spending the remainder of the day with a lady-friend of hers, who lived in a distant part of the city; but that for some unexplained reason, she never reached her friend's residence. She had not been recognised upon the streets of either Seaboard or Brookside; nor could it be ascertained by what means she had reached the place of her death. Inquiries had been made of every known friend of hers. Railroad trainmen and street-car conductors, who ran between Seaboard and Brookside, as well as every livery stable keeper in each of those places had been examined — all to no purpose. So far as the evidence showed, she might have been transported to the scene of her death by magic. No person could be found who had seen her alive after the moment when the door of her home was closed behind her in the morning; from that instant she seemed to have become invisible.

This mystery, however, was no greater than that in which the motive of her slayer was involved.

It was shown by the evidence of the surgeons, who were sworn as experts, that death had resulted from a stab or wound in the heart, inflicted by a poniard or by some other sharp instrument. As her watch and money and such other valuables as she had when she left home were on the body, the theory of robbery as a motive for the crime was disapproved; and, as she had not a known enemy in the world, the mystery of her death was as dark when the jury retired to frame their verdict that Marion Ranlee had died at the hand of some person or persons to them unknown, as it was to Cayton and Wincraft when, looking over the fallen tree in the oak grove, they saw the corpse of a young woman lying on the leaves.

* * * *

At the close of the hearing, Glenmont approached Wincraft and, having introduced himself and explained that he had been a friend of Miss Ranlee, said that he would like to be allowed to ask a question or two about the alarm which led to the finding of the body — a subject concerning which the witnesses had not been pressed at the inquest. Wincraft who, like Cayton and Lenfair, had heard of Glenmont's relation with the deceased, and, who, like them, felt interested in him, cheerfully offered any information he possessed; and when, after some little conversation, Glenmont expressed his intention to visit the scene of the tragedy, and asked for directions by which he could find the place, he volunteered to serve as guide.

This proposal having been promptly accepted, they started to leave the room, when Wincraft stopped and suggested that perhaps Mr. Cayton would accompany them. Glenmont answered that as his purpose was to gain information, he should be glad of the presence of the other witness to the finding of the body, if he were inclined to take so long a walk to oblige a stranger. Whereupon Wincraft made his way to the place where the two friends were sitting with others who were waiting for the verdict, and, having addressed Cayton on the subject, found him very willing to go—as a mark of the consideration he felt and had expressed to Lenfair for Glenmont. Lenfair having accepted an invitation to join them, the four walked out of the village by the route taken by two of them on the day on which the story opens.

Cayton and Wincraft conducted the party along the familiar trout-stream even stopping to explain the manner in which they had amused themselves on the former occasion by watching the flight of the frightened trout; and when they arrived at the point at which they had heard the cry for help they halted and repeated the story. They told of their uncertainty of the place from which the sound came, and of their excitement while fearing that they should be too late to render assistance; then, pointing out the oaks far up the hill, they led the way, as nearly as their recollection permitted, along the same tortuous paths by which they had made the ascent.

At last the grove was reached. Cayton showed the exact place where the body lay, briefly told how he and Wincraft had arrived, exhausted by running; where they had stopped for a moment to rest, and how they had first seen the dead girl lying on the ground. Although Glenmont had heard at the inquest a detailed account of the finding of the body with no exhibition of emotion, now that it was repeated on the spot where Marion's tender form was found, still warm and bleeding, and while he was surrounded by the objects in the presence of which the terrible tragedy was acted, he became painfully agitated. For a time he struggled against the surging current of his feelings, but at last he sat down upon the fallen tree and wept. But even then he bore himself as he had done at the inquest; that is, without seeming to consider or to care whether his behaviour was the subject of ridicule or sympathy. He was not disconcerted, as the man usually is who is betrayed into tears in the presence of those not affected by the subject of his grief. Nor did he apologise for his weakness; but when he dried his eyes he simply said:

"Gentlemen, I should not mention it, did I not suppose that you had already heard the story, but it is true that I was once the accepted lover of Marion Ranlee. It may surprise you to hear that I loved her even after she discarded me; but I did, and now that she is dead I regard her memory as sacred, and this spot as consecrated ground. I shall do what I can to solve this mystery and bring her murderer to justice. I admit that the undertaking seems most difficult, but at least it may be attempted."

Curious to know what his theory of the crime was, Lenfair inquired what he supposed the motive of the assassin to have been.

"I don't know," he answered. "All the usual motives for murder seem to be absent. It could not have been robbery, for no valuables were taken. She had no enemy known to her friends. It is impossible to imagine her as engaged in a quarrel in which her opponent used a knife. Moreover, you say there was no evidence of a struggle excepting that furnished by the broken watch-chain, and the chain, as you have seen, is a delicate affair which might have been broken by accident or by her fall after she was stabbed."

"How do you imagine," Lenfair again asked, "that she could have got to this place without being seen by many people, some one of whom could have been found to testify to the fact before the coroner?"

"Why, I suppose she must have come by one of the usual routes—either by train or street-car. At this time of year people are coming and going by every train and car in considerable numbers, singly and in parties. Brookside is full of strangers, and a woman with nothing conspicuous in her appearance or behaviour would attract little attention. It is simply that, whether alone or not, she did not happen to be noticed."

"Yes," Cayton said, "I believe you may be right. A stranger thing is the motive for the murder: and the strangest of all is that her murderer should have been so insanely indiscreet as to pin upon her dress his own society emblem, and then, by the most powerful means known to language, summon aid, both acts imperiling his own safety. I earnestly hope that some day the truth may be known. But, gentlemen," he added, "we must think of returning; it will very soon be dark."

At this they started to leave the grove, with Glenmont a step or two in the rear of the party and Lenfair next in front of him. They had walked a dozen yards, and were passing along the path close to the bushes by its side, when Lenfair, having his attention attracted by a rustling in the leaves behind him, looked back and saw Glenmont standing a yard or so inside of the thicket and holding something in his hands.

"What have you there?" he asked in surprise.

"It is a dagger—a poniard!" exclaimed Wincraft, who had looked back when Lenfair spoke. "That must be the weapon," he added, in some excitement, "with which the murder was committed. Where did you find it, Mr. Glenmont? Mr. Cayton and I hunted this ground all over, but we didn't see it."

Glenmont stepped back into the path, while they all gathered around him. He held up for their inspection a small poniard. The blade was diamond-shaped, though of so very flat a pattern that it had but two edges. It was handsomely made, but the glitter of its steel was dulled by some dark substance which had dried on its surface. They knew it was blood.

"I saw it through an opening in the bushes," Glenmont explained, "by the merest accident, as I was walking along, and thought I would see what it was, but I didn't think of its being this."

It was, indeed, the weapon that had caused that unfortunate girl's death. It had been overlooked in the search made by Wincraft and Cayton, to be thus discovered by Glenmont. After a little they resumed their way, discussing the crime with awakened interest, and canvassing the probabilities of the identification of the murderer through the possession of the poniard.

When they arrived at the village Glenmont left the others before they reached the hotel where they were to stop until train time. His companions shook hands with him cordially, and wished him success in his self-imposed task of avenging the dead girl; and as he walked away from them Cayton declared:

"There goes an honest, manly fellow!" A sentiment to which the others heartily assented.

It is necessary at this point to return for a few minutes to the inquest, and observe the proceedings of Dan and Sandy, who, before the close of the hearing, believed they had made a discovery of importance.

The cronies occupied good places in the hall, and attended to what was being said and done with an interest no less intent than that of their more respectable neighbours. They critically examined all those who seemed to have any connection with the deceased, and compared the results of their observation in cautious tones. All at once Dan became unusually alert. He looked sharply at one of the strangers from Seaboard, and then nudging Sandy with his elbow, said to him, in an excited whisper:

"Look at the rooster by the window that is watchin' the witnesses so sharp."

"Bull-fighter?" Sandy asked, referring to a gentleman wearing a red necktie.

"No; next to him."

"All right," Sandy answered. "I've got him."

"It's his Nibs—with Murtis!" Dan whispered.

"Sure's—you—live!" Sandy returned, now equally excited.

"He's shaved off his moustache and changed his clothes since we see him on the Lake Road," Dan added, "to disguise himself."

Sandy looked and was satisfied that his friend was right. His astonishment was too great to find expression in a whisper, and as he couldn't very well swear where he was, he sat staring at the man and nodding his head affirmatively, but unconsciously.

"Stop that noddin'!" Dan whispered. "Do you want the whole blessed town on to us?" A second later he added: "I should have known him at first, if he hadn't been and gone and disguised himself. I knew I'd seen him somewhere, though I couldn't tell where; but I spotted him finally. He's the man, sure!"

"Let's ask the deputy-sheriff at noon who he is," Sandy suggested.

"Oh, yes, we'll ask the sheriff," returned Dan, ironically, "an' have 'im firin' questions at us. Next thing'll happen we'll get s'poen'ed as witnesses, an' then you'll see our pension go to Hades" (Dan didn't say Hades but that is what he meant) "I should think yer 'ead 'ud ache, Sandy, after gittin' up such a beautiful scheme as that to ruin us!"

Sandy meekly admitted his friend's superior acumen, and withheld any further advice for the time.

At the noon adjournment, Dan followed the crowd along the street, looking for some one from whom to get the wished-for information concerning "his Nibs." Seeing a young man of Brookside, who was a frequenter of the Sundown, he stepped to his side and asked respectfully:

"Mr. Brace, who's the duck ahead there—him in the black clothes—walkin' alone?"

"He was one of the dead girl's lovers, Dan," was the answer, "and his name is Herbert Glenmont."

A moment later Dan was with his friend Sandy.

"Sandy," said he, "this thing is gittin' interestin'. His Nibs' name is Herbert Glenmont, an' he was the dead girl's lover."

"Why, what," Sandy demanded in amazement, "is he killin' her for?"

But Dan did not know.

By this it will be seen that the opinion of Cayton and his friends concerning Glenmont would not have been endorsed by Dan and Sandy. It is evident that one party or the other was mistaken. As it was exceedingly easy to be mistaken on a question of the identity of persons, very likely it may have been Dan and Sandy; but, then, too, as it is not difficult to misjudge character, it is just as likely to have been Cayton and his friends.

CHAPTER VII.

A WOMAN WITH REGRETS.

Mrs. Millroe did not like to leave the country for so long an absence as her trip abroad was to embrace, without having once more seen a very dear and confidential friend of hers who lived at a distance. Therefore, at her invitation, two weeks before the date fixed for her departure, and about the same time after the death of Marion Ranlee, she was made exceedingly happy by the arrival of Mrs Clara Bellwin, who had come for a visit for a week, to wish her good-bye.

As Clara Bellwin will be an important figure in the events to follow, she is fairly entitled to enough of the readers time to permit her acquaintance to be made. She was, then, at the time of this visit, a resident of a distant city, but all her life prior to her marriage had been spent in Seaboard. She and Mrs. Millroe had been school-friends, and that friendship, unlike most of its class, had out-lived their school-days, and had continued down to this time.

Clara Bellwin at twenty had married for love, had been married now for four years, and the deduction that she drew from her married experience was that she had most decidedly made a mistake—a mistake that she felt fully determined not to repeat if she should unfortunately be left a widow.

The circumstances which led to the mistake were that a wealthy man—no less a person, indeed, than the reader's acquaintance, Mr. William Cayton, who had had his romance, as would hardly be suspected—had fallen in love with Mrs. Bellwin, when she was Miss Stetson, and had offered her his name and fortune. It so happened that at the same time, John Bellwin, a young man of prepossessing appearance, but with no wealth, who was then in the city, studying for the profession of dentistry, had also become enamoured of her, and, as she could readily see, was just on the point of offering her his hand and the fortune he expected to make.

Miss Stetson returned the student's passion, and very properly believing that love in a cottage was by all odds preferable to life in a palace where love was not, refused the rich man, and was rewarded the very next day by Mr. Bellwin's proposal, which she promptly accepted, and was glad of the chance.

Immediately upon their marriage they removed to their present home, where Mr. Bellwin had since practiced his profession with indifferent success. As humourists have it, his business "looked down in the mouth" in more senses than one, and his wife became satisfied that love in a cottage had its drawbacks. It had been a love-match, but the love had not, somehow, lasted in her case, while the match had.

Such were Mrs. Bellwin's situation and sentiments when she came all the way to Seaboard to take an affectionate farewell of her friend and confidante, who was about to intrust herself to the perilous embrace of perfidious Neptune. As she looked about her and saw the many luxurious appurtenances with which the rich man's wife was surrounded and compared them with the equipments of her own modest home, she became envious; and it aggravated her envy to think that her friend had exercised what she now believed to have been superior judgment in marrying, while she herself had been such a ninny.

"Really, my dear, an absolute ninny!" she declared to Mrs. Millroe, to whom she did not hesitate to confide her dissatisfaction, the two being deep in each other's confidence, for in this particular, too, their relations had not materially changed since their schooldays. "Just to think," she lamented, one day, as she sat in her friend's parlours, where the rich surroundings made it difficult for her to keep her mind from the subject of her youthful error—"just to think of my refusing Mr. Cayton, with all his money, to marry John, without a dollar! Oh, dear, what a fool a girl can be at twenty."

"But you have one consolation, Clara," said Mrs. Millroe, who, herself being comfortable and well satisfied, could easily act the philosopher's part, "and one that must go a very great way toward making you contented—that is: John is a kind and considerate husband."

"Oh, yes," Clara replied, "he is as agreeable as a man can be expected to be who is always pressed for coin. There is a great difference, Jessie, in the temper of a man who is rich, has everything he wants and is the envy of half the world, and one who, if not actually harassed by creditors, is obliged to live within very limited means, or he would be, and who must deny himself and his family a thousand and one things which they want and, perhaps, need. I know there must be an immense difference, yet I have no complaint to make against John; he is a bear half the time, of course; but so, I suppose, are all of the men."

"It is too bad, Clara, that you are unhappy, and I am very sorry," her confidante said, sympathetically.

"If I only could have had your sense, Jessie!" Clara continued regretfully. "But I thought I loved John. Of course, I did, and do yet, for that matter, and could never care for anybody else. Where I was a fool was in not knowing that I could have liked Mr. Cayton just as well as I do John. Why, I supposed we should always be just crazy for each other as we were then; that I should go through life clinging to John—actually clinging, you know; that he should always want to have his arms around me, just as he did then, and that we should be as happy as two kittens. Yes, I did! I imagined that I should count the minutes when he was at his office, and that he would nearly break his neck in hurrying home at the close of business hours. Oh, dear! I had it bad! And I didn't know much, did I? Don't laugh, Jessie; I was in earnest, if ever a girl was in the world. But I have one satisfaction, and that is, most of the girls are no wiser. You were an exception; you knew something. But, then, you were older when you were married."

"Why, Clara," said Mrs. Millroe, remonstrating against the inference which was to be drawn from her companion's closing remark, "I loved Mr. Millroe, else I shouldn't have married him."

"Of course, I know that," was the apparently sincere answer (in her heart she didn't believe a word of it). "And he is nice. But—now you won't be offended, Jessie?—with the difference in your ages, while you could and do like him and respect him and think lots of him and all that, yet you couldn't go crazy over him and just want to smother him. Could you, dear? Now, honestly?"

"Clara," Mrs. Millroe asked, evading the question, "how you talk! Did you want to smother John?"

"Of course, and I nearly did. But, goodness, the poetry all got knocked out of things in a little while! Jessie, love seems to be a kind of mental excitement or disturbance, a good bit like a fit of sickness—only you don't feel so bad, unless things go wrong, then you feel worse—which you get over in time. When I was married I didn't know a good many things which I have since found out. This is why I thought that there was such a great difference, so far as the personal relations were concerned, between marrying John, whom I was bewitched after, and Mr. Cayton, whom I only respected and admired."

"Clara, with your opinions, you are a dangerous woman. I am almost afraid of you," her friend returned, jestingly.

"Because I tell the truth? Oh, well I only tell it to you, you know; and as you are married, it can do no harm."

The foregoing conversation serves to show what the relations were between Mrs. Millroe and her guest, and what the sentiments of the latter were, as well as what they were likely to be in the case of her being widowed—an event which was to happen. But it must not be supposed that she talked to any one else so unreservedly of her private affairs and convictions. On the contrary, she was ordinarily discreet. It was an old habit of hers to confide in her friend Jessie, as did Jessie largely in her; for their faith in each other's ability to keep a secret had been justified in the past. Mrs. Bellwin's visit passed off pleasantly, and just before her friend was to sail, after a tearful parting, she returned to her humble home.

(To be Continued.)

Save the vinegar left over from pickles. It is better than ordinary vinegar for salad dressing.

To curl feathers, allow them to become almost dry, then shake before a fire till the fronds curl.

PAINT ON THE FARM.

One who speaks from experience says:—"The trouble with many is that they look upon the use of paint on the farm as a luxury. They say they do not care to bother with mere ornaments. They have not yet realised that paint is an absolute necessity. It brightens up everything about the place, but that is only one of the benefits. It is sanitary. The use of paint adds to the cleanliness of everything it covers. Painted surfaces are much easier to keep clean, and the coating of paint keeps out disease germs that imbibed themselves in unpainted wood. It is a preservative, too."

Paint adds years to the life of everything on which it is used. A little money, time, and labour expended in painting the buildings and implements of the farm is an investment that pays. The average life of a new barn is about 25 years, whereas by the use of good paint it can be preserved twice that time. So may the life of a waggon be increased from six to sixteen years by painting it regularly and keeping it under cover when not in use. Harvesting machinery, such as binders, seldom run longer than about seven years. The reason for this short life is that the average farmer never thinks of painting it to preserve the wood from decay and the iron from rust, and often leaves it out in all kinds of weather.

The actual cost of the paint is the least item. The labour is the most. Hence it is poor economy to spend money, time and labour in putting on a cheap paint that will soon come off. Poor paint will crack and scale, making unsightly blotches and leaving the wood exposed to the weather. Poor paint may be cheap at first, but proves mighty expensive in the end. Brushes should have good care. Some keep them from drying out overnight by wrapping in several thicknesses of paper, while others keep them in oil, and some even in water. If the brush is not to be used for several days the paint should be well washed out. This can be done best with turpentine, but as this is pretty expensive, coal oil may be used and followed with soapy water. The brush should then be well shaken out and hung up to dry.

Brush the paint in thoroughly. Work it into the pores so that it will take hold and hang. Merely glossing over the surface is not sufficient.

Keep the paint in the bucket well stirred. Be sure to get enough paint. Any left over will keep if covered with oil, and there is always use for a little paint around the farm.

Do not try to paint when the surface is damp, dirty or greasy. It should be clean, dry and smooth. Putty up nail holes, cracks and other places just after applying the priming coats. It is better to put on two thin coats than one thick one.

THE DAIRY

BETWEEN ONE COW AND ANOTHER.

Two cows stand side by side in the stable. To both cows the same ration is fed; yet one will extract from that food as much again butter-fat as the other. The butter product of the food is 100 per cent. greater with one cow than the other. This fact is seen in too great frequency in all herds of cows.

What is that inner quality whereby one cow can produce so much more than the other from the same food? It is hard to find the right name for it, but it may be called "dairy quality."

Now, certain breeds of cattle are distinguished for this quality. They have the power to accomplish this work in greater proportion and perfection, by reason of having been bred to that purpose from long lines of ancestors of like quality.

One would think that there would not be a dairy farmer in the land who would not be keenly alive to the necessity and economy of using such cattle for dairy purposes. As soon, we think, he would cut hay with a reaper and call it the best way.

But the so-called "general purpose" notion has destroyed in not a few men the power to look into this question in an economical way. They seem to be unable to take the same advantage in their choice of cow machinery that they do in choosing their mechanical machinery.

They cannot be fooled into taking a plough for a cultivator; yet thousands of farmers will spend their lives in trying to make cows of bad breeding do dairy work. If they were close students of "cause and effect," they would not be beguiled this way.

Why should not a farmer be a close student of cause and effect?—Hoard's Dairyman.

TO CLEAN A DISCOLOURED COPPER KETTLE.

Wash the kettle in strong soap suds with soda, and let it stand in this for a couple of hours. Then take some fine coal ash (sift the ash) mixed with paraffin into a paste, and with it scour the kettle. This treatment will soon make the copper as bright as when new.

TO KEEP MIRRORS CLEAN.—Wash the mirror over with a soft rag dipped in very blue water. If this is done once or twice a week, the glass will always be unspotted and clear.

A VERY GOOD FLOOR POLISH.—Half a pint of turpentine, two ounces of beeswax and half an ounce of soft soap. Shred the beeswax into the turpentine and stand overnight. Then pour in half-pint of boiling water, and stir till nearly cold. This will keep well if kept in a closed tin.

When knitting stockings or socks it will be found that they will last twice as long if a strand of silk or thread be knitted into the toes and heels together with the wool.