SANDRIDGE SAILORS' REST.

THE Twenty-fifth Annual Meeting of the Mission and Rest was held in the Rooms of the Young Men's Christian Association, Russell-street, Melbourne, on the 15th August, 1882. The large hall was filled with the friends of the Mission.

In the absence of the Mayor, Alderman Ham, J.P. (who, in apologising for his absence by an unexpected engagement, sent a donation of £5 5s.,) Mr. A. J. Smith occupied the chair. After prayer by the Rev. E. I. Watkin, the Chairman delivered an interesting address.

Reports were then read as follows:—Report of Mission, by Mr. H. R. Reid; Treasurer's Report, by Captain McCallum; Report of Rest, by Mr. A. B. Johnston; Chaplain's Report, by Rev. Kerr Johnston.

The Rev. Robt. Scott, M.A. (Chalmers' Church,) moved the first resolution, viz. :—

“That the Reports now read be adopted and printed for circulation amongst the Subscribers.”

The motion was seconded by the Rev. E. I. Watkin (Wesleyan,) and carried unanimously.

The second resolution was proposed by the Rev. J. H. Mullens (Church of England,) as follows:—

“That a special vote of thanks be awarded to the ladies so long and honourably connected with this Mission, and that the following be the Committee for the ensuing year :”—

Ladies' Committee.—Mrs. J. M. Templeton, President; Mrs. J. C. Campbell, Mrs. Danne, Mrs. Dove, Mrs. Elworthy, Mrs. Embling, Mrs. Gourlay, Mrs. J. D. Gowan, Mrs. R. Johnston, Mrs. Shann, Mrs. W. H. Smith, Mrs. Webb, Miss Donaldson, Miss Hastie, Miss Webb.

Gentlemen's Committee.—Captain Adams, Captain Dalgarno, Captain D. McCallum, J.P.; Captain J. Smith, Captain R. Warden, and Messrs. D. Beath, J. Griffiths, H. R. Reid, J.P.; and A. J. Smith. Rev. Kerr Johnston, Chaplain.

This was seconded by the Rev. W. Moss (Congregational,) and carried by acclamation.

On the motion of Mr. Douglas (Quarter-Master, ship Lord Warden), seconded by Captain Patching, an enthusiastic vote of thanks was awarded to the Chairman, Speakers, and Choir, and also to Mr. Hugh R. Reid, for their services. Special mention was made of the delightful singing of some of the pupils of the Asylum and School for the Blind, who, by the courtesy of the Superintendent, the Rev. W. Moss, contributed to the great success of the gathering.

A collection was taken up during the evening, which, with subsequent subscriptions received, resulted in the whole of the deficiency in the Funds of the Sailors' Rest being wiped off.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE
OF THE
VICTORIAN SEAMEN'S MISSION,
FOR THE YEAR ENDING 30TH JUNE, 1882.

THE Committee of the Seamen's Mission have the pleasure of again meeting their supporters with a satisfactory statement of the work carried on during the past year.

The Report of the venerable Chaplain, the Rev. Kerr Johnston, who has been actively and continuously connected with the Mission since its establishment twenty-five years ago, will show how fully his time has been occupied in ministering to the spiritual wants of his seafaring "Parishioners," who crowd our wharves month after month.

The importance of the duty committed to Mr. Johnston's care will be at once apparent on reference to the Official Statistics of the Customs Department, which state that the number of ships which arrived in Melbourne during 1881 was 1604, manned by 49,321 seamen.

For several years past it has been the desire of the Committee to appoint an Assistant to the Chaplain, so that his great work may be systematically carried out, but the want of funds has prevented them from undertaking the additional responsibility.

The total expenses of the Mission do not average more than £300 per annum, nearly all of which has been collected through the agency of the Ladies' Committee, and if these self-denying workers declined to continue their honorary services, it is highly probable that the Mission would cease to exist.

The Committee have to acknowledge, with many thanks, the donation of forty Bibles, as a free gift to seamen, from the Brighton Bible Society, per Mrs. Webb and Mr. W. H. Hunt.

At the last Annual Meeting the Committee had to deplore the loss of their much-respected President, Mrs. Lush. The vacancy thus caused was filled by the unanimous election of Mrs. J. M. Templeton.

At no previous period in the history of "Dear old England, the mother of us all," have the bravery and enterprise of her hardy mariners been of more importance to the progress of the greatest empire that the world has ever seen.

We rejoice that this day nearly 250,000 sailors in Great Britain s Royal and Merchant Navy are engaged in carrying the national flag to the remotest portions of the earth's circumference; but surely some responsibility rests upon this maritime community in connection with the Gospel of our common Christianity, so that through the instrumentality of this Seamen's Mission there shall be held up to the gaze of every friendless sailor visiting our shores—Jesus, the Saviour of the World; Christ, the hope of distracted humanity.

15th August, 1882.

THE CHAPLAIN'S REPORT.

As we are borne on so rapidly in time, and now complete the twenty-fifth year of our Seamen's Mission, the thought naturally arises—wherefor has it all been? We have not gone unsent. The Gospel is for every creature, and God is no respecter of persons, whether landsmen or seamen. But as seamen are necessarily deprived of many religious advantages, and so exposed to natural and moral dangers, it becomes our duty to reach them with whatever Christian appliances are within our power. And this special claim is the origin of Seamen's Churches and Missions, Sailors' Rests, and such like.

During the past year our work has gone on with considerable success and encouragement. The attendance of seamen, on the whole, at our Bethel Chapel in Sandridge, has never been so large. It is my habit to visit ships on arrival, and to invite their crews to our services; but less of pressing invitation seems now to be necessary than formerly. God graciously gives the disposition, and one encourages another to attend, and no hearers anywhere are more generally attentive than sailors. The presence of residents in the place also encourages them to attend; and the lively singing frequently of Sankey's and other hymns is also an attraction to the Gospel. From subsequent conversation with many sailors, by myself and others assisting, we are frequently cheered by the hope of one and another receiving salvation by Christ. Meetings on week evenings have been held generally twice a week, sometimes as prayer meetings, and sometimes for addresses by young men; and these have been often well attended, and with happy results. Several Free Teas have also been given during the year to sailors. The means for these have generally been supplied by Christian friends. Their object has been to present the friendly and social character of religion. On such occasions there have been short addresses and testimonies by visitors and seamen, together with solo and united suitable Christian singing. Several shipmasters have taken part at such meetings, and also by Gospel addresses on Lord's days.

Total Abstinence has also received attention; many sailors and others having taken the pledge. With this we generally combine Christian counsel and prayer. Drinking and other evils have called into existence Sailors' Rests in many Ports, and ours in Sandridge being immediately connected with the Bethel, each tends to promote the interests of the other and I trust will continue to do so. There being only a door between the two places the attendance at the Bethel has been promoted by the Sailors' Rest while the latter has some Christian influence from the former.

A large and successful Sabbath-school meets in the Bethel every Sunday afternoon and a Sailors' Bible-class is taught in the Sailors' Rest at the same time. Services on board ships at the piers have sometimes been held by one of our helpers, and I trust with good results.

These and other occasions lead to personal acquaintance with many young men especially, which is continued voyage after voyage, and apparently appreciated. At each monthly meeting of Committee some details of our Mission Work are given to those present. In visiting at Sandridge, and occasionally at Williamstown and Melbourne wharves, tracts are distributed and conversation attempted on Christian and Temperance matters. In these visits, I may say, I am often received cordially and always with civility. Gospel seed is deposited, and the hearts of some Christian seamen now and then cheered by Christian converse.

Free grants of tracts were received during the year from the Victorian Tract Society and other sources. Valuable grants of Bibles, which were much needed for the Bethel, and occasionally to give to sailors, have been received from the Victorian Bible Society, and also from the Brighton Auxiliary Society.

Melbourne Hospital has also been often visited during the year; led in each case by sailors of whom I have heard as being there. I trust that some of these visits have been blessed to the sick and dying. Cases have also occurred of passengers arriving here in a dying state, but who, I trust, received salvation by faith, and died in peace.

One of these, I may mention, was a young gentleman from America, and who died on board an American ship at Sandridge, whom I visited. At first he appeared unconcerned, but on after visits he became an anxious enquirer and, I trust, found salvation by faith in Christ. Both his grandmother and mother wrote to me, from America, expressing their gratitude. The latter says: "Your words were of such inestimable comfort to me, the only possible comfort I could have under such a fearful bereavement. I can never thank you enough for all you did for my child," &c. Other cases have occurred, both in hospital and on ship, in which, I trust, the Lord blessed our feeble instrumentality.

I may here give a few more paragraphs, from correspondence, not for self-exaltation, but as expressing appreciation of our Mission:—

A ship master writes:—"We start at daylight for Sydney. I cannot express my heart full of thanks to all generally, but to you in particular, for the home feeling I have experienced with you. We have drunk of the brook by the way, and have lifted up my head." Another captain writes:—"Your Bethel work is a work well done, and I hope the Lord will bless you more and more. Your visits on board my ship were always a real treat." Another ship master, an old friend in this port, wrote to me some months ago from Calcutta, regarding a son who was expected here as an apprentice in another ship. He did come, and we had much pleasure in following his father's desire, in showing him attention, both socially and for his soul. His father again wrote, this time from London, thanking our family cordially, for as he says, "Kindness to my boy. I am sure it must be a satisfaction to you that the kindly influence brought to bear upon him did real good, and kept from many temptations to which he would otherwise have been liable." Again, a sailor writes from Newcastle, N.S.W. :—"You will see by this that we have arrived here safe by God's mercy, and His mercy is very great, for He makes those that love and fear Him to have such a peaceful and happy life, even in places that appear to be quite adverse to such a condition; but nothing is impossible with God. I shall never forget the Sailors' Bible Class. May God bless the work. May many a poor sailor date his second birth from the seed sown there." Another—a quarter-master on a China steamer, writes from Sydney :—"I have a great deal to be thankful for during the last three months: temptations overcome by the help of God, trials made light by the smile of Jesus. How miserable I should have been without the presence of our Father to lighten the gloom. I am praying that my light may shine, however faintly, amidst the darkness that reigns around. I believe you can see the twinkling of my poor light."

I may add one more of these testimonies from men of the sea. A ship's officer writes thus to a member of my family :—"You ask me to tell you if I am on the Lord's side, so I will tell you the truth. For a long time I was blind and could not see the necessity of being a Christian, but it is different with me now. When I was taken bad in Williamstown your father came on board and spoke to me about the wondrous love of Jesus, and I was so impressed with the words he spoke that I closed the door directly after your father left and knelt down and asked forgiveness for my sins, and I feel sure He has done so. As I read of the wondrous love of my Saviour, I feel I have been the worst of sinners; but, thank God, I know that Jesus died for all, and I will take Him at His word and accept His free salvation."

I might enlarge these extracts, but enough is given to show that Christ has his witnesses on the great waters, and that although wickedness predominates in many ships so as to produce vice and misery, and even shipwreck, there are still some who stand up for Jesus, who bear the good report from land to land, and who cheer us on to attempt much wider results for the Gospel among seamen.

SAILORS' REST.

ALTHOUGH the Sandridge Sailors' Rest has not been in existence five years, the Committee are pleased to report that it undoubtedly supplies a felt want, and that its establishment on a permanent footing is demanded in the best interests of all classes of seamen.

During the past twelve months the Institution has been more than usually successful, and its efficient Managers, Mr. and Mrs. Dowell, are enabled to report that the Reading Room has attracted during that time something like 20,000 visitors, nearly all of whom were on the articles of ships moored at or near Sandridge.

We are told that "kind hearts are more than coronets," and it is pleasant to know that every seaman finds a warm welcome at the Rest, and is thus induced to spend his leisure hours in rational enjoyment away from the temptations of strong drink, which has so often wrecked the unsophisticated sons of Neptune having a "run on shore" after a tedious and stormy voyage.

"Hands all round" the world testify to the gratitude of the frequenters of the Rest for attention thus shown to them, and out of many letters of thanks the following, from a widowed mother, addressed to the Manager of the Rest, may be deemed interesting:—

(Extract.)

"Greenwich, Kent, England,
"22nd May, 1882.

"I hope you will forgive the liberty a widowed mother takes in writing to you, but my boy has been talking so much about you and the nice home you ladies have provided for sailors so far away, I feel I must write and tell you how glad I was to hear there was such a place as the Sailors' Rest. I was very anxious about my boy, how he would spend his time at Melbourne, having nowhere to go. (He never went in a public house at home.) The first letter I had from him he told me of your place, and said he felt quite at home. The ladies, so nice and kind, shook hands with him, which made him feel quite at home. Thank all the dear ladies for me. Tell them I felt my prayers were answered for my boy; that God was taking care of him in a distant land, and far from a mother's care. I do thank you for your kindness to mine, and hope you will be a blessing to many boys."

Although the expenses of our Institution, which undoubtedly adds to the sum of human happiness, do not amount to £50 per annum, yet it is not satisfactory to be compelled to inform the inhabitants of the rich city of Melbourne that, in order to keep the doors of the Rest open to all, without let or hindrance, the office-bearers have had to advance the sum of £18 6s. 11d. to liquidate the claims of the Sandridge Borough Council for rates, and the Metropolitan Gas Company.

The Committee, with some confidence, express the hope that this deficiency will be made up to-night, so that the Society may commence a new financial year with renewed vigour and increased earnestness.
