MEET BILL and JACK, it's their first Jamboree . . .

The Chief Scout of the British Commonwealth and Empire, LORD ROWALLAN.

Well, here we are at the Jamboree. We have all been planning and preparing for the day we arrive at Clifford Park for the 1955-56 Pan-Pacific Jamboree.

But perhaps before we go any further you had better meet us. We are two Scouts who have saved our pennies to come to the Jamboree.

I'm Jack, a Patrol Leader from a Malvern Scout Troop—that's a troop with headquarters in a Melbourne suburb. Through Fraternity's invitation scheme I arranged to meet young Bill, who comes from a small country troop from the back of Bourke.

Bill is a little younger than me but I told his Mum and Dad I would look after him during his trip to Victoria for the Jamboree.

He came down a couple of days ago and lived at my home. We had a beaut time and I took him into town and down to the beach. It was a bit amazing really for although Bill is 13 it was the first time he had seen the sea.

Anyhow, let Bill talk to you himself. Here he is:

"Yes, I suppose I'm a bush boy but I'm real proud to come from the country. You see Dad's a farmer and he doesn't get the chance to go to the city very often. When he does he is always in a hurry and can't take me with him.

"I got Jack's letter in the post awhile back and he arranged everything.

"Gee it's been beaut already. During the trip down by train we saw Sydney and everything. When the train pulled in at Spencer Street—it was a big diesel engine—Jack was there to meet me. He took me to his home and showed me lots of things before we came to the Jamboree.

"Jack had to go into camp before me because although the Victorians went to Clifford Park on Wednesday, the boys from interstate came to the Jamboree on Thursday."

Both boys spent the first two days unpacking their gear, preparing their camp in readiness for the great days to come.

They met at their sub-camp's Fraternity centre as they had planned while they were at Jack's home.

FRIDAY . . .

*Chief Scout for Australia—His Excellency The Governor-General, Field-Marshal Sir William Slim,
G.C.B., G.C.M.G., G.C.V.O., G.B.E., D.S.O., M.C.*

The two boys quickly settled down in their camps and during the morning they met to discuss plans for their day's activities.

Bill told Jack they had lots of fun in their camp on the previous night. He said that he and his mates were so excited that no one wanted to go to sleep.

Some of the boys had complained that their beds were lumpy but their Scout Master assured them after the first night the straw-filled palliasses would soon feel like a feather bed to them.

Jack told Bill that the first visitors to the Jamboree were due to arrive that morning. Both boys hoped that not too many of the Mums and Dads would come too early, as some of the Scouts were still putting the finishing touches to their camp sites.

In the afternoon His Excellency the Governor-General, Sir William Slim, Chief Scout of Australia, was the first official visitor to the camp. He took the salute when all the Scouts at Clifford Park marched past.

Bill was thrilled to think that he would be able to see the Governor-General in person. He told Jack that when he marched past the saluting base he would give Sir William Slim an extra special smile.

After the march past, the two boys watched displays by members of the Overseas and Victorian contingents.

That evening Jack went around to Bill's tent and invited him to go and hear a concert given by members of the Victorian Symphony Orchestra.

"What, me go to a concert and listen to music I can't understand . . . not likely," said Bill.

Jack explained to him that besides learning to like great music it would be an opportunity for him to meet some of Jack's own mates from Malvern.

Bill finally agreed, after Jack had told him that it was silly for him to come to the Jamboree if he wasn't going to take the opportunity to meet other Scouts; and to further his knowledge of many subjects including music.

In the evening Bill, Jack and their pals attended the concert under the stars. Together they heard for the first time a symphony concert presented by some of Australia's leading musicians.

SATURDAY . . .

Jack and Bill were out of bed early, for today was a special day—it was, they told themselves, the last day of the year.

The boys decided that they would not go on one of the many tours that were organised for them and the other Scouts at the Jamboree, but to stay in camp for the day.

Scouts will be taken by bus on trips to Victoria's big factories and industries, to the Port of Melbourne, and to places of beauty in the State.

Just before lunch, Jack and Bill met in the canteen, and, over a malted milk, made plans for the afternoon, when there was to be a display by Girl Guides and Victorian Scouts. Lady Brooks, the wife of Victoria's Governor, and State President of the Girl Guides' Association, was to attend the Jamboree this afternoon.

The boys also decided to attend the monster New Year's eve camp-fire, which was due to start at ten-fifteen that night.

Jack told Bill that he would not be able to go to the camp-fire with him, as his own troop was putting on a stunt. Besides, he added, the boys in our Troop think that we have a pretty good lot of voices, and we always like to sing at camp-fires together.

Bill said he was sorry, as he had hoped that Jack would have come with him and met some of his mates from New South Wales.

Jack promised he would do that on the following day; and that he would have lunch with Bill's Troop.

Fraternity Helps All

To help you make friends with as many other Scouts as possible, Fraternity Centres have been provided in each sub-camp. In these Centres you will find activities of the greatest interest to every Scout. You may take your friends along for a drink or tea and biscuits, or sit quietly to read or write your letters.

There will be film shows almost every night, and talks with films on numerous subjects from Astronomy to Spear Fishing. All interested in stamps should watch for the times of the Stamps Club, when experts will be in the Fraternity Centres to advise you and show you their exhibits. Hobbies of all kinds will be available in the Centres and according to your interests so you will be able to do metal work, leatherwork, carve boomerangs and then learn to throw them.

Other services you will find in the Fraternity Centres are: Irons for the pressing of your uniforms, electric shavers if you have reached the stage of needing them, games of all descriptions and a Scout art display. Demonstrations of craft work and Scout badges will be given and each day a sand-track story will be set for you to try to solve.

The Jamboree Proficiency Award is a series of tests you must try. On a card supplied you will have a sign stamped as you pass each test and then at the end you will have a special badge stamped on your belt. The tests are: Spin the "crinoline" with a spinning rope, make a fire without matches, complete two splices and six knots, and sing the Jamboree Song.

Be sure to call at the Fraternity Centres and watch your notices boards and the Jamboree daily paper for times at which all these features are on. While you are doing interesting things, you are meeting Scouts from everywhere and making more friends. After all, that's why we come to a Jamboree.

Jack and Bill each went to their own denomination for church in the morning.

In the afternoon Jack's parents visited the Jamboree. They brought with them two cakes. One was for their son and the other for his mate, Bill.

Jack's mother was surprised at the amount of work he and the other Scouts from Malvern had put into the camp during the first four days at the Jamboree.

Jack took his parents down to see Bill and meet his mates.

Bill's eyes nearly popped out of his head when he saw the size of the cake Jack's parents had given him. However, he assured them he would not take long to get rid of it.

"You wait until my pals see this cake . . . it'll go in a couple of minutes, I bet," said Bill.

"Well, come on Bill, we'll take Mum and Dad on a tour of the Jamboree site."

Two hours and three miles later, Mum and Dad decided to call it a day and have afternoon tea at the visitors' picnic reserve.

During the afternoon there was an old Scouts' reunion and a reunion for old Gilwellites.

Many visitors stayed in camp till 10 p.m. so they could watch a pageant entitled "The Flying Doctor" performed by Senior Scouts, and members of the cast of Victoria's famous "Gang Show" rendered several items.

MONDAY . . .

The second day of the year and what a day this will be for all the Scouts attending the Jamboree. For today is the day that Lord Rowallan, the Chief Scout of the British Commonwealth and Empire, is due to arrive.

"You know Bill," said Jack, "we should feel pretty honoured. This Lord Rowallan is an important man and he has flown all the way out from England so that he can be at the Jamboree with Scouts like you and me."

Bill agreed and said that he had read a lot about the Chief Scout.

"Gee it will be great to meet Lord Rowallan," he said.

In the morning with the rest of the Scouts in camp the boys gave Lord Rowallan a great welcome. In the afternoon they went with other Scouts to watch the various arena displays given by Scouts from Tasmania, Victoria, New South Wales and overseas.

That night Bill and Jack had the choice of either attending a display by Sea Scouts or an open air film show. However, Bill decided he would stay in his camp and write letters home to his parents and to three of his mates, who were unable to attend the Jamboree.

TUESDAY . . .

. . . 3-1-56

Chief Scout for Queensland—His Excellency The Governor of Queensland, Lt. Gen. Sir John Lavarack, K.C.M.G., K.C.V.O., K.B.E., C.B., D.S.O.

Bill and Jack left Clifford Park today to go for a tour to an oil refinery at Altona. They left the camp with a bus load of other Scouts on the tour which had been specially organised for them.

They would see how crude oil was refined into petrol and the use made of the refineries' by-products.

While they were away from the camp, life went on as usual for the thousands of Scouts. They spent a great deal of their time meeting and talking with others from other States and other parts of the world. Fraternity helped them to do this by arranging invitations to go from their own camp to another's for a meal.

From 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Rover Scouts and invited Senior Scouts attended the Rover Moot held at the Rover Camp at Clifford Park.

The Moot is another means for Rovers and Scouts of the world to further the true meaning of Scouting.

Mums, Dads and friends are asked not to come to the Jamboree today, please.

When Jack and Bill returned to camp that night Bill was so excited with the day's trip that as soon as he was back in his own tent he started to write a letter home, telling all about his visit to the refinery.

NO VISITORS PLEASE

WEDNESDAY . . .

The two boys decided that they had better wash some of their clothes, as being good Scouts they realised that cleanliness was something they should always strive to achieve, and in no time the boys had finished.

While their clothes were drying, the boys went down to the Shopping Centre, where Jack was able to buy some films for his camera, and Bill drew some money from his bank account.

In the afternoon they went to watch displays by Scouts from New South Wales, West Australia and members of the Overseas contingents.

After the tea, along with other Scouts, they went to the pictures. The films were loaned to the Jamboree by the State Film Centre.

Later, before Jack and Bill went back to their own camps for the night, they went to the canteen for a cup of hot coffee.

In the canteen Bill made arrangements with some of his new-found pals to go on another half-day tour of Melbourne.

Bill was very excited because it would be his first real opportunity to see the city where the Olympic Games would be held next November.

Chief Scout for New South Wales—His Excellency The Governor of New South Wales, Lt. Gen. Sir John Northcote, K.C.M.G., K.C.V.O., C.B.

While Bill was away on his tour, Jack ironed the clothes that he had washed. The irons were made available to him by the Fraternity Section in his sub-camp.

Jack spent the remainder of the morning writing letters at tables which were also provided for his use by Fraternity.

Jack wrote to his mother and also to two of his pals who could not go to the Jamboree because they were sick.

He told his pals all the news of what had been happening at Clifford Park. Jack also sent them copies of the Jamboree Daily so that they could learn in detail of the events at the Jamboree.

In the afternoon there were displays by Cubs from all over Victoria and at night there were minor camp fires to be attended in each sub-camp.

THE BADGE

The Jamboree Council decided to make a break away from the usual style of badge for this Jamboree and design one that was truly representative of the original inhabitants of Australia—the aborigines. The Jamboree Council is indebted to Levi Molineux for his research and the excellent drawings from which the blocks were produced, also to Mr. S. R. Mitchell for his assistance in checking the drawings.

The details of the badge are as authentic as research can make them. It is stressed that in many tribes similar graphic signs have very different meanings, however, the signs used in this badge are accepted by the majority of

VISITORS: 11 a.m.—7 p.m.

FRIDAY . . .

Bill's uncle and aunt came to the Jamboree to meet their young nephew who they hadn't seen for many years. It was the first time that the old couple had been to a Scout Jamboree and they were very impressed with what they saw and told Bill that he should be very proud to be a Boy Scout.

Uncle told Bill that he had intended to stay just for a couple of hours but they remained at the Jamboree until tea time.

The main event at the Jamboree for the day was at the Melbourne Town Hall, where members of visiting Scout contingents staged a concert and pageant. Proceeds from the concert were sent to the Victorian Society for Crippled Children.

In the evening at Clifford Park there were films for all those Scouts who remained in camp to attend.

AND WHAT IT MEANS

tribes to represent the details given below:

- The overall shape is the same as that of the shield the aborigines use for their personal defence.
- The concentric circles in the centre of the badge mean gatherings. The six circles in the centre of the badge stand for the five Jamborees, including the forthcoming one, and the sixth circle is for the corroborees which have been held in Australia.
- The dots represent crowds of people standing.
- The signs which look like a letter "U" within another letter "U" indicate people sitting down. It can, therefore, be assumed that they are at peace and in harmony.

- The four bars stand for paths from the North, South, East and West.
- The curved lines in the lower left panel are the sign of river banks, in this case the River Yarra Yarra (the aboriginal name for flowing water).

Every tribe had a "Culture" man who was considered outstanding in tribal activities such as hunting, fishing, spear throwing, etc. A special sign was given to represent him in tribal drawings. It is only logical to assume that had Lord Baden-Powell been associated with the Australian aboriginal he would have been given the fleur-de-lys as "his sign."

Chief Scout for Victoria—His Excellency The Governor of Victoria, General Sir Dallas Brooks, K.C.M.G., K.C.V.O., D.S.O., K.St.J.

Jack and Bill felt a little sad this morning for they both realised for the first time that the 1955-56 Pan-Pacific Jamboree was drawing to a close.

They knew that in two days' time they would be breaking camp and saying good-bye to their mates. However, they both agreed that it was no good worrying too much as they set out on another tour of inspection around the camp. While out they called to see Ben, a friend, who unfortunately had fallen while running and broken his wrist.

He had been taken to the Jamboree's own 80-bed hospital where he was in the care of a team of doctors and fully trained nurses.

Bill took his pal some magazines to read and a bar of chocolate that he had bought at the canteen on the way to the hospital.

Bill's pal comes from Glenelg, a suburb in South Australia. Ben's wrist was set in plaster and he was to leave hospital in the afternoon.

The three boys made arrangements to go to the grand final camp-fire to be held that night, and to see the march past of the Jamboree staff—all those who have worked behind the scenes keeping the Jamboree machine running so smoothly.

There were also displays by troops from Victoria, New South Wales and Overseas.

After the camp-fire attended by Bill, Ben and Jack, the three boys had a cup of coffee at the canteen before returning to their own camp and then, before he went to bed, Bill wrote a letter telling his Mum and Dad when to expect him home.

VISITORS: 11 a.m. — 10 p.m.

In the early morning the boys attended their own church services—boys of all denominations gathered in their own chapels to give thanks for granting them the opportunity to attend the Jamboree. Then at 10 a.m. there were combined thanksgiving services for all in camp. For young and old alike realise that by attending such gatherings of boys, representing a cross section of the nations of the World, it was possible to make the earth a happier place to live on.

In the afternoon there is to be a gathering of all Scouts to mark the official closing of the camp.

In the evening there will be group camp fires. They will be the last opportunity for the Scouts to sing their favourite songs together.

On Monday the camp will begin to disperse at nine o'clock. Those Scouts taking part in the post-Jamboree hikes will leave for Warburton.

SIXTEEN THOUSAND Scouts are expected to attend the 1955-1956 Jamboree, which will be held at Clifford Park (near Ringwood) from the 28th December until 9th January.

The contingents from each State will be: Queensland, 1200; New South Wales, 5320; Victoria, 7250; Tasmania, 325; South Australia, 1200; Western Australia, 200, and Overseas, 300—of this number approximately 1000 adults are directly concerned with the running of the camp. In addition there will be 1500 adults. For the past twelve months, working parties have been preparing the area for the camp that will be comparable in size to the city of Albury.

Invitations have been accepted by the following countries to send representatives: Ceylon, Great Britain, New Zealand, Philippines, India, Fiji, Canada, South Africa, Tonga, United States of America, Hong Kong, Malaya, Singapore, North Borneo, Brunei, Gilbert and Ellice Islands, Vietnam, New Caledonia, Nauru and Indonesia.

The work of preparing the area for the camp included the construction of five miles of roadways, the laying of water pipes to provide 20 gallons of water per day per head of the population of the camp, the erection of dozens of giant marquees (the tentage on loan from the Commonwealth Government is valued at £150,000), and the installing of electric light and power systems by using generators on loan from the Department of the Army.

It is estimated that the number of visitors to the Jamboree will be 50,000 and it has also been estimated that the cost of feeding the Scouts will be £80,000. The cost of the equipment is estimated at £10,000, and £30,000 is being spent on the setting-up and the maintenance of the camp. An 80-bed hospital will be provided.

The Overseas contingents were met at their port of disembarkation in Australia and will always have with them an Australian Scouter to act as their guide and, if necessary, interpreter. The Victorians went into camp on December 28th and Overseas visitors on the following day.

The Jamboree will be opened by His Excellency the Governor-General, Field Marshal Sir William Slim, as Chief Scout of Australia. During the currency of the Camp from December 30th until January 9th, there will be displays by the various States and invitations have been extended to all State Governors to be present.

Post Jamboree Hikes have been arranged for approximately 600 Scouts for the Healesville-Warburton areas, and many of the overseas visitors are expected to take part.

The first Jamboree was held in London in 1920 and since then it has been the policy to hold World Jamborees every four years when conditions permit. The 8th World Jamboree was held in Canada last year and Australia was represented by a party of 35. As there are more than five million Scouts in the world, it is impossible for more than a very small percentage to attend World Jamborees, so the International Conference, which is the co-ordinating body for World Scouting, authorised the holding from time to time of Regional Jamborees. The Clifford Park Jamboree comes under this heading.

Australia has always supported Overseas Jamborees and all those held in Australia have been great successes. The Jamboree at Clifford Park this year is the fifth Pan-Pacific event, and the third in Victoria. Lord Rowallan, the Chief Scout of the British Empire and Commonwealth, will attend.

This year's Jamboree is being regarded as a forerunner of the Olympic Games to be held in Melbourne in 1956, in that Melbourne will, in a smaller way, be acting as the host city to hundreds of visitors from overseas. The Olympic Games Organising Committee has made available flags of the Nations which will be competing in the Games and these flags will be erected in an Avenue of Honour at the entrance to the Camp.

Clifford Park has been made available for the Jamboree by the Hon. and Mrs. Lewis Clifford. It consists of 1000 acres and is bounded on three sides by the River Yarra and is an ideal setting for a camp of this size.

HIKES FOR Scouts at JAMBOREE . . .

A SERIES of four and two day hikes through some of Victoria's most rugged and mountainous country have been arranged for Scouts, Rovers and Scouters.

The hikes will take place between the 9th and 13th of January and all hike parties will meet at Warburton on the final day for a monster camp fire.

Scouts will return to Melbourne on the following day by train.

The hike parties will consist of from 25 to 30 hikers and each group will travel over different territory. The parties will be led by specially trained and qualified hike leaders.

Hikers will follow bush tracks, fire breaks, old bush roads and old timber tramway lines which wind their way through the mountains and gullies.

Hikers will cover from 10 to 12 miles a day and they will pass through some of Victoria's roughest and most rugged country.

Scouts intending to take part in the hikes will have to provide their own hiking gear, but rations, maps and an information booklet will be provided by the Jamboree hike organisers.

Special arrangements are being made by hike organisers to keep in contact with the hike parties in case of accident or the outbreak of bush fires. As an added service to hikers a mail service to deliver and collect letters from hikers is being arranged. A special hike stamp will be put on letters sent by hikers.

A Branch of the C.S.B. will be open each day at Clifford Park.

If you have not arranged for your signature to be sent to the Jamboree Branch, you will still be able to withdraw money if you are identified by your own Scout Master.
