Dear Alan,

I really should have replied to your letter earlier. Thanks so much for the information you have given me about your mum and dad... it fills a gap I had in the Wanke history. I'm not sure which version you have of the history, so I'm sending you a copy of the current draft. Please keep it. As you read it, if you find anything that you reckon is wrong, or anything you can add, please let me know.

By way of excuse for not writing back earlier, I should say that at the end of last term we (teachers) had a lot of reports to write. Also, on the 27, 28 and 29 June our local theatrical group put on "The Pirates of Penzance". Towards the end of term this put a large workload on the players as well. If you are familiar with Gilbert and Sullivan, then you'll understand who I was when I say Major General Stanley.

Anyway, apologies for the delay, and I hope that you'll find something interesting amongst these pages.

Best wishes, and
thanks once again,

David Aceman
