

ERNST GOTTLÖB WANKE(≈ 1821 - 7.8.1897) + children
aged 76 yrs. #17

Gottlob arrived in Melbourne on the "Dockenhuden" in April 1849. The first three German ships to arrive in Melbourne — the "Wappeus", the "Goddefroy", and the "Dockenhuden" — contained bounty immigrants. At the time, the Australian Govt. was paying a bounty for German immigrants, especially vinecutters, whom it hoped would stabilize the agricultural community here.

ca. Nov. 1848

The Dockenhuden had sailed from Hamburg, with 106 souls. Three died en route, five disembarked at Rio when the ship called there for water, and a baby was born during the voyage. The ship therefore arrived at Melbourne with 99 passengers, of whom Gottlob, aged 28, and his wife Anna, 35, were two. The shipping list, attached, shows their place of origin as Berlin, and their religion as Protestant. Both could read and write, and Gottlob gave his occupation as a surgeon.

THE "DOCKENHUDEN."

This German emigrant ship arrived here from Port Phillip on Monday evening, after having landed the larger proportion of the passengers at Melbourne—where the payment of their own passages seems to have been, and very justly, no small recommendation. Those who have arrived here are two gentlemen in the cabin, and twenty-seven of those who are equally welcome in the steerage.

Our papers from Port Phillip are of no later date than May 4th, and their general contents are not particularly interesting. We cannot consider important the very valuable di-

A story passed through the family tells that Gottlob's wife died on the passage out from Germany, and that he married a widow whose husband had died on the way out.

There is the essence of truth in this, though facts have become distorted with time.

Early Church Records (Book 1, 5 of 5, #3234 and #3235) show that Gottlob's wife and infant son died in 1849. His wife Anna Maria (nee Hahn, I think) died in Melbourne on 23 May 1849 and is buried at the Independent Burial Ground — the cemetery of the Independent Church in Melbourne.

Presumably she died of complications arising from childbirth, for she had given birth to their son Andreas Gottlob six days earlier, on 17 May 1849.

Andreas died, aged 13 days, on 30 May 1849 and is also buried in the Independent Burial Ground.

Gottlob remarried on 24 May 1850 to a widow named Pauline Krumbiegel (or Krumbugel), at the Independent Church. They were married by Mr. Morrison, who had also buried his wife and child a year earlier.

Certificates verifying these facts are attached.

Pawline had emigrated to Australia on the "Wappens". The List of Emigrants shipped by order of W<sup>m</sup> Westgarth Esquire of Melbourne and under H.B.M. Commissions Grant, to Port Phillip, shows that the Wappens sailed from Hamburg under Captain Peterson. Included on the list of passengers were ...

J.A. Krumbugel, Agriculturalist, 33, from Dresden, Wilhelmina, 27, Jane Sister 22, Pawline 1 .... 1 male adult, 2 female adults, 1 female child.

The list of emigrants landed from the Wappens shows only Pawline Krumbugel, 27, of Dresden, servant, Protestant, reads and writes. There is no mention of the other three who left Germany with her. There is no trace of their deaths in Early Church Records. Perhaps they did die en route to Australia, as family folklore suggests.

Relevant Emigration lists are attached.

It seems that (i) Wilhelmina and Pawline are the same person (ii) it is unclear whether the 1-year-old baby belonged to Wilhelmina or her sister-in-law Jane. (iii) Pawline Wilhelmina must have been born ca. 1822.

Family folklore refers to Gottlob variously as Dr. Wanke, as a ships surgeon, as an almost-qualified doctor or as a doctor whose German qualifications were not recognised in Australia. Certainly his dental kit still exists, as does his set of chemist's scales. However, the Medical Board of Victoria has no record of Gottlob Wanke ever having applied for registration... see attached letter.

Note that, if he applied for registration pre-1851, it would have had to be to the Medical Board of N.S.W. I have not yet checked this out.

Gottlob seems to have become a prominent member of the German community in many respects. There are several references to Gottlob in the Argus (e.g. 23.9.1850, 24.12.1850, 26.12.1850, 6.1.1851, 11.1.1851, 22.4.1851, 14.5.1851). These show that he was Treasurer of the German Union, 54 Bourke St., Melbourne (23.9.1850), and that he was a member of the German Benevolent Society (11.1.1851).

He also conducted most of the services in Mr. Morrison's Church and agreed, sometime around 1849-50, to perform the duties of pastor, if called upon to do so. A unanimous call could not be issued, however, as Gottlob subscribed to the views of the "old" or orthodox Lutherans, and was not acceptable to the heterodox party. (See "Under the Southern Cross" p.262).

ARGUS, 23 SEPT. 1850

GERMAN IMMIGRATION.

Minutes of the German meeting held at the Bull and Mouth Hotel, Monday, 16th Sept., Dr. Gumbinner opened the business by a suitable introductory speech, in consequence of which, after having been called to the chair, he laid before the meeting to be taken into consideration the sketch of the fundamental rules for the society. After a few trifling discussions the said sketch was accepted. The first chapter comprehending the whole tendency of the society, runs as follows:—

The chief object of the society under the name of German Union, (Deutscher Verein), is to assist one another, and in uniting, if possible, all Germans of Port Phillip, to give assistance to new arriving German immigrants, to watch over the German interests, to protect them, to promote moral, benevolent, brotherly feelings, and to keep the German name respected amongst our fellow colonists.

Besides the weekly meeting of Monday, another one will be held every Thursday, where instructive and humorous discourses will be delivered. According to the rules the Directory to be in office during a year was chosen, and Dr. Gumbinner elected President; Mr. J. A. Markert, Vice-president; Mr. Oscar Grunert, Secretary; Mr. G. B. Schmidt, Vice-secretary; Mr. G. Wanke, Treasurer.

A thanksgiving letter, directed to the committee for German Immigration, and to be handed to Mr. Westgarth, was read and carried.

We give a copy of the letter and we give it verbatim, because, although requested to correct any slight error, there is an air of earnest truthful simplicity about it, which for us to touch, would only be to spoil:—

Gentlemen.—At the formation of our society, (the German Union), whose members are increasing, we feel bound ourselves to express to you a feeling with which the breast of every one was filled since long time, namely, the feeling of the most upright, warmest, and sincerest gratitude. Gentlemen, since long time you have spared neither pains nor means to assist our countrymen our brothers so kindly, so humanely, and in so indefatigable, benevolent, and generous a manner. You unremittingly endeavored to give an asylum to the unsheltered, employment to the unemployed, care to the suffering, and support to the indigent, and these benefits in so high a degree enjoyed Germans, our brothers from you; Gentlemen, so brave philanthropists.

Though such actions are rewarded by the gratifying remembrance they leave in the mind, and though expressions of thanks how true and sincere soever they may be, cannot increase so vivifying and awful a feeling, yet the members of the German Union deemed it their duty to express thanks. To meet you, gentlemen, upon the noble path you go, for the welfare of our arriving countrymen, to co-operate with you, and to do all our possible to lessen a part of your burden, this is the task which the members of the German Union have proposed themselves. Our forces are strengthened by knowing that a body of the most influential and esteemed citizens of this colony have united themselves for one of the noblest purposes the welfare of our brothers; and we confidently hope that with your spirit no hands, and with the help of God, we may attain to you in the accomplishment of the said object.

ARGUS 11 JAN. 1851

GERMAN BENEVOLENT SOCIETY.—A meeting of this society was held on Thursday, the 9th instant, at the Bull and Mouth Hotel, Mr. Markert in the chair. The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed. The Secretary of the Society Dr Schroetteringk, laid before the meeting the fundamental rules of the Society, to which several alterations and additions were proposed by the directory and carried. According to these rules, the entrance money will be two shillings and sixpence—the monthly contribution one shilling, and the payments to be made to sick members ten shillings per week, the sickness to be attested by a physician. A proposal of Mr. Altman to grant twelve shillings per week during sickness was rejected. The treasurer, Mr. Brahe, acquainted the members with his having paid into the Union Bank of Melbourne, £12, the amount now in cash, to which future payments would be added, and the cheques drawn by him (Mr. Brahe) and two sureties, Messrs. G. Wanke and G. Thiele. The Treasurer was happy to state that during the last quarter, no applications for support had been made, and this he deemed to be a convincing proof of the healthy climate of Victoria. It was announced that the number of members, ladies included, amounted to thirty-three. After some further routine business, the meeting broke up.

ARGUS, 14 MAY 1851

GERMAN EVANGELISCHE LUTHERISCHE CHURCH.—At one of the last meetings of the members of the Evangelisch Lutherisch Church of this city, the following gentlemen were chosen verden (Kirchenvorsteher) of this church, to act jointly with the Rev. Mr. August Jentsch was appointed collector. According to the copy of a letter kindly communicated by Captain Stanley Carr to a German meeting held at the Barracks last Saturday evening, Mrs. Carr, &c., greatest exertions to procure a German school for this Colony, but up to the 15th of December, 1850, the date when the letter was posted, nothing decisive had been settled and further particulars were promised by one of the mails.

Chapter 33

THE FIRST LUTHERAN CONGREGATION IN MELBOURNE

THE LUTHERANS who had arrived in Melbourne in 1849 on the vessels Godeffroy, Wappaus and Dockenhuden soon met every Sunday afternoon for divine service, at first in a hall, later in Mr. Morrison's church. Among those who took a lively interest in carrying on the service were the brethren Franke, G. Thiele, T. Vorwerg and G. Wanke. As the congregation grew, the question of calling a minister came up for consideration. Mr. Wanke, who had conducted practically all the services, questioned and urged by some of the members, declared himself willing to perform the duties of pastor if unanimously called for that purpose, in accordance with the right and power given by Jesus Christ to a Christian congregation, as confessed by the Lutheran Church in the Smalcald Articles, which state: "Wherever there is a true church, the right to elect and ordain ministers necessarily exists. Just as in case of necessity even a layman absolves, and becomes the minister and pastor of another."

A meeting was called to discuss the matter, but it soon became evident that a unanimous call could not be issued. Mr. Wanke belonged to the "Old" or orthodox Lutherans, who had placed themselves under the spiritual charge of Pastor Fritzsche, and hence was not acceptable to the heterodox party. However, a resolution was passed by the majority that steps be taken to call a Lutheran pastor from Germany. Attempts were made to procure such a minister; but nothing eventuated.

A LUTHERAN PASTOR OR NONE AT ALL

With regard to the statement that some of the early Melbourne Lutherans had placed themselves under the spiritual charge of Pastors Fritzsche and Meyer, there is a letter in the archives, written on December 24, 1849, in which a Mr. Wachner, addressing the Missionaries, Meyer, Teichelmann and Schuermann, declares: "We want only a Lutheran pastor or none at all." Other letters are extant which show the close contact there was between the Melbourne Lutherans and the Australian Lutheran Synod led by Fritzsche.

GEHRICKE

Early in 1851 intelligence had reached the Melbourne congregation that one of the missionaries at Moreton Bay, Queensland, would, in all probability, be willing to accept a call to Melbourne because of the partial failure of mission work among the Queensland aborigines. One of the missionaries, by the name of W. Gehricke was therefore sounded as regards his willingness to accept a call. In a letter dated May 10, he intimates his willingness to accept if the Melbourne people were convinced that God desires him to be their pastor. He also gives a brief but interesting account of his life, stating, among other things, that he was born into this world in 1813, and reborn a new creature in 1839. He also states that he had not been ordained a pastor, but simply commissioned to preach the gospel to the heathen.

In the meantime, before the Melbourne people had received Gehricke's reply to their enquiry, a man by the name of Ruprecht unexpectedly put in an appearance in Melbourne (see chapter 21). He offered his services to the Lutheran community as their pastor and was accepted by a large section. Those who were not willing to accept him, were not moved by any objection to his person, but by the fact that they had already made request for a minister from their homeland.

The Germans in Melbourne were divided into various religious factions, two parties predominating, the State Church Lutherans and the Free Church Lutherans. The former refused to accept Candidate Ruprecht because they were expecting a pastor from overseas. They charged those who accepted Ruprecht with a breach of promise inasmuch as they had signed the call for a man from overseas. "What would happen if a pastor came in response to this call? We would have two pastors and would be insufficient to maintain them." A controversy ensued, which even resorted to the public press as the floor for debate.

SERMONS UNSATISFACTORY

Anyway, the minister from Germany never came. Ruprecht, despite his many likeable qualities, could not long give satisfaction to the people because of the rationalistic views he had imbibed, which were reflected occasionally in his sermons. The members of the congregation had also become acquainted with the "opinion" given by Fritzsche with regard to Ruprecht's doubtful theology. At any rate the wardens of the congregation informed him that his sermons were unsatisfactory to many of the people, chiefly because he did not preach Christ and Him crucified, and that the changes he had made in the liturgy, particularly the omission of the Creed, had also caused great resentment. They assured him that they had the kindest feelings towards him and made the friendly suggestion that he should make a serious study of the Scriptures and the Confessions of the Lutheran Church, which they believed to be in accord with the Scriptures. They were withdrawing the call solely for reasons of doctrine and principle, not because of any ill-feeling against his person.

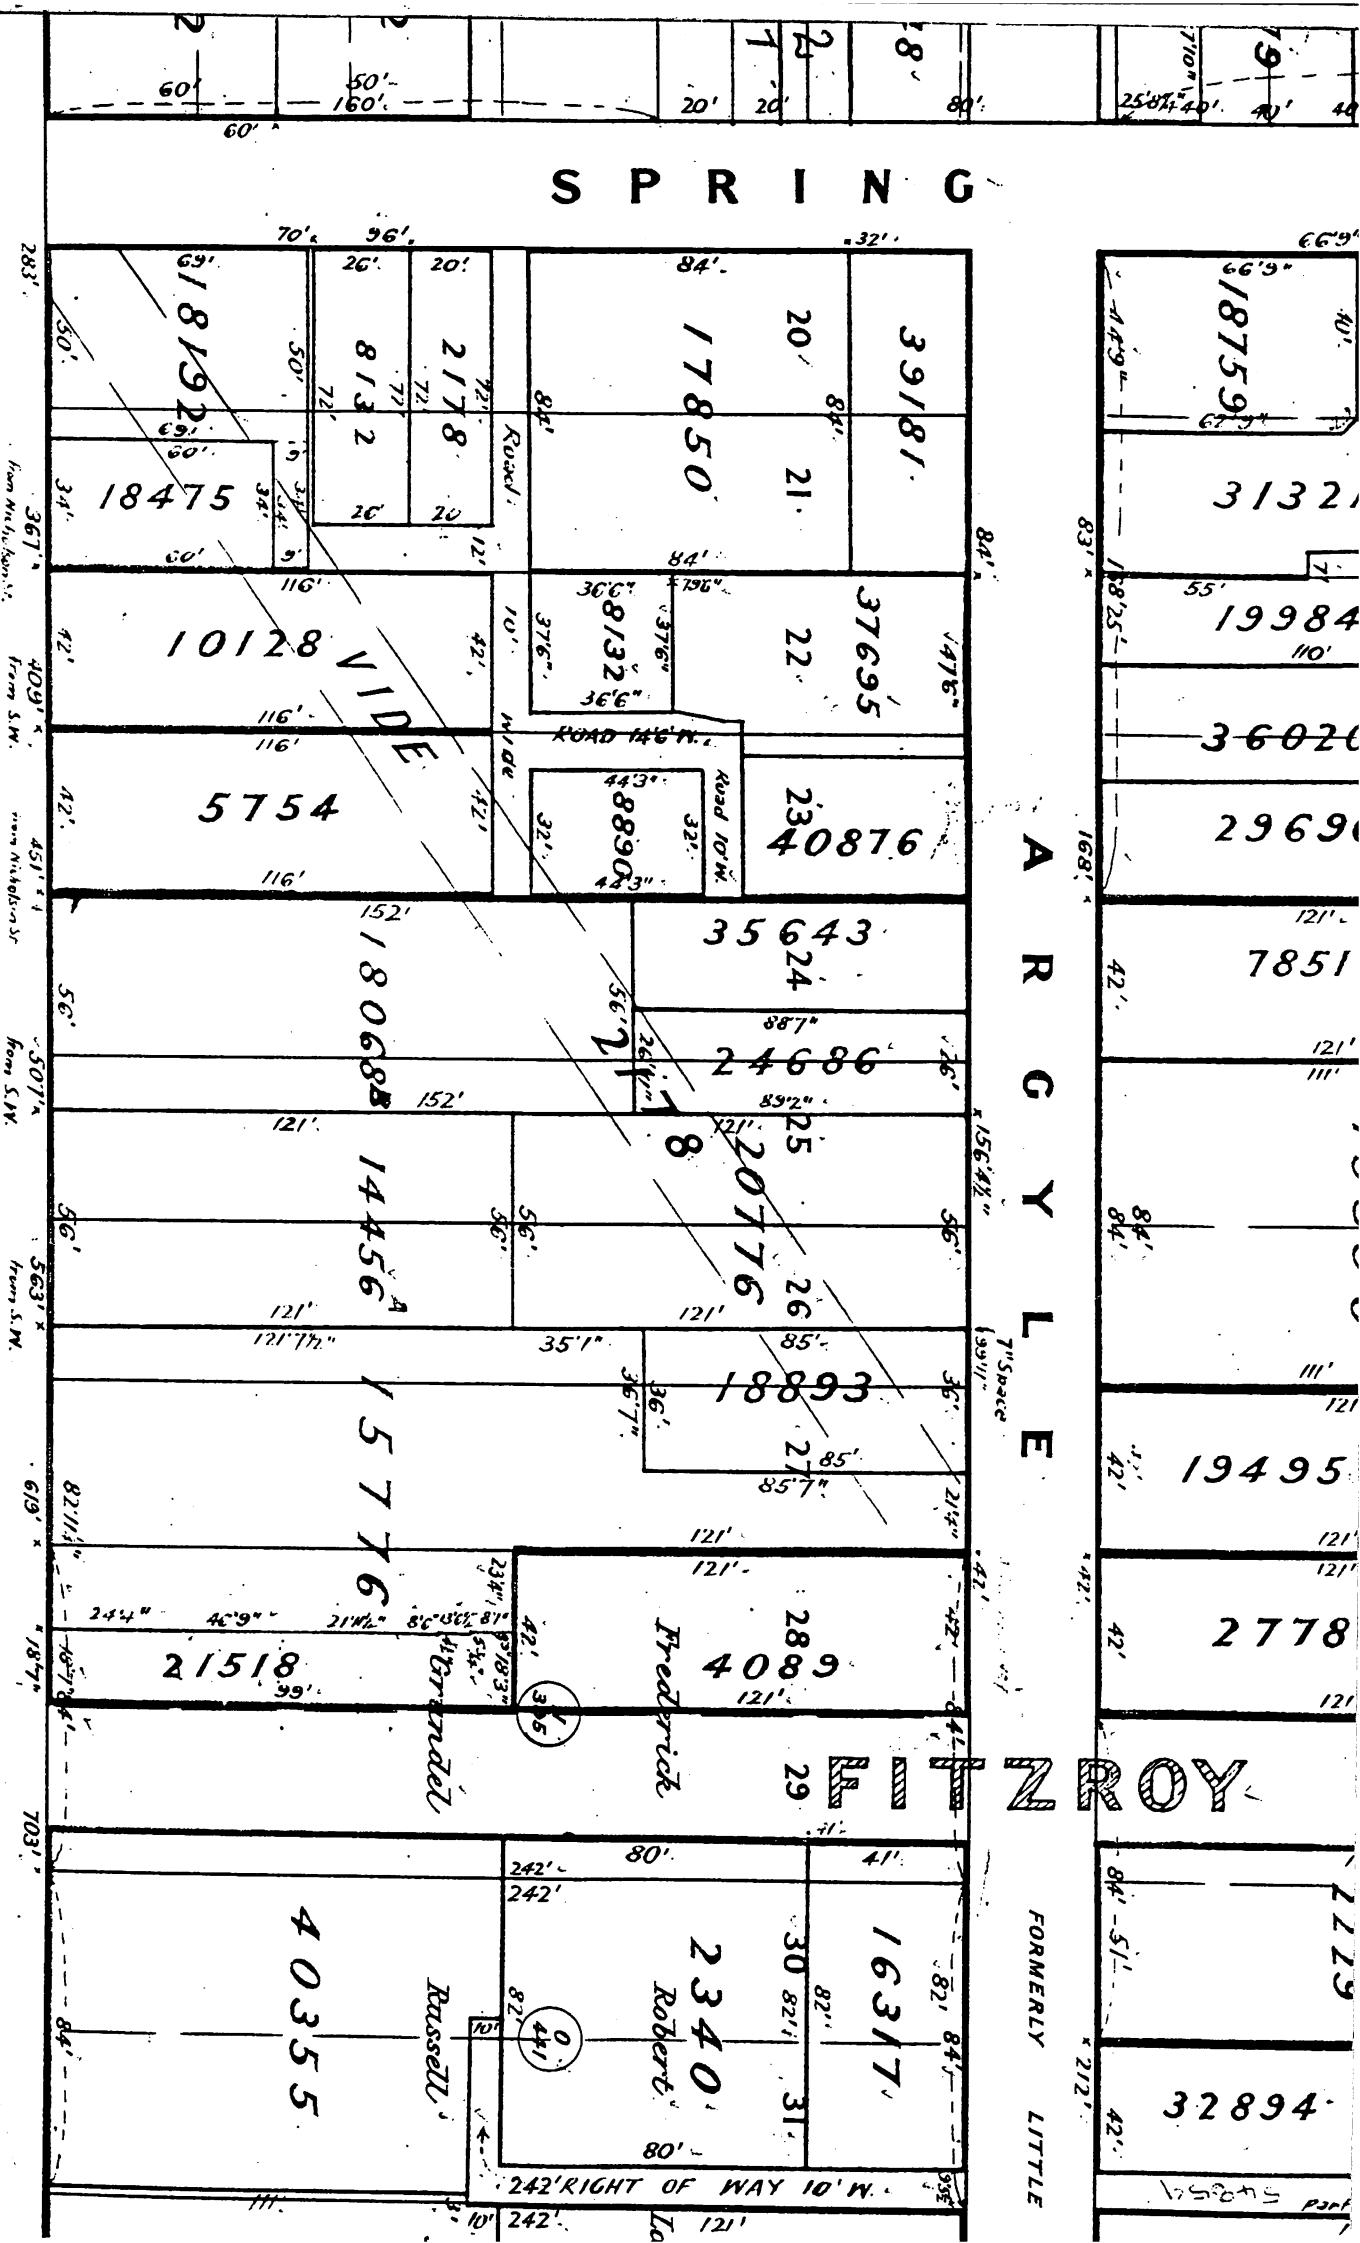

A remarkable thing now happened; namely, most of those who had formerly been in opposition to Ruprecht, now rallied round him, espousing his cause. A meeting of his sympathizers was called and an attempt made to unite the various bodies on the basis of doctrinal indifference; but the meeting ended in confusion. Many of the Germans having caught the gold fever, soon after left Melbourne for the goldfields; and Ruprecht's career in the city came to an end.

Gottlob applied for naturalization on 8 Nov. 1850,
and was granted his Certificate of Naturalization on 16 Dec 1850. (Documents attached).

His first purchase of land was at the German settlement at Westgarthtown, where he bought 30 acres of land at £1 per acre. By agreement, he donated one acre towards a Church/School reserve.
His block was No.31, of the 1851 subdivision of Section 25, Parish of Keelbundora, County of Bourke, and he made this land purchase on 30 April 1851.
It is interesting to note that block no.30 had been spoken for by a German named Krumbugel who never proceeded with the purchase. (Was this J.A. Krumbugel, who died before he purchased the land; or was it Pauline, who didn't go through with the purchase because she had married Gottlob by then ?? ).

Gottlob must have come to an arrangement with Frederick and Johanne Charlotte Gründell about 1851.
Gottlob swapped his Westgarthtown block for Gründell's block at Fitzroy, each party paying a nominal £150.
Gottlob sold his land on 4 Nov. 1851 and he bought the other block on 14 Jan 1852 (O 230 8 Oct 1851/14 Jan 1852)
see map on next page

J O H N S T O N

Gottlob then proceeded to sell this land at a handsome profit.

These blocks are in Jika Jika, sec. 83.

As did many other Germans, Gottlob went goldmining. He was unsuccessful. According to "Early days of Benwick" he went to Castlemaine where he narrowly missed finding a fortune. He returned to Melbourne where he worked as a hairdresser. It is interesting to note that the Bounty List from the Dockenhuizen shows Gottlob as a barber, and in his application for naturalization he gave his occupation as hairdresser.

On the following day we had a long walk through the hills to the village of Chitradhara. We crossed the river at a point where it was about 100 feet wide. The water was very cold and clear. We took a boat and crossed the river. On the opposite bank there was a small village with a few houses. We walked up a steep hill and reached the village. The people were very friendly and hospitable. They gave us some food and drink. We stayed there for a few hours and then continued our journey. We reached the town of Dehradoon in the afternoon.

With the understanding that the majority of us agree, we have however yet to tell Mr. Smith who will be interested in this. I do not believe him deserving the responsibility he would have.

Gottlob must have been pleased with Australia, for he wrote and induced his older brother Johann Gottlieb to come out, with his wife Helene, his two sons and his four daughters. They arrived on the "Alster" on 13 Sept. 1855.

The history of the Johann Wanke family is traced separately, in another document.

Gottlob and Pauline had only one child, Immanuel Gottlob, born on 24 May 1856.

When Gottlob died, on 7 Aug. 1897, aged 76 years, he left an estate of £2417/17/7. [Wills, 1895 - 1900, Series 65, #398] He left his estate to Pauline, and upon her death the estate went to Immanuel. Presumably, Gottlob was in failing health in the later part of his life, for his will was only made on 20 May 1897, 2½ months before his death.

Pauline died on 9 Sept. 1904. Her death shows her maiden name as Schurmann. Both Gottlob and Pauline are buried at the Harkaway Cemetery.

FUNERAL NOTICES.

Same notice appeared in The Age.

The Wanke and Aurisch families were linked together not only in land subdivision, but in marriage.

In 1879, Immanuel married the second daughter of Wilhelm and Caroline Aurisch, Bertha Nathalia. Bertha had been born on 22.5.1857. Rumour has it that Immanuel had been promised Wilhelm's oldest daughter, Annie. However, she eloped with Peter Jurgens Bade and so Immanuel had to settle for the next sister. The marriage was celebrated at Harkaway.

Immanuel and Bertha had 15 children, but four of these did not survive childhood.

Their children, in order, were :-

1 Pauline Franziska (1880 - 1918)

m Ferdinand Weiland

children: Daisy and Alan.

2. Emma Elwina (24.7.1881 - 31.5.1882)

She died at age 10 months, of a heart condition.

3. Magdalena Elwina (10.7.1882 - 27.9.1882)

She died at age 2½ months of (what seems to be) cot death. An inquest was held [1882 # 1147 ... attached].

She had been left in the care of her grandmother Pauline and Selina Dubberke while Immanuel and Bertha went to church. She was dead when they returned. There had been no accidental dropping, or foul play, and the verdict was death by natural causes.

Chorus: We used to pass around —
When we no longer go without each other Wouldn't it be hard to leave and say the Goodbyes? And when the day comes we'll be Happier than ever before we've been.
When we're together, there's no time to be Worried about the future, we just live in the moment.
And when the day comes, we'll be happy,
We'll be together, we'll be happy.
When we're together, we'll be happy,
We'll be together, we'll be happy.
