

15-9-43 In the Art School they were informed by Mr. Jopston that there were only fourteen full course students. They saw a number of primary school pupils busy at work. Their efforts were very fine indeed and they were displaying much keenness. They noticed that the colour scheme in the Art School was white and grey, which in their opinion lacked cheerfulness. However Mr. Jopston assured them that it was the best colour scheme for a background in art work.

The report was received on the motion of Mr. Wilson seconded by Mr. Middleton.
