

17-7-46 The lecture room was bright and, in their opinion, an ideal lecture room. In the laboratories the installation of machines was not complete but when finished and painted these sections should look very well. The gas heaters appeared to be in a bad position and not as effective as they could be.

They also noticed that a strip of moulding in the engineering section had been placed in position to cover a wavy condition of the wall.

The report was received and adopted
Mrs Wilson & M.B. John.
