

Marysville is located on the Eastern side of the Black Range and is nestled amongst the mountains of the Great Dividing Range. It is a short distance from Melbourne, however far enough away to give the traveller a genuine country experience.

The township of Marysville was totally destroyed during the 2009 Black Saturday bush fires, however has regrown beautifully thanks to giving people around the world as well as the Australian community and Local, State and Federal Governments.

The new Marysville is beautiful and rebuilt on the backbone of its scenic beauty and natural splendour. It has also managed to maintain what made it such a great natural retreat.

Marysville has always been a gem in the pond of the Shire of Murrindindi. Now that gem is again shining bright and waiting for you to experience what so many others already know.
