Dear Pat,

Just a few lines to let you know I'm still alive. I'm writing this letter slowly because I know you don't read very fast. You won't know the house when you come home-we have moved. Your Aunt Maggie has had all her teeth out and a new gas stove put in.I ah sending you an extra sock because you said you had grown another foot. Your father has a lovely new job - with 500 people under him. He cuts grass at the local cemetery. There is a washing machine in our new home but it's no good. Last week I put some sharts in pulled the chain and I haven't seen them since.

Your sister had a baby this morning but I don't know if it's a girl or boy yet so I don't know if you're an uncle or an aunt. Your Uncle Mick drowned last week in a vat of whiskey at the distillery. His work mates tried hard to save him but he fought them off bravely. They cremated him and it took three days to put the fire out. Your father and I went to the doctor and the doctor put a tube in my mouth and siad not to talk for ten minutes. Then your father bought it from him. It rained only twice last week.First for three days and then for four days and Monday was so windy that the one chicken laid the same egg four times. We had a final notice from the undertaker saying that if the last payment on your Granny's plot isn't made in 7 days-up she comes!
