Celebration time with Jugs.

Jugularity, known affectionately as 'the Jugs' are a fun, four piece, cabaret style, jug band. They have been hand picked to cap off what has been a wonderful year of events that made up the Café Culture Series 2012. "It's great to end the annual series on a high and especially for this reason, Jugularity were invited to tour. I am confident that they will fit the bill perfectly." said Mary Souness, manager of Just Shows To Go.

Jugularity has been entertaining crowds nationally and internationally for over 23 years with their unique brand of comedy cabaret infused with folk, blues, jazz, gypsy, country and rap. Audience will marvel at Ernie Gruner's fantabulous fiddling, Gavan McCarthy's bravissimo bass, Bruce Stephens' grandiloquent guitar and Peter Vadiveloo's pulsating percussion. They can be serious, silly, romantic, rousing or funny. The roving cavanova approach of the lead singer ensures that the audience is not left out of the fun. They create a light hearted, celebratory atmosphere synonymous with jug band music.

"We have a lot to celebrate on this tour" suggests Mary Souness, manager of Just Shows To Go, the touring company responsible for delivering the Café Culture Series into regional Victoria. "It has been a particularly good year with audience attendances on the rise. Also, Just Shows To Go will be delivering it's one thousandth show on the second week of this tour, when Jugularity perform in the lovely town of Ruffly.

We will also be launching the program for 2012 Café Culture Series at interval of the Jugularity performance which will be the fourteenth year of touring."

Now all we need is the audience to get in the celebratory mood. Those that are familiar with Jugularity's antics will be aware that they love colour. So, in a bid to demonstrate to the band that we are ready, waiting, welcoming and in the mood for the show, we encourage everyone who attends this show to dress as colourfully as possible. As a guide, no amount or combination of colour is enough. Blue and green should be seen with all the colours in between! A quick peek at the picture gallery on the Jugularity website should provide even the most conservative of dressers the license and inspiration required to add some colour to whatever they wear on the night.

"I am really looking forward to this show, Jugularity are renowned for their humour, instrumental skills and madness. Their level of professionalism, musicianship and skill on stage is testament to the twenty years of experience they have had in the entertainment industry. They have everything it takes to provide the perfect end of year, feel good, relaxed yet sharp, party event that we have all come to expect."

Seasons Ticket holders are reminded that they MUST confirm their attendance by either emailing reservemyseats@yahoo.com.au or phoning 5963 4066 and clearly stating their name Seasons Ticket number which appears on the back of the ticket. Some general admittance tickets are also available at Marysville Post Shop, Buxton Store and Café Alex until sold out. Be quick, limited seats available. The 2011 Café Culture Series is proudly presented by Marysville's Cultural Community Inc.
