Buxton Nursery café re-opens!!

This Friday, 29th May, the Buxton Nursery will re-open its café for all! After extensive renovation to the premises over the past 4 years, Colin and Larnie Arnett are pleased to announce that Annie Notley and Frank Kovacs will be running the café.

Frank and Annie invite you to come and try our fresh, made to order menu, which will be forever changing. They will have cafe standard items of Cappuccino's, wide variety of tea's, hot chocolate with a marshmallow, and not to mention home baked cakes, biscuits and the like.

During winter there will be a fresh pot of soup on the go. "We don't want to spoil the surprise of the menu so please come and say Hello" said Annie. After leaving the district in 2012 to run a country hotel in the Otways came back to Buxton in late 2014 with her partner Frank (who by trade is a Chef) to take up retirement out on the farm.

Colin and Larnie purchased the Buxton Nursey in 2011, and have spent a lot of time and effort in renovating.

"Colin and I saw a great opportunity to build on the business with a larger range of plants and by introducing a garden shop. Customers told us they wanted more range and that's what we are trying to achieve."

Says Larnie. "We now stock hanging baskets, pots, tools, seeds, wall art and an extensive range of fertilisers, pest and weed control"

"August 2014 saw us change the existing building into the new entrance of the nursery. The area is so large that it holds the garden shop and cafe, under the one roof. The old car parking area is now filled with outdoor pots, bird-baths and fire pits. It has been a 4 year process to get to here, with some small and large bumps along the way. However, our vision is slowly coming together."

A customer recently asked Larnie if the cafe would ever reopen. Her response was "not unless someone else does it!" As fate would have it, 2 days later Annie and Frank walked through the door and asked if they could start the cafe up again.

After 8 months of intensive gardening, both vegetable and ornamental, Annie and Frank had grown tired of retirement. They had bottled and preserved pickles, chutneys and relishes, which they would give a jar to whoever dropped in to see them, not to mention the excess fresh vegetables.

"A friend suggested that we should go to a cafe for lunch which we did and it was at her suggestion that Buxton needed something like this, that a seed was planted." Says Annie. "But where could we make it happen? Then another friend suggested the Buxton Nursery over a bottle of red (or was that 2 bottles?) and we approached Colin & Larnie the very next day."

"As both Frank & I have experience in the hospitality trade we look forward to mixing our careers (hospitality) and passion (gardening) together in a cosy warm environment on the couch or by the dining table, with the flames of our 360 degree wood fire, nestled in the Buxton Nursery overlooking the Acheron River and the Black Range."

The will be open Friday to Sunday and Public Holidays from 10am-4pm.

"And yes we can do takeaways..."

You can contact Frank and Annie at the Café on 0427 747 201

Mayor's Chair Cr Margaret Rae

Last week I attended the Rural Councils Victoria Forum at which there was a range of speakers and, as is often the case, the program was somewhat predictable in its format. That is not intended as a criticism, there is always a format for such gatherings which is structured to provide for a flow of relevant and timely information. It is, however, in what we take away from such events that helps inform our own activities and decision making going forward.

Of particular relevance this time was the presentation by Dr Ron Ben-David, Chairperson of the Essential Services Commission. The ESC is currently conducting consultations with local government and others to enable it to prepare recommendations to the State Government in respect of its policy for a 'Fairer Rates System', otherwise known as 'Rate capping'. This is a complex topic with many aspects to consider from an organisational (Council) perspective, from a policy (State Government) perspective, and from a community (your) perspective. We understand the reasons for the policy - we have all heard stories of rate revenue that might have been better expended - but we also know the realities of the demands on councils. Small rural councils, such as us, have extensive demands for service delivery, whether in respect of asset maintenance or in more personalised services. And while it is true that all councils deliver a similar range of services, metropolitan and regional councils have opportunities for additional revenue streams such as car parking that simply do not exist for small rural councils. So it was good to hear Dr Ben-David articulate a very clear understanding of the complexities and to hear him outline the principles that will underpin the report and its recommendations to State Government. In a nutshell these are transparency, accountability, efficiency, stability and sustainability. He also made it very clear that the ESC is not taking over responsibility for setting rates - that is the responsibility of councils - 'that councils, in consultation with their communities, remain best placed to make decisions regarding the mix of services and the infrastructure they provide'.

What the cap might look like is, however, a key component of their considerations. Whatever it proves to be, there is no doubt that there will be challenges for many in adhering to it in order to continue meeting community expectations for council services. There will therefore be provision for applying for a variation from the cap and whilst the methodology for this has yet to be formulated, it is clear that a submission to the ESC will form part of the proposal. This will necessarily reflect the consultations with the community and the long term plan of the organisation for its sustainability. In the view of the ESC there should be a focus on 'annual rates integrated with long term budgeting and planning', and should also be able to demonstrate that all viable options have been considered.

This has been our very strong approach particularly over recent times. Our current Council Plan, Strategic Resource Plan and Annual Budget reflect this and provide a framework for the future in which we aim to maintain service delivery levels. This is the conversation we have been having and will continue to have with our community and the one we will take forward to articulate our plans for a strong future for our Shire.

Councillor Comment

By Cr Christine Challen

What does 'sexy' and small towns have in common? According to visiting American author and Economic Development Director for Bardstown in Kentucky, Kim Huston, it's an abundance and coming together of 'wow' factors.

I recently participated in a workshop entitled Small Town Sexy where Kim Huston and Melbourne based Gilbert Rochecoste presented to an enthralled audience their insights into the dynamics of successful small towns - their vibe, their culture, their alluring and seductive charm.

'Small Town Sexy is a feeling, one that comes over you when you close your eyes and imagine your life there, that nurturing calm that for an instant overwhelms when you think of returning to your home. It's not measured by size but by the quality of life, a kindred spirit. Where there are smells of freshly mown grass and familiar places are like a favourite song playing on the radio.'

You can live large in a small town and you can have a great life.'

A sexy small town has a compelling narrative, a bold vision, the right mix of DNA – it's a place the locals love and one they love to share.

According to a majority of participants at the workshop, a common denominator for successful small towns is community spirit, where collaboration, purpose and pleasure is the norm; where there's a public realm, such as a meeting hub and welcoming places to linger and socialise.

Small towns are places for small businesses, for entrepreneurial and innovative spirit, where there's opportunity to be engaged and to start things. We can make incredible things happen in a small town and make a difference!

Fantastic food and coffee, bakeries and locally made treats were also considered 'sexy' essentials as well as the practical attributes of wheelability, walkability and stability.

People can live 'large' in small towns amongst wide open spaces, with fewer hassles, at a slower pace and within easy reach of friends, work, clubs, bike trails and assorted places for play.

At some point in time, we all have a good memory of either growing up in a small town, visiting relatives or holidaying in a small town, a place that has endeared our hearts and fostered nostalgia.

Traditionally, small towns attract 'boomerangers', people who return to small towns, to their families, people and lives they knew; and retirees. As Kim said: "Small towns are places you grow up wanting to leave and grow old wanting to return to."

In my travels, there's no better feeling for me than seeing the Murrindindi Shire sign coming into view, welcoming me into one of our small towns and comforting me with its familiarity, its safe embrace of home.

We're so lucky to have beautiful villages and 'sexy' small towns dotted throughout the Shire and there are many simple ways we can collectively enhance these assets to promote community vitality, increase tourist visitation and sustainable growth.

If anyone would like a copy of the presentation and workshop notes, please contact me via email: cchallen@murrindindi.vic.gov.au.

Topsie Gully Quarry in new hands

On 18 May 2015 Murrindindi Shire Council Mayor Margaret Rae handed the keys to the Topsie Gully Quarry to the new owners, the LS Quarry Group.

Cr Rae and Chief Executive Officer Margaret Abbey formalised the sale on location at the Quarry in Yarck. The LS Quarry Group own and operate the Lima South Quarry, LS Mobile Crushing and Screening Services and has now purchased from Council the lease and rights to operate the Quarry in Yarck. The LS Quarry Group employs approximately 20 people in the North-East region.

The Quarry was established in 1993 to produce a range of materials for Council's road construction and maintenance needs. Following a review of services in 2014, Council decided to offer for sale the lease and rights to operate the Quarry.

Cr Rae said the sale would assist Council with its goal of reducing assets and thereby reducing its costs. "As the community is aware, we have been looking for opportunities to raise revenue and reduce our costs. The sale of Topsie Gully Quarry is a big step in this direction.

"There will also be additional benefits to the community, as re-opening the Quarry will provide another potential local supplier for crushed rock and aggregate within the Shire".

"There is also the potential to boost local employment. We understand that the LS Quarry Group plans to employ an additional staff member with the purchase of Topsie Gully and has indicated further positions may become available depending on demand for the Quarry's product" added Cr Rae.

The Quarry will be opening for sales direct to the public from mid July, for more information contact the LS Quarry directly on (03) 5768 2366.

A mountain of work and a minutes silence pay tribute to lost men

A minutes silence was held at the refurbished memorial at Mt Torbreck on the weekend to mark the 75th anniversary of the deaths of four Royal Australian Air Force (RAAF) members who died in a plane crash.

Flying Officer Anthony (Tony) Daniel, along with Corporals Herman (Fred) Sass, Francis (Frank) Hyland and Ivan Stowdor, died when their Avro Anson A4-4 crashed on 16 May 1940, near the township of Eildon.

A group of volunteers set out on a mission to re-discover the overgrown crash site, memorial and track, and in 2013 with assistance and permission from the Department of Environment, Land, Water and Planning (DELWP) commenced works.

Led by Anthony Dykes, the project was made possible by the hard work of 19 volunteers (including former department staff), who gave up many weekends to clear the old tracks.

"After five trips, totalling eight full days of work was completed from Barnewall Plains Rd to the memorial site in August last year," Mr Dykes said.

"It was the first time in decades that the memorial was accessible and within 30 minutes of chainsaw, brush cutting and debris work we had the site looking like it did when it was built in the early-1960s.

"Walking down the mountain that day we could see how much we had achieved as a group. We had faced all types of challenges such as Mountain Ash trees blocking the track, dense regrowth that seemed like it would never end and working in all types of weather including snow. Not once was there anyone who thought it was too hard or that it couldn't be done, we all just rolled up our sleeves and got the job done.

"The volunteers have made lifelong friendships and gained satisfaction in helping to restore some of Australia's military history. I would also like to thank DELWP, in particular, Lucas Russell and James Cowell who were helpful and enthusiastic about our vision for the site."

The cairn built in 1966 remains along with one of the engines from the crashed plane. The engine was salvaged from the gully (200 metres below the memorial site) where it lay for more than 70 years.

There are plans to mount the engine to an Airspeed Oxford mount* and permanently anchor it to the ground. The other engine has been missing from the crash site for many years along with the rest of the aircraft, which was presumably taken as memorabilia by members of the public.

The access track and memorial will be maintained by the volunteer group for others to enjoy. An official opening will be held early next year. More information is available from local Visitor Information Centres and Artworkz (<http://esplash.me/>).

* The Airspeed Oxford mount was donated by Tony Muller and the B24 Liberator Restoration Fund (see <http://b24australia.org.au/home.html>). The Oxford shares similarities with the Avro Anson including the engine.

Master Plan for Alexandra Railway Precinct Gets Underway

A project will soon commence to create a Master Plan to guide future development of the Alexandra Railway Precinct. The Precinct includes the former Alexandra Railway Station site and its link to other adjoining public land including the Alexandra Race Course, Great Victorian Rail Trail and Alexandra Golf Course.

The idea of developing a Master Plan for the Precinct originated in 2012 from the Alexandra Timber Tramway & Museum (ATTM), which occupies a large part of the former station site. An initial steering group was formed and was successful in securing funding from ATTM, Murrindindi Shire Council (via the Advancing Country Towns Project), Regional Development Victoria, the State Department of Economic Development, Jobs, Transport and Resources, and the Lions Club of Alexandra.

The purpose of the Master Plan is to develop the tourism and recreational potential of the Precinct. It will examine how the activities of the various community groups that occupy or use the land can be better integrated, how the Precinct can be better linked to the business centre of Alexandra and how the land can best be used to grow tourism and recreational opportunities.

Given the range of stakeholders and community groups with an interest in the Alexandra Railway Precinct, Council has agreed to manage the project, and help guide processes around broader community and stakeholder consultation in this important planning project.

The funds raised will enable the appointment of a specialist to develop the plan. A Project Reference Group representing the many community organisations with an interest in the land will soon be formed to provide advice on the development of the Master Plan.

Mayor Margaret Rae said that this is a challenging, yet very exciting project to develop a vision for the future of this important tourism and recreational hub.

"The ATTM and the original steering group should be congratulated on their efforts over the last three years in bringing the project to this stage".

"We want to ensure that all individuals and community groups with an interest in the area have a voice in its future, with the goal of developing the potential of this important Precinct. The Master Plan for the Alexandra Railway Precinct and surrounding public land will ensure this area is a regional attraction for residents and visitors to our Shire" said Cr Rae.

'Show me the Money' Grant Forum success

Participants at the recent Show me the Money! 2015 Grant Forum came away inspired, educated and with fresh knowledge and useful advice to help navigate the sometimes daunting world of grant funding. The free forum, held at the Yea Shire Hall on Tuesday 19 May, was attended by over 75 community members, most representing groups, committees or associations from across the Shire. Opening the evening, Master of Ceremonies Anne Leadbeater challenged the attendees with a new way of thinking and encouraged the notion of 'making yourself easy to fund'. Sam Hicks, a local resident and experienced grant writer encouraged the audience to share their dreams with their community, be persistent, seek feedback and have a go.

Murrindindi Shire Councillor Christine Challen attended the session and said participants were provided with the opportunity to meet and hear from an expert panel of funding providers and to network and develop their grant seeking and administration skills.

"The panel highlighted the need to read grant guidelines carefully, use in-kind contributions, balance the budget and seek advice from funding agencies.

"Following the panel's presentations were break-out skills sessions that focused on developing a project scope, writing clear, grant winning applications, budgeting, meeting funding contract requirements and acquittal tips," said Cr Challen.

The floor was then opened to answer questions from the audience. Two lucky attendees left with door prizes that had been donated by local businesses, but all went home with a greater understanding and renewed inspiration and confidence.

"The forum was a collaborative undertaking of the Kinglake Ranges Foundation, Marysville and Triangle Community Foundation, CEACA, the Kinglake Ranges Neighbourhood House, Sam Hicks (Fawcett Hall) and Murrindindi Shire Council.

"Its success was a credit to all involved", said Cr Challen.

What does Mission Beach and Marysville have in common??

A natural disaster. Mission Beach was devastated in 2006 by Cyclone Larry. Marysville Black Saturday 2009. Mission Beach watched in horror at our disaster down here and could relate. So a beautiful lady (Cherrelle) her husband (Roger) and a huge team of volunteers started working together to give a few people a break. In May 2009 - 49 people got on a plane and after what seemed an eternity ended up in Mission Beach where we were warmly welcomed. This was the start of a warm relationship between Mission Beach and Marysville. When we left Mission Beach Cherrelle and Roger promised they would come to visit our little village and catch up with lifelong friends that were made. 6 years almost to the day they did and it has been a wonderful week of catch-up's. Cherrelle brought many knitted items for the community to be handed out to people and the school, these were lovingly done by an amazing amount of people, even through their trials have kept Marysville in their minds. We thank them for this.

Cherrelle has gone through a lot of health issues and of course another cyclone, but this wonderful couple have an amazing "we can do" attitude. I personally will be eternally grateful for the hugs we were given 6 years ago and again this week. Thanks for visiting us, we look forward to the promised visit in December and of course one day we will be up your way.
