Marysville loves a reason to party

Last weekend over 45 locals as well as a number of visitors came along to celebrate the official opening of "Little Fishes Studio" - Marysville's new Gallery in Falls Road.

Typically Marysville's Arty crowd dressed up for the occasion wearing stylish hats of all colours, even a Top hat appeared and of course the occasional beret. No long speeches, just good food, a glass of wine and plenty of time to appreciate the Studio's first exhibition.

Our own Vicki Moritz has compiled an amazing body of work for her month-long Photographic Exhibition, she has been busy over the past few years studying in Melbourne for a Fine Arts degree, majoring in Photography. Vicki has captured some striking images featuring the local landscape which echo the resilience and the rebirth of our community post 2009.

Enthusiastic buyers had red stickers on several of the pictures before the end of the day and the sales continued through into Sunday.

It's exciting to see another new addition to Marysville's tourism product, having a dedicated Art Space in the heart of town to showcase local talent will encourage other triangle artists to follow Vicki's success.

When he bought the old Dairy site nearly 3 years ago, Bob Mac had the dream to create a purpose-built facility for Marysville to bring local artists together to display their individual art. The new Studio, will evolve over time to provide a workshop space and an outlet for artists to sell their work... from little things, big things grow.

Update Jazz and Blues Weekend 16th – 18th July 2015

Now that the launch is behind us and the artists and program are well underway we thought we would give Triangle readers regular updates on how things are progressing with the Jazz and Blues Weekend.

One exciting announcement is that our MC for the evening of the main event "Turn On The Lights" in the stadium at the Community Centre will be Geoff (Coxy) Cox, who will host the evening program starting at 7pm. Most people will know Coxy from Coxy's Big Break on Channel 7 for many years. However, Coxy is a professional drummer as well and has played on numerous jazz albums to date. He currently plays with Brain Cadd's band and we are delighted that he has agreed to come up and support the people of Marysville for the weekend. I suspect his "sticks" will be playing drums at some point over the weekend so keep your 'ears' out.

Ticket sales are progressing well both online and via the phone 0477 123 506. The Marysville Triangle Real Estate office is also selling tickets so if you want to get in early that's where to go in town. Otherwise give me a call on the above number or go online at trybooking.com.

Our bands for the main concert are now locked in and we are pleased to announce that Redgaters will be the opening warm-up act from 7pm – 8pm before the show proper. At 8pm we will really hit the tracks with Shirazz, one of Melbourne's top jazz bands, followed by Mr Black & Blues with special guest Chris Wilson and finishing with the legendary Australian band Spectrum with Mike Rudd.

It is looking like an amazing night of fun for everyone, so get on board and spread the word via your Facebook and any way you can so we can have a sell-out event.

We have had to move another of our acts Mama Alto to a larger venue given the act staring Benny Dimas recently sold out 2 shows at the Melbourne Recital Centre. Benny aka Mama Alto will now be playing in Buno's Sculpture Garden's Gallery at 2pm & 5pm on Saturday 17th October and $10 to the show will include a tour of the gallery and the garden all for the one price!

That's it for now, spread the word and enjoy the excitement

Motion refused for intensive animal husbandry application

A planning application to produce Wagyu beef through intensive animal husbandry practices at a property on the edge of Alexandra has been refused by Murrindindi Shire Council.

The property has been used to produce Blackmore's Wagyu Beef since 2004. The use and stocking levels have scaled up incrementally over the past few years, and it is now classified as an intensive animal husbandry enterprise.

At the Ordinary Meeting of Council on Wednesday 24 June, a motion to support the issuing of a planning permit for intensive beef cattle production on Blackmores property was lost.

Council then passed an alternative motion which provided grounds for refusing the application, based on the proposal failing to meet the requirements of specific clauses within the Murrindindi Planning Scheme due to the detrimental impact on the amenity of the local area.

Council's Acting CEO Michael Chesworth said the issue of the permit application was a very difficult and complex matter and had generated both support and opposition from within the community.

"In coming to its decision, Council had to weigh up the need to balance growth and economic development with the need to manage impacts of intensive farming practices on the amenity of the surrounding area", added Mr Chesworth.

In accordance with state legislation, following a notice of decision to refuse an application, there is a 60 day period in which an appeal against the decision can be lodged with Victorian Civil & Administrative Tribunal (VCAT).

Council to farewell Councillors Ruhr and Magner

Murrindindi Shire Council is preparing to bid farewell to Councillors Cris Ruhr and Bernie Magner following their respective resignations.

Both Councillors have cited conflicting work commitments as the reason behind their decision to resign.

In announcing his resignation to staff and Councillors, King Parrot Ward Councillor Ruhr stated that his decision was not an easy one to make.

"With my increased work-related travel and responsibilities, I am no longer able to attend to the myriad roles of a Councillor. The last five and a half years have been exciting, instructive and heuristic, albeit exhausting!", said Cr Ruhr.

In a similar vein, Eildon Ward Councillor Magner said that it was difficult to give up his seat with the Council.

"My work and family commitments are calling me back to Melbourne, and as such, I am unable to fulfil my duties as a community representative", said Cr Magner.

Murrindindi Shire Mayor Margaret Rae said that Mr Ruhr and Mr Magner were both wholly supported by Council in their decisions.

"While we are sorry to be losing two members of our Council, we understand that they have not reached their decisions lightly and we express our gratitude to them both for the enormous contributions they have made to Murrindindi Shire, in particular to their Wards, during their terms.

"They have each shown great passion and enthusiasm for their communities", said Cr Rae

By-elections will now be held in both King Parrot and Eildon Wards. The by-elections are being run by the Victorian Electoral Commission (VEC).

"The VEC is responsible for conducting this election on behalf of Council and advertisements have already started to appear in the local media", said Cr Rae. Cr Ruhr's resignation will be effective as at 25 June 2015. The date Cr Magner's resignation will come into effect is dependent on the outcome of the results of the upcoming by-election in Eildon Ward, but will be no later than 28 August 2015. Any enquiries regarding the by-elections should be directed the VEC Electoral Commission (VEC) on 131 832 or to the VEC website at http://vec.vic.gov.au/

Councillor Comment by Cr John Kennedy Cheviot Ward

Community involvement and participation is one of the strengths of Murrindindi Shire.

There are always plenty of initiatives and new projects under way.

In recent weeks I have been involved in a diversity of interesting local events.

Firstly I participated in a full day Economic Development Seminar offered in the City by Rural Councils Victoria.

It was attended by about twenty representatives of Shires throughout the State that ranged from the very large ones like Mildura, Surf Coast and Bass Coast Shires to smaller rural ones much like Murrindindi.

It was great to hear some of the successful initiatives from each Council.

Interestingly they all had a common theme – how do we grow our tourism and visitor numbers and how do we sustain our existing businesses, attract new ones and add new residents as well?

I left the seminar encouraged that 'the Murrindindi mix' of our proximity to the metropolitan area, a wealth of recreational, natural and landscape features, our attractive towns and villages and residential property prices that are affordable by City standards all give us considerable potential to grow our critical mass in the future.

At the community level I recently represented the Shire at the Yea Debutante Ball where eleven couples made their debut.

It was a very well attended function in the restored Yea Shire Hall and was a credit to the organising committee that trained the debs, presented the function and executed it flawlessly.

I am advised that the annual Yea Deb Ball was historically the key social event in the town.

But the current organising committee feels it may have burned itself out after the latest presentation.

I think it will be unfortunate if the local community doesn't rally behind this function to ensure that it returns next year and remains a key social event for the young and old.

I also attended a recent Blackberry Action Field Day held at Gobur and Merton to show off work that is being done by the Merton-Cathkin Blackberry Action Group (MC-BAG) with the support of the State Government agency the Victorian Blackberry Taskforce.

Their work is being done across the Murrindindi and Mansfield Shire areas and so far some fifty farmers and property owners have voluntarily joined the project with about 500 hectares of blackberries treated so far.

MC-BAG has established a number of trial sites where different herbicide products and treatment rates are investigated and a new unique wet blade system of control using a heavy duty slasher or mulcher that also applies a chemical has been created.

The real challenge is removing the blackberry infestations along water courses and creek lines which are often long established, tall often over two metres in height and spreading over a very large area.

The trials are showing the opportunity to return these infested areas back to productive pastures with a reduction in vermin and a landscape benefit.

The MC-BAG work is in the front line of blackberry eradication and can probably be used to recover wider areas of Victoria with blackberry problems using effective management and control solutions.

Really it's just another community led project that is progressing in the background of our Shire.

Council celebrates successful advocacy efforts to fix local telecommunications black spots

Council is very pleased with the decision announced last week to fix eight mobile phone black spot areas across Murrindindi Shire, under the Federal Government's Mobile Black Spot Program. The long-awaited announcement made in Parliament on 25 June will bring about much improved mobile phone coverage in the Shire.

Within Murrindindi Shire, new mobile base stations will be located in the following areas: Devil's River (Skyline Road), Flowerdale, Highlands, Kanumbra, Killingworth, Kinglake West, Taylor Bay and Yea.

Telstra was successful in its bid to install the infrastructure in Murrindindi Shire. In accordance with industry practice, other mobile phone providers will also be able to access the base stations and install equipment on them in order to offer their own services.

Economic Development Portfolio Councillor Christine Challen said that Council has been identifying sites and advocating for improvements as part of two collectives - the High Country Councils' Coalition and the Indi Telecommunications Advocacy Group - for over two years. Council also supported the successful Telstra bid with a co-contribution offer that would have gone some way to demonstrating Council's strong commitment to seeing positive outcomes for Murrindindi from the Federal Black Spot Program.

"This announcement is great news for residents, local businesses and visitors to the Shire. We are all increasingly dependent on mobile phones and need good coverage in both our personal and work lives. Addressing these black spots will also be a real bonus in times of emergency and other critical events where good communication links are vital" said Cr Challen.

"Not surprisingly, good outcomes take time, but the persistent lobbying and collective and cooperative approach by all parties to resolving this issue has paid off. My hearty congratulations to all involved, including my colleagues at Council, the collective action groups, the community and the Federal Member for Indi, Cathy McGowan who has been a great advocate for the Indi Electorate on the need for telecommunications improvement", Cr Challen added.

The Federal Government will fund $6.64 million of the project. Base station construction will start before the end of 2015 and continue for three years.

A second round of the Mobile Black Spot Program, with an allocation of $60 million, will take place in 2016.

Mayor's Chair
by Cr Margaret Rae

I sit here writing this during a short break in proceedings at a two day conference - the Municipal Association of Victoria (MAV) Rural and Regional Planning Conference which this year is being held in Marysville. With 190 delegates registered to attend, this is a great occasion for the Marysville area and for our shire as a whole. Advertising and take up of accommodation options have been great and there has also been good promotion of places to eat, things to do and sights to see. So there is broader benefit to the community right now and there is tremendous follow on potential for later.

This is a message we are increasingly hearing from local businesses that are experiencing repeat visitations after people have been to formal conferences and occasions. The good experience they have then encourages them to come back in their own time and explore more of our shire. This encouragement was repeated in the message I gave in welcoming them all to Murrindindi - and I have been receiving good feedback on this first day.

Representatives from across the State - Mayors, Councillors and planners - have come together to listen and learn about recent initiatives and experiences across the whole spectrum of planning. The speakers - some 31 altogether - span a range of topics, from better planning practices, free trade agreements, foreign investment, VCAT decision making, growth and development in regional Victoria and partnerships with the community, to mention just some of them.

Understanding the broader picture from the Federal and State Government perspective as well as the higher level issues that influence us as a society helps in future planning for our small rural communities. The different models by which this can be undertaken outlined in the sessions challenge our thinking and make us consider different and better ways of doing things going forward. Some of the most useful discussion can arise from looking at complementary models, such as that developed by the Bendigo Bank through its community participation model. The key message expressed by the speaker, Rob Hunt, former CEO of the Bendigo Bank, was never to underestimate the community's capacity to cope with what might appear to be very complex issues, to take things on board and to be successful.

This really resonated with me as I have always believed in the community's capacity to understand and to achieve - but it does rely on us relaying our message and the relevant information in a clear and easy to understand manner - in other words, in everyday language and not 'bureaucratese'! This is a challenge for all councils - mainly because so much of the documentation that has to be analysed, implemented and responded to is necessarily written in formal and 'non everyday' language - but it is vital that we speak with our communities in a shared language. This will help to minimise misunderstandings and improve communication and outcomes.

We are getting better at this and will keep improving - but we also need you to tell us if and when something isn't clear, or ask for the information to be repeated. Only recently I discovered how easy it was for a routine council process to be misunderstood by a resident so I will be looking at how this information can be made clearer. That way we can keep improving our processes and communication.

Tomorrow will no doubt bring a new set of learnings to add to our skills and understanding.

Is your wood fire an indulgence or a life threatening danger?

On a cold winter night it's nice to settle down in front of a wood fire. But if that wood fire isn't being properly maintained it could change from being an indulgence to a life threatening danger.

CFA recently attended a house fire in Mansfield which was caused by a chimney fire and resulted in the loss of the house. And that's only one of several chimney fires around Mansfield and across north eastern Victoria which have caused so much damage but are so easily preventable.

Chimney fires are caused by the accumulation of creosote and other products of incomplete combustion in the chimney. Over a period of months these products build up in the chimney as a coating and when subjected to strong heat from the fire ignite in the chimney with a real potential to start a fire in the roof.

There is a danger that these fires, burning in the roof space above smoke alarms, or in wall cavity's, can go undetected until they are substantial, life threatening, fires.

Minimising the risk of chimney fires is simple. Each April, or before you intend to start using the fire, clean the chimney. You may also do an additional cleaning in mid-winter to be extra sure that you won't have to face a chimney fire.

You may be able to do this yourself if you can safely work on the roof and have a suitable chimney brush. If not there are professional chimney cleaners who can clean your chimney and check their integrity.

It's also worth checking the roof space to make sure that there is nothing flammable close to the chimney.

Chimney fires aren't limited to houses. They can occur in commercial premises including hotels and guest houses.

Indeed any premises with wood fires have the potential for chimney fires.

When you go to bed tonight are you sure that your wood fire won't lead to a chimney fire? Have you taken care to make sure that your chimney has been cleaned to minimise the risk of fire? Have you taken a minute to smell for smoke or the smell of very hot metal? Do you have working smoke alarms?

Chimney fires are avoidable. Regularly cleaned and serviced chimneys and working smoke alarms could save your family's lives.

Marysville Golf Report

On Monday 22nd June three Marysville ladies played in the Dalhousie District Foursomes event held at the Alexandra Golf Club. It was an enjoyable day and Liz Amos and her partner from Avenel missed out on the runners up trophy on a count back from a pair from Seymour. Our thanks to the Dalhousie Committee and the Alexandra ladies for organizing the event.

Last Thursday the nine holers played Par on the back nine holes. Until recently Joe Tricarico was only able to play golf on Saturdays but retirement has enabled him to now play on Thursdays. Over the last few weeks he has been on the winners list and last Thursday was no exception. Joe won with square on a count back from Kris Carlton and he also won the nearest the pin on the 18th hole.

The Saturday competition was a 4BBB event. The winners were the two Johns-Norfolk and Trathen with an impressive 47 points. The runners up on a three way count back were Lesley Rundle and Margaret Blair with 43 points. Margaret has just become a full member of the club and a regular golfer. Congratulations to Margaret on her first competition trophy. The nearest the pins were won by John Norfolk, Sabrina Stow and Todd Patton (2) who also won the Golden Shot. Todd Patten and Brett Pappin were welcomed to the competition from Gardiners Run Golf Club.

Next Saturday both the men and the ladies will play a stroke round for the July Monthly Medal.

Good Golfing- Lesley Rundle

AN INSPIRATIONAL VOLUNTEER

Kilmore Fire Brigade volunteer Simon Roylance knew at a young age he wanted to be a firefighter. He originally joined Wallan brigade as a Junior member at the age of 11 and hopes his story will encourage other young people to join CFA.

Simon's CFA journey is detailed in one of eight personal stories told in CFA's latest Digital Story Telling workshop series.

In his video, Simon talks about a person who was a great influence on his life and love of CFA – a person with more than 20 years' experience as a CFA firefighter.

"I knew the best way to become the best firefighter I could was to follow this person," Simon said.

After he was finally able to transition to a senior firefighter at age 16, Simon progressed to the position of Brigade Officer. His passion led to a career with CFA as a Vegetation Officer, which primarily involves planning and educating people about planned burning and he is now working towards becoming a career firefighter.

Simon would like to see more young people join CFA.

"I shared my story in the hope we could encourage younger community members to head down to their local station and consider joining. You don't know where it could take you in the future. CFA provides opportunities that many organisations just can't offer," Simon said.

"I have travelled around Australia for emergency response duties, as well as rural running competitions and forums. I have made many lifelong friends and have been able to attend many nationally-accredited courses in fire and emergency management and response."

Simon said he believed one of the most important skills a young person can learn from CFA was leadership.

"We have some great leaders and mentors statewide who spend a lot of time teaching our Junior members. We also have some great courses which take our members out of their comfort zones and it's a real joy to see them when they achieve something they thought was not possible."

Simon added that young people could join CFA in a support role if they did not want to fight fires or attend emergencies on the front-line.

"Support team members assist with many functions throughout our organisation and during an emergency provide important support such as logistics, catering, transport and incident control. Every bit helps."
