THE ADVENTURES
OF THE
THREE BOLD BABES.

BY S. Rosamond Praeger.

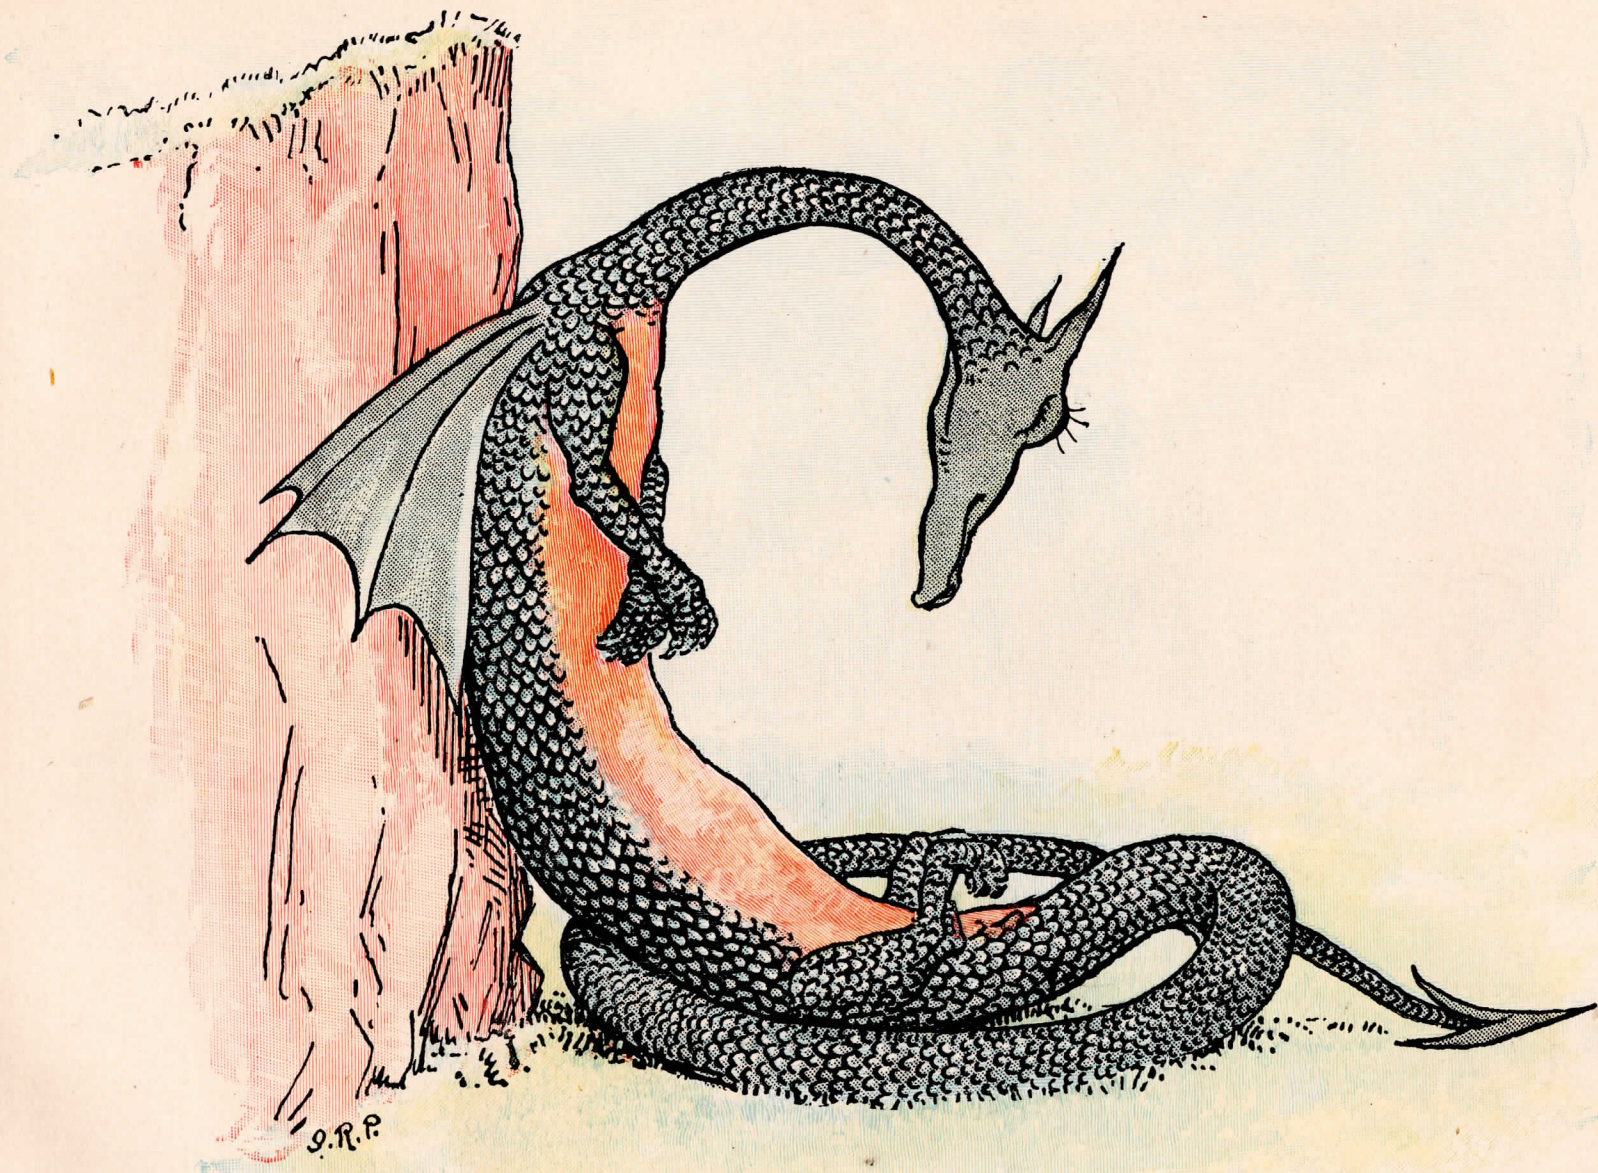

LONGMANS, GREEN, & CO.,

NEW YORK & BOMBAY
1897.

These are the Three Bold Babes setting out to seek their fortune.
Now the names of these Three Bold Babes were Hector, Honoria and Alisander.

This is the Dragon which the Three Bold Babes found taking an afternoon nap.

These are the Three Bold Babes when they saw the Dragon.

This is the Dragon when he heard the Three Bold Babes, observe how his poor tail quivers with fear.

These are the Three Bold Babes consoling the Dragon. "Do you eat people?" they asked, "Not good people" said the Dragon, now this was not strictly true, but then you see he had taken a fancy to the Three Bold Babes and wanted them to think well of him, besides just at this time he was saving up his appetite for a special reason which you shall hear presently.
