Editorial :

There is nothing wrong with volleyball in Australia. There is however, room for improved relationships in the top eschalon of volleyball administration.

Mistrust is too often prevalent. Perhaps poor or distorted communication can be blamed for this. Whatever the reason, the local State Associations should be more aware of these problems and take a more active part in contributing towards the future of volleyball in Australia.

We are growing fast. We need positive decisions and we need unity to achieve this. Let's do this with volleyball.
