Dear Karen,

I am sorry that I have taken so long to answer your letter, I apologise but I misplaced your request and that is one of the reasons for my delay.

I have spoken with Producers in this area and they all felt that at present the Poultry Industry at our level doesn't enable the employing of a Secretary; this is usually done by the Producer himself.

We feel that your best bet would probably be to approach either a hatchery or a large producer of say 20,000 birds and upwards, that they may possibly have a need for someone in the position you suggest. My telephone number is 054395316 and if you think that this line of information could be of any use to you, give me a ring and I can supply names of hatcheries, etc.

As to the future prospects in the Poultry Industry, with high feed prices and relatively low egg prices, Producers are only making a reasonable living, this is why family poultry farmers tend to do all their own paper work.

Hope this has been of a little help to you. Good luck with your course and I hope you can find a position which is satisfactory to you.

Yours sincerely,

K. Fitzgibbon,
