OBITUARY.

DEATH OF MR. G. J. SCHOLTEN.

The friends of Mr. G. J. Scholten, senior member of the firm Messrs. Scholten and Marsh, carriage builders of Lyttleton-Terrace, will regret to learn that the illness from which he was suffering terminated fatally at his residence, in Williamson- street, at 6.30 on Saturday morning. It is only a fortnight to-day since Mr. Scholten was attending to his business. He then complained of feeling unwell, and took to his bed, never rising again. He received care- ful attention from Drs. Alsop and Fullerton, while Dr. Murphy was called in, in consultation, and two nurses were employed, but he did not rally, and died from pneumonia. He leaves a widow and family of four sons and two daughters, for whom the greatest sympathy is felt. The late Mr. Scholten was a native of Holland, and was born in the province of Gelderland in 1853. At the age of 13 he emigrated to America, and spent two years at the town of Holland, on the banks of Lake Michigan, in learning the trade of a blacksmith. While residing there the town was totally destroyed by fire. News came to hand that Chicago was in flames, and Mr. Scholten, being of an adventurous turn of mind, proceeded thither, and witnessed one of the greatest conflagrations known to the world. Subsequently he served an apprenticeship to a large firm of carriage builders in the State of Michigan. In 1876, after visiting the Centennial Exhibition at Philadelphia, he returned home to Holland. Once more going to America, he remained there until 1879, when he again visited Holland, and then set sail for Australia. Landing in Melbourne, he came to Bendigo, and entered the employ of the late Mr. H. Haisman, carriage builder, in Lyttleton-terrace. Subsequently he was engaged by Messrs. G. F. Pickles and Sons. In 1884 he and Mr. J. J. Marsh purchased the business of Mr. Haisman, who had died some time previously. The firm, by dint of much energy and enterprise, built up an important carriage building business. The factory and showrooms probably constitute the largest concern of its kind in the north of Victoria, and the firm has gained an enviable reputation for its vehicles. The late Mr. Scholten did not take a prominent part in public affairs, but his death removes from Bendigo an upright and enterprising citizen, who can ill be spared from the community. He was a member of the Zenith Lodge of Freemasons, and also of the Bendigo Lodge, M.U.I.O.O.F.

The funeral took place yesterday afternoon to the Bendigo Cemetery, and was largely at- tended. The principal mourners were the three sons of the deceased gentleman. In front of the hearse marched the members of the Master Carriage Builders Association and the employees of Messrs. Scholten and Marsh. The pall-bearers were Messrs. A. Swalling, D. Kahland, A. Hampel, S. Mappin, A. Chaluter and J. Harris, employees of the firm. The service at both the home and the grave was conducted by the Rev. J. Spittal, the interment taking place in the Presbyterian section. Beautiful wreaths were placed on the grave, including one from the employees, another from the Master Carriage Builders' Association, and a third from Messrs. E. Bishop and Co., Melbourne. The mortuary arrangements were carried out by Mr. T. Sayer.

A BENDIGO INDUSTRY

Messrs SCHOLTEN and MARSH, Coachbuilders.

About six years ago a series of illustrations were published in the "Bendigonian" showing the 'extent and character of the coach building business conducted by the firm of Messrs. Scholten and Marsh, which is so well and favourably known throughout the greater part of Victoria. Those illustrations excited considerable interest, while the letterpress that accompanied them made it clear that high class workmanship has earned for the firm a reputation that may well be envied. Further comment along these lines seems superfluous, but it is necessary to draw the attention of the public, and firm's customers in particular, to the fact that the well-known firm of SCHOLTEN AND MARSH is no connection with the firm of Scholten Bros. Since the death of Mr. G. J. Scholten the business of Scholten and Marsh has been conducted and personally managed by Mr. J. J. Marsh, who for some years has been solo proprietor. It is of interest to note that the business was commenced more than 30 years ago by the late Mr. Haisman, from whom it was purchased by the firm of Scholten and Marsh, whose ability and energy made it possible for its present extensive nature to be attained. To be constantly up to date was the firm's aim. Everything in light work is undertaken, including the repairing and painting of motor cars. At present there is in their showrooms a magnificent collection of single and double-seated buggies, waggonettes, gigs, etc. Messrs. Scholten and Marsh present their compliments to the public, and hope to get the same liberal support in the future as has been accorded to them in the past.—(Advt.)
