First general painting since coming to Ballarat in Oct 1945.

The car was extensively damaged in a collision with a semi-trailer on the morning of Thursday, 15th April, 1954, at the intersection of South Street and Drummond Street South, and it was decided that the cost of repairing it was not warranted. Instead, the car has been dismantled. Re-usable component parts are being held as spares for maximum traction cars in the three provincial city tram fleets, and the body will shortly be advertised for sale. £55-0-0
