

WELCOME

to Ballarat's Vintage Tourist Tramway. We thank you for your patronage and hope you enjoy your ride.

The Ballarat Tourist Tramway is entirely volunteer-operated by the Ballarat Tramway Preservation Society Limited, and runs over approximately 3/4-mile of the original Ballarat Tramways within the Botanic Gardens Reserve.

Further information about the Society is available from your tram crew, or by writing to the Secretary, P.O. Box 632, Ballarat 3350.

+ + + +

58 550

More detail about the former Ballarat Tramway system and its tramcars may be found in other publications available through our Sales Department.

055 851030

All Souls' Rectory,
Edenhope 3318
24.1.83

Dear Richard,

I enclose for your perusal and consideration a copy of a leaflet which I compiled in one of my weaker moments as a possible "hand-out" to our tramway passengers. The idea occurred to me while on duty earlier this month when there were the usual questions asked by some of our customers - "how many trams do you have?" &c &c. and I thought that a small leaflet along the lines I have done might both answer a question or two and at the same time suggest reference to our Sales Dept. & where enquiries can be directed. The cost would be minimal - indeed I'd be prepared to do off 1000 copies at no charge to the Society, if the idea is favourable - and 1000 at the rate of one to a family would last a while.

Of course we'd need the co-operation of the conductors too.

I realize that there's room for improvement, e.g. the picture of No 27 on the front page, which I could have "scanned" when I have access to the local machine again.

Anyway, I'll await your thoughts - no harm done if we don't go ahead. In any case, I'll hand some out, unofficially & experimentally, today, to see how they go. I'd like to think they could be useful.

All best wishes,
Sincerely,

Audubon Beckett.
