THE QUEEN AND HER FAMILY

Her Majesty the Queen is Colonel-in-Chief of the Life Guards. She is shown taking the salute at Buckingham Palace at a Trooping of the Colour.

Her Majesty the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh live a happy family life in their home at Windsor Castle.

ROYAL TRANSPORT IN AUSTRALIA

Her Majesty and the Duke of Edinburgh will sail first to New Zealand and from there to Sydney. "Gothic" will also take them to Tasmania, to the Barrier Reef, and finally from Fremantle back to the United Kingdom.

S.S. "Gothic" has been commissioned to bring the Royal Visitors to Australia. The ship was specially fitted out for the postponed Royal Visit of 1952. "Gothic" is one of the finest of the Shaw Savill line.

The Royal Cars will be used when the Queen and the Duke drive through the streets of the cities and towns they visit. On this page are three types of cars that will be used.

ROYAL TRANSPORT

The New South Wales and Victorian Railways have prepared special Royal Trains. The engines of the New South Wales train are shown. Through the wide windows of the parlour car the Queen and the Duke will have a fine view of the country.

IN AUSTRALIA

This is the specially fitted out Royal Dakota. It is sound-proof inside, and, as well as the comfortable travelling compartment, it has a special conference room for Her Majesty.
