

Analogue mobiles expire

January 1, 2000*

Trade in your old analogue mobile now, before it's worth nothing at all.

Did you know the Federal Government has announced that the analogue mobile network will cease operation on January 1, 2000*? Which means that analogue handsets will no longer be able to be used in Australia. In fact, the reduction in analogue capacity has already started.

This could be disastrous to you - especially if you rely on your phone for business or find yourself stranded, unable to get a line.

With brand new analogue mobile phones priced as low as $70, what do you think yours is worth now? $10? $20?

*Some rural areas retain access to an analogue mobile service after this date.

Fone Zone will guarantee you $50 off when you upgrade your analogue to a new digital mobile.

We'll give you a guaranteed $50 trade-in on your old analogue when you buy and connect one of our fantastic range of digital mobile phones. And you can take advantage of the new digital technology for as little as $49.**

To make your upgrade to a digital mobile even easier, Fone Zone will also offer:

- FREE 6 months diversion from your old analogue number to your new digital mobile

- FREE Messagebank service for 1 month
- The most extensive coverage through Telstra MobileNet

THIS IS A STRICTLY LIMITED OFFER UNTIL MARCH 31 1997 ONLY. IT WILL NOT BE REPEATED.

- Ability to keep your current telephone number (if it's available)
- So don't wait till your old analogue is worthless. Upgrade now and make the most of this one time only offer, simply call or drop into any one of our 20 stores listed overleaf.

**Various Telstra programs available, normal conditions apply.
