40 years of loyal service

On Tuesday 26 June, a morning tea was held at Patterson Cheney Trucks to celebrate Neville Madden's 40 years employment with Patterson Cheney.

Neville started his career as a parts salesperson, initially selling Holden, then Bedford, followed by Isuzu parts where he has remained ever since. For a short period, Neville was also a company representative, operating out of the old North Melbourne branch.

Dealer Principal Terry Jewson has worked alongside Neville for 36 years and praised his skills and expertise.

"To say that he knows all about Isuzu parts is something of an understatement. In the words of his co-workers Neville, 'knows and remembers parts that we didn't even know existed!' Terry said.

"Neville is also something of a wizard when it comes to remembering numbers and it would be true to say there wouldn't be a more knowledgeable parts interpreter in the country.

"Patterson Cheney has a culture which recognises that staff are our greatest asset and we aim to assist and support them in their personal and career development. Neville Madden is a perfect embodiment of that culture and we congratulate and thank Neville for his 40 years loyal service to the group."
