For the first time, The Embroiders Guild, Victoria, participated in a Melbourne Fashion Week program produced by Marissa Wood from Miss Wood Creative Productions and Rosanna Li from Screenwear.

This program was an opportunity for the guild to introduce itself to a new audience and prove its relevance in today's fashion world.

We presented in the fashion capsule at the Emporium in Melbourne. Designer Estelle Michaelides from label - Micky In The Van - designed a dress and jacket for guild members to embellish as a way of starting a conversation about the guild and all things embroidery.

Margot Yeomans, Wendy Findlay and Melanie Hill ran workshops over the weekend.

The garment you see here is the result of many hands working for a common goal, designed to spark an interest in embroidery in the hope others find their way to the place we all love so much, The Embroiders Guild, Victoria.
