Caulfield Concepts

Marilyn Darrington of Blackburn with some of her ceramic ware which will go on show at Caulfield Concepts beginning on Saturday December 8. Marilyn, a final year student at the Caulfield Institute of Technology joins the rest of her group at the week long exhibition open weekdays from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and at the weekend from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m.

The exhibition will also contain the work of Josef Szirer, senior tutor in ceramics at CIT.

A Brighter Future

Happy faces of CHI Sing Hun 8 years and CHI Muy Sien 5 years reflect the good time they are having. In company with 44 other Cambodian and Vietnamese refugees from the Springvale Hostel, they were hosted by Caulfield families at a "Fiesta" organised by Latin American members of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

Sing Hun and Muy Sien were accompanied at the Fiesta by their Uncle KIM Se NGOV who earlier this year pulled them from the bombed wreckage of their home in Cambodia and escaped with them to Australia.

It is now believed that their parents are alive and that they may be able to escape through Thailand to be reunited with their children in Melbourne. A happier ending to one of the many stories we hear from the troubled areas of South East Asia.

CAULFIELD COMMUNITY DAY
Sunday December 9th

Thirty two members of the Cromarty Old Girls' Association were welcomed by President, Mrs. Margaret Lee Archer at a luncheon held on November 21st.

The occasion was rather nostalgic as it was the last func-tion to be held by the Associa-tion which is to be disbanded this year, after being in existence

Although the school in Elsternwick closed at the end of 1923, which meant there were very few younger ones to follow on, the Association has been very active socially and has aided charity in various ways.

Former pupils are scattered throughout Australia and at the present time there are seventy financial members.

The luncheon provided past pupils with an opportunity to reminisce and talk over the happenings of school days and the

The closure of the Association was tinged with sadness, but, in spite of that the luncheon was enjoyed by all who attended and considered to be a fitting tribute to the Misses Day who founded the school in 1897.

It is hoped however that many friendships will be retained through the Cromarty Knitting Guild which will continue its ac-

CERAMIC AWARD

The Third Annual Walker Ceramic Award will be held at the Caulfield Arts Centre, 441 Inkerman Road, Caulfield from December 3rd to December 16th during gallery hours.

This innovative project offers a substantial award of $1,000 with a further $1,000 or more allocated towards the purchase of selected commended pieces.

The award, donated by Walker Ceramics, is open to all full time final year students majoring in ceramics in an established ceramic deign or pottery course and provides students with an opportunity to display their talent.

Judges are Marcia del Thomas, Designer/Craftsman,

Ted Greenwood, Crafts Reviewer, The Melbourne Age and Doug Alexander, Resident Ceramists of Art and Craft, Cuppacumbalong, A.C.T.

Students are required to submit four entries for the award and judgement will be made on an assessment of the submissions as a group.

An Open Section will also be exhibited so that students can offer for sale other samples of their work. Enquiries 524 3277.

'Old Girls' Dishand Monopoly Champ

Chabad Youth Centre recently held a Monopoly Tournament under the program of the Australian Monopoly Association as part of the preliminaries to the Australian Championship to be held in Sydney on November 27th.

The winner, 10 year old Cheski New, accrued total assets of $13,628 in one 90 minute game.

Cheski is now in the running to represent Victoria in Sydney, and eventually hopes to represent Australia at the World Titles in Bermuda in March 1980.

Cr Bob Baxter, who attended the tournament, presents the winner with a certificate.

BOOKS

Listed below is a small selection of books recently added to the Caulfield/-Malvern Regional Libraries.

Those which are not at your local library may be reserved and obtained on inter-library loan.

Phiz!: the book illustrations of Hablot Knight Browne by H. K. Browne. Phiz illustrated a number of novels, children's books and ephemera, but is best known for his illustrations of the works of Dickens. Over 200 of his finest works are collected in this fascinating book.

Walk a Country Mile by S. Dusty. Slim Dusty tells about his lifetime of music the places he has visited, the people he's met and the friends he has made.

The Original Australian and New Zealand Fish Cookbook by J. Goode. A well-illustrated book, which shows how to prepare and cook eighty types of fish commonly caught in Australian and New Zealand waters.

Jewellery Manufacture and Repair by A. Jarvis. An invaluable guide for any jeweller - professional or amateur - who wants a comprehensive reference book covering the whole field of jewellery manufacture and repair.

Bells in Australia by J. D. Keating. This survey of the carillons, chimes and bells in Australian clock and church towers, reminds us of their value and their need for maintenance and restoration.

Sauna for Health by D. Law. The author tells about the joy and healing to be experienced through the sauna, how to use it to unwind, improve looks and general health, and how to benefit from its tonic properties.

What Really Happened to the Class of '65? by M. Medved. A remarkable social history in which thirty men and women from a Los Angeles high school class of 1965, describe what has happened to them and how they have changed since their school days.

Gladys Cooper: A Biography by S. Morley. An intimate and highly entertaining acone of the ladies of British stage.

Peake's Progress: selected writings and drawings of Mervyn Peake by M. Peake. Two plays, a remarkable work from childhood, and a generous selection of short stories, poems, nonsense verses and drawings are included in this fascinating

The Blackpool Landlady: a social history by J. K. Walton. An entertaining and unusual study of the landladies in the English seaside towns.

Caulfield Community

Family Fun in the Sun

A Giant Carnival (58 local organisations, 40 artists and craftsmen, 30,000 people expected).

Something for everyone

- Merry-go-rounds, ferris wheel, clowns, Father Christmas with lollies for the children, new games, face painting.
- Art and craft work for sale.
- A wide range of food items including lamb on the spit, hamburgers, ice cream, Devonshire teas.
- Try your hand at pottery, paper making, macrame, doll workshops and rag rug workshop with Isabel Foster.
- Parks and gardens staff from Council will be on hand to show you what they are on about and answer your queries.
- Rainbow City Construction is a puppet and related arts project for children of all ages. It's on all day.
- Caulfield Institute of Technology will have a huge display.
- Major entertainment by the New Harlem Jazz Band, Limeburners Bush Band, Percussion Society of Victoria supported by many local acts.

Care for Kids

For most kids Christmas is an exciting time, unwrapping presents from Father Christmas, lots of good food, fun and games and just knowing that someone really cares about them.

Unfortunately some kids will miss out through no fault of their own and the Caulfield Jaycees are doing something about it. They have launched their "Christmas For Kids Appeal" and the focal point is a giant Christmas stocking containing over $300 worth of toys and goodies.

You can help by calling at the Caulfield Jaycees stall on Community Day and donating 50 cents or more. A lucky receipt will be issued for each donation and the holder of the receipt drawn at the end of the day wins the Christmas stocking.

Proceeds will go towards a happy Christmas party with lots of gifts for deserving children in the community. Anyone who knows of any deserving kids please contact Amorelle Jansz, telephone 267 1355, A.H. 596 6197.

Louie De Fly Ain't Dead

Summer's not quite here, but the dreaded cause of the famous Aussie Salute is already bursting forth from thousands of man-made suburban breeding nurseries.

Unsuspecting gardeners and homemakers may be inadvertently their own worst enemy in combating the imminent annual house fly's plague onslaught.

A special display by the Fly Suppression Unit of the Department of Agriculture on Community Day at the Caulfield Jaycees' stand, will highlight the problem areas around the home and garden. Models of the various stages of the fly's reproduction, an audiovisual presentation and free literature on control of the fly and other pests around your household will be available.

A feature of the display is a spectacular 1.6 metre dome filled with thousands of live flies. A competition to guess the number will be conducted. Entry is free to all children visiting the display and the closest guess wins the prize.

6.30p.m. AN EVENING OF SACRED MUSIC

Australian and South American Mixed Voice Choirs together with Instrumental and Vocal Artists will present a program of Sacred and Classical music as an extension of the Community Day Activities at 5 Hawthorn Rd.

BUY AND FLY KITES, WATCH THE PONY CLUB OR LISTEN TO THE BAND.

Do your Christmas shopping at Caulfield Community Day, Sunday December 9th, Caulfield Park.

The Commonwealth has, under its roads legislation, placed great emphasis on local roads which mainly come within the responsibility of Local Government. It has continued this emphasis in 1979/80 by increasing grants to the States for roads by 7.5% to ensure their value is maintained at the 1978/79 level in real terms.

More than $70.3 million will be spent on Arterial and Local roads in Victoria this year by the Commonwealth Government an increase of nearly $5 million over 1978/79. Of this total amount, $35.7 million is to be spent on urban roads.

These allocations clearly indicate the importance the Federal Liberal Government places on developing good roads.

Allocation of Funds

The State Ministry of Transport and the Commonwealth Government have jointly allocated $22,000 for a project sought by Caulfield City Council — Transport Planning on a Neighbourhood Basis.

The project is to develop a neighbourhood based transport

Legislation as guidelines

"We must beware of creating a society where no man counts for anything save a politician or a civil servant," warned Sir Winston Churchill. A sentiment that I should imagine would also be shared by very many in Australia.

It was my privilege on May 29th the Opening Day of Vic-toria's forty-eighth Parliament, to lead-off for the Government by moving the motion for the adoption of the Address-in-Reply (the formal way for Parliament to accept the Governor's speech setting out the Government's program).

During my speech I mentioned Sir Winston's quote, and from the obvious and enthusiastic approval shown of it from those surrounding me, I am sure its sentiment will be well to the fore in the State Government's consideration of forthcoming legisla-

It is important to us all that this is the case for it is through legislation, despite the insidious growth of government by regula-tion, that Australia is basically governed. What type of legisla-tion, how much of it and its un-derlying philosophy affects greatly, and very quickly, society.

I can recall a former member of the Legislative Council saying, in defence of the Council's alleged lack of sitting days, that we should be thankful it doesn't meet more often as it would only mean more Acts and more Government control of our lives.

A statement which I imagine would strike a sympathetic chord in many of us.

The passing of legislation by Parliament, though, can be very beneficial; for instance, where would we be without a Police Regulation Act creating a force to provide protection for society? In this particular case the question then arises as to just how much policing our society requires. Theoretically a completely, or at least much more lawful, society could be created by even greater powers being granted to the Police. Whether the then presumably more lawful society would still be a democratic society is debatable. The Liberal Party, to which I belong, believes the standard of living of the community can best living of the community can best be provided by the development and utilization by individuals of their own skills. The catalyst for the foregoing being incentive to achieve and reward for achievement, with controls on the actions of the individual being avoided unless there is the clearest evidence that the rights of others, the common good of the community, requires the imposition of con-

other works I and the Liberal Party believe in as little legislation as possible but at the same time have proper regard to the reality that society needs guidelines in which to operate and protection and encouragement whenever it is required.

I trust that the people of Caulfield will continue to subscribe to that view.

ANY BRIGHT IDEAS?

Your bright idea could win — $100

Ever thought of insulating your ceiling with newspaper?

This is a job creation proposal devised by Friends of the Earth. The newspaper is shredded into fine fibres and treated with borax to make it 100 per cent fire resistant and vermin proof.

The Unemployment Task Group in the Southern Region is looking for other ideas to set up a local job creation scheme. So let's hear your idea, you have nothing to lose and possibly $100 to gain!

The cash prize has been donated by local service organisations. The decision will be made by a panel consisting of representatives from the local community and the competition is open to any individual or

A job creation scheme needs to have the following features:

• That a market exists or can be created for the product or service.

• That the job is personally worthwhile, satisfying and environmentally protective.

That the employment opportunities created should suit the particular characteristics of the unemployed people in the local area (i.e. age, sex, skill-level ratio) level ratio).

A good job can have the ingredients of variety, interest, elbow-room, challenge and future. Some schemes which are currently being considered or put into action in the Southern Region are:

The Sandringham Foreshore Task Group - this scheme plans to employ young people in restoring the foreshore in Sandringham. It is important to note that the focus is on training and this project will not be creating permanent employ-Huntingdale Tech. and Phillips — have been working on a small business co-operative to manufacture a short run of printed circuit board. Feasibility studies have been carried out on production process and market potential. While this idea may sound complicated, it is important to bear in mind that it all started with a simple idea.

Nursery/gardening cooperative — whereby people would gain on-the-job training. Issues to be considered might be location of land, building of equipment (i.e. glasshouse), kinds of crops (eg. usual plants), advertising.

This project allows scope for creative, innovative ideas that previously may not have been put into practice. So do not feel put off if others knock your ideas we are looking for ideas with a difference.

Some ideas we have received

· Bicycle maintenance and repair service

· Catering service with an in-

 built training component

So if you come up with a good idea, let us know. If you need help in working out the finer details the Task Group is willing to assist.

Remember that some comforts people enjoy today originated from simple, original ideas that were laughed at when first sug-gested. So let us hear your sen-sationally innovative idea and forget what the cynics might say.

The closing date is December 14th and the winner will be announced soon after. Send your ideas to 374 Highett Road, Highett or contact Janice Jessen on 553 0711.

This article is contributed by the Unemployment Task Group set up by the Southern Regional Consultative Committee.

Ron Sharpe, Bentleigh resident and Janice Jensson from the Unemployment Task Group are pictured with one of the latest job creation ideas — a rotary composter. It has the potential to provide worthwhile employment, a possible market may be created and it has significant environmental benefits — reduced burning off, reduced garbage collection and recycling of valuable matter.

New Members

In 1976 it was decided that all staff and employees of the Council, who had achieved a record of 15 consecutive years of service, would receive a certificate under seal, recording that and a pewter mug bearing the Coat of Arms of the Council.

This group has come to be known as members of the "15 Year Club" and at a luncheon this month four new members were admitted: Bernie Norris from the Carpenters Shop, Douglas Brooks, Richard Popple-ton and Arthur Robinson al from Parks and Gardens were presented with their pewter mugs by the Mayor Councillor Blair.

Members of the 15 Year Club invited to lunch with the Mayor.

Obituary: Sir Edgar Tanner CBE, ED.

Caulfield is saddened by the death of its past, long serving member of the Legislative Assembly. From 1955 until his retirement in 1976 Sir Edgar Tanner served as the Liberal member for Rippon Lea later known as Caulfield. Sir Edgar was the first of three members of his family to serve in the Victorian Parliament and from 1970 to 1973 he was deputy speaker and chairman of committees One of his great interests was amateur sport. In his youth he was a full Boxing Blue from Melbourne University and has represented Australia in this sport on many occasions. He was a past president of both the Victorian Amateur Boxing Association and the Amateur Boxing Union of Australia.

As the years passed Sir Edgar became more involved in the organisational aspects of amateur sport. He was a member of the Australian Olympic Federation and the organising committee for the Melbourne Olympic Games. In 1968 his services to the community were recognised and he was awarded a Knighthood by the Queen.

Sir Edgar's greatest disappointment was not to have been elected Speaker after being chairman of committees but it was the greatest joy of his parliamentary life to see his son elected to his old seat before he died.

The community will miss the services of this man and joins in mourning with his family.

After School Activities

Father Roger Kelly and members of the St James parish were concerned at the lack of use of their parish hall off Inkerman Road and the need for some after school activities for the local school children.

Putting the two thoughts together they established the St James After School Play Centre.

Lyn Booth, who has many years experience in a similar program at Carnegie Primary School, will co-ordinate the after school activities program with leaders from within the local community.

A wide range of activities will cluding games, art/craft and Sessions will run between 3.30 p.m. and 5.30 p.m. on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings. The cost is 40c per child per session with a maximum family charge of $1 and each child will receive a drink and a biscuit.

Enquiries may be directed to Fr. Kelly at the vicarage, 439 Inkerman Road, Caulfield North, telephone 527 1017 or Max Binnington at the Town Hall, telephone 524 3333. All children attending the program must have an application form signed by a parent or guardian.

Let's Get Moving

In conjunction with Children's Week Caulfield South Primary School invited a group of Vietnamese children from the Surrey Hills Reception Centre to participate in their Children's Day celebrations.

The visitors and pupils at the school enjoyed a day of singing, a sausage sizzle and a number of novelty races.

Young Tia and Larissa McMullen prepare for the hobby horse race.

Tree Watering

With the warmer weather approaching your garden will require more frequent watering.

Please remember to water your nature strip trees; they get thirsty too.
