Dialysis Centre

In a bid to avoid congestion and reduce costs, Prince Henry's Hospital has established a kidney dialysis satellite centre at Caulfield.

It was officially opened by the Minister of Health, Mr Borthwick and is situated at 261 Kooyong Road. The centre is a first for the south eastern suburbs and will service a population of 400,000.

The Minister for Health Mr Borthwick chats with patient Alex Haupt and Sr. Angela Lo. Alex has been on dialysis for 22 months and attends the Centre for 4½ hours, three times a week.

Equipment worth $58,000 has been installed at the centre to treat kidney patients requiring haemodialysis, a process in which toxins are extracted from the blood.

It includes a bank of 11 kidney machines, modified by technicians from Prince Henry's Department of Nephrology for quiet operation.

The building is owned by the Royal Southern Memorial Hospital and is administered and funded by the Royal Southern Memorial Community Care Centre.

Cost of establishing the centre was $85,000 paid through the Health Commission of Victoria under its community health program.

"Twenty years ago there were no kidney dialysis machines available. Ten years ago dialysis treatment at home was not available and four years ago, there were no community kidney dialysis centres," said Mr Hoadley, President of the Prince Henry's Hospital Board of Management.

The establishment of community dialysis centres, such as the one at Caulfield allows many patients to lead more normal lives. The centres offer the most modern "do-it-yourself" dialysis treatment in a warm and friendly environment" he said.

Councillors Elected Unopposed

In each of the four wards of Caulfield the retiring Councillor has retained his position for another three years.

At 4.00 p.m., Tuesday July 22nd, the closing time for application to stand for election, no candidates had put themselves forward to contest a seat, and therefore no Council elections will be held this year.

The men who will represent you for a further three years are:

Cr. Geoff Patience B.E.M., J.P.

EAST WARD

Buslines Face Difficulties

With the increasing use of private cars, buslines are constantly facing financial problems.

In an endeavour to support private bus companies and to assist them in continuing their services, the Government adopted a policy of providing a subsidy to the companies to make up the difference between what it cost to run the service and the return from fares received.

Bus services which run at a loss used this subsidy to cover that loss.

This policy operated for six years but was recently changed. Bus owners now operate under what is known as a contract scheme where the bus operator is paid a flat rate per bus for each hour of operation.

This is currently $6.28 per hour. The industry average cost is $14.00 per hour. Therefore the difference has to be obtained from fares collected.

Recently residents have been faced with the reduction of bus services. The two main complaints concern the curtailment of services in Bamba Road and the lack of a service in Kooyong Road between Glenhuntly Road and Clarence Street.

Due to lack of patronage and because of the new Contract Scheme, it is no longer possible to produce a total service that is financially self sustaining. Accordingly the bus proprietors have reduced the number of times a bus will cover a particular route.

By comparing old and new timetables it can be seen that there has been a great reduction in a number of services throughout Caulfield.

Operators in the City of Caulfield are not as well off as those in many other areas. A large proportion of fares received are concession fares from children in a morning and evening peak period and from pensioners during the day. This means that they must carry more people to receive the same return as operators in other areas who take full fares.

The Caulfield City Council recognises this problem and appreciates the need for community transport facilities within the City. To this end they will approach the Minister for Transport, to seek to have the subsidy system of payments to bus line proprietors reinstated in the case of disadvantaged bus lines.

GARBAGE BINS ON DISPLAY

Over the past month the Caulfield Community Caravan has been set up in various shopping centres around the City to give people the opportunity of discussing the new garbage system proposed by Council.

Residents have been able to handle the 240 litre garbage bins and discuss with Council staff, any problems they may face if the system is approved.

Reaction to the bins has been assessed and whilst most residents who live in houses welcome the new bins, many people who live in flats or units could face some problems.

Mr and Mrs Howie of Genhuntly discuss the proposed new bins.

Meet your Councillors

NORTH WARD

CR. MAX BLAIR, J.P.

I am pleased that my term of office as a City Councillor will continue for a further three years. I have been a Caulfield resident since birth and the City is therefore an integral part of my life.

During the course of my nine years on Council I have been Mayor of the City on three separate occasions and in this time have seen many changes; the provision of two hostels for the aged and a third under construction at Ames Avenue, an expanding social welfare program, the establishment of the Caulfield Arts Centre, a new City Management structure and Senior Management team and improvements in the facilities and appearance of Caulfield's major parks and recreation area.

Consequently, Caulfield is recognised through Melbourne and probably Victoria as an innovative Council.

However, I feel that many problems still exist; the need to provide special accommodation for the aged has to be balanced with the requirements of the younger population. Traffic through the City is causing more residents to express concern that suburban streets are being treated, by motorists, as main thoroughfares. Local residents need to be encouraged to patronise local shopping centres. Planning codes require constant review to ensure that balanced development is achieved. The library service which has become a substantial financial burden, needs review by Council. With the decision to utilise the large plastic bins pending, garbage collection may become a topic of debate and rate levels will need to have particular regard to the ability of the residents to pay.

Caulfield offers many attractions to many people and in the end it is the people who must, and do decide the direction in which the City moves. I believe that achievements within the City, over recent years, have been significant. Some of these achievements have resulted in a more cohesive community and I hope that this trend will be permanent and that Caulfield continues to provide the balanced society which is surely the objective of the average resident.

EAST WARD

CR W. RON WALTERS, M.B.E., A.E., J.P.

Cr Walters has served Caulfield on the Council for 12 years and was Mayor in 1972/73.

He is well known in the community for his work with the Scouting Movement and is involved with the Carnegie branch of the R.S.L. and its Bowling Club.

For the past eight years he has been Council's representative on the Council of the Caulfield Technical School and has been its president for the past seven years.

Recently he has been a member of the Council at C.I.T. and also Caulfield's representative for the Southern Area Commission for the Board of Works.

Over the next three years, Cr Walters plans to work for the continued upgrading of our streets, better liaison with Government departments and will encourage the use of parkland and recreational facilities by all members of the community.

Having worked towards the commencement of the Ames Avenue Hostel he is keenly aware of the need for further facilities and services for the aged. He is strongly opposed to the uncontrolled establishment of amusement parlours and supports the need for a study of their social effects.

Cr Walters is in favour of the introduction of the new 'big bin' garbage system and feels that it will eliminate the unsightly garbage areas around many of the flats of Caulfield.

Cr Walters will continue to work for the advancement of the City of Caulfield.

SOUTH WARD

CR. GEOFF PATIENCE, B.E.M., J.P.

I would like to thank the residents of the South Ward who signed my nomination papers and the residents who have re-elected me as their representative for a further three years. I will continue my strong support for elderly citizen projects such as Hostels and Meals-on-Wheels, with a thought for the future, of a Nursing Home, where our Hostel inmates can go when they are indisposed. I am a strong supporter of aid to the youth, and particularly that every aid possible should be given to help them gain employment.

Our Parks and Gardens look beautiful and I support the continuance of keeping them that way. I strongly support the Council policy of footpath construction and street kerb and channel renewal and I give my support to the Planning Policies of the Council.

Communication between South Ward residents and myself has always been good and I hope it will continue. I am always available and handy 24 hours of the day. I appreciate residents' contributions as they help in the decision making process.

Thank you once again having faith in me.

WEST WARD

CR. GEOFF DOOLAN, LL.B.

After a period of Community unrest, resulting from the Town Hall demolition proposal, and the rapid change in Councillors after the redistribution of Ward boundaries, I believe that the Council has now settled down. The fact that there are no contested elections in the City this year reflects the Community attitude, and augurs well for the future of the City.

I look forward, in the coming years, to stable Local Government, and continued cost effectiveness from the proper use of our resources, already evidenced by the success of the City Corporate Management structure. The Council has a responsibility to see that services required by the Community are in fact delivered at the appropriate time, yet within the financial constraints placed on it.

Much success has been achieved by positive attempts at better communication and consultation between Councillors, Officers and the residents of our City, and further successes will be achieved on sensitive issues, by this continued co-operation.

I wish to express my appreciation to the residents of the West Ward, for their confidence in me, and I am looking forward to representing them for a further term.

HELP FOR YOUNG OFFENDERS.

Probation Officers Needed

There is an urgent need for part time volunteers to assist the Department of Community Welfare Services in supervising young people on probation. A number of people, mostly in the 17-25 age group, come into conflict with the law and are placed on probation by the Courts.

Volunteers, called Honorary Probation Officers are needed to assist these young people. There is an element of authority involved in the work, as the probationer is expected to report to his or her probation officer. The emphasis is, however, on assistance.

Probation is an alternative to imprisonment, and the cost to the community is far less than the cost involved in keeping people in prison.

It is important that Honorary Probation Officers are able to demonstrate flexibility in their general attitudes and have the capacity to see other people's actions in terms of cause, rather than right or wrong.

A background in welfare is not necessary as training programs are provided by the Department of Community Welfare Services.

Most important are understanding, sensitivity and empathy with people and a sincere desire to help. Volunteers are required in Caulfield, Malvern and Oakleigh. A training course will commence in September and will run one evening a week over 10 weeks. It will cover such areas as the court system, counselling skills and report writing.

People interested in finding out more about probation work are invited to ring the Caulfield Office of the Department of Community Welfare Services on 509 8699 before August 15th.

Manager Retires

A reception was held at Caulfield Hospital to honour Mr. John Quine who retired as Manager on July 4th. The two hundred invited guests included the Mayoress of Caulfield, Mrs Blair, Board members, former employees, representatives from other hospitals, service organisations and others in the community who have known him over the many years.

Mr. Quine was first appointed in 1949 to the position of Accountant at Caulfield Convalescent as it was then known. He later became Assistant Manager and in 1967 was appointed Manager. During that time, Caulfield Hospital has grown to a 420 bed regional geriatric and rehabilitation hospital. There is also a 30 bed hostel on the hospital site and day hospitals in South Melbourne, Malvern and Caulfield.

Mr. Quine was born and educated in Western Australia. He is married and has one daughter in Perth and a son in Melbourne. He intends to remain involved in community affairs and is on the South-Port Community Nursing Home Committee and the MECWA House Committee.

At the reception, he was presented with an illuminated address — given in honour of his long years of service.

Mr. Garnett Edwards, former Assistant Manager has been appointed Manager.

LOCAL POLICEMAN RETIRES

Senior Constable Bristow retires from the Police Force. His family have been living in the City for over 100 years.

Senior Constable A. W. Bristowe retires from the Victorian Police Force in August after 28 years service.

Bill has lived in Murrumbidgee all his life, has been an active sportsman and always maintained an interest in local activities.

He joined the Police Force in 1952, served at Russell Street for six months, then to Caulfield for four years and in 1957 Bill transferred to Murrumbidgee where he stayed until seconded to the Accident Co-ordination Office at Glenhuntingly.

Throughout his career, Bill Bristowe has served the community and the Police Force well. His conduct sheet records "A well conducted member, with excellent knowledge of his sub-district. A member who takes pride in his appearance and work".

CHANGEOVER

Diabetics to use new System

The changeover to decimal currency and then to the metric system was fraught with confusion and misapprehension as well as resistance.

All of this could occur with the changeover to the uniform strength of insulin U-100, which is insulin of 100 units per ml, and the new U-100 syringe. With this conversion there is the added danger which could culminate in death — the danger of wrongly administering the new U-100 insulin.

From Friday August 1st, insulin dependent diabetics have four months only to become accustomed to this new strength insulin and the new syringe that must be used. On Monday December 1st there will be only U-100 Insulin and U-100 syringes.

In both U.S.A. and Canada where U-100 Insulin has already been introduced there was some initial confusion. To avoid confusion and panic during the four months conversion, the Community Care Centre has initiated activities which will help insulin dependent diabetics.

The Community Care Centre in Kooyong Road, Caulfield is establishing an Advisory Service to operate from Friday August 1st to Monday December 1st during which time especially trained sisters will be available to help with instruction of patients.

An appointment made by the patient or their doctor is necessary.

On attending the patient must bring —

- a note of their usual insulin dosage
- all the old strength insulin they possess
- all the old syringes in their possession.

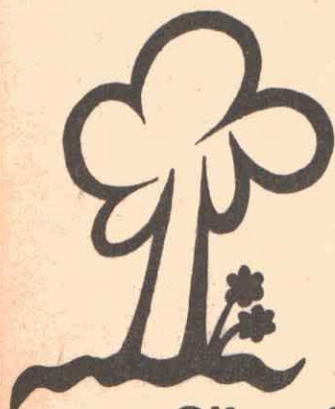

The telephone number to call is 528 6433 ext. 726.

In the case of an emergency or after hours queries, a service will be provided by the Resident Medical Officers in the Family Medical Ward of the hospital. This service will be available seven days a week until the changeover is complete on December 1st.

There are roughly 100,000 insulin dependent diabetics in Australia, 30,000 of these being in Victoria and in the area covered by the Centre there is a minimum of 1,500.

Supporter's Club

The Alma Doepel Supporter's Club is a member of Sail and Adventure Ltd. Its aim is to support in all ways possible the restoration and operation of the "Alma Doepel" as a sail training and adventure vessel.

Its membership includes people from all walks of life and now numbers over 1000 members. A voluntary Committee, at present ten members, is elected at the Annual General Meeting.

The Club's principal objective to date has been to broaden its base by increasing the membership, to assist the restoration, and provide a continual income by organising a variety of fund raising activities.

The wind and the sea are challenging elements, it takes skill and courage to live with them. The self discovery which comes from training under sail and experience gained from sea adventure, furthers the development of character in a way which could prove lasting and useful.

The basic purpose of this non-profit organisation is to provide teenage girls and boys (15 years and over) with an outlet for their spirit of adventure and an opportunity to develop a sense of responsibility, self-confidence

MYSTERY TREASURE

A mystery surrounds the prized treasure of the Caulfield Institute of Technology — a neat replica of a Floating Rail Cart.

Apart from a detailed description of its dimensions and its construction, and the fact that it was a gift to Mr R. J. Dorey on his retirement by the boys of the blacksmiths' shop, nothing is known of it. Mr Dorey, the first Principal of Caulfield Technical School retired in 1946.

But Archivist Martin Merchant is not satisfied with just having a beautiful item in the collection. He needs to know more. Who made it? How many took part in the project? Are there any around who recall the circumstances under which the cart was made? Why this type of cart? And so on. Indeed, this is not the only area of information Mr Merchant needs filled.

Mr Merchant, sometime Archivist at the Public Library, Melbourne, is part-time Archivist at CIT, and is hoping to fill all the gaps that exist with the help of part students and staff who may have information or items to add to the Archives; old letters, photographs, reports and so on.

Already in the collection are the original Minutes of the Caulfield Technical School covering the years 1922-1932, one of the original letters relating to the establishment of the school dated 21st July, 1915, the computer invented in the 1940's by Dr Trevor Pearcey, now Dean of the School of Computing and Information Systems and other items of interest.

These pieces of memorabilia go up on display on Level 2 of the Phillip Law Building on Sunday August 3rd when CIT holds its annual Open Day. But if you could help Mr Merchant with other information contact CIT on 573 2133 or 573 2264.

History

The three masted fore and aft topsail schooner "Alma Doepel" was built at Bellingen, N.S.W. in 1903 by Frederick Doepel and named after his daughter, Alma. Her timbers were cut from forests in the area and are mainly spotted gum, tallow wood and iron bark.

Dimensions: Length 118 ft., bow sprit 36 ft., overall length 150 ft., beam 26 ft., draught 7 ft. 6 ins. She is fitted fore and aft with centre boards — this shallow draught permitted her to cross the sand bar at the mouth of the Bellinger river.

She was launched on October 10th, 1903 and sailed to Sydney on her maiden voyage in 1904. In her first year she plied the Tasman and established a record for the fastest voyage by a sailing ship.

In 1905 she traded along the N.S.W. coast after the wreck of her sister ship "Violet Doepel".

She was sold to Henry Jones IXL Ltd. in 1917 and traded from the company's jam factory in Hobart to the Australian mainland, forming part of the mosquito fleet. Alma Doepel established another record for the fastest time from Hobart to Melbourne Heads in 58 and a half hours.

She was flag ship twice to the Hobart Regatta and was the last surviving sailing ship in Australian waters to carry square sails; these were removed in 1937.

"Alma Doepel" was commissioned in 1942 by the American Army for use by the Australian Army. Derigged and transformed she served in New Guinea as AK82.

After the war she was rigged as a three masted bald headed schooner and resumed trade between Tasmania and Melbourne.

Eventually in the 1960's she became a limestone carrier between Southport and Electrona in the D'Entrecasteau Channel, Tasmania.

In 1976 she lay idle at Electrona and was taken over by Sail and Adventure Ltd., for restoration.

Ex C.I.T. Student Seeks Refuge

Tran Manh Heip, a Vietnamese Engineer who qualified at C.I.T. in 1969 is in grave danger in a refugee camp in Kampuchea. The Institute is lodging formal sponsorship with the Immigration Department and Director, Ron Cumming, is seeking actively to obtain Heip's release.

Heip, who is described as stateless and destitute, is 'in the dubious sanctuary of a fenced-off compound for Vietnamese at Nong Chan camp.'

Heip quit his home and his country on April 3rd, 1980 after two abortive attempts to escape by boat. He bluffed, bribed and took every conceivable chance as he plunged through Kampuchea in a group with nine other Vietnamese.

Because of the dangers, Heip's wife Vinh and two young daughters were forced to remain in Ho Chi Minh City.

The four Khmer escorts who had been paid in gold to act as escorts turned on Heip and his companions, terrorised them with knives and grenades and robbed them of every last valuable.

They then stumbled into a "Free Khmer" guerrilla base on the fringe of Nong Chan camp near the Thai border. Stripped of everything but the crumpled fatigues he was wearing Heip had managed to cling to a small plastic bag of papers containing photocopies from the pages of an expired passport and his original diploma sealed by the Caulfield Institute of Technology.

His plight was uncovered by a journalist whose report was first published in the Bangkok Post on April 27th. The account was reprinted in the National Times, Sydney.

His cause was then taken up with Immigration authorities in Canberra and has been assured that with sponsorship, Heip would be favourably considered for entry into Australia.

Formal sponsorship includes the offer of accommodation and assistance in seeking a job.

To get Heip to Australia, he has first to make it across the Thai border. It appears that it is impossible to help as long as he remains within Kampuchea.

One means would be if he were to be transferred to a U.N. High Commission for Refugees camp. Once there formal arrangements for his exit could begin. Another appears to be some means by which Heip may bribe his way across the Thai border. But there appears to be no way of sending him money for this purpose — it would never get to him.

While it is believed he is in the Nong Chan camp to which the Red Cross has access, it is necessary to locate him if the plans for his release from his predicament and his coming to Australia are to be implemented.

Kampuchean hostility towards Vietnamese is traditional, and no provocation is really needed for violence to erupt.

According to the Bangkok Post article, the dangers for refugees seeking flight from Vietnam across Kampuchea can be more daunting than those faced by the boat refugees striking out across the South China Sea.

C.R.B. Comes to the A.L.P.

The highlight of the July meeting of the Caulfield Branch of the Australian Labor Party was undoubtedly the discussion with the Country Roads Board and its plans for the Princes Highway East Redevelopment Project.

Mr. Graham Gilpen, C.R.B. engineer in charge of the project was a guest of the meeting. He broadly outlined for members the nature of the C.R.B. and then detailed the latest proposal for the redevelopment of Princes Highway East.

This proposal has evolved since the June 4th conference of interested parties and takes into account arguments presented at the conference.

A number of significant features have been incorporated into the latest proposal. These include the construction of a road underpass just east of Malvern station which puts all traffic onto a 6 lane highway north of the railway line, further measures to reduce noise levels on the Malvern side of the highway and provision of a service road for Malvern East residents and the Caulfield East shopping centre. This proposal has received the support of the Caulfield City Council. Discussion of the proposal centred around costs of the project, noise levels and other issues of interest.

No formal resolutions were put to the meeting. The next meeting of the Caulfield Branch will be held at the Henty Office of the A.L.P., 105 Grange Road, Carnegie on Thursday August 14th commencing at 8.15 p.m.

It is hoped to have Dr. Gerard Vaughan M.L.A. for Glenhantly as guest at the meeting.

If you have any enquiries about the A.L.P. or membership of the Caulfield Branch, you are invited to contact the Secretary, Liz Colbert on 509 0590 or just come along to the next meeting. You will be most welcome.

SOLVE THOSE HEAD LICE PROBLEMS

1 Head lice live on people.

2 They bite and make you itch.

3 They lay eggs called nits which stick to your hair.

4 These nits hatch into new lice. They are very small.

5 Lice travel easily from one friend to another.

6 No one wants itchy lice. So get rid of them! First wash your hair and let it dry.

7 Then rub in a special lotion from the Council Health Dept or the Chemist. Read the instructions fully.

8 Rub the lotion well into the scalp. Leave it in the hair for the recommended time.

9 Then comb while your hair is still damp.

10 Nits remain stuck to the hair after treatment. They are very difficult to remove. Washing and combing will help.

11 A Sackers fine metal tooth special comb is the best of all for removing nits.

12 Once they've gone, don't let them back. Check the rest of your family to make sure they haven't any lice.

13 Wash all garments and bed clothes in hot water. Vacuum carpets and soft furnishings.

14 Don't forget to keep checking weekly for nits and lice in case they come back.

15 It doesn't matter who you are - lice will live on anybody. For further information contact your Council Health Surveyor.

Lotion can be obtained from the Inspections Services Department at the Town Hall or the Infant Welfare Centres at Murrumbidgee and Carnegie.

News From Council

Amusement Parlour Prosecution

The owners and occupiers of an illegal amusement parlour operating in Balaclava Road were prosecuted by the Caulfield City Council and were fined a total of $700 in the Elsternwick Magistrates Court on the 26th June.

The parlour was operating without a Town Planning Permit and the Council was awarded costs of $455.

Resident Bee Keeping

The Council has given permission to an apiarist to keep two hives on his property. As a professional beecatcher it was felt necessary for facilities to be provided for the placement of wild swarms before transfer.

As a condition for issuing a permit it was necessary that an open water supply be provided on the property to remove the need for bees to move outside for water.

The swarms will only be allowed to be stored for a maximum of two weeks prior to relocation, and it appears that, in practice, professional bee keeping in residential areas does not constitute a hazard to surrounding areas.

More Parking for C.I.T. Students

Investigations are being made into the possibility of providing more parking facilities for students at C.I.T.

An application has been made to the Road Safety and Traffic Authority to convert the 45° angle parking in Station Street to 90° parking and the parallel parking in Smith Street to 45° parking.

The proposals have been forwarded to the Institute for comment and the possibility of charging for on street parking in the area is being investigated.

Shopping Guides for Carnegie

Two graphic design Graduates from Caulfield Institute of Technology are producing as a voluntary project, a shopping directory for the Carnegie Shopping Centre. The Directory will be in map form and be produced in conjunction with the Carnegie Chamber of Commerce.

New Town Hall Hiring Charges

Charges for the hiring of the Town Hall have been reviewed. Charitable organizations may be entitled to concessional rates. For further information contact the Town Hall.

NOISE ABATEMENT

In recent times there has been a growing concern over the incidence of 'nuisances' caused by noise. Every owner or occupier of a property should be able to enjoy such ownership or occupation without having to endure conditions which are detrimental to such enjoyment.

Noise is usually defined as unwanted sound, but in trying to deal with alleged noise nuisances one is frequently confronted by differences of opinion.

What one person regards as an intolerable nuisance another may easily tolerate or even enjoy. The investigation of noise complaints is therefore a matter of some complexity, and requires not only sound technical knowledge, but considerable tact as well.

The Council's Health Inspectors can help you with noise problems, telephone 524 3271.

A Helping Hand

Arnold Barber, a second year EDP student at CIT, takes the first step toward lending a helping hand to local residents.

Students from the Caulfield Institute of Technology are helping themselves, and others too. They have distributed 200 pamphlets to local residents advising their availability for part-time work.

The financial situation of most students is pretty grim. The maximum allowance is $45 per week and there is little left after rent payment, food and transport costs, even for the most frugal.

The Careers and Employment Service at CIT runs a part-time/casual vacancy service. People contact Careers and Employment with job offers and the details are displayed on a noticeboard which is checked daily by students. Those interested can then contact employers directly and come to a suitable arrangement.

Students prefer regular work, on a weekly basis for example, but they are prepared to try just about anything once — ever thought of having someone dress up in a Mickey Mouse suit to entertain small birthday guests!

The most regular requests are for housecleaning, typing, tutoring, gardening and general labouring.

Residents who think that this service may be able to help them are invited to ring the CIT Careers and Employment Service on 573 2322.

The Council has also helped with equipment and allows the use of the mini bus to pick up folk who otherwise would be unable to get to the centre. Mr Dick Reid is the volunteer driver.

Under the State Government's F.A.C.S. Program (Family and Community Services) a community services grant of $500 enabled the centre to purchase 10 trestle tables.

The afternoon is spent in playing cards, chequers or scrabble and a corner is set aside for those who just want to 'chat'. Afternoon tea brings this outing to a close about 3.30 p.m.

A loyal band of volunteers enables this work to be carried on by helping to serve the meal, by transport and by supplying afternoon tea.

Red Cross Ladies Meet for the Last Time

With the threat of war in 1939, the Red Cross companies of Caulfield were formed to instruct the women of the community in all aspects of first aid, nutrition and resuscitation methods.

A driving force behind the Murrumbeena Company — F Company — was Mrs Addie Tyers, a member of the Red Cross Society since 1915.

The ladies of the Company have met monthly since that time in 1939 and many have been faithful for all those years. But sadly these meetings have had to come to an end: As the years go by the ladies are finding it harder and harder to move the tables and chairs into their hall.

Cr Ron Walters attended their final meeting and spoke of the great work that had been done by the group.

Above right: Mrs Addie Tyers with some of the ladies who met regularly at the Murrumbeena Hall to play cards and raise funds for the Red Cross Society.
