LIVING BETTER WITH LESS — World Environment Day, 5th June.

On World Environment Day this year we need to think about coming to terms with resource scarcity, environmental pollution and associated social questions.

These concerns are recognised throughout the world. Nations are recognising the fact that in many fields current practices of expansion cannot continue. The result is that people around the world are confronting the future with creative initiatives moving toward a conservator society.

A conservator society can be defined simply in terms of three basic characteristics: harmony with nature; waste reduction; long-term horizon as basis for decision-making.

In other words, in a conservator society, conservation is the result of critical analysis and both technical and social innovation.

This year's theme is "Living Better With Less". Conservation of the environment and natural resources will be a global task of the 1980's. Australia has a responsibility and a role to play in preparing for a different future.

You could promote activities in your community for World Environment Day like: planning talks, seminars and displays on conservation techniques; organising car pools so people who work in or near the same area can drive to work together in one car; promoting recycled products.

Remember, World Environment Day is more than just a day. It's a chance to stimulate interest and concern for our environment and our future. Think of this year's theme "Living Better With Less" and decide how you can participate in this year's activities.

The old saying 'many hands make light work' is specially true when it comes to weeding.

And when the work is done for a recently widowed resident of Caulfield it is all the more worthwhile:

Students from Caulfield Grammar School recently visited many elderly citizens' homes and helped with gardening as part of an activities day community service project.

The students have some six such days during the year which includes sports, cadets, bushwalking and community service.

Drought — disasters yet to come

The recent heavy rains following the prolonged dry spell in much of the continent reminded Australians of the disturbing variability of our climate.

Dr John Zillman, Director of the Commonwealth Bureau of Meteorology, believes this variability may be increasing, that we may be in for worse floods and droughts in the years to come.

Dr Zillman was speaking at an informal seminar at Caulfield Institute of Technology earlier this month, part of the bi-annual Advisory Committee meeting of the Centre for Information and Research on Disasters and Natural Hazards (CIRDNH) established at CIT a year ago.

CIRDNH acts as a clearing house and focal point for inquiries regarding the effects and prevention of disasters (both man-made and natural) of relevance to Australia, and includes distribution of information and research findings to and from overseas. A newsletter Beyond Impact has a wide distribution among experts from all disciplines as well as disaster workers and emergency service personnel throughout the Australian region.

CIRDNH has so far been funded by CIT, but due to severe financial cut-backs in the advanced education sector, this will not be possible in 1981, and alternative sources of funding are being sought for the Centre.

The Advisory Committee expressed concern that what has been acknowledged as a valuable function and the only Australia-wide forum for disaster experts, may have its activities severely curtailed due to lack of funding.

For more information on CIRDNH, telephone Ian Murray on 573 2477.

CHARLES BARWOOD — Anzac Veteran

The years of the First World War seem eons away for most people. But to hear Charles Barwood speak of his wartime experiences is to live again, with him, those days of valour, comradeship and herosim; days of deprivation, pain and hardship.

Charles F. Barwood, J.P. is one of the few Anzac Veterans left in Caulfield. At 84-years-of-age he has seen great changes in the world around him.

Born in England, he left school at the age of 14 and gained a position with the Upper Assam Tea Company. He worked for the firm for nearly three years but hated city life and yearned to work on the land.

With few opportunities in his homeland he sought a new life in Australia. In 1912, with 10 gold sovereigns in his specially made belt, he was met at the Oakleigh Railway Station by his new employer. Charles was to work in a market garden in Mount Waverley (then open bushland) and was promptly informed that he would be paid 10 shillings a week, plus keep, and would need to supply his own blankets.

From sunup to sundown, he worked, 6 days a week. Sunday was a more restful day. After milking the cows and cleaning out the stables he was given the rest of the day off.

After two years, an urge to move on and a slight difference of opinion, which resulted in a heap of manure being pitched over his employer, Charles began work with an orchardist.

At 10 shillings a week he decided that there was no money to be made in these areas and he was unable to save for his dream — a property of his own. So Charles and a friend boarded a ship for Queensland to try their hands at cane cutting. With no money and few provisions they planned to walk from Brisbane to Bundaberg. But food ran out and they were forced to take work with the Railways. After only a day's work and hands so blistered they could work no more, they decided to move onto Gladstone where they were told that "war had been declared."

Putting his age up Charles Barwood enlisted and was allocated to the 15th Battalion, 4th Brigade, and after training was dispatched to Egypt and from there was sent to Gallipoli.

He remembers the hardships that the men had to live under. Food was in short supply and there was a constant diet of bully-beef, Army biscuits and whatever food they could scrounge. He suffered from the heat of the summer and the bitter cold of the winter. After days without food Charles and many others were admitted to hospital suffering from malnutrition.

But the war continued. The 15th Battalion was sent to France as the Germans broke through the lines. Whenever he was with the battalion it seemed that they saw action at the front line. In April of 1917 Charles Barwood was commissioned in the field to the rank of Lieutenant. It was almost unprecedented that he should not have returned to England for officer training and was even allowed to stay as an officer with his own unit.

There are many tales that Mr Barwood can tell of his war-time service. Wounded twice himself, he lost a lot of friends in action. "There were times," he says, "call it intuition or whatever you like, that I just felt compelled to warn men of possible dangers. At night I had suggested that a man should change the spot he had chosen to sleep. In the morning there was nothing but a gaping hole in the ground."

Because he was with a Queensland Battalion Mr Barwood has not attended Anzac commemorations for many years. In the early days a few of the old group would get together but he has now lost contact with them all.

After the war, work was hard to get and as a last resort, Charles joined a long queue of men who were waiting to be interviewed for a position as a Real Estate Salesman.

When his turn to be interviewed came he showed no interest in the salary offered, "It's not the money I want," he said, "but the job." He got it.

At one pound a week plus commission he managed to sell a house the first day at work. He was ecstatic and laughed to himself all the way home on the tram.

Mr Barwood stayed in Real Estate for 45 years, until his retirement. He sold his business to another well known respected Real Estate business who complimented Charles when they suggested that they would probably not be able to give clients his same personalised service.

Throughout his life he has shown a keen interest in people. He has been a Justice of the Peace for the last 30 years and was the Foundation President of the Caulfield Auxiliary for the Victorian School for Deaf Children.

As Foundation President of the St Kilda Branch of the Liberal Party he is still greatly interested in politics. Now in his retirement he still keeps abreast of what is happening in the political arena. It is while he works in his beautifully kept garden that he ponders on solutions for the many problems of inflation, unemployment and others.

Charles Barwood is definitely an outdoor person. He is a past President of the Caulfield Park Bowls Club and from boyhood has been a keen fisherman. "There is probably no stream in Victoria that I haven't fished or know something about," he says. "I've even fished Tasmania and New Zealand."

He ties his own flies and he and Mrs Barwood go fishing every chance they can — which does not seem to be often enough these days.

An extremely active man, even the kitchen does not escape him, and Mrs Barwood tells of his expertly cooked apple sponge.

After 55 years in Caulfield we can see that Charles Barwood has served his community well. Although many changes have taken place around him he is pleased with what he sees.

"There is a spirit of awareness in the community today — people taking more responsibilities and showing greater interest."

Charles Barwood has certainly set a good example in the past and is sure to continue to do so.

Music Discussion Series

The Department of Discussion Services of the Council of Adult Education has produced a series of five cassette tapes which explore the history of some popular music forms. They come complete with notes, discussion questions and a copy of the script.

Each of the programs is self-contained and designed for use in groups or individual listening.

THE PROGRAMS

Jazz

Looks at the way jazz evolved through various stages from a black slave folk music into a highly sophisticated art form.

The Blues

Traces the origins of this music form from its black slave beginnings as a music of anguish and despair to its arrival as a continually developing music form of universal appeal.

Country and Western

A unique music style that commenced in the high country of the eastern seaboard of America where it was called 'hill-billy' music, fused with the cowboy songs of the western U.S.A., and spread to the rest of the world via Nashville.

Rock 'n Roll

From Presley to Punk, from Domino to Disco — the short story of this century's most influential music form.

Each of the programs is self-contained but because rock 'n roll developed from the blues (and has been influenced by jazz and country music) it would be useful to listen to that program after completing the others.

Cost

To buy: $12.00 each tape ($50.00 the set), to hire: $5.00 per use.

Those present were proud to wish her a happy day and thanked her for the work she had done. In response Mrs Webster gave the Mission a present by generously donating $100 to its work.

The group is holding a Card Party on Friday, June 20 at 12.30 p.m. in the Auxiliary Room at the Caulfield Town Hall. Admission is $2 and a table can be reserved by telephoning Mrs Webster on 523 5357.

OPERATION ARGUS

A Program of education and enforcement relating to pedestrians and registration of motor cars, is to be mounted by the Police Department over the winter months.

An identical operation in 1979 achieved, in tangible terms, a 20% reduction in pedestrian fatalities, and the detection of over 2,000 unregistered motor vehicles.

To achieve significant results foot patrols will be maintained at the maximum level permitted by manpower constraints. Where possible, mobile crews will park their cars and maintain a foot patrol from time to time in busy thoroughfares and at hazardous intersections in their patrol areas.

Particular attention will be paid to pedestrians who disregard the road laws, and drivers who fail to comply with regulations.

Research conducted into pedestrian accidents has shown that the majority of any type of pedestrian accident occurs during the afternoon peak time, i.e. between 4.00 p.m. and 8.00 p.m.

The age of the victim appears to play a significant role as to the type of road on which that person is involved in an accident. About 75% of metropolitan accidents occur on arterial roads while more children seem to be involved in accidents on minor roads.

Roads where there are shopping centres, narrow roads, tram lines, and parked vehicles are consistently susceptible to pedestrian accidents.

BE SEEN. BE SAFE What can you do?

- Wear light coloured clothing, use reflective aids or carry a torch when out in the evening.
- Cross the road, where possible, at designated points i.e. pedestrian crossings, traffic lights etc.
- Avoid stepping out from between parked vehicles.
- Do not assume that you are readily visible to an approaching motorist.
- Avoid having to wait in the centre of the road for the traffic to clear.
- If necessary, seek help from someone else who can see you safely across the road.

CHILDREN

- Stay off major roads
- Do not play on or near a road
- Be careful using buses and trams.
- Get on and off carefully.
- Do not run out from between parked cars.

Important Road Traffic Regulations

PEDESTRIANS

- Obey traffic control signals and signs.
- Keep to the left when on a footpath, a marked cross-walk or a pedestrian crossing.
- When crossing a road, do so as nearly as is practicable by the shortest, most direct route.
- While waiting to board a tram or bus, do not stand on any portion of the roadway, other than a safety zone.
- Do not leave the footpath until the vehicle is stopped.
- Do not alight from or board a moving vehicle.
- Do not remain on a pedestrian crossing longer than is necessary.
- Do not walk on the roadway if a footpath is available.
- If no footpath is available, walk facing the oncoming traffic, as close to the edge of the roadway as is possible. Remember: Drunken pedestrians may need to be arrested for their own protection. It can be just as dangerous to walk on our highways as it is to drive a motor car.

MOTORISTS

- Travel at a speed which will enable you to stop before reaching a pedestrian crossing.
- Give way to pedestrians on crossings.
- Do not enter a crossing where a vehicle is stopped on the approach side.
- Observe prohibited standing plates, particularly those in close proximity to intersections, pedestrian crossings, school crossings and safety zones.
- Observe the speeds set in designated zones.
- Be sure that your car windows are clean and that you have clear vision.

REMEMBER THAT ALL THESE REGULATIONS CAN BE ENFORCED BY LAW! HELP YOUR POLICE FORCE BY CO-OPERATING WITH OPERATION ARGUS.

Locals support Indian children

The Ormond Community Aid Abroad group began its activities in 1968. With excellent local support they have been able to sponsor, each year, many self-help projects in underdeveloped countries.

Support has been given to village industries, agricultural projects, to an Australian Volunteer Abroad and other projects. This year the Ormond C.A.A. is hoping to raise enough money for one of 30 Child Emergency Centres being established in the Ankhra Pradesh Cyclone Disaster area in India.

In November, 1977 coastal villages in this region were devastated, the tragedy of a second cyclone in less than two years passed almost unnoticed in Australia. This time 2,500,000 have been left homeless, 1200 people died, thousands of cattle and other livestock were destroyed and peoples' belongings have been washed away. For the few days after the cyclone hit there was no drinking water and all the food was dropped by air.

In such a situation the plight of the children cannot be described.

Fortunately, from experience gained in 1977, C.A.A. and Oxfam have again begun work on emergency centres and the Ormond group has pledged to raise $2184 for one of 30 centres.

Street stalls, book fairs, film nights as well as direct giving have helped the group to reach its target each year.

One of the more successful ventures in the past has been the Southern Suburbs Music Festival. This year it will take place in the Caulfield Town Hall on three successive Tuesday evenings in July — the 15th, 22nd and 29th. (See next Contact for more information.)

Meanwhile, there is to be an Orchestral Concert on Saturday June 28th at 8 p.m. at the Christ Church, Church of England, on the corner of North Road and Wheatly Road in Ormond.

The program will be provided by the Victoria Junior Symphony Orchestra and tickets will cost $2.50 and $1.50.

The young people of this orchestral group have helped

Working together to rebuild a country. The program of aid to countries in Asia, Africa and the Pacific receives support from 150 A.A. Groups throughout Australia.

the Ormond C.A.A. in this manner twice before. They have provided a splendid program with music making of a very high standard, under the direction of their enthusiastic conductor.

If you have any queries about either of these functions, please contact the Secretary of the Group, Mr Albert Ward on 578 2327.

For those who may be interested in joining the Group, they meet on the first Monday of each month at 8 p.m. in the Ormond Special School, Walsh Street.

NURSING MOTHERS — FILM MAKERS

"Breastfeeding what a beautiful thing to do . . ." is a film made by two Office Bearers of the Rosanna Group of the Nursing Mothers Association.

The film was made with the help of one of the husbands, a free lance cinematographer, and covers the whole cycle of breastfeeding from ante-natal preparation, through to the older baby.

It will be shown on Wednesday June 25th at 8.00 p.m. at the Caulfield Hospital Recreation Room in Kooyong Road.

Included in this film are two births: one a Le Boyer and the other a caesarian section.

It looks at breastfeeding in the family situation, the feeding of twins, night waking and the introduction of other foods.

The evening is open to the public and is recommended for both husbands and wives. A donation of $1.00 is being asked to cover expenses and supper will be included.

If you intend going along, for catering purposes, please telephone 523 7462.

The Nursing Mothers Association of Australia is a non-profit organization, set up in 1964 to assist mothers who wish to breastfeed their babies.

Counselling is offered to mothers on a mother-to-mother basis with complete confidentiality. Counselling is available to all mothers — members and non-members alike.

The Association is divided into groups with each group being led by a breastfeeding Counsellor. At present, there are 109 groups throughout Victoria with a total of 255 Counsellors within those groups. The progressive membership of the Association to date is 44,385.

This film is being sponsored by the Elsternwick Group and further information on that group can be obtained from Katrina McNamara on 523 5920.

CAULFIELD HIGH SCHOOL TACKLES CAREER AND UNEMPLOYMENT PROBLEMS

The Career Room — Room 107 — at Caulfield High School is open every lunch time for students to browse, read books, listen to cassettes and use the microfiche reader.

This room was established in 1979 and the Career teachers at the school have established a worthwhile program.

Visiting speakers have provided valuable insights into the working world and its requirements. Students have been introduced to careers in nursing demonstrations in hairdressing and discussions on flying in the Air Force. In the future students can look forward to visitors from the Equal Opportunity Board from R.M.I.T. and others.

Work experience has been arranged for a number of Level 11 and Level 10 students this year. Any student who is 15 years of age or over may participate. Whilst work experience does not create jobs, it does provide observational experience that schools cannot provide.

42,000 students participated in work experience programs in Victoria last year.

A number of senior students have requested mock interviews to be arranged for them. This would provide them with valuable experience as the time for leaving school approaches.

A number of professional people from a wide variety of occupations have offered their services to help students in this way.

Elizabeth Barany (Sales Co-ordinator) left and Adrianna Doumis (Advertising Manager), both from Caulfield High School, demonstrating the board game "Intellect" which the Company, Team Dynamics will market.

Parent Training

The Community Care Centre at 240 Kooyong Road, Caulfield will be the venue for classes to assist parents to become more effective in rearing children. Specific skills will be taught in the classes which are aimed at enabling parents to deal with family problems, reduce conflict, strengthen relationships and help the child towards responsible independence. For further information phone Betty Cherny on 528 2994.

A Focus on the Problems of Adolescence

The Children's Services Resource Group are meeting to discuss the needs and services for young people within the City of Caulfield.

If you have an interest in this area come along to the Balcony Meeting Room at the Caulfield Town Hall on Wednesday June 11th at 7.30 p.m.

Mormon Bishop Sets Pace

The Caulfield Youth Group of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints competed in the annual south eastern region athletic sports on Saturday, April 19 and brought home the coveted trophy.

More than 200 competitors took part in the sports at Proclamation Park, Ringwood. Bishop Talbot of Caulfield proved himself to be the fastest middle-aged man winning the 100 metres in grand style. He also won points for Caulfield, in other field and track events.

Most events were for the youth from 12-18 years, but many parents, church leaders and young adults competed in special events. Stars of the day were brother and sister Charlie and Jenny Firth who won several firsts in track and field events.

Young Achievers

Caulfield High School has been included in two Young Achievers programs this year — a program introduced to Australia by the American Chamber of Commerce.

The first group of young achievers, Westfield Enterprises has not, as yet, produced any saleable items, but all have gained valuable insight into the business world.

The group has decided to purchase and screen print windcheaters and T-shirts. Orders have been taken from a Basketball Team, the A.L.P. Glenhantly Branch and the work experience Committee.

Prices for purchasing and selling the completed product have been negotiated, but unforeseen difficulties have arisen; the Basketball team requested yellow windcheaters, and after sales staff had taken their order, it was found that yellow or gold windcheaters are like 'gold' to find — they are running into problems akin to those of the real business world!

B.H.P. have installed the necessary equipment and production will start in earnest at the end of May.

This group is enthusiastic, alert and determined to develop their Company as a profitable organisation.

Wesley College and J. H. Boyd students have amalgamated with Caulfield High School students in a second Young Achievers group. The Company formed has been named Team Dynamics and has elected to manufacture and sell a wooden board game.

They meet weekly at the Offices of I.B.M. Australia, Sponsors for the project, and discuss and organise the business. All production steps are carried out at these meetings and sale of their product will commence early in June.

This will mean that students will become 'salesmen' after school hours; selling directly to neighbours, friends, shops and businesses.

A complete set of financial records are kept, nominal salaries, wages, sales commissions and taxes are paid.

In October an Annual Report will be prepared, the Company liquidated, original investments returned to the shareholders (plus a dividend if the business is successful).

The students are highly motivated and trust that readers will want to purchase the game when they are ready for sale.

For further enquiries, please contact Adrianna Doumis (Caulfield High School), Advertising Manager, Team Dynamics, a Young Achievers Company, c/- IBM Australia Ltd., 2nd Floor, 211 Sturt Street, South Melbourne, 3205.

NEW TRIAL IN ORRONG CRES.

In an attempt to reduce traffic in Orrong Crescent Caulfield Council, following consideration of a report on trial roadworks already installed, has resolved to proceed with a final trial in the area.

It is proposed that the trial will be held for a six week experimental period from the 9th July to the 20th August and will include diagonal road closures in Orrong Crescent at the intersections of Erildoune Street and Cobden Street.

Under the provisions of the Local Government Act 1958, all written objections received before the 13th June will be considered by Council.

To date, traffic experiments have been carried out using roundabouts, peak hour turning bans and half road closures. Full traffic monitoring of the final trial will be undertaken to allow overall effects of the closure to be considered and the most appropriate final treatment determined for the area.

Grandma has a new Friend

Families need worry no longer about their elderly relatives who live alone.

Grandma can now live alone and remain independent.

Her new found friend is a simple inexpensive alarm system called 'Alert', which will alert the neighbours if Grandma has a fall or urgently needs help.

This means that there are no more worries about not being able to call for help or being too ill to call out.

'Alert' uses a cord suspended from the ceiling to floor level with an alarm fitted outside the house. The system is maintenance free and will be inspected every six months, free of charge.

It costs $50-$80 to install (depending on the number of chords) is simple to operate and fitted without fuss.

If you live in a flat or unit there is a special quieter system which still calls for help just as effectively.

'Alert' also has the capacity to frighten away intruders. Anyone who is around the house and shouldn't be will rapidly disappear if the alarm is sounded.

The system is specially useful for handicapped people who may fear getting into difficulties at anytime.

If you would like to talk about the 'Alert' system, telephone 557 4780 and ask for John.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Memories of E.E. Gunn Reserve

Madam,

Having read your article of E.E. Gunn Reserve, I would say we are very proud of the Parks and Gardens in Caulfield and the way they are cared for.

Going back to 1920, the Park then was a waste piece of land with a ravine at one end where the Rosstown Rail was.

The Council has made many great improvements since then. In the early days of 1920 the Citizens formed a Progress Association and in conjunction with Caulfield Council started to form the Ormond Park.

Much hard work was done, voluntarily, until it was ready for the Clubs to play football, cricket and baseball.

The old pavilion was not big enough for all the Clubs to use.

Mr Adam Coulson in his own time, with material given by the Council, built the old wooden pavilion near the railway, which has now been replaced by a brick building.

Baseball was not well known then, but there were a few in Victoria. It was thought to be an American game only. Alf Travis an ex member of Hawthorn-East Malvern Club, started the Ormond Baseball Club with some of his own material.

I would like to pay tribute to some of those old Citizens, now gone, for what they achieved.

Ted McWilliam Snr. did a splendid job with the Junior Football Team for many years.

The Cricket Club used only matting then, and the "old sports" would sweep the matting and look after the old pavilion, till a Caretaker could be had.

There are a few names I would like to mention who helped to make the grounds a success.

Ladson, Kidd, Rowse, now dead. During the last war the Ormond Baseball Club entertained some of the Hospital Unit, of the American Force, with a game, and refreshments given to the visitors.

The women also helped where possible and raised funds to buy materials for the various Clubs.

I thank Mr. E. Gunn for bringing the Clubs together as a sporting unit able to partake in the benefits given by the Council. My backyard is right behind the goal posts.

Amy Travis — Glenhantly.

Pre-Driver Education at Caulfield Technical School

Mr. Dinsdale with three Year 10 students from Caulfield Technical School, discussing safety features of car design.

The Pre-Driver Education Course is continuing this year at Caulfield Technical School.

It has again been made possible by the generous donation of a new dual-controlled Gemini, through a local dealer, Booran Motors of Glenhuntly.

The aim of the course is to give students some basic knowledge about car performance, road law, road safety, and the costs of owning and maintaining a car. The course does not aim to prepare students for driving licence tests.

Each student has a period of theory per week, plus a number of "behind-the-wheel experiences".

The course is available to all Year 10 students.

The teacher in charge, Mr. Dinsdale, has completed a 6 weeks training course, which included two weeks practical instruction at the Goulburn Valley Driver Training Complex. "The course is designed to develop better attitudes in future drivers before they commence driving", Mr. Dinsdale said.

Before the Dinner, the Mayor of Caulfield, Cr. Max Blair, presented cheques of $1,000 each to Mr R. L. Montgomery, Chairman of the Caulfield Hospital Board and Mr. R. L. Benjamin, President of the Royal Southern Memorial Hospital.

The money was raised at the Australia Day Breakfast in January, and will be used for the hospitals special projects.

The Mayor also presented a silver desk plaque engraved with the Caulfield Coat of Arms to Cr. Geoff Patience, and the Mayoress presented a hand engraved sterling silver and enamel brooch to Mrs. Jean Patience.

Japanese Ceramics

An Exhibition of recent work by The Japanese Sodeisha Group will be on display at the Caulfield Arts Centre from Friday, June 6th through to Sunday, June 29th with an official opening to be held at 8.00 p.m. on Thursday, June 5th. This Group has played an important role in the contemporary ceramic art movement in Japan.

Their innovation introduced a new dimension on the development of ceramics in Europe and in America.

Avant-garde ceramics in Japan, as distinct from ceramics for day-to-day use, have been pioneered in Japan for over 20 years by Kazuo Yagi and other artists in Sodeisha. This very lively group was established in 1948 and constituted the only group of avant-garde artists at that time, in strong opposition to the conservative mainstream.

They moved away from the making of receptacles like pots and vases, and began making objects to be considered as pure works of art. Since then they have aligned themselves with other movements in the contemporary arts in Japan and their work has developed in to a unique and distinct sculpture using the medium and techniques of pottery.

The term "object" which was linked to surrealism when it came to Japan, was applied to their work by art critics. Their work is now famous in Japan as "object-ceramics".

Naturally, many young people in Japan share the same interests as the Sodeisha Group and while there are any number of aspiring ceramists who follow their lead, there are no other groups of avant-garde ceramists with such vitality and insight.

This Australia-wide tour of the display provides Australians with the first opportunity to see the work of this Group, which has played a significant role in the emergence of a new international ceramic awareness.

The Exhibition is presented by the Australian Gallery Directors Council; sponsored by the Crafts Board of the Australia Council and Sodeisha with the support of the Japan Foundation.

Gallery hours: Tuesday-Friday 10 a.m.-6 p.m.; Saturday and Sunday 1 p.m.-6 p.m.

Enquiries to Mrs. J. Hochmann on 524 3277. Special School viewing hours available.

Dog Registrations

The Registration fee of all dogs domiciled in Caulfield, for the year April 1980 to April 1981, was payable by the 10th April, 1980.

The date for payment of the registration fee has been advanced to the 30th June 1980, and after this date, On-The-Spot Dog Infringement penalties will be automatically imposed on the owner of an un-registered dog.

The penalty imposed under the Dog Act is double the registration fee.

HOLOCAUST EXHIBITION

The Holocaust Exhibition which opens in Tramways Hall, corner of Gertrude and Nicholson Streets, Fitzroy, on May 28 will be the focus of a much wider educational campaign to produce broad public understanding of the cataclysm which struck the Jewish people and other groups under Nazism.

The exhibition which will continue until June 12, is designed to be portable so that it may be shown in other Australian cities. The visual materials — comprising a wealth of documents, books, photographs, posters and other rare archival objects from this tragic period — will be reinforced by audio and visual material on tapes and film, much of it recent interviews with survivors of the extermination camps.

Since the idea of the exhibition was first conceived by the Jewish B'nai B'rith organisation, a large number of Jewish and non-Jewish organisations and people have become involved in its preparation. Specialists in the field of communication and electronics have also volunteered their services.

As the years pass, the survivors of the Holocaust diminish in numbers and it is essential that their memories and records of those years be collected and maintained in permanent form.
