WORLD RECOGNITION FOR DIABETES RESEARCH

The World Health Organisation, after consultation with the Federal Government, has designated the Royal Southern Memorial Hospital in Kooyong Road, Caulfield, as a W.H.O. Collaborating Centre for the Epidemiology of Diabetes Mellitus and has appointed Professor Paul Zimmet the Principal Investigator and Head of the Centre.

Professor Zimmet, director of the hospital's department of metabolic medicine and epidemiology, said that this is the first such centre in the Western Pacific region of the World Health Organisation, and as far as he knows, the first in the world.

For the past five years he has been consultant to the World Health Organisation in diabetes and metabolic diseases and has been carrying out a research program on diabetes and cardiovascular diseases in South Pacific Island populations.

A constitutional function of this organisation with its headquarters in Geneva, Switzerland, is to promote and conduct research in the field of Health. One way of doing this is through their worldwide collaborating centres.

The criteria taken into consideration in selecting an institution as a collaborating centre are:

- The standing of the institution at the international and national level in the particular field of research.

- The staff and facilities it offers for the services to be rendered to the World Health Organisation.

- Its capacity to continue to provide services over a prolonged period and not merely for a single distinct research task.

The Royal Southern Memorial Hospital is to be commended on the standard of its staff and services and congratulated on receiving such international recognition.

Back Door Migration to Stop

Illegal immigrants were given the chance to legalize their stay in Australia when the Government announced its regularisation of Status Program in June last year.

Following this amnesty the granting of permanent resident status to people who are in Australia as visitors or who are here illegally will be strictly enforced, the Minister for Immigration and Ethnic Affairs, Mr Ian MacPhee said recently.

Australia welcomes visitors for many reasons and more than one million are expected to come here this year. The great majority of these people will abide by conditions of entry and return home in accordance with their written undertaking to do so. But those who break the law by overstaying their visas and refusing to leave will be deported.

In the past Ministers for Immigration and Ethnic Affairs have had the absolute discretion to grant resident status to visitors and people here illegally. As a result of recent changes to the law, this is no longer the case.

These changes now prevent abuses of the migration policy and back door migration by way of conversion of visitors visa to migrant status which was tantamount to queue jumping was considered to be unfair when considering the million people who annually seek to migrate to Australia.

Visitors who return home after their stay in Australia may, of course, apply then to migrate.

Migration applications will not be accepted for at least 5 years from visitors who do not depart voluntarily and who are consequently deported.

Further information can be obtained by contacting the Minister for Immigration and Ethnic Affairs at Parliament House, Canberra or 4 Treasury Place, Melbourne, 3002.

A New Source of Funds

Because of the low liquidity state of traditional lending institutions, the Council of the City of Caulfield, in common with many other municipalities has experienced extreme difficulty in raising loan monies.

Pressure on interest rates from Building Societies and Finance Companies has taken vast sums from the Savings Bank System over the past two to three years, leaving the major savings banks in the situation of not being able to adequately service their long standing customers with almost no thought being given to taking on new customers with long term borrowing requirements.

Loan Funds form a vital part of the financing structure of the Council's Capital Works Program. It is felt that Building Societies are drawing off personal savings from Saving Banks and as the level of home building is well down it is likely that such Societies could have surplus funds for investment. However, the Building Societies Act of 1976 reveals legal obstacles to lending to municipalities.

The Council therefore is making a submission to the Hon. J. G. Kennett M.P., Minister of Housing, seeking an amendment to the Building Societies Act, 1968 to permit Permanent Building Societies a wider opportunity to lend funds to municipalities.

The Council explored many alternative sources of loan funds but approaches to over 40 institutions drew interest from only one body. The prospect of future difficulties remains, particularly in the light of increasing competition from Savings Banks, Credit Unions, Building Societies and Finance Companies and more importantly increased competition for Loan Funds by the Statutory Authorities. For example the massive loan raisings by Telecom.

Members of the group presenting this deputation include Cr Doolan, Mayor of the City of Caulfield, Cr Blair, Chairman of Executive Services and Permits Committee, Mr Calder, City Manager, Mr Sargent, Manager-Finance and Administration.

Caulfield Grammar Centenary

Caulfield Grammar School, one of Victoria's oldest independent schools, this year celebrates its 100th birthday.

The School, which is now on its fourth main school site, began with nine students on April 25, 1881, in the back room of a shop on the corner of Selwyn Street and Glenhuntly Road, near Elsternwick Station.

More than 12,000 boys will have passed through the School's gates, many having made their mark in education, law, medicine, commerce and politics.

Joseph Henry Davies, the School's founder, set up the school to provide a sound academic and Christian education.

In its second year the school grew to 60 students and five acres were brought and built on in Cotton Street, now known as Regent Street.

When Mr Davies left in 1888 to go to the mission fields in Korea, the Reverend E. J. Barnett became the new Headmaster and he moved the school to a new site, Halstead, situated in what is now called McWhae Avenue, East St. Kilda.

In 1896, the Reverend Barnett decided to devote himself to foreign missionary work. His successor was Mr W. M. Buntine who, after having been an assistant master with the Reverend Barnett, had founded the Hawksburn Grammar School. Mr Buntine brought with him 55 boys from Hawksburn, making a total of 120.

The present site was purchased in 1909 and the School moved to its fourth site in 1910. Then came a period of steady growth, until 1931, the year of the School's Silver Jubilee.

At the end of 1932, Mr Buntine retired and a School Company, a majority of whom were Old Boys, was formed and they took over the school as a Public School.

A School Council was formed and they appointed Mr F. H. Archer, M.A., Dip. Ed., as Headmaster. He had served in this position under Mr Buntine, as Principal, since 1923.

In 1945 a gift of land from the Cuming Family enabled Mr

Archer to pioneer the unique concept of a country centre and Cuming House was officially opened at Yarra Junction in 1947. Also in 1947 Shaw House came into being as the School's preparatory section.

In 1954 Mr Archer retired and the Reverend S. W. Kurrle, B.A., Dip. Ed., (Melb.), M.A. (Oxon), an Old Boy of the School, was appointed Headmaster. During Mr Kurrle's Headmastership great developments took place.

In 1958 the Memorial Hall was opened and in the same year the school was admitted to the Associated Public Schools of Victoria.

The R. W. McCullough Memorial Science Block was opened in 1960 and in 1961, a 100 hectare property adjoining Yarra Junction was purchased. In 1964 a swimming pool was built and a language laboratory opened.

A significant event took place in 1961 when the School affiliated with Malvern Memorial Grammar School which became a junior school terminating at second form.

At the end of 1964 the Reverend Kurrle left Caulfield to become the Headmaster of the King's School, Parramatta, the oldest independent school in Australia. Mr B. C. Lumsden B.A., Dip. Ed., another Old Boy became the sixth Headmaster of the School.

During Mr Lumsden's Headmastership, the amalgamation with Malvern became complete and in 1970, Malvern Grammar School was renamed Malvern House. A major building project was completed in 1973 when the Resource Centre — a major section of the Senior School — Big Room, Senior Classrooms and Administration Centre was opened, Cuming House with an Outward Bound concept being an educational feature of the period.

The school had considerable success in the sporting area and consolidated its position as a leading school in the Associated Public Schools.

On Mr Lumsden's retirement in 1977 the Reverend Angus Holmes, B.A., B.D. (Lond.), M.R.E. (Berkeley), Dip. Ed., M.A.C.E., was appointed Headmaster.

Since then the development of the Wheelers Hill site has been put in train, the junior grades centralised at Malvern House with the subsequent sale of Shaw House, and the continued overall development of facilities and a strengthening of educational goals.

Recently, the school undertook building projects at five sites — a new art-craft centre at the Senior School, renovations at Malvern House, and increased accommodation works at Yarra Junction.

The new co-educational campus at Wheelers Hill (Senior School and Malvern will continue for boys only) has now begun taking students, and the school has just begun to build, under an arrangement with the Banks Rowing Club, new facilities to be shared by the School and the Club on the banks of the Yarra.

An impressive program of Centenary events has been arranged by the School Council.

They range from a State Reception at the National Gallery to the opening of the School's new co-ed. branch at Wheelers Hill.

In between these events will be the unveiling of plaques at four former school sites in and around Elsternwick, sport, an Open Day, Centenary Ball, Founders' Day service and the laying of a site marker for a new School Chapel.

Left: Old Boy, Mr Lindsay Thompson, CMG, M.P., Minister Police and Emergency Services, speaks with Mr Horace Webber, Author of "Years May Pass On ..." a History of Caulfield Grammar School, launched at a reception at the weekend held at the Great Hall of the National Gallery at which the Governor-General, Sir Zelman Cowan was the speaker and guest of honour.

THE WINNER IN THE FIFTH

The winner of the fifth race at Caulfield, on the City of Caulfield Race Day was "Soldier of Fortune". The horse, trained by Colin Hayes was ridden by "Midge" Didham and is owned by a syndicate of four.

After the race the Mayor presented the owners with a Silver Salver and expressed the desire of the Council to see the running of the City of Caulfield stakes as an annual event.

The Mayor and Councillors of the City of Caulfield were the guests of the V.A.T.C. Committee for this day and the Chairman, Sir Rupert Clarke, presented the Mayor a Silver Medallion commemorating the centennial running of the Golden Guineas.

A successful year for Children's Hospital Auxiliary

The Caulfield Auxiliary of the Royal Children's Hospital presented a pleasing report at its annual meeting held earlier this month. It was noted that they were able to donate $1575 to the work of the hospital and their thanks go to those who have provided continuous support for their activities.

Whilst they will have to consider a new format for some of their activities (attendance at card afternoons has dropped off dramatically) many other enjoyable functions were well attended; a dinner dance was a happy success; a seminar with a long line up of fine speakers on many facets of the hospital's work was well attended; a visit to a pottery studio; a cooking demonstration and other outings provided interesting times for members.

The year to come also promises to be equally successful.

Historical Society

Many residents of this City are probably unaware of the existence of a Historical Society in their area.

The Caulfield Historical Society has been operating for approximately nine years and is affiliated with the Royal Historical Society of Victoria.

The Society was formed following an idea, and subsequently considerable research by a former resident of Caulfield, Mr T. J. Hart and the co-operation of the then Mayor, Councillor F. A. Arden, who became their first honorary member and patron.

The members of the Society are primarily concerned with the promotion and study of the history of the City and the compilation and preservation of the historical records of the area.

During the nine years they have been in existence a comprehensive collection of photographs, newspapers, artifacts and various other historical records pertaining to the history and growth of Caulfield have been collected and recorded, but these records are far from complete.

The Society is now appealing to all residents of Caulfield in particular and also to the general public of Victoria, for donation of old photographs, books relating to the history of this City, Sands and McDougall directories, family trees of early residents.

Anything at all of a historical interest will be gratefully accepted.

If there are any residents who can recall those early days, the Society would be delighted to put your recollections on tape for posterity.

All donations of historical interest would be acknowledged and a permanent record made of the donor.

Membership of the Society is open to anyone interested in local history.

Meetings are held on the first floor, Auxiliary Meeting Room of the Caulfield Town Hall on the Third Wednesday of each month, excepting January and December.

Further information regarding the activities of the Historical Society may be obtained by contacting the Secretary on 578 3145.

M.P. Speaks out on Library Funding

Municipal library services will continue to decline despite the Minister of the Arts press release of increased government funds, the Member for Glenhuntly, Dr Gerard Vaughan, M.L.A. said recently.

Dr Vaughan said the increase in per capita subsidy is only 25 cents, after no increase in the previous year.

This means that over the two year period government funding of local government library services have failed to increase with inflation, and are falling further behind, Dr Vaughan said.

"There will be about 25 positions less this year than last year as staff is reduced as a result of these effective cut-backs."

"What has begun as an equal partnership between the State Government and Local Government has become very unequal for Local Government.

"Local Councils are now putting in far more than the State Government".

Dr Vaughan said "the average estimated expenditure by metropolitan councils this year is $4.86 per head, yet the State Government is providing only $3.25 per head."

For example in the City of Caulfield the relative costs sharing since 1978 has been:

Year	Council Contribution	% Contribution	State Govt. Contribution	% Contribution
1978	$243,179	53.9%	$207,975	46.1%
1979/80	$273,835	56.2%	$213,375	43.8%
1980/81	$330,703 (Estimated)	58.0%	$239,625 (Actual)	42.0%

"It is time the State Government stopped producing empty press releases and prepared instead a new State Plan for library services in the eighties", Dr Vaughan said.

Services of Interest to Disabled People

Many of the services offered by Caulfield City Council, whilst not specifically designed to cater for disabled people, may be of particular interest to such people and their families.

Home help is available to people who have trouble managing totally on their own, but with some domestic help are able to live independently. The prospective recipient of home help requires a doctor's referral to confirm the need for this assistance, but is ineligible if he or she has any form of employment.

At present a waiting list exists, but if you feel you are eligible for home help, it would be worthwhile, at least, making enquiries and perhaps joining the list.

Enquiries about home help may be directed to Faye Grant or Nicki Landau on 524 3333.

A babysitting service for parents with physically or mentally retarded children is also available. This service is designed to give families a break: a chance to go out together; or to have some social contact. Enquiries about this service may be directed to Nerreida Graham on 524 3316.

Caulfield Council operates a Home Handyman Service which is available to all private residents in Caulfield. Charges are $4.00 an hour for pensioners and $7.00 an hour for other residents are levied, and enquiries may be directed to the Home Handyman, Trevor Keen on 524 3230, between 8.30 and 9.00 a.m. on weekdays.

A social worker is also available at the Town Hall and appointments may be made by contacting 524 3319.

The Caulfield Citizens Advice Bureau can also give comprehensive assistance with many other problems which could arise.

During Keep Australia Beautiful Week, Primary School children of the City were part of a campaign aimed at keeping Caulfield clean.

The Community Liaison Officer from the Council spoke to more than 1150 children during the week, presenting an interesting program, stressing the costs and other problems involved and showing the ways that the Council uses to keep the City clean, tidy and a pleasant place to live.

It may be of interest to residents that the street sweeping and garbage collection bill for the Council is $1.3 million.

Update '81

The Caulfield Continuing Methodist Church hold their meetings at St. Giles property, cnr Neerim Rd. and Bambra Rd., Caulfield. These meetings begin at 11.30 a.m.

The new Pastor is Mr. Fraser Diack and he can be contacted on 481 7539.

Something different for Your Spare Time Join the Army Reserve

The 132 Divisional Locating Battery (RAA) is an Artillery Unit in the Australian Army Reserve located at Landcox Street, East Brighton.

It is an Artillery Unit with a difference. It is a close knit unit with lots of team spirit and plenty of challenges, gaining new skills and experiences which are not necessarily available in an everyday work situation.

These challenges are in the areas of surveying and meteorology.

Training is part-time and can consist of one evening per week, one weekend per month and two weeks of continuous training per year.

The rewards for serving in the Army Reserve are many — Tax-free pay, new and unusual skills to learn, friends to meet and places to see.

To be eligible for enlistment you must be over 17 years of age and under 35 years. You will need to meet medical, dental and psychological standards and have a minimum height of 152 cm if you are a man (there is no minimum height if you are a woman). You must be of good character, and Australian citizen or meet the Army's nationality requirements, and if you are under 18 years of age, you will need your parent's consent.

Promotion is there if you have what it takes, and training for Commissioned rank is available depending on your education and suitability.

During the year you could be taught how to handle the tools of surveying and meteorology — theodolites, radiosondes, tellurometers, man-pack radios and electronic programmable calculators. Sounds too technical? Not really! Most of the soldiers had no previous experience in these areas, but are learning to handle them in a professional manner.

Other jobs are in the areas of administration, catering and equipment repair and recovery, requiring clerks, cooks, drivers, signallers, mechanics and storemen.

If you need more information you can contact your nearest Army Reserve Unit the 132 Divisional Location Battery by telephoning 596 5354 (9 a.m.-4 p.m. weekdays) also Monday evenings between 7.30 p.m. and 9.30 p.m.

Or contact the Army Reserve Recruiting Liaison Staff at Headquarters, 3 Divisional Field Force Group, 'Grosvenor', 55 Queens Road, Melbourne, 3004, Telephone 697 4341/2.

Predictions of water problems

Dr Ed Ongley is forceful, almost aggressive when he asserts that Victoria will face serious water problems unless something is done about it in the next five years.

Dr Ongley was a visiting Fellow at the Caulfield Institute of Technology and Associate Professor of Geography at Queen's University, Kingston, Ontario.

"I can safely predict", said Dr. Ongley, "the deterioration of water quality in Victoria as happened in the United States, unless systematic management is introduced to control the problem."

"Most agencies seem to look at it only as a supply problem, not as a problem of resources."

"The emerging issue is looking at water resources in the context of water supply, water quality, land use management, erosion — these kinds of things."

"No agency seems to have a mandate to do this," he said.

Dr. Ongley's time in Australia was spent divided between Melbourne, Canberra, Sydney and Adelaide, having discussions with scientists and people in authority on the subject of water control.

Whilst here in Caulfield he was the keynote speaker at a water quality management symposium conducted by CIT during February.

Dr Ongley said he had formed the impression that the approach to the problem of water resources in Victoria was extremely fragmented.

The Caulfield City Council has also expressed concern about the quality of water supplied.

Through its representative to the Southern Region Area Commission, Cr. Ron Walters, it is objecting to the proposals being discussed by the MMBW for the possible granting of permits, which would allow tree felling in the catchment areas of the State. Such activities it is felt would disrupt the ecological balance of these areas and possible consequent erosion would result in the pollution of water supplies.

Caulfield's water has recently come under criticism and the water quality section at the MMBW has reported that several complaints have recently been received by that Department.

The reason for the change of the taste in water is put down to the fact that the Caulfield reservoir is no longer in use and water is now delivered by an ordinary pipe line through a pressure reducing valve, thus reducing the water's exposure to the air and the amount of chlorine that is dissipated in the water.

It is possible that this difference in chlorine level could be detected however, much discoloration or change in water taste could be due to ageing water pipes in homes around Caulfield.

Many people who live alone use less water and are less likely to flush out their pipes and sediment can collect and be delivered with the water.

If you are experiencing problems with your water supply it is advised that you contact the Melbourne Metropolitan Board of Works, Water Quality Section, telephone 615 5648.

Management Changes for the City of Caulfield

The City of Caulfield has been described as a leader in Australian Local Government. In 1973 it adopted a corporate approach to management, with a City Manager, and a Management Team, replacing the old Town Clerk/City Engineer structure. This approach was endorsed in 1979 in the final report of the Board of Review of the role structure and administration of local government in Victoria.

This departure in 1973 from the traditional Municipal Management Structure was accompanied by four related steps:

- the introduction of a Committee Structure based on Corporate Functions rather than departments;
- the formulation of written policies on matters within the Council's jurisdiction;
- the delegation of authority to the City Manager and his corporate team for decision making within the framework of the written policies; and
- the introduction of budgeting by function and activity rather than by department and section which is still the norm in Local Government.

The appointment of a City Manager to head the new management structure led a dozen other Melbourne Municipalities to follow suit.

Whilst it is considered that the City of Caulfield is particularly well managed and has made excellent progress over the last seven years, the most important issue now facing the City is how to continue its high standard of management while making further improvements to the system.

With this in mind the Council has commissioned a review of this structure and has recommended the introduction of ten standing officer committees to assist in the co-ordination of day to day management. These are not short-term working parties for handling specific projects but permanent co-ordinating committees which will meet on a regular basis.

These Committees are not designed to undertake day to day management and decision making which will remain the responsibility of Departmental Managers, but will be responsible for Corporate Management of wider areas of concern. For example, Industrial Relations, Building Control, Community Relations, Staff Development etc.

With the commencement of a new Council Year on the 1st of October, 1981, the cycle of the meetings of the Council Committees will be extended from three to four weeks.

The structure of the Council Committees will be modified to provide for the following three Committees.

Planning and Resources Committee

A Committee of all twelve Councillors to consider all policy and resource matters (the old "Planning Committee" includes only six Councillors).

Executive Services Committee

This existing Committee (of six Councillors) will continue to function as at present with the exception that policy matters will be considered by the Planning and Resources Committee.

Environment and Community Development Committee

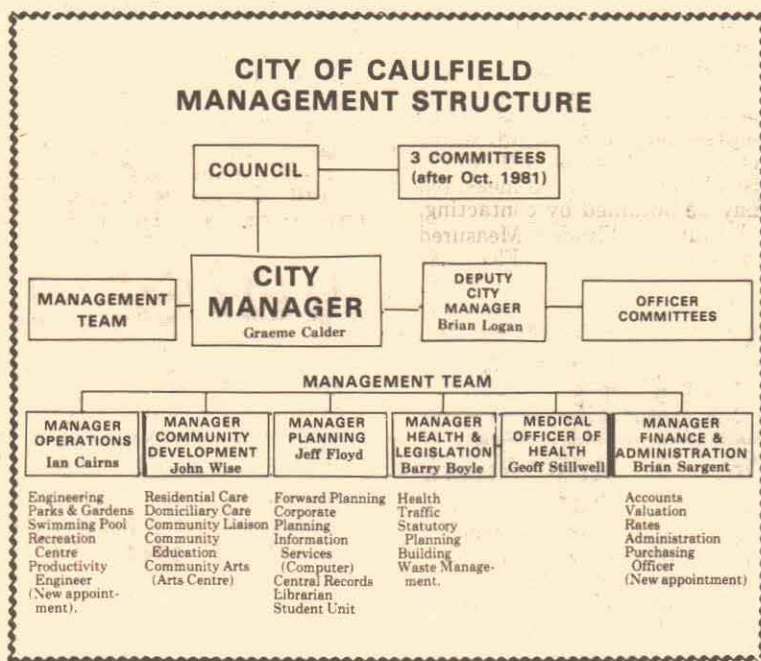

This new Committee (of six Councillors) will take over the functions of the existing P.C.D. Committee and the P.E. Committee with the exception of policy matters which will again be considered by the new Planning and Resources Committee.

The existing General Purposes Committee of all twelve Councillors will be abolished.

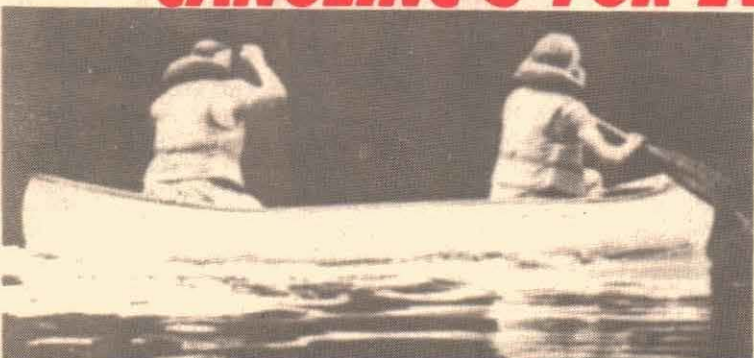

The Management Structure will take the following form:

The City Manager — Graeme Calder remains as the Chief Executive Officer and there will be one Deputy City Manager, Brian Logan who will be Chairman and Convener of the Officer Committees. The number of Departmental Managers has been reduced to five and they have new areas of responsibility. (See the Chart).

The Management Team will comprise the seven Managers and a Medical Officer of Health. The titles of Principal and Senior Officers will be discontinued. Departmental Managers will report directly to the City Manager — an integral and fundamental part of Corporate Management.

CANOEING'S FOR EVERYONE

Canoeing is a growing sport in Australia and because of its versatility almost everybody can participate. This was recently borne out when a special course was organised by the Victorian Board of Canoe Education for people with handicaps.

Nine participants took part in the February course. Their disabilities were diverse, ranging from deafness to severe physical handicaps.

The course structure was based on a theory/safety session, a beach day, participation in a slalom, a sprint regatta, a day tour on the Yarra River, and participation in a "Family Fun Day" at Aura Vale Lake.

It appears that the course achieved its aims although the degree of success varied according to each participant. Two paddlers with cerebral palsy made excellent progress, one paddling a kayak, and another a canoe.

Both were introduced to clubs with whom they have continued their canoeing. The blind participant did well in the front of a double canoe, and has joined a kayak club which already has a blind member.

Although two deaf paddlers dropped out of the course because of their apprehension about being on the water, the third deaf participant was able to master the basic strokes, learnt to Eskimo roll his kayak, has joined a club and has attended several club slaloms.

The mentally retarded paddlers, whilst enjoying the activities, were hampered by their short concentration span, and general communication difficulties.

The Victorian Board of Canoe Education is pleased with the results of the course. During 1981, International Year of the Disabled Person, they will be organising a similar course and hope to include a larger number of participants.

For information about the course, contact Tony and Jill Prior, Senior Instructors, phone 93 4260.

Advance Australia

The Advance Australia campaign, launched in August, 1979, has steadily gained national recognition as a means by which Australians can show support for their country.

A highlight of the campaign is the Advance Australia Award scheme, introduced to identify Australians who have made an outstanding contribution to the country, its people and its lifestyle.

The principle objective of the campaign is to foster a greater demand for Australian products and services, while encouraging more Australians to show support for their country in a practical way.

Achievement of this ideal should have a positive impact on Australian industry and open up greater employment opportunities.

The Advance Australia Awards have been designed to recognise outstanding contributions to advancement of these ideals.

Previous winners of the Advance Australia Award include Fashion Designer, Prue Acton; Recording Company Executive Ron Tudor; Passionist priest Father Jefferies for his work with Asian refugees; Queensland violin maker, Norman Miller and internationally known rock group, Little River Band.

A nomination for an Advance

Australia Award should take the form of a typed summary which outlines in about 500 words how the nominee contributed towards the advancement and enrichment of the Australian way of life.

Nominations are open to all Australians and they will be assessed in the first instance on the effectiveness of the contribution, the spread of its application, and how Australia benefits from the contribution.

Industry, commerce, community service, arts, sport and science are only some of the areas in which the Advance Australia Awards can be presented. So, no-matter what the field of endeavour, if you believe you know an individual, or group, worthy of an award you are welcome to send in a nomination.

The closing date for receipt of Advance Australia Award nominations for the current period is May 29th, 1981.

Further enquiries should be forwarded to the Awards Co-ordinator, Advance Australia Awards Committee, Project Australia Secretariat, Ground Floor, 150 Lonsdale St., Melbourne, 3000.

Mothering — a job worth doing

The Nursing Mothers' Association is celebrating National Mothering Week from May 3rd-10th, 1981. This is the third time that such a week has been set aside and it is planned that the focus of community attention should be directed to this organisation, the role it plays, and the importance and value of mothers in our families and society.

In celebrating National Mothering Week the Nursing Mothers' Association is creating the opportunity of extending the caring attitudes, encouraged in the mother-child relationship to the whole of the community.

Over 400 groups of the association will be involved in this special week. The Elsternwick group is screening a colour film "Breast Feeding. What a beautiful thing to do", at the Caulfield Hospital Recreation Hall, Kooyong Road, Caulfield on May 6th at 8.00 p.m.

If you would like to attend please telephone 523 7462 for catering purposes. Donation for the evening, including supper is $1.00.

If you have any other queries, please contact Katrina McNamara on 523 5920.

New Books

Listed below is a small selection of books recently added to the Caulfield-Malvern Libraries. Those which are not at your local library may be reserved and obtained on inter-library loan.

The reign of chivalry:

By R. W. Barber. A fascinating book, which presents a broad picture of the chivalric world, and shows how chivalry affected or was affected by great social movements, great writers and great events.

After the odyssey:

A study of Greek Australians: By G. Bottomley. An in-depth study of Greeks in Sydney, focussing particularly on second generation adults.

The times of my life:

By B. Ford. The fascinating story of Betty Ford, who found herself First Lady of the United States, when her husband was appointed President, following the dramatic resignation of Richard Nixon.

The hidden language of your handwriting:

The remarkable new science of graphonomy and what it reveals about your personality, health and emotions: By G. Greene.

The blood of Israel:

The massacre of the Israeli athletes, the Olympics, 1972. By: S. Groussard. The story of one of the most tragic events of our time.

Growing fuchsias:

By K. Jennings. Almost every aspect of fuchsia culture and every phase of growth are covered in this book, designed to help the fuchsia grower achieve the full potential from his plants.

Sir Joseph Banks:

18th century explorer, botanist and entrepreneur: By C. Lyte. The biography of one of the most significant figures of the eighteenth century.

Building a school system:

A sociological study of Catholic education: By H. Praetz. An examination of Catholic education in Victoria, from 1945 to the present.

Shopping and the Disabled

As part of its activities for the International Year of Disabled Persons, Caulfield City Council wishes to actively encourage shopkeepers and owners of other commercial premises to open their doors to the many disabled who may feel their building inaccessible or inadequately facilitated and are thus unable to frequent them.

A building may be inaccessible because of its steps, its heavy stiff doors or narrow door widths, a lack of manoeuvring space inside, its lack of accessible toilets or one of many other factors.

In Australia nearly 9% of the entire population is 'severely disabled' (dependent on some sort of physical mechanical assistance like crutches or a wheelchair for day-to-day living), and an additional 21% of all Australians suffer from 'chronic physical impairment', which severely limits their mobility and their access to many of the opportunities and facilities that other people take for granted.

This relatively large proportion of the population is unable to shop or do business freely and widely, disadvantaging the disabled individual, shops and other commercial enterprises and the economy as a whole.

Greater mobility for disabled people would allow many to be more independent, develop more of their own potential as individuals and make a greater, more active contribution to the community in which they live.

Those wishing to find out more about accessibility and facilities for the disabled, please contact Carol Harry, Caulfield Community Liaison Officer on 524 3258.

Leaflets are available which set out building specifications pertaining to accessibility and facilities in shops and other commercial buildings.

Proprietors may apply for their buildings to be inspected by the Council and an International symbol for disabled accessibility will be issued to approved premises.

Lists of accessible facilities will be published throughout the year in Caulfield Contact.

JUNIOR TECH. LOOKING AHEAD

Students at Caulfield Junior Technical School now have the use of new art and craft facilities in relocatable classrooms adjacent to the School.

The Caulfield Junior Technical School is being lost more and more, in the shadow of its 'Big Brother' next door — CIT.

But the Junior Tech. is looking to the future and at the end of March, moved into their new Art-Craft accommodation in a set of attractive relocatable classrooms adjacent to the school. A pottery section will be established, and the centre made available for community use when not required by the school. The Education Department has also provided a special toilet block with facilities for the handicapped.

After spending almost ten years in temporary accommodation in a hired church hall in East Malvern, staff and students are enthusiastic about working in the pleasant surroundings of the new building.

Enrolments at Technical Schools in Victoria are increasing despite the overall decrease in the numbers of post-primary pupils. Figures recently released by the Technical Schools Division show that the total enrolments this year rose by 1040 (1.6 per cent). Of these, the increase in Year 7 enrolments was 900 (6.4 per cent).

In Years 8 to 11, 4220 students transferred into technical schools from High and Independent schools, while the transfers out were 720.

This trend is mirrored in the recent innovations grant recently awarded to the School by the Schools Commission.

Seven thousand dollars has been awarded for work in language skills and their development with the aid of audio visual equipment.

Within the remedial sector of the program, the immediate objective is to involve the students in an on-going development of the English language.

In using audio visual materials it is hoped that the oral and literary skills of the children can be developed within a self-motivated activity.

The program will also involve production techniques and community theatre work.

The School Principal Mr Schlager said, "I believe that this will significantly assist the communication skills, employable skills and attitudes of many students at the school."

Measured Drawing Competition

On behalf of the Victorian Government, the Matthew Flinders Measured Drawing Committee is conducting its sixth annual competition for measured drawings of Victoria's historic buildings.

The list of recommended buildings is supplied by the committee for this its sixth annual competition includes, Caulfield's historical Labassa.

However a recent innovation for the competition is that entrants may nominate buildings of their own choice.

The competition is a useful source of data on historic buildings and it also stimulates valuable interest among the owners of the buildings, students and the community.

First prize is $800, second $600, third $400 and notable entries can receive special prizes to a total value of $400. All other accepted entries will receive a Certificate of Merit and a $50 honorarium to cover material costs.

An entry may be the work of one, two or three persons and any person may submit any number of entries. The closing date of the competition is the 7th September, 1981, and entry forms, conditions of entry and a list of buildings to be measured may be obtained by contacting, the Matthew Flinders Measured Drawing Office, 7th Floor, 49 Spring Street, Melbourne, telephone 651 3247.

News from Council

Council Buildings Assessed

A survey has been conducted with the help of eight occupational therapists from Caulfield Hospital of all Council buildings and properties. Assessing accessibility and facilities in view of the needs of the disabled.

Alterations to these buildings are presently being given their priorities and should be effected throughout the rest of this year and included in the annual estimates for 1982.

Car Parking still a problem at CIT

The Council recently resolved to support CIT in its approaches to VicRail for the use of VicRail land in Derby Crescent for student parking.

It will also support them in its approaches to the Education Department for the use of land in Balaclava Road, for parking purposes.

Consultants are of the opinion that unless some action and support can be obtained at Ministerial level, to resolve the issues, the existing uncertainty and inability of the Institute to properly consider the alternative car parking options, is likely to continue for some time.

Intellectually Handicapped Receive Assistance

The Community Support Group for Intellectually Handicapped, a formally constituted organisation accepted by the Health Commission, recently received a grant of $500 from the Caulfield City Council.

The aim of the group is to assist the mildly-handicapped young people of the area to receive supportive accommodation.

The organisation was initiated within Caulfield and many of the families involved currently live within our municipality.

Neighbouring municipalities have also lent their support to the group.

Traffic Problems.

The recent accident at the corner of College St., and Elster Ave. serves to reinforce Council's recent decision to install a round-about at this intersection. Numbers of complaints have been received from residents of the area regarding the volume and speed of traffic using these roads as a through link between North Road and Clarence St.

Application has now been made to RoSTA for approval to erect the necessary control signs.

Increase in Dog Registration Renewals

With the introduction of computerization of dog registration records, it has now become feasible to determine instances where dog registrations have not been renewed and establish the reasons for non-renewal.

Individual checks have been made in respect of the non-renewals of registrations which together with other control measures introduced appears to have influenced owners in ensuring that registration is effected soon as in previous years.

The number of dogs registered in 1979 was 4186 as against the figure for December 1980 of 4421.

Open Day at Rosstown Court

Caulfield's newest Hostel for the elderly is nearing completion. Final details are being taken care of as bedspreads are ordered and curtains made. On Saturday 25th April there was an unofficial Open Day for incoming residents to get the feel of their new home.

Council and Hostel staff were on hand to meet the residents, serve afternoon tea and solve some of those last minute problems.

M.M.B.W. Planning Scheme Amendment

Amendment 142 to the Melbourne and Metropolitan Board of Works Planning Scheme was recently on exhibition and the Board is now awaiting submissions prior to final approval.

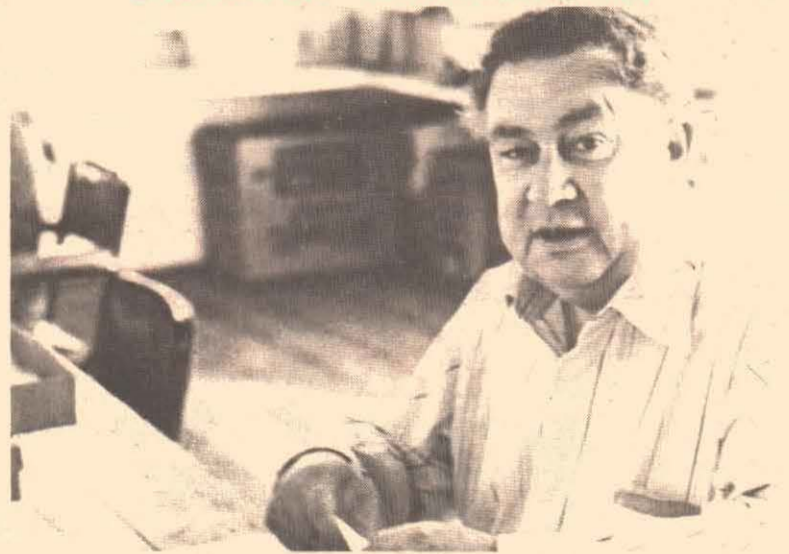

The amendment applies to the rezoning of properties fronting Selwyn St. from Residential C Zoning to Service Business. This rezoning was requested by the Council to align the existing uses with the zoning.

Caulfield's Reduction in Birth Rate.

The total number of birth notifications for 1980 (785) is 9 percent less than 1979 (864) notwithstanding the preliminary figures of the Bureau of Statistics showing a .8 per cent increase in the birth rate for Victoria.

All of the five Infant Welfare Centres have had a continual reduction in birth notifications over the last three years.

DISABLED EMPLOYMENT

A new report on employment prospects for disabled people in Victoria was recently released by Mr Brian Dixon, the Minister for Employment and Training.

The report includes recommendations on ways of improving employment and training opportunities for handicapped people and draws together, information on the many diverse and frequently unrelated programs which affect people with disabilities.

The report titled "Opportunities and Handicaps" has been welcomed by Dr. Bruce Ford, State Chairman of the International Year of the Disabled Persons Committee and Director of Rehabilitation Services at Caulfield Hospital.

Pictured above is Barry Avery who attends the Caulfield Sheltered Workshop and spends his day folding and packaging handkerchiefs. The Workshop is always in need of work projects for those who attend the centre. If you are able to support them please contact the Chief Occupational Therapist, telephone 528 6333 ext. 317.

It is this sort of work that is essential to the disabled of our community.

"Opportunities and Handicaps" can be obtained from the Victorian Government Printing Office, Publication Sales, P.O. Box 203, North Melbourne, 3051 at a cost of $3 plus $1 postage.

Local Transport issues to be raised

Deficiencies in public transport service in Caulfield, East St Kilda and surrounding areas will be the topic of discussion at a public meeting called for Monday May 4th.

Mr Steve Crabb, M.L.A. for Knox and the Shadow Minister for Transport will be a guest of the meeting. He will speak briefly and lead the general discussion.

There will be ample opportunity for residents to raise issues of local concern with Mr Crabb and to express their own point of view.

The meeting will commence at 8.30 p.m. and conclude by 10.30 p.m. Supper will be provided.

The venue for this important public meeting is the hall of the Church of St James the Great, 435 Inkerman St., East St Kilda.

The meeting has been called by the Caulfield branch of the Australian Labor Party.

For enquiries, contact the secretary on 211 9253.

A Program for Mothers and Infants

A weekly mother-infant education group is conducted by the Caulfield Community Care Centre in the annex of the Centre at 259 Kooyong Road, South Caulfield.

It is held every Monday from 2.00-3.30 p.m. and is designed to provide an educational playgroup which incorporates a wide range of information, talks, outings and an informal exchange of experiences

If you are a frustrated, anxious or isolated Mum who maybe experiencing difficulties in your relationship with baby or family, or even if you would just enjoy an afternoon out, you would be made very welcome.

A dietician and social worker attend and co-ordinate the sessions, but because the program has been running for some time there is only a limited range of toys available.

Anyone who has any new, used or slightly damaged toys they wish to donate would be greatly appreciated.

If you would like to attend the group, but have a problem with transport this could possibly be arranged. All enquiries about this group should be directed to Vivienne Munro or Robyn Little on 528 6433 ext. 726.

Third Antique Fair

Once again May is the time and the Town Hall is the venue for the most important local event for Caulfield antique lovers — the Caulfield Antique Fair.

Antique Fairs are becoming increasingly popular as market places for people to choose antiques for their homes and for collectors to find that rare piece; the Caulfield Fair has been generally praised as presenting a good cross-section of well-chosen antiques and collectables.

Again this year the Fair is being organised by Jill and David Perry, local antique dealers, and they will bring together, local, Victorian and interstate dealers.

Compactly displayed under the one one roof will be antique clocks, jewellery, pine furniture, fine Victorian furniture, porcelain and silver, Victorian lace and dresses and Australiana.

As a show it's well worth a visit and those who simply want to look and browse, all are very welcome.

The doors open at 6.00 p.m. on Friday, May 29th.

If you saw it last year, you'll want to go again, while if you didn't make it last time, make a point of getting there this year.

MAKE A NOTE OF THE DATES NOW:

Friday, May 29th — 6.00-10 p.m.

Saturday, May 30th — 11 a.m.-10 p.m.

Sunday, May 31st — 11 a.m.-6.00 p.m.

Any further enquiries may be made to David Perry, phone 523 9650 or 528 6526.

BE A SPORT

Local Sporting Clubs are offering the opportunity for students in the Caulfield area to enjoy a feast of sporting activities during the school holidays.

Check the dates and times to see when your local park is being used.

Besides the Recreation Centre football, cricket and soccer clinics, there are two other football activities being offered.

Football

St Anthony's Football Club will be host to league footballers from the Melbourne Club who have offered to help the locals improve their game. Be at Glenhantly oval at 2.00 p.m. on Thursday, May 14th for skills practice and may be a match.

A few competitions will also be conducted with footballs as prizes.

For an opportunity to practice those newly learned skills the Caulfield Y.C.W. Football Club will be conducting similar activities at Caulfield Park. So shine up your boots and be at the park at 1.30 p.m. on Tuesday, May 19th.

Athletics

If you enjoy running then don't miss the opportunity of going for an easy run with some of Australia's top athletes. The Glenhantly Athletic Club will be holding pack runs from Duncan MacKinnon Park each Monday, Wednesday and Friday morning of the holidays.

Be at the pavilion at 9.30 a.m. and bring your mates, girlfriend/boyfriend and your folks. Everybody is welcome to join in the running and exercising and then to chat with the experts. First run is Monday, May 11th, 1981.

Something else for the runners will be the Save The Children Fund Fun Run to be held at the Caulfield Racecourse on Tuesday, May 12th, starting at 10.00 a.m. Entry fee is $2.

All the money goes to the Save The Children Fund. There will be runs for all age groups, with prizes and certificates and while waiting for your run you can participate in a few "Life Games" activities which will be held on Glenhantly Park.

Any enquiries regarding these programs should be made through Max Binnington on 524 3253.

TENNIS CLINIC

Monday May 11th to Thursday 14th, and Monday 18th — Thursday 21st.

The clinic is at the Glenhantly Tennis Club, corner Booran and Neerim Roads, and is especially for the school holidays.

Second term coaching starts for juniors and adults on Sunday mornings May 24th.

All enquiries to be directed to Geoff Jones on 783 9918.

Shyness a problem?

Do you feel guilty when you say no?
Do you find it difficult to stand up for your rights and say what you really think?

Do you tend to blame yourself for things that are not your fault?

If so, maybe we can help you gain a little more confidence. The Caulfield City Council Social Development Department would like to help you solve some of these problems, either individually or in a group.

If you feel you need help in a group, or individually please contact Mooky Baileylew or Bobbie Titcher on 524 3319.

After School Activities at Murrumbeena

After school activities for Primary school children are held at the Murrumbeena Primary School (near the corner of Dandenong and Murrumbeena Roads).

Caulfield Cricket Club PREMIERS

The Caulfield Cricket Club has won its second premiership in the past four years in this year's important sub-district competition.

They defeated Brunswick outright to win this final with a day and a half an hour to spare. With 36 wickets falling for 269 in less than two days. Caulfield started well with an opening partnership of 43 but then lost quick wickets to be dismissed for 97. They had to fight to get their runs and lost six wickets in gaining their outright win. John Sheehan was voted the 'man of the match'. Scores were: Brunswick 84 (B. Hillhouse 41, R. Williams 3/32, J. Sheehan 7/29) and 79 (R. Williams 5/36, J. Sheehan 5/31) lost to Caulfield 97 (D. Simons 31, McGinty 7/24) and 6/69. (Hughes 12, McGinty 4/22).

Teacher of the Year Award

On April 7th the Minister of Education, Hon. A. J. Hunt, launched The Teacher of the Year Award for 1981. The aim of the award is to give official recognition to a teacher who has made an outstanding contribution to education, and to enhance community awareness of all aspects of education in Victoria.

The Teacher of the Year will be named in November and will receive an airline ticket to the value of $2000 with Qantas, $1500 spending money and a commemorative bronze plaque designed by Melbourne sculptor Michael Meszros.

All teachers employed in Government and registered schools in Victoria are eligible for nomination, regardless of the area of education in which they are involved.

This is a fine opportunity for members of the public to nominate a particular teacher whose work they believe to be outstanding.

Application forms and further information may be obtained from the Regional Director of Education or by telephoning Ms Mary McGlade, 651 2586. Please note that the closing date for nomination is Friday August 21st.

GLENHUNTLY — ST. ANTHONY'S FOOTBALL CLUB

Glenhuntly - St. Anthony's Football Club is starting the season on a high note.

The beginning of the month saw the occasion of its Jumper Presentation Night when Dr. Gerard Vaughan was invited to be the No. 1 ticket holder of the Club.

Guests of the evening included Cr Ron Walters, Cr Jack Campbell and Mr Vic Townsend (Secretary, Committee of Management — Glenhuntly Park).

The number one honorary ticket was presented to Mrs Joan Child who was unable to attend on the evening, but was accepted by Dr Gerard Vaughan.

The Club has a long and varied history. In 1959 it reformed after being in recess and competed in the CYMS Competition.

In 1963 it transferred and became involved in the Y.C.W. competitions. During this time received quite a few notable pennants including a Senior 'C' grade premiership in 1975, and last year this grade finished 9th.

It was felt that the club was falling into the doldrums and this year a new Committee of non players has been formed with the view to reorganising the club and looking forward to far more successful seasons.

The Glenhuntly - St. Anthony's Football Club plays on Glenhuntly Park, corner of Neerim and Booran Roads.

All new players or officials or supporters will be made particularly welcome at the Club.

Training is at the oval Tuesday and Thursday nights at 5.30 p.m. They are always on the look out for new players and any other information can be obtained by contacting the President Alan Holmes on 211 4871 (H) 341 6168 (B).

Capital Works Funding

Loans totalling $449,011 have recently been obtained from the Council's Bankers, The Commonwealth Trading Bank of Australia, to assist in finalising the Capital Works Program for the City for the current financial year.

The loans are to be applied to works such as road reconstruction, right-of-way reconstruction, footpaths and channelling and recreational and cultural facilities at the City of Caulfield Arts Centre.

The assistance of the Commonwealth Trading Bank in making such loans available is much appreciated by the Council and evidences in a very material way, the degree of involvement of the Bank in the provision and upgrading of facilities for the community.
