This Year — A Mayoress

Caulfield's City Manager, Graeme Calder, pins the official Mayoress' badge on the shoulder of Caulfield's new Mayoress, Judy Rudzki.

Judy's husband,

Brian, was recently elected as Caulfield's Mayor and he and his wife and family are looking forward to their year in office.

During the last Mayoral term, Cr. Dorothy Ford had the responsibility of being Mayor and occasionally performed some of the functions normally carried out by the Mayoress.

But, this year, the brooch will 'come out of mothballs' and be put to very good use.

Council opposes R.C.A.

The Caulfield Council has expressed concern and dismay at the Road Construction Authority's action in acquiring properties for the reconstruction of Princes Highway.

This section of the road between Glenferrie Road and Tooronga Road has been under discussion for some time and the Council is not aware that any scheme has yet been finalised. Both the Malvern and Caulfield Councils support the proposal for an underpass in this area but the Road Construction Authority considers this treatment to be too expensive.

A major route

The view of the Council is that the Princes Highway is a major national route and warrants an adequate underpass in keeping with this standard.

The Malvern Council will be asked to join the Caulfield Council in a joint approach to the Federal Government on this matter and if necessary request a special allocation of funds for the construction of an underpass. The Council has suggested that Bi-Centenary funds be allocated to this project.

Public Discussion

Displays of the alternative treatments for the reconstruction of Princes Highway East were recently exhibited concurrently at the Caulfield and Malvern municipal offices as well as the Road Construction Authority project office in Dandenong Road.

The public submitted a number of comments on these proposals, most of which expressed strong support for the underpass.

Many who responded to the display expressed support for the scheme because it offered greater traffic capacity, better alignment and improved safety. It was felt that the alternative scheme did not provide adequately for pedestrian traffic.

Concern was expressed for the possible increase in noise levels, the visual intrusion and the decrease of property values in the immediate area should the alternative be adopted.

Some suggested that the closure of abutting streets and continuous landscaping treatment would help to cut down some of the noise, but only two responses expressed total opposition to any widening of the highway.

The point that was made most strongly in this survey was that whatever was to be done should be commenced as soon as possible.

Council commitment

The Caulfield Council will continue to support the concept of an underpass for this section of the Princes Highway, and do all it can to persuade the Road Construction Authority of the obvious benefits of this proposal.

Youth Concert for Caulfield

A Rotary Youth Concert will be staged at the Caulfield City Hall on September 26 at 8.00 pm until 11.00 pm to promote youth and raise funds for Rotary youth projects.

September has been designated by Rotary as Youth Services Month and funds are being raised for the Rotary International Youth Exchange Program and other youth projects.

Cato College and Shelford, Anglican School for Girls, are providing part of the program but the main feature of the night is the Dandenong Ranges Choir and Band.

The concert is being supported by the Caulfield Youth Council.

Tickets are $4.00 and children under 14 free. Enquiries and further details from 578 5525.

Three Months to Go to the Caulfield Festival

The Caulfield Festival Management team has some exciting events in store for this year's Caulfield Festival from November 23 to December 2.

There are only three months to go until the Festival gets under way and the plans include music in the streets and a celebration for the Caulfield City Hall's 100th birthday.

Caulfield's Fibrecrafts artists have been working towards a special Festival display in Caulfield Park. Children from local Primary schools have been active in helping the Fibrecrafts artists put together banners and flags for displays.

Other events during the week will include soapbox discussions, debates and seminars, drama and concerts. Kooka the Burra has also been active promoting the coming Festival, (See Page 4).

If you have any ideas or would like to become involved then ring Ian Brain (Festival Organiser) or Liz Clay (Community Arts Officer) on 524 3333.

You are also welcome to attend the next Management Committee on Thursday, September 13 in the staff house, rear of the City Hall, corner Glen Eira and Hawthorn Rds.

Recycle Your Plastic Containers

bage is collected for recycling.

Plastic soft drink bottles, shampoo containers, detergent dispensers margarine tubes and all similar plastic household containers can be left for collection and put beside your bin on collection day.

So many household products are packaged in plastic containers and because of the special properties of plastics and their resistance to corrosion, these containers are causing many disposal problems.

With the recycling of these products some of the problems may be resolved and precious resources will be conserved.

The six week trial will determine the cost of collection, give a cross section of plastic types available and provide an indication of processing costs and assess the market potential.

Left, Council staff member, Ruth Mansell, with examples of the types of plastic containers you can leave for collection.

Praise for Nurses

Madam,

I have recently spent some time in the Royal Southern Memorial Hospital and my praise cannot go high enough, both for the hospital and most of all the staff, beginning with Administration, who were most helpful and put me at ease.

The following day while waiting to go into surgery I was in a very nervous and shaky state and cannot thank the sister on duty enough for the comfort and attention she gave me as did the sisters and nurses in the wards and nothing was too much trouble, they were all so pleasant.

Finally, the meals were excellent as far as I am concerned.

If you left dissatisfied you would be extremely hard to please.

We are always ready to find fault when things go wrong and criticise, that I thought a word of praise for once would be nice.

Mr. Frank Rice,
Carnegie.

Native Flora

Madam,

In view of a growing impetus towards the conservation of our environment, I would like to point out, that although Caulfield is an old established city, some remnants of our original flora still exist.

Due to Caulfield's natural topography and by studying historical botanical notes, a general pattern seems to emerge. On higher well drained sandy sites occurred dry Heathy Woodland dominated by Coastal Manna Gum. A large old specimen can be found in the North West corner of the Brighton Cemetery.

On clayey soils or natural depressions (i.e., swamps), River Red Gums occurred, some splendid specimens are to be found growing on the old Outer Circle Railway Reserve in Hughesdale (Melways Ref: 69 C5 & 6). This land is currently earmarked for re-zoning by the M.M.B.W.

I feel the time has now arrived for the Caulfield Council to participate in the conservation of our remaining indigenous flora.

The Council should be collecting seeds from these trees, propagating them and replanting our parks which were once the habitat of these magnificent local species.

Councillor Braun

Madam,

I had recently the dubious pleasure of reading a circular letter from that newly elected Councillor E. Braun.

I am so "pleased" that he is our "personal" representative on the Caulfield City Council (for all residents in Caulfield? — Will the other two be obsolete?).

He must have been a giant to do it all on his own without help from his family or friends (or has he bad manners not to thank them). His telephone numbers are certainly noted in my Teledex.

At the first Neighbourhood Watch meeting Cr. Braun must have huddled in a dark corner because he certainly was not visible, and quite frankly he is decking himself with the "plumage of other birds". He certainly did not instigate that movement.

I also must have been under the misguided impression that the Neighbourhood Watch movement is a State Government initiative and not Cr. Braun's, and as I remember correctly, at a later meeting of that movement he was requested by the Police Officers to "sit down" and let them get on with it.

One last comment: Please Cr. Braun do get your facts right: the Elsternwick Library was never to move from Elsternwick. You seem to like to listen to your own trumpet! Please do remember, residents are not ignorant.

Name and Address
Supplied.

A Reply

Madam,

I was upset to read the above misinterpretation of the circular that I sent to all residents in the West Ward, upon my election. I was even more disturbed by the vindictive manner in which the writer expressed her feelings.

As a new Councillor, my intention in writing this circular was to initiate an open and personal communication between myself and the residents of the West Ward.

As to the help I received from my family and many good friends my gratitude to them was expressed in the most appropriate way, which was in the privacy of my home.

With regard to Neighbourhood Watch program, I have never stated that I instigated that movement, but have promised "to give the Police who are extremely co-operative, every assistance that we can, at Council level".

Finally, during my extensive door-knocking, I did find the possible relocation of the library a great concern to many residents.

Many residents also expressed their appreciation of my communication and I'm only sorry that you have taken it in the wrong spirit.

Cr. Emil Braun,
J.P.,
North Caulfield.

Technical School Co-Educational

Caulfield Technical School will be fully co-educational by 1985 after the Minister for Education recently gave permission for the move.

The School Council has made submissions to the Education Department since the mid-1970s for the Education Department to allow girls in all forms. Girls have been enrolled in Year 10 and 11 at the school since 1980.

Since then, one of the girls was employed as an apprentice Fitter and Turner with G.M.H. In the past most of the girls chose the Business Studies or Art Course but this year there are girls in the Trade Technician course and Applied Science course.

In 1985 it is intended to introduce girls at Year 7 where they will study English, Social Studies, Mathematics, Science, Art and Craft, Graphics, Physical Education, Music, Sheetmetal and Woodwork.

Girls will receive a standard education until the end of Year 9 when they can choose from four basic courses — Applied Science, Business Studies, Technician or Art. As enrolments increase it will be possible to offer an even broader choice of subjects in the future.

The Japanese School of South Caulfield recently received a $291 grant from the State Government for in-service programs, the development of materials and the building up of networks between the Japanese and day schools.

The grants have been allocated to help increase the opportunities for the children of migrants to learn the language and culture of their parents.

Family Planning Clinic in Danger of Closing

The Family Planning services being run on Friday afternoons at the Glenhantly Maternal and Child Care Centre are in danger of discontinuing if response to the program doesn't improve.

The Health Commission funds an experienced doctor to provide advice and counselling and a friendly nurse for visitors to the Centre. The atmosphere is relaxed and informal, but at the moment things are very quiet.

"It is very disappointing," said the visiting doctor. (The name of the doctor cannot be published.) "It may be because Glenhantly is an older area and family planning is not in great demand." Another reason for the poor response may be the particular time. "Friday afternoons may not be convenient for many people," said the doctor.

The clinic at the Glenhantly Centre has been in operation for nearly a year now but unlike the Clinic at the Murrumbidgee Infant Welfare Centre has not been taken off with local residents.

The clinic provides free and confidential consultations to all members of the community whether male or female. Advice and medical supervision are given on all methods of family planning and birth control.

Cancer smear tests are available for women of all ages and advice is given on fertility problems. The visiting doctor can refer a client to a specialist if necessary.

The clinic also provides ante-natal care for isolated parents and provision of supplies for birth control purposes.

The clinic is open from 1.30-4.30 pm every Friday. Appointments are not necessary and if you need any further information the sister at the clinic will be pleased to help.

Superman The Musical

Caulfield High School students recently staged their own version of the Superman legend — with a few differences.

Lois Lane, Jimmy Olson and Perry White were all there and so were the "bad guys" but have you ever seen Superman's fan club, Dolly Parton and rap dancers in a Superman show?

This Superman show had them all, plus three very "glamorous" landladies who turned out to be none other than Superman's best friends, Batman, Robin and Wonder Woman who came to his rescue just when kryptonite was getting the better of him.

Superman The Musical also featured many well known pop songs and a dance routine to challenge Broadway.

If you missed out on seeing Superman, Caulfield High School's way, then you may have a chance to catch the show during the Festival. Keen an eye on Contact for more news.

Food Hygiene

Within the City of Caulfield there are over 450 food establishments which prepare and offer food for sale to the public.

These include restaurants, take-away food shops, butchers, bakers, greengrocers, supermarkets and milkbars.

The Council's Health Surveyors inspect these premises at regular intervals and ensure that certain items are being adhered to.

- The cleanliness of the establishment;
- The structural requirements are complied with;
- The protection and wholesomeness of the food;
- The personal hygiene of the food handler;
- The compliance with the food laws and;
- The education of the food handler in the many facets of food hygiene.

The proprietor of a food establishment has a responsibility to ensure that these items are being complied with, however, for various reasons problems can and do occur.

The Health Surveyor, because of other duties and the large number of food establishments, might not be immediately aware of the problem.

If you suspect that an establishment is unsatisfactory in any manner or if you become ill after consuming foodstuffs or have received any contaminated food or foreign article in your food then do not hesitate to contact the Council's Health Surveyor who will treat your complaint in the strictest confidence and take appropriate remedial action. Telephone 524 3333.

Money for Child Care Facilities

Caulfield is one of the municipalities which will receive new child care facilities as a result of a $30 million national Child Care program announced recently.

Under the cost sharing agreement between the State and Federal Governments, 2,600 extra child care places and hundreds of jobs will be created for Victorians.

The program represents a new deal for Victoria's working parents as out of school care programs will enable children to be supervised before and after school.

The State Government will contribute $4.8 million and will receive an additional $2.2 million from the Commonwealth Government.

Hundreds of workers will be needed to build or renovate premises, and it is hoped that the new centres will be operating by the middle of next year.

The Victorian program has been developed by the Department of Community Welfare Services, the Health Commission and the Federal Office of Child Care.

Children's Services Caulfield, 1984

A new Children's Services brochure is available for residents in the City of Caulfield.

News from Council

House for Carnegie Mums

Mothers in the Carnegie area will be pleased to hear that the Council plans to establish a community house in Jersey Parade. The infant welfare services currently being conducted at the Carnegie Resource Centre will be transferred to these premises which will also provide accommodation for play groups and other similar activities.

Funds will be provided in the 1984/85 Capital Works Program for the renovation and equipment necessary at the community house. Support is also being sought from the Minister for Health, and local parliamentarians for the Council's application for a subsidy for an additional infant welfare sister.

Neighbourhood Watch

Residents of the area bounded by Koo-yong Road, Glen Eira Road, Hotham Street and Inkerman Road will be asked to sign a petition seeking an extension of the Neighbourhood Watch program into this area.

The police have said that they will consider extensions to the program where residents exert sufficient pressure and express the interest.

This particular part of Caulfield has a very high incidence of burglary and residents have expressed concern. The Neighbourhood Watch program depends on the participation and co-operation of the people in the area.

Roof Falling In

Yes, the roof of the City Hall is falling in. Or, rather, a few of the glass panels in the decorative ceiling fell to the floor recently.

Fortunately however, no one was in the hall at the time, but urgent works will be carried out to ensure that it doesn't happen again.

School Safety

The crash barrier on the east side of Grange Road at the Glenhantly Primary School is to be extended by 10 metres. This follows requests from the School Council which expressed concern at the danger of the area.

The advance warning signs will be replaced and mounted in a higher position for better visibility.

But for even greater safety the Council requests that children from the school use the pedestrian overpass.

Financial Surplus

The Council will end the 1983/84 financial year in September with a modest surplus of about $3,500. This estimate is based on revised figures presented at a recent Executive Services Committee meeting.

Savings occurred because of the wages accord and consequent reduction in workers compensation premiums. However, costs were greater than expected in the operation of the swimming pool and recreation centre.

Railway Avenue Parking

Because of the recent road construction works in Railway Avenue between Dandenong Road and Queens Avenue, the vehicular capacity of the road has been increased. The provision of indented parallel parking bays along the south side of the road allows two lanes for westbound traffic.

To continue these lanes a 'No Standing Anytime' zone will be implemented on the south side of Railway Avenue for 40 metres west of the Queens Avenue intersection.

This measure will also enable safer use of the vehicle entrance to the Caulfield Technical School grounds.

Station Beautification

The Council recently turned down a request from the station master at the Caulfield station for planter tubs to be installed on the three platforms.

It was politely suggested that the attention of the M.T.A. should first be drawn to the accumulation of rubbish and the untidy condition of the surrounds of Caulfield station.

A Helping Hand for the Hospital

Caulfield Hospital has one of the largest Volunteer Service programs in our community today.

The Volunteer Service has been active at the hospital for eight years.

The kiosk within the hospital, which is run solely by volunteers, has been going for as long as 30 years.

There are approximately 200 volunteers at the hospital including the kiosk helpers who come in to share their spare time to help others.

A volunteer spends on average at least five hours at the hospital. Each hour the volunteer spends with the patient can change their often lonely life into a happier one.

The Volunteer Services Organizer, Karen Matheson, and her team of active men and women, give up much of their spare time to help others at the Caulfield Hospital.

Jackie Talbot, a volunteer at the Hospital, is one of those people who likes to see a smile on everyone's face. She comes in each Monday with her dog, Princess, and sets off around the wards making a cheerful start to everyone's week. The patients adore Princess and look forward to the visits every Monday.

The volunteer service helps both the volunteer and the recipient and plays a very important part in providing that extra care and friendship both parties like to see.

and want to share it with others. Many of the volunteers say that volunteering is a very rewarding interest to take up.

Volunteers help patients with their shopping, their sewing, playing scrabble and bingo, not to mention organizing card groups, craft and pottery, bus trips, music therapy. The list of what volunteers do is quite lengthy.

Although people often think volunteers are all elderly people, at the Caulfield Hospital De La Salle students come in every Friday afternoon as volunteers.

Every volunteer makes an important contribution towards the patients' care and it shouldn't be taken for granted they have an easy job.

To be a volunteer you need to have that special something and have the self-motivation to help others.

Community Arts

formation of an "Artists' Register."

As a basis for forming an information bureau and possible future network of artists in Caulfield, I should like to encourage artists in any field of the arts to register as a "local" artist on the form below.

Initially, the information supplied by you will be placed on the computer system at the Caulfield City Offices and be available through the Information Services run by the Citizens' Advice Bureau.

Artists will be listed by surname and by category according to their particular skill. There are about 60 names already recorded and this has already proven useful when enquiries are received for music teachers, craft workshop leaders etc.

Please attach a Curriculum Vitae or any other information that you may feel is of interest and return to the Community Arts Officer.

In the future, I should like to make contact with the artists to see whether there is any desire to form more concrete liaisons between artists in the community.

Baton Twirlers Successful at Championships

The Caulfield Baton Twirlers competed successfully in the Victorian Championships at Boronia early in August.

Seniors Ruth Mansell, 17 and Alex Crerar, 20, received second placing in the duo section. Alex Crerar took a second place in the senior strutting and Kelly Ring came first in the Junior Novice section.

The Junior Baton Twirling Team came second in the Team Routine section and the Senior Team received an outstanding first for their performance in the Team Routine section.

The girls didn't take out an overall win but in the Duo section Ruth and Alex lost by only point nine of a point.

The Caulfield Baton Twirlers will be demonstrating their skills in Baton Twirling at the Caulfield Festival later this year.

The girls range from 6 years up and train every Tuesday night at St. John's Uniting Church Hall, Foster St, from 7.00-9.00 pm.

Enquiries and further information can be obtained by telephoning 528 5206.

Youth Needs Report Launched

A report on "Youth Needs in the Southern Suburbs Region" was recently launched by the Minister for Community Welfare Services, Mrs. Pauline Toner, at the City of Caulfield Arts Centre

The launching of the report, organised by the Southern Regional Consultative Council, should mark the beginning of an improvement to services for youth in the area.

The report covers the municipalities of Caulfield, Brighton, Malvern, Mordialloc, Moorabbin, Oakleigh and Sandringham.

The report states that local research and community discussions in Caulfield indicate a need for support for young people in the Elsternwick and Murrumbena areas especially.

The main areas of concern for youth in Murrumbena and Elsternwick are income security, employment, a Community Youth Support Scheme, an outreach youth worker, emergency housing, communications and live music venues (not hotels).

The Caulfield Youth Council is already actively focusing on youth needs and services and a youth outreach worker is due to commence work in September.

The report states that although the present range of youth services provided by the Caulfield Council is traditional and limited, the Council does provide an Arts and Recreation Centre.

The report has found there is a lack of agencies dealing with accommodation, legal aid and employment in Caulfield.

Nearly 23% of all unemployed in the Southern Region are found in Caulfield. Twenty-six per cent of these unemployed are in the 25-34 age group and 15.9% in the 15-19 age group.

In the 20-24 age bracket there are more unemployed females than males.

The total workforce unemployment in Caul-field is 4.8%, higher than the Regional levels yet less than the metropolitan average (except in the 20-24 and 25-34 age brackets).

Teenage unemployment is 12.8%, higher than the Regional average and ranking third after Brighton and Oakleigh.

Last year the Department of Community Welfare Services allocated $179,000 in Community Service Grants to local organisations. "The report will be of practical use to the Southern Regional Consultative Council in developing priorities for the allocation of Community Service Grants later this year," said Mrs. Toner.

Theatre Production for Caulfield

The City of Caulfield has received a grant from the Community Arts Board of the Australia Council to employ a director, a writer and a designer to devise a theatre production with the community during the Caulfield Festival.

The production will be part of the Caulfield Festival and will run for three nights at the Caulfield Arts Centre or the City Hall.

The director, Neil Melbourne, Neil Greenaway, worked with the Mill Community Theatre Company in Geelong as designer, actor and theatre manager. In Melbourne, Neil designed "Female Parts" and "Back to Bourke Street". He has directed Theatre in Education shows and at La Mama and the Pram Factory.

The writer, Bruce Pascoe, publishes the magazine, Australian Short Stories, has written three plays, performed and directed at the Pram Factory, the Open Stage and in country theatres. In 1983, he wrote "The Abalone Show", a community production about Mallacoota and its staple industry.

The designer, Diana Stewart, has been working in Caulfield since April as part of Caulfield's Fibrecrafts Project. Diana was Company Manager of the Mill Theatre Company for two years and has designed costumes for "Dance Works" and the Epidaurus Summer Festival, 1984.

The three are excited at the prospect of working with the community on a show that has relevance to local people. They are keen to hear from anyone who has skills or wants to develop them.

People who want to act, dance, sing, play and compose music, write, design and build sets, make costumes, help in production and lighting will all have an opportunity to take part.

A meeting and initial workshop will be held at 7.30 pm on Thursday, September 13 at the Caulfield Arts Centre, 441 Inkerman Rd., North Caulfield. Those who can't attend that night but are interested in becoming involved in the project can contact Neil Greenaway on 486 1507 or Liz Clay (Caulfield Community Arts Officer) on 524 3333.

Workshops will be held weekly on Thursday evenings at the Arts Centre and other rehearsal times will be scheduled to suit participants' availability.

All enquiries are welcome.

Our Own Australian Judo Champion

Local Caulfield resident, 15-year-old Greg Delmont, is Australia's new Under 16 Judo Champion.

Greg recently competed in the Judo Championships at Sydney and came first in the intermediate section of his particular weight group.

Greg had previously won the State Title which meant he qualified to compete in the event which was run by the Judo Federation of Australia. "I didn't expect to win," Greg said. He had been told by Maree Hyland, Work Experience Student

Maree is currently completing Year 11 at Sacred Heart, Oakleigh and lives in Ormond. Maree is keen to become a journalist and is interested in photography and television work. Maree spent a week of her school holiday break with Caulfield Contact.

by other competitors from his club that the competition was tough.

Greg trains at least four times a week at the Caulfield Club Judo Hall under the supervision of his coach Arthur Mooreshead. Marla, 11, Greg's younger sister, is also keen and although she has not reached his high standard, insists that she keeps him under control.

Greg said his main ambition is to represent Australia in the Olympic Games some day but not until he has reached the required standard and gained the necessary experience. Greg holds a brown belt, one below the black belt. He can only obtain his black belt when he becomes a senior next year.

After six exhausting years of learning and training in the complicated sport of judo, Greg's persistence has paid off and he can hold his Gold medal with pride and in anticipation of upcoming events that may bring him further success. Congratulations Greg!

Survival Skills

Fusion Community Centre, 101 Murrumbidgee Rd., Murrumbidgee is running a number of Survival Skills workshops and courses during the afternoon on Thursdays and Fridays.

Youth worker, Val Weir, has organised the courses for unemployed people which teaches people how to learn to live on a low income and budget.

The Survival courses are practical and include a computer skills course which aims to teach people how to use a computer. Skills such as typing are taught.

There is enough flexibility in the planning to allow for changes as the need appears, says Val.

If you would like further information about Fusion's courses then telephone Val on 568 2427 between 9.30 am-4.30 pm or drop in for a chat.

Creative Arts Display

The Caulfield Arts Centre recently hosted a display of art from students of the H.S.C. subject Creative Arts from all around Victoria.

The display was intended mainly to help students and teachers of Creative Arts by giving them the chance to view work from other schools.

The work included paintings, drawings, prints, graphic design items, sculpture, ceramics, textile work, essays, research projects, wood/metal craft and collections of notes, sketches and contracts.

Creative Arts is a Group 2 Year 12 subject that is currently available in 75 schools and is undertaken this year by 650 students.

The display is the work of Caulfield High School teacher, Don Watkins, who wrote to all schools in Victoria inviting them to submit students' work.

Some schools found it difficult to participate because of the distance from Melbourne but expressed their support for the display idea.

The display proved to be popular. The Arts

Centre saw on average, three or four busloads a day from various schools.

The subject is different to many Year 12 subjects in many ways. For example, students negotiate with the teacher what they are going to do and establish a contract to do this.

The assessment of students is descriptive and does not include grades like A, B, C and D.

Students are urged to be creative and what's done is decided within the school.

A LEISURELY LOOK

Snippets from Community Arts

● Workshops in the Community — In trying to set up new arts workshops for the community, I need to know what you would like! The Caulfield Council in conjunction with the Australia Council has some funding to set up arts workshops in venues other than the Caulfield Arts Centre.

I would like to use Caulfield and/or Murrumbena Community Houses or other Council locations. What age or interest groups are not being catered for in our community? What sorts of things are missing?

Could it be the opportunity to set up new activities — e.g., film appreciation, creative writing, singing for fun, mime, dance, multicultural activities, drama? Please ring or write to me with your ideas.

● Read the Contact article regarding drama/theatre/dance/music prospect for the Caulfield Festival. If you have interests in any of these areas, there are three professional artists funded to set up this production. Once again — any age group is welcome.

Could this be the basis for something completely new in theatre in Caulfield? Meeting September 13 at 7.30 pm at the Caulfield Arts Centre.

● Would you like to become part of a new Women's Writing Group in Caulfield? To learn and exchange skills in writing, possibly for publication or simply for an interest. Contact Leila Friedman on 568 3306.

● Local Talent! — A local commercial venue is trying very hard to set up an outlet for particularly local talent to perform — jugglers, mime artists, folksingers, musicians, puppeteers, jug bands, comedians, actors, musicians, poets.

This may be your chance to find your real talent and have feedback from an audience. Contact Adrian Kosky on 523 9054.

● POL-ART '84 Festival, December 27-January 2. As part of the 150th celebrations the Federation of Polish Organisations in Victoria is having an arts festival. The project organiser is Barbara Schenkel. Does anyone in Caulfield want to celebrate too?
