NEW MAYOR FOR CAULFIELD

Cr. Jack Campbell took on the Mayoral robes at Caulfield's recent statutory meeting and has accepted the role as No.1 citizen for the municipality.

Jack has served on the Council since 1978 and has brought a wealth of knowledge and experience with him in this time. He is married, with a grown family and retired, about a year ago, from his senior position with I.C.I.

Cr. Campbell has worked and is still involved with numerous community groups but has a particular commitment to the young people of the city and to the work of the Community Education Group.

The first task that Cr. Campbell performed on taking the Mayoral chair was to place on record the Council's appreciation of the excellent services rendered to the City by ex Councillors Blair, Doolan and McPhee. In losing these men, Caulfield also loses some 40 years of combined Council service.

In accepting the office, Cr. Campbell commented that it was not possible to operate successfully without the help of the Council staff. "I will be looking to both Council colleagues and staff for the co-operation that is needed if we are going to make the decisions that will most benefit the residents and ratepayers of the City."

Cr. Campbell also commented that Councillors should not be bound by tradition but they should look to the future with new and innovative ideas. "They should not necessarily do things the same old way just because they have always been done that way," he said.

In taking up the Office of Mayor of the City of Caulfield, Cr. Campbell said that he will work to ensure that the trust that has been bestowed on him is well placed.

Dressing for the occasion. Cr. Jack Campbell, Caulfield's new Mayor puts on his Mayoral robes. Assisting him is City Manager, Doug Aylen.

Lost opportunity

Caulfield Council's planning appeal concerning redevelopment of the old Elsternwick Post Office has been disallowed. This follows listing of the building by the Historic Buildings Council.

City Manager of Caulfield, Doug Aylen, said that the result is disappointing considering the benefits of the project to the community. However, the Council is philosophical about the decision.

It is a decision necessarily made by another authority and one which the Council accepts as part of the planning process.

Mr Aylen stated that the Post Office was only one of many economic development projects in the City, and will not interrupt a programme to generate capital and revenue from property development.

COUNCIL CONDITIONS NOT MET

The Council of the City of Caulfield is dismayed that in today's economic climate the Metropolitan Transit Authority would even contemplate spending $4 million on one tram stop.

Yes, $4 million is what it will cost to duplicate the tram tracks in Truganini Road, Glenhuntly and the benefits accruing from this exercise are minimal.

The M.T.A. has not met the conditions applied by the Council in approving the duplication and so it sees the project as unacceptable. The suggested road widening will not be sufficient, and the Council considers that the proposed width will not be adequate or safe.

According to the M.T.A. the rationale for the project lies basically in the inadequacies and inconveniences that exist with a single track - trams are delayed minimally when two of them are using the single track.

The Council is of the opinion that unless the job is done properly it should not be done at all. It will object most strongly to the proposal through a deputation to the Minister.

National award for training

The City of Caulfield has received national recognition, for its staff training program, in the inaugural awards for Innovation in Local Government, recently conducted by the Federal Government.

These awards recognise the achievements of Local Government, encourage innovative practices and help to disseminate the benefits of innovation throughout this sector of government.

Federal Minister for Local Government and Administrative Services, Mr Tom Uren, said that the hundreds of innovations entered for these awards, demonstrate the high level of inventiveness, initiative and efficiency that Local Government has achieved.

"Caulfield's Staff Training activities have evolved around the need to keep staff well informed but it also helps cultivate a sense of belonging," Carol said.

"It is also important that people recognise where they fit into the organisation and so gain a sense of worth in the work that they do."

Carol is the Community Liaison Officer with the Council and has held that position for nearly eight years. She has been responsible for the development of the "In-House" training program in particular, but has a number of other responsibilities in the public relations work at the council.

"If the staff are happy in their work and efficient in the services they provide, the residents of the municipality will be the ultimate beneficiaries and I see this as a legitimate aim of any public relations program."

The Caulfield Council submitted a number of entries covering a broad cross-section of its activities. The staff training award was presented in Adelaide, earlier this month and was accepted from Federal Minister for Local Government and Administrative Services Mr Tom Uren, by Carol Harry, on behalf of the council and the Staff Training Committee.

Letters To The Editor

Letters to the Editor are invited on any issue of local concern. Do you want to voice an opinion, raise an issue or ask a question on a local matter?

Letters should be kept as short as possible, typed or neatly hand written. A name, address and telephone number must be supplied but are not necessarily for publication. Anonymous letters will not be considered.

Address letters to: The Editor, Caulfield Contact, P.O. Box 42, SOUTH CAULFIELD. 3162.

ELECTIONS

Madam,

May I take this opportunity to thank all residents in the East Ward who have put their trust in me at the recent Caulfield Council Election.

I do consider this an overwhelming mandate from residents to look after their interests.

I am also aware that it is a tall order but with residents' help and with determination many obstacles can be overcome and I do assure residents that I intend to be on Council to look after their interests.

Thank You
Veronika Martens

MECCANO

Madam

This is just to say 'hear, hear!' to David Melvin's article in 'Leisure Lines' on the joys of Meccano, and to make one or two suggestions.

Some months ago while on a visit to London, Junior and I rushed to Henley's 'The best Toy shop in the World' or something, in search of the latest and brightest.

There were toys from basement to top floor, toys of every ilk and description, but the higher we went the more push-buttony the newest sophisticated toys there were peeping, beeping and signalling with lights, doing their own thing.

Both Junior and I were overcome with alienation, especially when we saw the prices.

Suddenly, on the way down I saw the big boxes. Meccano!

The word brought back memories of little cousins surrounded by bolts and metal strips of all shapes, and these fine structures they showed off with pride.

All the little cousins are by now bearded engineers etc.

So when I told Junior about what was in the boxes, his eyes lit up.

He is forever building things out of most unlikely materials, drinking straws, wires, paper. "That's what I want!" he said, "That's just what I want!"

Which brings me to the first suggestion.

Are there any other kids likely to be interested in building, exchanging information, spare parts, ways of importing additions to the set?

Did you get any other responses to your article?

The second thing we brought back is a book on do it yourself Black and White Photography.

But so far we haven't found any club or group doing it.

It requires quite a bit of equipment and the chemicals are sold in large quantities so we haven't started.

At the last school there was a photography club but there isn't one at the new one.

Not on the Nature Strips Please

Complaints have been received recently from all parts of the City relating to the parking of motor vehicles, trailers etc. on nature-strips.

This is a breach of the Road Traffic Regulations and any vehicle parked on a reservation or nature-strip is subject to a $30 fine.

Although it may appear to some that it is safe to park in this way it should also be realised that apart from obstructing a clear view of the road, extensive damage to the nature strip can also result, particularly in the winter months.

LABASSA TO BECOME A WORKING MUSEUM

Labassa, that grand old property in Manor Grove, Caulfield, now owned by the National Trust, is to be thoroughly renovated and restored, thanks to the generosity of a major food and beverage company.

Amatil has made a $1.6 million 'Gift to the Nation', which is being used to restore thirteen historic properties around Australia, in time for the Bicentenary.

Labassa, which now stands in just under one acre of grounds, was built in 1883; substantially altered in 1888, with the magnificent interior virtually undamaged since its completion in 1904.

The property was purchased by the National Trust in 1980 but limited funds prevented much work being done, until Amatil's generous grant was announced recently. A spokesman for the National Trust said that the three year restoration project currently underway will result in Labassa being opened as a Working Museum of Interior Decoration and Design in 1988.

Labassa will be open for inspection on Sunday, November 16.

LAND SALE

The Council is of the opinion that it no longer requires the use of lots 5 & 7 Bickhams Court.

The statutory procedures necessary for the sale of these lots has been commenced and the Council has subsequently advertised the proposed sale.

Objections lodged in respect to the sale will be heard in September and will be considered before a final decision is made.

Local Red Cross raises $46,474

Thanks to the generosity of local residents, and the hard work of Red Cross volunteers, the Caulfield District Appeal Committee raised almost $46,500 during the recent Red Cross Calling appeal.

The Chairman of the Red Cross Appeal, Mr John Birrell, has expressed his personal thanks, and those of the Society to all who participated in the Appeal.

Statewide, Red Cross raised $1,125,488 with the national total being just over $3 million.

Fire Station not under threat

Secretary of the Metropolitan Fire Brigades Board, Mr G. Mak has written to the City Manager, putting to rest fears that the Glenhuntly Fire Station might be under threat of closure.

The letter followed a recent report in the Herald, which suggested that closure was imminent.

In his letter, Mr Mak said 'the closure of the fire station has not at any stage been raised with or by the Board in the context of the 1986/87 budget deliberations.'

National appointment for town clerk

Elizabeth Loftus has been appointed the Honorary Secretary of the National Board of the Australian Local Government Women's Association.

Elizabeth holds the position of Manager Administration, along with the statutory role of 'Town Clerk' and also serves as the Council's Legal Officer.

NEW RESIDENT'S KIT

If you have just moved into the Caulfield Municipality and would like to know about Caulfield and its facilities, the City Offices have available a New Residents' Kit to answer all your queries.

If you have bought a property you should automatically receive a Kit in the mail. If you are renting a property please telephone on 524 3259 for your Kit.

PLANNING BRIEFS RETAINED

The Caulfield Council has for many years now required that institutions within the City, who are planning development or expansion, prepare a planning brief outlining its proposals for the future. These planning briefs look at the direction the institution is planning to take in the years to come.

In most cases it has been possible to arrive at a consensus plan and potential conflict between residents and applicants has been substantially avoided.

Occasionally, even though numerous discussions have been held between all parties involved, it has not been possible to reach agreement and individual planning proposals have been referred to the normal permit procedure.

The Council has decided that this procedure is unsatisfactory and where a compromise cannot be reached, it will itself adopt a planning brief.

There are many benefits to the community of knowing what is planned for the future. Residents in the vicinity of these institutions will be made aware of any proposed encroachment into residential areas that may occur at any time in the future. New home buyers who wish to approach the Council would also have the benefit of being able to find out what developments are planned for the area.

The newly formed Policy and Environment Committee approved this procedure in its August meeting.

Traffic Management to Include Streetscaping

The Council has accepted tenders and committed itself to spend around $140,000 on roadworks, traffic treatment and streetscaping in the first of its Local Area Traffic Management Projects.

The area to receive this attention is bounded by Coorigil, Murrumbidgee, North and Koorang Roads in Carnegie.

The works will include splitter islands, slow points, realignments and clay brick paving where appropriate.

This is the first area in which comprehensive streetscaping will be carried out in conjunction with the traffic treatment.

Limited tree planting is carried out at present in association with some road reconstruction. The Council's self-help tree planting scheme is also operating and individual streetscaping projects are carried out from time to time.

But the Council has recommended that streetscaping designs should also be carried out in conjunction with the implementation of all future Local Area Traffic Management Schemes.

Simultaneous design and construction would produce some economies but there would also be a far greater visual impact than would have been achieved with individual treatment.

Meet Des Quigley

Des has recently been appointed as the Home Maintenance Officer with the City of Caulfield. He will be a member of the Domiciliary and Residential Car Section of Community Development and will be available on 524 3333 between 8.30 am to 9 am and 4 pm to 4.30 pm, Monday to Friday.

The Handyman service is available to people who through age or disability require some assistance with small maintenance tasks around the house.

These would include such things as changing washers, fixing light bulbs, mending locks, or installing grab rails in bathrooms.

If you have any enquiries, please contact Des Quigley at the City Offices on 524 3333.

News from Council

Pizza Hut Approval

A whole new concept has been approved for 993 North Road. The Council has granted a permit to Pepsico Australia Pty. Ltd for the building of a 'Pizza Hut' outlet. The existing site will be subdivided and the restaurant, along with administration facilities, will occupy the block on the corner of Brett Street and North Road.

The Council considers that the space provided for carparking will be adequate and that there should be no loss of amenity to the area.

Fire Damaged Food Seized

When a fire occurs in a food outlet Council Health Surveyors have the responsibility of making sure that no fire damaged food is sold.

Following notification from the fire brigade, a large quantity of food was recently confiscated from an Ormond supermarket.

Foodstuffs which have suffered fire damage must be destroyed. This includes frozen and refrigerated goods, particularly poultry and dairy products, where the power has been cut off for any length of time. Other products, tainted by smoke, or in the direct heat of the fire must also be confiscated.

However, most canned foods, where there is no damage to the label or can, are still fit for consumption.

All foodstuffs seized in this manner must be destroyed under the supervision of the Health Surveyor.

Council's Pied Piper

Rats and mice have been the cause of increased calls to the Council's Health Department. Not that there is a plague of them in the City, but that the Council staff can advise residents on how to get rid of them.

In order to provide a more cost efficient service the Council has engaged a pest control firm to provide facilities at a very reduced rate. Caulfield residents with rat and mice infestations can call the City Offices for advice.

Scout Book

The first Caulfield Scout Group has donated to the Council and to the Libraries a copy of a book compiled by Scott Gallop entitled "75 Years of the 1st Caulfield Scout Group, 1908 to 1983". Research for the book confirms that the first Caulfield Scout Group was Victoria's first troop.

The book, which sets out the history of the group, is available in the in-house Library and will be available in the branch Library soon.

Councillor Orientation

It's not as easy as you think becoming a Councillor and so a Councillor orientation programme is being designed for both newly elected Councillors and those who would like to brush up a little. The programme will shed more light on how local government functions, particularly in Caulfield, and provide information on the rights and responsibilities of our elected representatives.

Health Study

The Department of Community Services is conducting a study into the use of Health facilities by mothers and children. Mothers giving birth at the Mercy Hospital are being provided with personal health records in which to document any visits they make to Infant Welfare Centres, or other health professionals.

The study will involve around 500 mothers and will be conducted over a 12 month period. It will provide insight into the value of maintaining personal health records and ascertain its usefulness in health promotion activities and the responsibilities taken by the individual in health matters.

Cancer Runners

The Council has provided a $200 donation to the Australian Anti-Cancer Council. It will be relayed by athletes from local clubs who will join a team of Australian Army runners circumnavigating Australia to raise funds for Cancer Research.

The Army relay team will arrive in Melbourne on Saturday, September 13th and will be received by the Lord Mayor of Melbourne.

The local athletes will run from Caulfield to the Melbourne Town Hall, where they will present a cheque to the Lord Mayor, who will in turn, pass it on to the Army runners.

New Name

It has been suggested that the areas within Caulfield currently known as East St. Kilda and Balacava, be changed to 'West Caulfield'.

To gauge resident reaction, the Council will conduct a survey of the people who live in the area. If there are no objections the Council will then request the Place Names Committee of the State Government to consider this suggestion and decide upon the matter.

Collection Development

The survey of Caulfield Library's extensive collection of Judaica resources has commenced. In order to produce a bibliography of this material, Dr Henry Shaw of Melbourne State College, has been engaged to survey the material. Dr Shaw says that the holding, which has been collected over the last 10 years, forms an important resource of Statewide significance.

The Library plans to develop the Judaica collection and house it at the Elsternwick Library.

Public Toilets for Glenhuntly

The Council has for some years, and more particularly since 1980, expressed its desire that Metrail provide a suitable site within the Glenhuntly station property for the erection of a public toilet to serve the Glenhuntly shopping centre. Metrail property bisects the shopping centre and is therefore a good location for such a facility.

Plans of the station building works, to date, have not included provision for public toilets. However, a site meeting is to be arranged with Metrail to determine a suitable location and to initiate procedures for the lease of the land to the Council.

Youth Policy

A youth policy document is being prepared by Caulfield's Youth Council and deals with issues such as accommodation, employment, leisure, health, culture and the law.

The Caulfield Youth Council was established in November 1983, by representatives from local youth interest groups who were working in the City of Caulfield. They could see the need for an umbrella organisation that would address youth issues and youth services from a municipal perspective.

The full Youth Policy document will be presented for adoption to a future meeting of the Council.

STAFF NEWS

New Hostel Supervisor

After 12 years with the Council, Vilma Collard recently retired as Supervisor of the Council's Rosstown Court Hostel. Fay Grant has been selected to take her place.

Fay has been with the Council for nearly 8 years, and started as a Home Help worker. It was not long before she was given the position as Deputy Home Help Supervisor, and she has recently been working as an Assessment Officer.

Congratulations Fay and best wishes for your new position.

Handyman Retires

The Home Maintenance Officer, Trevor Keen, retired earlier this month after 9 years with the Council. Trevor has been well regarded by the elderly and disabled who have required his 'handyman' services.

A Transfer

It will be quite a change for Jo Quigley who has transferred from the position of Senior Family Day Care Officer to take up the role of Infant Welfare Sister at Murumbeena. Jo's skills and contribution to a high standard Family Day Care Programme will be missed but mothers will be delighted to know that she is continuing her work for Caulfield.

Congratulations

Andrew Baxter, an Engineer from Caulfield's Operations Department, has been hiding his light under a bushell.

Andrew recently completed his Post Graduate Diploma in Municipal Engineering at the Footscray Institute of Engineering and topped his course.

The Graduate Diploma will compliment the degree in Civil Engineering, which Andrew was awarded some years ago.

Manager receives key appointment

The Caulfield Council is losing the services of one of its best known managers.

John Wise, Manager Community Development, has resigned his position and will commence work with the Brotherhood of St. Laurence in August.

John has worked for the Council since June 1976 and in that time has seen enormous growth in Council's services to the community. He was originally employed as Manager Social Development with responsibilities in aged and child care. But since then the Department has expanded to include leisure services, the libraries, arts and recreation.

When asked about his achievements during this time John said he was glad to have worked with the Council in the establishment of Rosstown Court - the Council's third hostel, and the meals-on-wheels kitchen - the biggest of its type in Australia. He has also been responsible for the expansion of children's services to include four child care centres and the Family Day Care Scheme. The Carnegie Resource Centre was established under John's guidance and approval in principal for a nursing home for Caulfield was sought under his direction.

"My only regret" said John, "is that I have been unable to do much to alleviate the shortage of low cost housing for the elderly."

In his new position John will be Director of Community Services for the Brotherhood of St. Laurence, answerable to Bishop Peter Hollingsworth. He will be responsible for the operation of a wide range of services to low income people - particularly the elderly and will be involved in the promotion of self help groups for people in these situations.

Along with Bishop

Hollingsworth John will also be responsible for making public statements on welfare policy issues.

"The work of the Brotherhood," he said, "is not unlike Council services in this area. It includes accommodation, day centres for the elderly and income support groups."

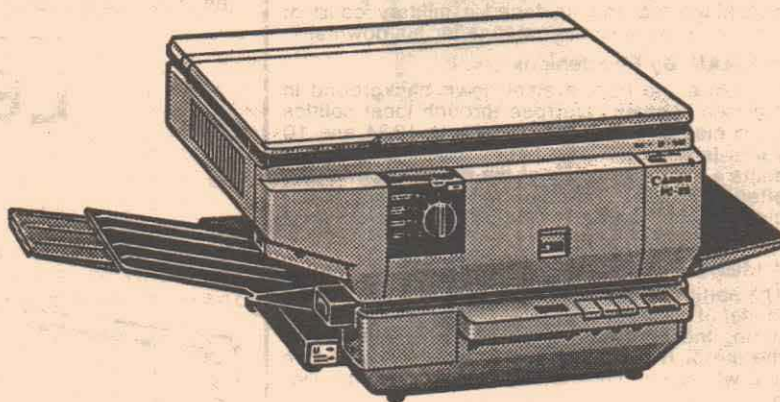

Congratulations John on obtaining this prestigious position. It will be Caulfield's loss.

Betty Watson has been teaching astrology for 10 years at venues such as the Donvale Learning Centre. She has appeared on Channel 10 and the Muriel Cooper Show on 3AW and is a resident astrologer with Radio Station, 3MP. On Thursday, 11 September at 7.30pm at the Caulfield Library, Betty will be talking about astrology and what it involves. There will be time for questions and tea and coffee will be provided. Her talk will provide an excellent opportunity for people to be informed about astrology. This activity is free and no bookings are necessary.

Recording your past

Are you interested in recording your past or in helping someone to record theirs. Mr Dick Curlew from the Oral History Association will be speaking about the importance of recording people's experiences, hopes and aspirations. It is envisaged from the meeting that interested interviewers and interviewees will be gathered together so that the recording of personal histories can take place. If you are at all interested, please come along. Refreshments provided. Enquiries can be addressed to Barry Scott, Community Services Librarian, Telephone 524 3357. If you have any transport problems please also ring Barry at the above number.

And do not miss Dr Jim Cairns who will be speaking on Politics and Idealism at the Caulfield Library on Thursday 18 September at 7.30pm.

Recent books

LESTER. The Official Biography by Dick Francis.

Back in 1973 Jockey Lester Piggott asked Dick Francis to write his story for "when I retire". This book is a result of conversations between the two jockeys, taped at intervals over the intervening years, during which Lester slowly revealed his inner self as to no other writer before.

ELLA. The Life and Times of Ella Fitzgerald by Sid Colin.

Essentially a superb interpreter of popular songs Fitzgerald has been said to have the talent of Billy Holiday, Bessie Smith and Aretha Franklin rolled into one. Ella's story is a story of a black musician's struggle for acceptance. Colin paints a fascinating portrait of Ella's life and times, from the poverty and prejudice of Harlem in the 30's to the luxury of Carnegie Hall.

THE FALL OF GENERAL GORDON BENNETT. By A.B. Lodge.

The fascinating story of the destruction of the career of Australia's most controversial soldier. He enjoyed meteoric rise during the Great War. His bravery at Gallipoli and France is legendary and by the end of the War he had carved out for himself a reputation as an outstanding front line leader.

Yet by the end of the Second World War his career was shattered and he faced a military court of inquiry. What were the reasons for his downfall?

TRUMAN. By Roy Jenkins.

Truman came from a small town background in Western Missouri. He rose through local politics to be elected to the U.S. Senate in 1934 and 10 years later to the presidency. Roy Jenkins presents a favourable view of the president who was often seen as a poor diplomat, a fumbling politician and the first man to authorise the use of nuclear weapons.

A LIGHT WOMAN. By Catherine Gavin.

The setting is Paris in 1871. Babette is an artist's model at a time when 20,000 Parisians are to die during the Commune. It is a year that will change the life of Babette forever. Gavin's novel of love and war richly illuminates a country and its people.

SUPERWOMAN TRAP AND HOW TO ESCAPE IT. By Cathy Douglas.

The new image of a superwoman who is good at everything is seen by Douglas as the new oppression, setting an unattainable goal. In this witty book Douglas takes a sardonic look at the myth and reality of the superwoman and shows you how to cock a snook at the tyranny of perfection and live the life you want to.

HUNGER STRIKE. By Susie Orbach.

Susie Orbach is the author of the best selling "Fat is a Feminist Issue". She now examines anorexia nervosa through looking at its cultural and social causes. Hunger strike shows that anorexia is a psychological distress signal of the 1980's and a metaphor illuminating the experience of all women today.

STALAG AUSTRALIA. German prisoners of war in Australia by Barbara Winter.

Of the Germans captured by the allies in World War Two, over 1,400 servicemen and 220 merchant seamen, including officers, were transported to Australia. These men were held in remote bushland P.O.W. camps. Stalag Australia describes the mismanagement of the camps, the prisoners' beliefs, hopes, frustrations and fears, their conflicts and power struggles, their loyalties and betrayals and the frequent escapes. Written by Barbara Winter the theme of Stalag Australia first aroused her whilst she was still a student in Western Australia. She discovered a crate of books donated to the University by the Y.M.C.A. In one of the books she found an envelope giving the name and address of a man in Germany. Intrigued she wrote to him and began to uncover the story of the German P.O.W.s in Australia. Research took many years with a lot of material being translated from German.

Is it or isn't it?

The Glenhantly Primary School No. 3703 is concerned that the authenticity of their school bell has been challenged.

However, the school is confident they have the ship's bell from the fever ship, The Glen Huntly, quarantined off Point Ormond.

The ship has long provided the school's emblem and Joy Pregnell, connected with the school since 1949, speaks of the bell's history.

"We were always told of the history of the bell.

"It was part of our heritage.

"It used to be the school's bell and our fire bell and was hung from the school near the quadrangle.

"There was never any question that it wasn't the bell from the Glen Huntly".

Cynthia Rasperger, another teacher at Glenhantly Primary School points out that there is a number on the bell that may have some significance.

The number is 36824.

It is admitted that it is certainly an unusual shape for a ship's bell.

Anyone with information on the history of the bell, could you please contact the Caulfield Historical Society.

(Tel 578 3145 - Secretary).

•Michael Siek, 11 years, and Alice Melland, 11 years with the bell from the Glenhantly sailing ship.

New Roadworks in Elsternwick

When you see all the roadworks around the city do you sometimes wonder where they are going next? Well it is Elsternwick's turn.

The Road Construction Authority has approved a second stage of Elsternwick shopping centre road redevelopment. Glenhantly Road will be reconstructed from Riddell Parade to Nepean Highway.

The two major features of this project are the improvements to the side street intersections and the brick paving of the footpath.

Traffic islands and footpath widenings will be used to improve the intersections of Horne Street, Rippon Grove and Gordon Street. However, the footpath will not be widened in Glenhantly Road.

A number of different types of paving have been used in the existing footpath between Nepean Highway and Riddell Parade. The placement of brick pavers, similar to those used in other sections will assist in tying the centre together and so reinforce the continuity of the shopping centre.

Other improvements to the street will include the replacement of the kerb and channel and the asphalt road service. This will improve the appearance, strength and riding qualities of the roadway.

The Council was appreciative of the positive response from the traders following the completion of the first stage and hopes to achieve similar results this time around.

Complaints over bus parking

Residents of Elster Avenue and surrounding streets have complained vigorously to the Council about the inconvenience of route buses 601 and 605 using these residential streets. The narrow roads are being used as 'rest areas' and buses are standing for as long as half an hour at a time with their engines running.

Many attempts have been made in the past to have this practice discontinued.

The residential streets are not authorised as bus routes and the Council has resolved therefore to approach local Members of Parliament, the Minister for Transport and the M.T.A. to ensure that buses no longer use these streets.

It was also felt that since the buses are parking illegally the Council may have some legal redress.

It would appear to the Council that drivers determine their own routes and the Authority is unable to control them.

Meet Dr Jim Cairns

On Thursday, 18 September at 7.30pm at the Caulfield Library, Dr Jim Cairns will be talking on politics and idealism making reference to his writings.

Dr Jim Cairns was a member of the Police Force for 10 years before he joined the AIF in 1945 where he was stationed at Morotai, in New Guinea. From 1945-1955 he studied and taught at Melbourne University where he later became Senior Lecturer in Economic History.

In 1955 he entered the House of Representatives as ALP member for Yarra. In 1974, after Labour had been elected to power he became Deputy Prime Minister and Treasurer. As Treasurer his appointment of Junji Morosi as his private secretary caused a great deal of controversy. Subsequently, he was appointed Environment Minister but by July 1975 he was dismissed on the grounds of misleading Parliament about his involvement in the Loans Affair. He resigned from Federal Parliament in 1977 to involve himself with the Alternative Life Style movement.

Of particular note from the early years is 'Silence Kills', events leading up to the Vietnam Moratorium. On May 7, 1970 the Melbourne Herald predicted that only a minority would take part in the street demonstration planned for Melbourne. 70,000 people turned up. The book provides a fascinating record of our recent history. The same can also be said for 'Oil in Troubled Waters' in which Jim Cairns gives his view of the Loans Affair as well as critically examining the authoritarian nature of political systems.

In recent times his writings have concentrated on defining an alternative theory of human growth and throughout a somewhat tempestuous political career Jim Cairns has established himself as one of our most important thinkers. Everyone is welcome to meet him at the Caulfield Library, Maple Street, Caulfield South, on Thursday, September 18 at 7.30pm. Refreshments will be provided.

LEO RETIRES

•While our intrepid reporter attended Glenhantly Fire Station, Leo Clarke, soon to retire, was called upon to attend a fire in a neighbouring municipality.

For the last 10 years, Leo Clarke has been station officer at the Glenhantly Fire Station, and is retiring after 30 years in the Metropolitan Fire Brigade.

Leo has spent the last 20 years at the Glenhantly station, and during this time he has attended a great many fires - the biggest at Bowater Scott, the paper manufacturers.

The Fire Brigade runs through Leo's family.

His brother Kevin, is a station officer at Box Hill Fire Station and two of Leo's three sons are also employed by the M.F.B.

Michael is a fire fighter at Moorabbin Fire Station, while Anthony is a Fire Brigade Electrician.

Leo will be leaving the Glenhantly Fire Station in the capable hands of a "great bunch of firemen."

To be or not to be?

The Caulfield Community Service, C.C.S., is holding its annual general meeting in the Mayoress's room at the City Hall at 8 pm on September 2.

The fundamental function of C.C.S. is to seek out gaps in community services, to identify means of filling those gaps, and thus to set up new organisations to meet those needs. Notable among developments it has initiated are:

•Caulfield News Spot, the forerunner of 'Caulfield Contact'

•The Free Legal Advice Service at the Caulfield Citizen's Advice Bureau.

•Caulfield's Early Planning for Retirement Group.

Some committee members believe that C.C.S. has served its purpose and should wind up. Others believe it should have a continuing role as a focal point of Caulfield's voluntary organisations and work in conjunction with the Southern Region Consultative Council.

It is largely through C.C.S. efforts that Caulfield will have its own District Health Council with the proposed regionalisation of Health Services.

The debate should be an interesting one. In addition, the guest speaker at the annual meeting will be Suzanne Fabian. She is the author of 'The Last Taboo', a book about child and adolescent suicide.

All members of local volunteer organisations and the public are cordially invited to join the C.C.S. at its annual meeting.

THE NEW COUNCIL TEAM

For your information

Caulfield Council, along with all other municipalities, conducted its elections on the first Saturday in August.

This year there were elections in two wards, with candidates in the other two wards being elected unopposed.

This may be the last time that Councils conduct their elections in this way. If the proposed amendments to the Local Government Act are passed in the Spring Session of Parliament then we will see a total Council elected every three years. This will mean that residents will no longer have to make annual trips to the polling booth.

The newly elected Councillors therefore may only serve for one year on the Council before having to face another election.

September Meeting dates

- Tuesday 9th — Executive Services
- Tuesday 16th — Economic Development Policy and Environment
- Tuesday 23rd — Council

Election Results

The elections were free of any significant controversy and no complaints of electoral offences have been received.

The results of the elections were:

East Ward:

V. Martens 5,107; G. Fabian 2,699; Informal 629; Total Votes Recorded 8,435.

This represents a percentage vote of 63% and is the second highest winning margin of any elections held in this City.

West Ward:

D. Dunstan 3,088; B. Goldman 3,009; Informal 338; Total Votes Recorded 6,435.

This represents a percentage vote of 59% and is the second lowest winning margin of any elections held in this City.

Failure to vote

After allowing for the people who have already provided a satisfactory excuse for not voting, the Council will be sending out approximately 5,000 'Failure to vote' notices.

Allowance will also be made for people over 70 years of age who did not attend the elections. Whilst they still have the right to vote it is not compulsory for people in this age bracket to do so. It would appear that around 20% of the people eligible to vote did not do so.

The Newly Elected Councillors 86/87

North Ward

Cr. Sandy Anderson

Cr. Anderson has been interested in local politics for many years and has actively campaigned for sitting Councillors. She is married, with one son and works as a Property Management Consultant.

Sandy's election campaign started long before ex Cr. Blair announced his resignation. Even though her nomination was uncontested and she did not have to face an election, it still provided an opportunity for some of her constituents to get to know her.

"I have made a deep personal commitment to enhance the legacy of the fine service provided by so many past Councillors," said Cr. Anderson. "This has made Caulfield the envy of many other municipalities."

"The confidence of the community, my family and friends has lifted my enthusiasm and I will endeavour to apply my energies to ensure that the high standards are continued in all areas."

Sandy, at her first Council meeting said that she is proud to be able to join such a highly respected team.

Cr. Sandy Anderson takes her oath of office at her first Council meeting. Assisting is Town Clerk, Eliabeth Loftus.

East Ward

Cr. Veronica Martens

Veronika Martens is one of the three women who will now serve on the Caulfield Council. She is married, has one son and although now retired has 17 years experience as an Administrator.

"I will be a full-time representative for the East Ward," she said.

After taking her oath of office, Mrs. Martens took the opportunity of thanking all the residents who had put their trust in her and given her such an overwhelming mandate to look after their interests.

"It is a tall order to live up to," she said, "but I have proved that with determination many obstacles can be overcome and I intend to be in their pitching for the residents."

Veronika is already heavily involved with many community groups and organisations so serving Caulfield as a Councillor will be a natural progression.

East Ward Councillor, Veronika Martens, signs her Oath of Allegiance.

South Ward

Cr. Geoff Patience

Cr. Patience has served Caulfield for many years. He was first elected in 1976 and has become a well known personality within the community. He is married, with a grown family, and now operates a Travel Agency in South Caulfield.

Geoff is particularly well known for his work on the Princes Park Committee of Management and has devoted many hours to the Caulfield Football and Soccer Clubs. He is a member of the Southern Memorial Hospital Board and works tirelessly with the Caulfield Lions Club. His present aim is to see a Nursing Home established in Caulfield and is one of the many who are still working to see that project come to fruition.

"I appreciate being returned to Council," said Cr. Patience. "I look forward to again working for the City of Caulfield along with my south ward colleagues."

Long serving South Ward Councillor, Geoff Patience, renews his oath of office.

West Ward

Cr. Don Dunstan.

This is Don Dunstan's second term as Councillor for the City of Caulfield. He represented the West Ward from 1977-1980 and has again taken up the challenge of Local Government.

In his introductory remarks to the Council he said that it was a pleasure after a lapse of a number of years to be able to address the Council once again.

"I would like simply to say that I hope, in the ensuing term of office that I will live up to people's expectations and that I will perform satisfactorily in my duties," Don said.

The experience of the earlier years should at least ease Don's transition to the Council. He won't have to worry about learning all those complicated meeting procedures and he will know well just how much work is involved in being a Caulfield Councillor.

West Ward Councillor, Don Dunstan, was elected to serve on Council.

Community health a priority

Education aimed at the prevention of illness is top priority at the Caulfield Community Care Centre.

The Centre which is unique in Victoria is situated in Kooyong Road, Caulfield, adjacent to the Royal Southern Memorial Hospital.

Roger Shipton, Federal Member for Higgins, who visited the Centre recently said he was most impressed with the facility, its aims and achievements.

The Caulfield Community Care Centre aims to provide a totally integrated health system which will support patients in their own environment and which will be recognised by the community as a resource which can provide a total health service.

Programs in schools

The Centre works as a team with the co-operation of over one hundred local general practitioners and is used as a teaching centre for professionals, students and para-medics.

The Centre has an educational team which visits local schools and involves both students and teachers in prevention programs.

It is interesting to note that a recent program has included screening for scoliosis (curvature of the spine).

Figures show that some 10% of the surveyed children have some degree of defect.

Correct treatment at an early age helps prevent future problems.

The teaching of basic nutrition forms a valuable part of these educational programs.

Programs at the centre are focussed around community need.

Current health programs include rheumatoid arthritis, childbirth education, diabetes education and many others.

A valuable service to the elderly and their relatives is the assessment of a patient's ability to cope with living independently both physically and mentally.

Most elderly people prefer to remain in their own homes as long as possible and this is recognised by the Centre.

Provision of home nursing, patient transport to hospital, escorting assistance for recreation and general family support are of great assistance to patients.

Special services such as gardening, hairdressing, etc are offered through the assistance of volunteers.

"At a time when health costs are soaring, lengthy queues for public hospitals the norm and the care of the elderly a real community problem, it is most encouraging that Caulfield Community Care Centre has such a positive approach," Mr Shipton said.

The Community Care Centre services the following areas: Armadale, Balaclava, Bentleigh, Brighton, Carnegie, Caulfield, Chadstone, Elsternwick, Elwood, Glen Iris, Malvern, Murrumbidgee, Oakleigh, Prahran, St Kilda.

Referral is required by a doctor, however if this presents a problem it is possible to ring direct on 528 6433, extension 726, 727.

School medical service to resume

The Minister for Health, Mr White, has advised local MLA Mr Ted Tanner, that the School Medical Service is to be resumed in Caulfield and other area schools.

The purpose of the school medical examination is to ensure that students in prep year are tested for problems concerning their vision, hearing, co-ordination and other areas of physical development.

In Year Four, they are tested for vision and speech and receive a general screening.

In Year Eight the Service tests the students for vision.

Youth Quest

Lions International will again be conducting its Youth of the Year Quest, which is open to young people between the ages of 16 and 19, who are currently attending secondary school or are about to enter the work force.

The Quest aims to provide experience in a wide range of personal skills, including leadership, personal improvement, sportmanship, citizenship, community involvement and public speaking. During September, School Principals and drama teachers will be contacted with more detailed information about the Quest.

Judging of Youth of the Year will take place in March 1987, with the national winner earning an overseas trip as an ambassador for Australia. State winners receive an around Australia tour.

If you're interested in taking part, you can ring Chairman of Caulfield Lions Quest Committee, Bill Allan, on 528 3797 (business).

Alcoholics Anonymous Book

The Federal Minister for Health, Dr Neil Blewett, has welcomed the first Australian printing of Alcoholics Anonymous as a major reference book for A.A. members.

The Big Book, as it is known among A.A. groups in 110 countries around the world, provides a message of hope and inspiration for members seeking to recover from the disease of alcoholism.

More than 5,000,000 English language copies have been distributed since the first printing in the U.S. in 1939, and many more published in other languages.

Dr Blewett says the first Australian printing, launched at A.A.'s 26th National Convention in Melbourne at Easter, heralds a new era in self sufficiency for A.A. Australia.

He says: "I understand that more than 1,000 A.A. groups are now established in this country with some 17,000 members."

"I have no doubt this new addition will be a major source of assistance to all Australian members of the Fellowship".

All Australian governments are combining in a major assault on the abuse of all drugs, including alcohol. More than $100,000,000 is being sent on the campaign over 3 years.

According to Mr Blewett, the campaign is looking to community based organisations for support in getting its messages to all Australians and in reaching those in need of specific help and support.

The government is relying on the full co-operation of Alcoholics Anonymous in this venture.

A record library fine

Britain's longest overdue municipal library book has been returned after more than 200 years.

The "Book of Fines", a register of property transactions in Taunton, Somerset, between 1641 and 1648, was borrowed by (of all people), the Bishop of Winchester.

The bishop must have been a slow reader, because the book remained in his office for 200 years before being passed on to the Church Commissioner who kept it for 10 years, then gave it to the Hampshire county records office.

It was spotted by an archivist who used to work at Somerset's records office, where the book was first borrowed.

With a classic comment, Mr Derek Shorrocks, Somerset's records officer said that, "we knew it went missing in the middle of the seventeenth century but we never knew where."

For those planning to borrow a library book for the same time period, be prepared (or rich!!).

The fine that you would pay (if still alive) could be around $A1500.

AWARDS FOR SMALL BUSINESS

Roger Shipton, MHR for Higgins, has called on local small businesses to participate in the 1986 National Business Awards Program.

"These Award Programs are designed to give recognition to the vital contribution small businesses make to Australia's economy and to our national welfare."

"Small businesses are defined, for the purpose of these Awards, as those in which key management decisions are made by the owners who retain independent ownership and control of their business."

"Businesses may be nominated for an award by people outside the firm or the businesses can nominate themselves."

"In making the awards the Government seeks to give recognition to the achievements of small business in areas of profitability and growth in both sales and employment, as well as for their innovation and sound financial planning."

Roger Shipton said the Small Business Awards Program gives recognition and national exposure to firms for their entrepreneurial spirit and productive achievements.

"All small businesses should be encouraged to enter the Awards Program and have the opportunity to win the major prize which will allow representatives of the firm to participate in study schemes, exhibitions or other industry-related events overseas," Roger Shipton said.

Applications close on September 30.

For further information contact: Roger Shipton 209 7842.

Are you a movie buff?

If your interest in cinema goes back a few years, you may be able to help.

The Elsternwick Classic, in Gordon Street, Elsternwick is believed to date back to 1890, when it first operated as a dance hall.

It is now believed to be one of the oldest independent cinemas still operating in Victoria.

The cafeteria at the cinema is currently being extensively renovated with a period theme, and will be open in late October as Cafe Flicks, a bistro style BYO restaurant catering for film-goers.

Luis Ponte of Cafe Flicks is keen to hear from anyone who may have old photographs of the Cinema or who can give first hand information on its history, to be incorporated in the distinctive menu being planned for the restaurant.

Luis can be contacted on either 523 6988 or 423 9739.

SAFER RAIL CROSSING

Footpath reconstruction funds have been set aside for the construction of another pedestrian crossing over the railway in Grange Road, south of Dandenong Road. There is already a crossing on the east side of Grange Road, but the convenience of the west side and the high traffic volumes deter people from using it.

Metrail has been asked to expedite the installation and has been advised that the Caulfield Council will also meet the cost of any work required in the Railway Reserve.

No hydrotherapy grant

At its meeting in November last year, the Council agreed to submit an application for a Hydrotherapy Pool for the Royal Southern Memorial Hospital to the Department of Sport and Recreation. The application was submitted to the Department under the Major Recreation Initiative Grants Scheme.

The Council has been advised that the project will not be listed for consideration and will therefore not be funded. In assessing the hydrotherapy pool and comparing it with other projects, the department suggested that it was not likely to be listed in the future either.

OPEN DAY AT CHISHOLM

Chisholm Institute of Technology's recent Open Day was a great success with more than 2,500 people visiting both campuses at Caulfield and Frankston.

One of the many displays included glass blowing demonstrations by students and staff from the School of Art and Design.

Glass work is studied in the Bachelor of Arts (Ceramic Design) on the Caulfield Campus at 900 Dandenong Road, East Caulfield.

Information on courses can be obtained by contacting Admissions on 573 2000.

As part of its involvement in the Caulfield Festival, the Caulfield Library Service is organising a competition designed to create an additional record of life in Caulfield in 1986.

Entrants need not live in Caulfield, but can have fun photographing their view of Caulfield, its houses, buildings, shops, schools, workplaces and its people.

Graham Deacon Photographics of Glenhuntly Road, Elsternwick, have donated a 'Slick' tripod valued at approximately $150. This will be the prize in the 18 years and under section and a 'Star Blitz' pro flash gun valued at $200 will be awarded in the adults section.

The Melbourne School of Art and Photography also of Glenhuntly Road, Elsternwick has donated 2 terms of tuition of the section winner's choice. The competition will be professionally judged and all entries will be exhibited during the Festival week.

Entries close on Friday 14th November. Guide lines and entry forms are available from the Libraries or by telephoning Barry Scott on 524 3357.

Baton Twirlers do it again

The Caulfield Baton Twirlers competed in the Victorian Twirling Championships held in Boronia this month taking out second place in both teams sections entered.

The senior team of four girls gained second place in the 'Small Team' section and six girls gained second place in the 'Specialised' section, with the theme being 'Moscow' a dance routine.

The Baton Twirlers will compete in the Australian Championships in October being held in Sydney.

Anyone interested in Baton Twirling is welcome to come along to practice nights in St. John's Uniting Church Hall, Corner Foster Street and Glenhuntly Road, South Caulfield on Tuesday nights.

For enquiries telephone Dorothy Crerar on 528 5206.

VAL'S LAST DELIVERY

Val Moss has been a postie working from Caulfield South Post Office since 1965.

Up until that time Val had worked in factories but did not like the repetition.

When she saw an advertisement in the newspaper for both postmen and postwomen, Val decided to apply.

Fortunately there was a vacancy at Caulfield South Post Office.

Val has experienced a number of changes in the postal services during the past twenty years, including one delivery per day while Australia Post was called the P. M. G.

"Although the volume of mail has increased enormously over the last few years, people don't send the amount of Christmas cards that they used to," said Val.

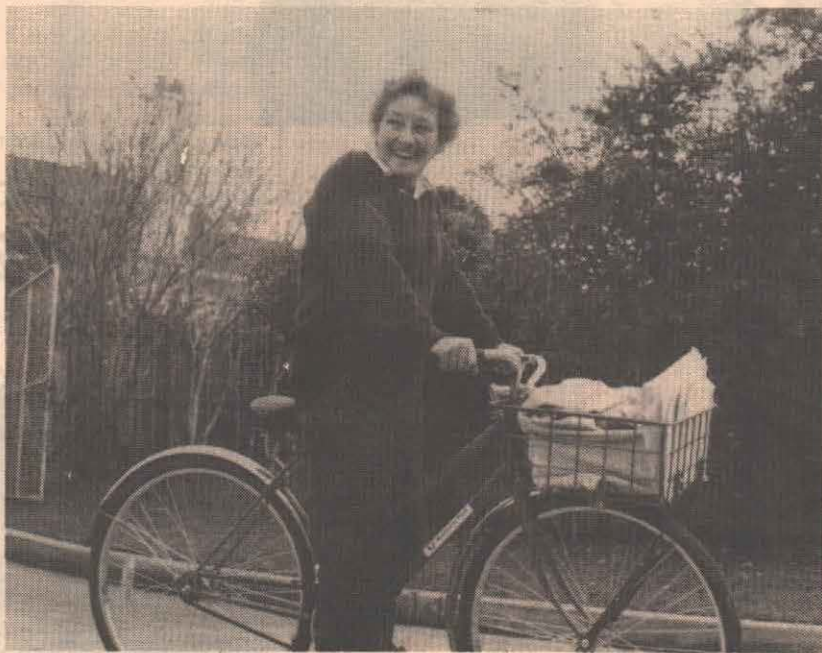

But she hasn't given up altogether.

"If the weather was mild, I would stay on the bike, but I don't like the heat of summer."

"I have taken the opportunity of sorting private boxes, part time," said Val.

Val has lived in Caulfield for 30 years and before she was married, worked at the Caulfield Convalescent Hospital.

She has four sons and six grandchildren.

Val Moss, over 20 years a Caulfield Postwoman.

Term 3 classes at the Caulfield Arts

There will be many new classes this coming term — here is a selection which may be of interest

FAMILY HISTORY

Classes will cover tracing your family tree from the simple beginnings, to the more advanced stages.

How family photos tell stories — looking much deeper into birth, death and marriage certificates — the reasons your ancestors came to Australia, the ship they arrived on, where they went when they arrived, how many children they had, their occupation, where they are buried.

Squatters, gold diggers, settlers, and maybe a convict.

Overseas Research — information on records within Victoria dealing with your overseas ancestors — County record offices in England, Scotland, Wales and Ireland — also Europe.

Family history is more than just drawing a tree — it is the stories which put the 'meat on the bones'.

Local History Research.
Enrol in the complete workshop or just the sessions that interest you.

Cost: $12 per session.

Both classes will be taken by the Arts Centre's Genealogy teacher, Fay Johnson.

Fay is a professional Genealogist of 16 years experience.

She has worked on a number of books of an historical nature and acted as researcher for the television series "Eureka Stockade" and "Anzacs".

Fay is a resident of Murrumbidgee and one of her specialities is local history.

Drop In Centre turns 10

On September 8, the St. Stephens Community Drop-In Centre celebrates ten years of operation.

Centre Management wishes to take the opportunity to express its thanks to the many people who have made the Centre's continued and successful operation possible, especially:

- Mr John Wise, Community Development, Caulfield Council
- the Council for its use of the community bus
- the generosity of St. Stephens Uniting Church in allowing the Centre to use its hall and facilities
- the Department of Community and Welfare Services, for its financial support
- and finally, the encouragement and referrals from local occupational therapists; physiotherapists and social workers from the Southern Memorial, Caulfield and other area hospitals.

Caulfield poet recognised in international competition

Victorian poet Geoffrey C. Parsons, of Murray Street, Caulfield South, came third in the Florida International Poetry Competition with his poem 'Behold The Sea', to be published in the USA.

Geoffrey's work will soon appear in the book 'Poets For Africa', which includes work by Neil Diamond, Peter Yarrow, Red Skelton and Steve Allen.

The proceeds from the book will be used for the relief and recovery of famine in Africa.

'The National Poetry Anthology', to be published in New York, will also feature Geoffrey's work.

Behold The Sea by Geoffrey C. Parsons

A man, a boy and a dog
Walked along the cliff,
Till they came to a clearing
And excitement spread.
The boy called aloud,
"Look father, behold the sea."
"I am the captain of the ship
And all is well."
"The sails are full," the man
Saluted. "All is caulk."
"Well done sailor, now full
Speed towards the unknown,

The tide waits for no man
In its treacherous wake.
"And I am in command
Over the deepest depths."
The dog barked and scrambled
Along the narrow path.
"Quiet sailor whilst I
Read the heavenly stars,
Concentration is lost to
A discontent emptiness."
"Twelve knots," the man said.
"A breeze is blowing astern,

Our progress is good and
The men are working hard.
"The journey should be successful
If luck holds fast,
And the sea is friendly
Below our wooden bows."
A man, a boy and a dog
Walked along the cliff,
Dreaming dreams of adventure
Beyond the stale dream.
Each longing to be free

From lagging chains that bind
A civilization, to a
Hazardous world.
And the ship sailed onwards
To a new found freedom,
With the stars and the tides
For friendly companions.
And the dreamer dreams on
When he listens to winds
Haunting and sighing,
"Look father, behold the sea."

EAST MEETS WEST

It all began when the family received a telephone call from Mr Bob Sigmont of the Carnegie Lions Club in mid 1985, informing them that Mark Sezonov, their nephew, was chosen to present the club in Japan, as a Youth Exchange Student.

On his return to Australia Mark felt it was the most enjoyable experience he had ever had the opportunity of participating in.

Mark became very good friends with his host sister Emi Ogawa.

Emi has now been introduced to the Australian way of life and was hosted by Mark.

She is a delightful young lady who is currently studying for an Arts Degree at the university in Osaka.

Emi has seen much of Melbourne and parts of Victoria, and is very impressed with our 'big' country.

Emi recently returned to Japan and everyone was sad to be saying 'Sayonara', especially Mark.

When such a lovely girl comes to live with the family, the difference between east and west is non-existent.

Emi is indeed a most worthy ambassador for her country.

A 'first' for Hughesdale

After three generations of designing and manufacturing quality fabrics in England, Montgomery Fabrics has opened a stockroom and display area in Poath Road, Hughesdale, with a wide range of fully imported cottons.

Paul Montgomery opened his Hughesdale outlet in November last year, and already his fabrics, featuring traditional English floral designs and cottage prints have been well received by the trade, both retailers and interior decorators.

It's only a small concern, but Paul is happy to be providing employment for local residents.

Tallying the score

It would be hard to find someone more dedicated to "getting the mail through" than Australia Post's Peter Montgomery — and he has the score on the board to prove it.

In the past 25 years the Caulfield South postmaster has given his all to the sum of 730 days above and beyond the call of duty.

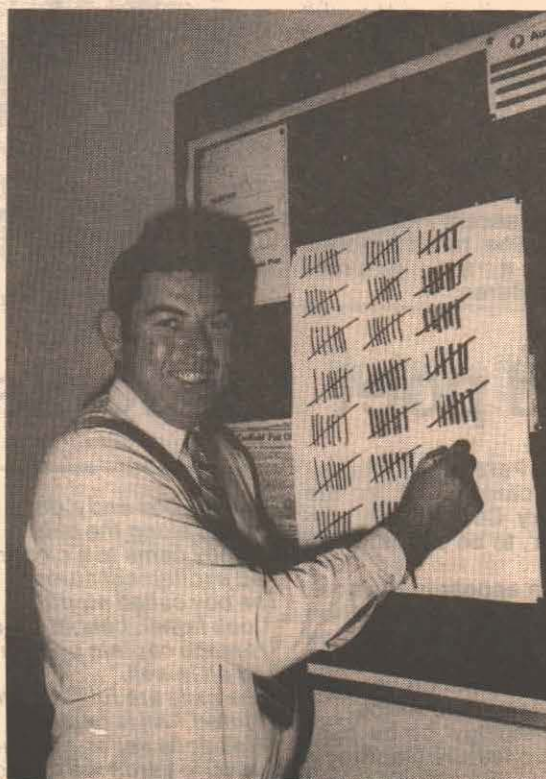

But according to Peter 42, it is his "clean living plus the odd drink and smoke" that have helped to keep him on deck and off the sickies list, since starting his career as a postal clerk at East Bentleigh in 1961.

Since then the part time army reserve Warrant Officer has only felt off colour for 16 hours and 32 minutes out of a possible 3800 hours and 20 minutes accrued sick leave.

So while it seems Peter's dedication cannot be faulted he reckons he has heard some pretty good excuses for sickies in his time.

Like the one told during his two year stint at Goroka post office in Papua New Guinea, by a local postal officer who didn't turn up for work for 4 days because, as he later explained to a bemused Goroka postmaster, a wild pig had run rampant through his village.

Apart from his strong constitution the jovial postmaster blames his Mum for his enduring loyalty to the postal service. Peter's Mum was the non official postmistress for the tiny Western District town of Elmhurst.

Local Scouts take to the air

J.O.T.A. (Jamboree of the Air) provides local Scouts with an opportunity to communicate with fellow Scouts around the world, through voice and Morse Code, with the help of amateur wireless operators.

Caulfield District Scouts are holding a J.O.T.A. in October, at the Somers Area Camp Site in Lysterfield.

This exciting weekend-long programme is being held on Saturday, October 18 and Sunday October 19. Scouts will participate in a wide range of activities including the use of a shortwave radio; crystal set; tin telephones; an Army field telephone and computer and TV games.

At last year's Scout Hall in Glenhuntly, Scouts from nine local Groups tuned in to Morse transmissions from as far away as Russia, Japan and England.

This year's Jamboree of the Air is again being coordinated by Garnet Bowen of 4th Caulfield.

KEVIN SHEEDY TO LAUNCH NUTRITION WEEK

An informal nutritious barbecue has been chosen as the function at which leading VFL coach Kevin Sheedy will launch Nutrition Week.

The committee would like to hear from you if you plan an activity for Nutrition Week, so that details can be included in the next edition of the Victorian Nutrition Week Newsletter.

Just drop a line to Mrs. L. Urban, Nutrition Week Committee, C/- F.T.A., Box 1469N, GPO Melbourne, 3001.

Caulfield Youth Council has put together a young peoples art exhibition at the Caulfield Arts Centre. The Exhibition will be showing until September 9, 1986. The works are from students attending Caulfield High School, Murrumbena High School and the Japanese School. Young people on the Youth Council also contributed works. The exhibition is titled 'Reflections on Peace'. With works portraying events of the USA Army and Navy through to Butterflies and peaceful fields.

EXHIBITIONS

ASPECTS OF ENVIRONMENT

Caulfield resident, and well known artist Erica McGilchrist has put together a through provoking exhibition, 'Aspects of Environment: 1972-77'.

The exhibition will be opened at 6 pm on Thursday, September 8.

The exhibition, containing two series of paintings, reflects the artist's involvement with a major local environment issue in 1972, when a group of Caulfield residents launched a successful protest against a Council Dieldrin spraying program.

McGilchrist is represented in many State and private collections, including the City of Caulfield Permanent Art Collection.

'FEARED BY HER ENEMIES'

This is the latest production by the Rhapsody Company, and stars Bev Geldard.

Written by Judy Raphael, "Feared by her Enemies" is a story told by a medieval women on the eve of her death.

She reminisces as she prepares for battle with the invading Turks.

A story of courage and ignorance, understanding and darkness, 'Feared by her Enemies' opens on Thursday, September 18 and finishes on Sunday, September 21.

For enquiries and bookings, ring 509 7257 or 524 3277.

TWILIGHT MUSIC

A concert of contemporary music will be presented by clarinetist, Brigid Burke and flautist, Alison Thompson, on Monday, September 22 from 7.30 - 9 pm.

The program includes instrumental duets by Schoenberg and Stockhausen.

Each artist will present several solos, including electronics and slides.

The concert also features duets with composer-guitarists.

It's the second concert this year by these two talented musicians, who are keen to introduce members of the local community to innovative live music.

Supper will be served after the performance, during which guests will be able to meet the musicians.

Tickets are prices at $6, $4 and $2.50 and bookings can be made by ringing either 690 8620 or 524 3277.

SPRING HAS SPRUNG

Come along to Caulfield's "Spring has Sprung" craft and produce market, to be held on Sunday, September 14th at the Arts Centre.

The market, which will be open from 11 am to 4 pm, offers a wide range of homemade and home crafted goods, from jewellery, paintings and poetry books, to jams, honey treats. ... and plenty more.

If you want to find out more about the Market, ring Julie Buzasi on 524 3277.

COMMUNITY ARTS SNIPPETS -

by Liz Clay, Community Arts Officer

Spring is definitely in the air and with it comes the great feeling of being able to get out into the parks and gardens again. More activities are on the Arts agenda of course for the City of Caulfield.

Caulfield Community Arts programme and the Caulfield Festival have successfully received funding from the Australia Council for puppeteer, Greg Temple, to work as an artist in the community from October to December, 1986.

Many will know Greg's work with his wonderful Punch and Judy shows, his stilt juggling character, and his puppet making workshop. This time the programme is much broader - this is an open invitation for anyone or any group who would be interested in becoming involved in making large 18' to 20' street scale puppet images for a Festival spectacular.

If you have never done anything like this before, and know you would love to learn to work with colour, materials, and a different sort of magic - please ring me on 524 3333. All ages welcome.

Glenhantly Traders Festival on November 22nd is a preliminary event to the Caulfield Festival. Once again a fantastic pavement Art competition is to be held. The sections and prizes are as follows.

Open Section:

First Prize - $1,000.
Second Prize - $100, Art materials gift voucher.
Third prize - Art folio case.

Under 15:

First Prize - Commodore Computer.
Second Prize - Book.
Third Prize - Gingerbread House.

Judging will be by Mr H. Sarey - Dean of Chisholm Art and Design School.

This was a superb competition last time. Why not be in it? B.Y.O. chalk. Registration forms from Vanessa - 211 7514, 583 1017. Entries close November 8th, 1986.

●If you are a Fringe artist (what does that really mean!), you may be excited by being a part of Spoletto Fringe and the street parade and garden party on Sunday, September 14th. It's free and if it is a fine, Spring day, what could be better. Fringe telephone: 419 9548.

●Caulfield Local Artists Register any local artist who would like to register (in any Art form, amateur or professional), for their name to be recorded as a local artist, please collect the form from the Caulfield Arts Centre or Liz Clay - Telephone 524 3277.

The annual register update is on and already registered members will shortly be mailed information on this issue.

Da Da Dance?

Do you need some da da dance in your life? Why not join Caulfield's da da dance group? It is totally new and exciting with endless possibilities for da da dance.

The group meets once a week with Janice Burgess, Caulfield's dancer in the community, and is busy creating da da dance for Caulfield's 'on the move'. This dynamic group will move us into the 1986 Caulfield Festival with plenty of da da dance! and, after the Festival bigger and better things will follow.

Are you interested in joining? For enquiries and bookings please telephone Kerry Taylor: Wednesday and Thursday, at Caulfield Arts Centre, 524 3277 or Liz Clay, Caulfield's Community Arts Officer, on 524 3333.

Show Eve Youth Concert

'The Caulfield Youth in Concert' will be presented by the Rotary Club of Caulfield on Wednesday, September 24, at 8 pm.

It will be held this year in the Sheldford School Hall, 3 Hood Crescent, Caulfield (the City Hall is not available).

This year's concert will feature many talented young performers from our City.

For the first time, children from the Caulfield Japanese

School will be taking part, along with five other local schools.

An entertaining program of varied individual, instrumental and group performances is assured for the 3rd consecutive year.

Tickets are available at the door.

$2 donation.

Information on Genealogy

"Exploring your family heritage," is the theme of this year's Open House, at the Caulfield Chapel of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints at 5 Hawthorn Rd. Caulfield.

The Open House will be held Saturday, 20th September from 2pm to 4.30pm and will give the public the opportunity to view displays on personal family histories, or talk to genealogists who will advise on researching family records.

Demonstrations will be given on using the Micro-fiche resources available, and a video on the world's largest Genealogical Records Library in Cottonwood Canyon, Utah will be shown. The temporal and spiritual connection between genealogy will also be explained. Further information can be obtained on 523 6281.

Adult literacy group

Most adults take reading and writing for granted. Seldom, if ever, do they reflect on what it would be like to live in this world without these skills. And yet, about 4% of adults, having English as their first language, are not able to read or write. The reasons for this are many and varied such as childhood illness, emotional difficulties, disadvantaged families and schools, or itinerant parents.

Apart from the obvious difficulties of filling in forms, passing the driver's licence test and reading timetables, the individual who has not learnt to read or write is at a marked disadvantage in his or her personal development as a member of their social and political community.

More than 100 Adult Literacy Groups have been operating in Victoria for up to 10 years to provide adult literacy tuition between student and voluntary tutor on a 1-1 basis.

A new Adult Literacy Group has been formed to meet the recognised needs of the Caulfield area. From 31st July the group will provide tuition on Tuesday mornings and evenings. The location is a quiet room at 2 Queens Ave. Caulfield, which is being made available by Chisholm Institute of Technology as a contribution to the wider community of Caulfield. Alternatively, the tutor and student may make a different arrangement agreeable to both. The co-ordinator of the group is Ms Julie Wurf (c/o P.O. Box 100, Caulfield, 3145) who would be pleased to hear from any students or tutors who may be interested in joining the group.

Speechcraft Course

Are you interested in public speaking, but feel you lack the confidence and ability to do so?

Then the Oaks Toastmasters Club has the course for you.

"Speechcraft" is an eight week course, which will commence early-mid September. Sessions will run for 2½ hours on either a Tuesday or Thursday and will cover such topics as learning to speak to a gathering; the art of chairmanship and how to communicate.

The cost for the course is $50 and further details can be obtained by ringing Mary MacDermid on 546 8079.

Oaks Toastmasters meet on the first and third Wednesdays of each month at 7.45pm at the Chadstone Bowling Club, and enquiries from people interested in joining are most welcome.

Communicating with kids

A ten week program, designed to improve communication, between parents and their teenage children has been organised by the Royal Southern Memorial Hospital.

STEP/TEEN (Systematic Training for Effective Parenting of Teenagers) commences on Thursday, October 2nd, with sessions being held between 10.00am and 12 noon.

Social Workers, Liz Corbett and Sharon Caris will host the sessions, with the 12 participants being involved in discussion groups, role plays and alternative problem solving.

The cost for the course, which is being held at the Hospital's Community Care Centre, 240 Kooyong Road, Caulfield is $12.00, which includes the manual "Parent's Guide".

For further information, and enrolments, contact either Liz or Sharon on 523 6666.

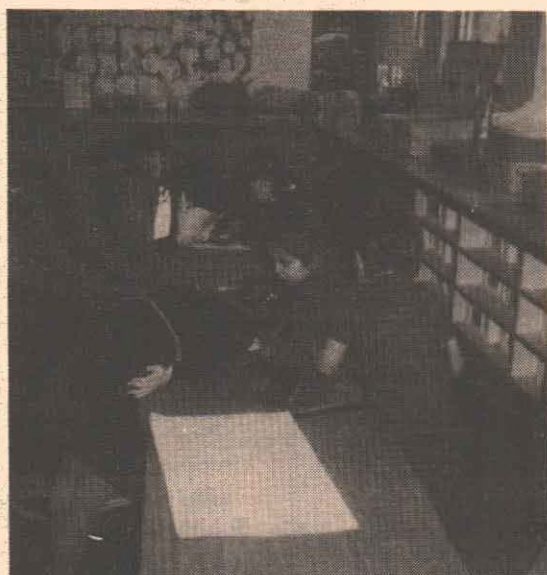

Enrolments to Prep

The Caulfield North Central School will commence enrolments for Prep year 1987 on Monday September 22. Proof of age is required, birth certificate adequate. Enrolments will be taken until February 1987.

Following enrolment, an Orientation afternoon at the Caulfield North Central School, 186 Balaclava Rd., North Caulfield will be held on October 6 between 2.30 and 3.30pm. For enquiries telephone Heather Gates on 509 6872.

COMMUNITY INVOLVEMENT

Volunteers needed for Citizens Advice Bureau

The Caulfield Citizens Advice Bureau is calling for volunteers to start training in October 1986.

Citizens Advice Bureaus are free, confidential and impartial information and referral centres available to everyone in the community.

Voluntary C.A.B. workers are involved in a range of activities. Most workers deal with the wide variety of individual enquiries received by the C.A.B., but people are also required to help with administrative work and the information file. The main qualities needed by a Community Information Worker are tolerance and the ability to give impartial advice confidentially.

People who enquire about becoming Citizens Advice Bureau volunteers are interviewed by experienced workers at the Bureau. If selected, they receive a three day basic training course, over three weeks, followed by assessment for suitability for a C.A.B. worker. Volunteers who wish to become interviewers then do a skills training course - the Community Information Workers Course - at a local T.A.F.E. College. This course covers skills and interviewing information work and community development. There is no examination with this course.

Trained C.A.B. people work shifts to suit their other commitments and ongoing training is provided. Volunteers find C.A.B. work challenging and rewarding as well as providing an opportunity for them to help their community in a practical way.

If you would like to know more about the work of the Citizens Advice Bureau in Caulfield, please contact Yvonne Kay on 524 3272.

Students at Caulfield High School have been able to actively participate in the community this term via their studies in community involvement.

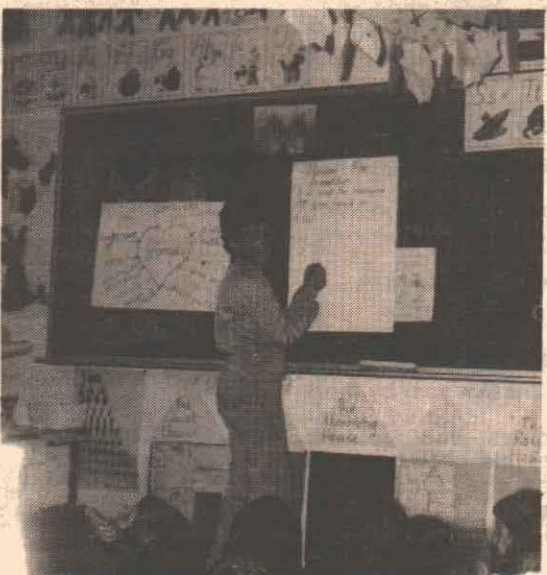

This course enables students to experience the real world in the form of being a 'helper'.

Primary School students, disabled people and other community groups have benefited from this involvement.

Students also benefit from this experience by gaining confidence and by having to be responsible for planning for their time away from school.

R. A. A. F. in Rhythm

TV's popular Jimmy Hannan will compere an anniversary concert featuring the RAAF Central Band, for the first time in Melbourne they will be featured together with the RAAF Operational Command Band.

Guest artist is soprano Suzanne Steele.

The concert will be held at the Concert Hall at 8 pm, Saturday, September 13, 1986.

Bookings for at Bass outlets.

Telephone 11500. Proceeds to the RAAFA Foundation Defence Forces' Retirement Village.

Scholarships

Five Year 10 students at Caulfield Technical School have been awarded scholarships, following an annual allocation of Council funds for that purpose.

This year, the scholarships were awarded to Matthew Ide, Michael Harries, Gregory Saynor, Sean Coulter and George Georgiou.

The scholarships are awarded on the basis of Year 9 achievements, need and other factors.

Hospital kiosk needs you!

The kiosk at Caulfield Hospital is run entirely by volunteer staff.

At present, there is an urgent need for extra staff to work in the kiosk, from 1.00pm to 4.00pm on both Saturdays and Sundays.

If you can spare a few hours, preferably on a regular basis, please ring Karen Matheson, Volunteer Services Co-ordinator, on 528 6333, extension 311.

Learn video production

A number of interesting courses are being run by Open Channel Co-operative in Fitzroy between now and the end of the year.

Open Channel is funded by the Australian Film Commission and Film Victoria.

Courses offered include: Video Production (weekend workshop); An Introduction Screen writing (commencing September 30), and a Teenage Tele. Workshop.

For further information, ring Penny Philippou, Training and Education Co-ordinator, Open Channel 419 5111.

Self protection for the elderly

Illustrations from 'The Advertiser' Adelaide, Friday June 6, 1986

Elderly people are particularly vulnerable to violent attack and molestation.

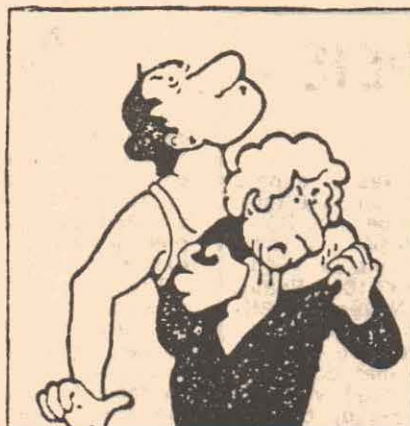

With this in mind, the Victorian Council on the Ageing has just launched a vital resource for elderly citizens, and people in the community involved in helping the elderly - called a self-protection kit.

The kit centres on a program devised to disseminate simple self protection information, especially practical strategies on personal safety measures.

The kit was developed by Bronilyn Smith, a self-defence consultant, author and instructor, who is a Black Belt in Aikido, and one of Australia's leading authorities on self-defence.

A key aim of the kit is to make the home environment as safe as possible for the elderly or housebound in our community.

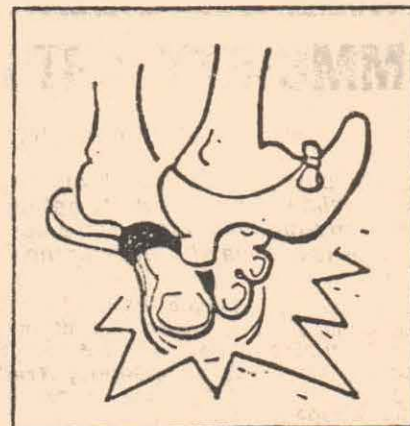

For further information about the kit, ring 663 6199.

Keep your chin down if grabbed around the neck.

A good kick in the shins will help.

Try stepping on his toes.

Lock all windows before hopping into bed.

RECREATION AND LEISURE

Have fun keeping fit!

7 year old Nicole, 9 year old Naomi and 10 year old Chirone doing side splits on the beams — they make it look easy.

Youngsters between the ages of 6 and 15 are invited to join the gymnastics classes being offered for third term by the Caulfield Gymnastics Club.

Classes cater for beginners through to advanced levels and are held at the Caulfield Community Centre on Tuesday evenings from 5.30pm and Saturday mornings from 9am.

Gymnastics offers not just the fun of the sport, and the chance to build up self-confidence, but also improves health by strengthening muscles and learning balance.

All classes are led by fully qualified gymnasts.

For further information you can contact Club Secretary Mrs Maureen Laws on 528 3817.

Looking for something to do on Saturdays this summer?

How about playing cricket with North Caulfield — Glenhuntingly Cricket Club.

This strong local club, with its roots dating from 1908 is recruiting men and boys for the 1986/87 season.

Former Melbourne cricketer and Richmond Football Club star, Robert Lamb is playing coach for the sixth year running.

The club won successive South A premierships in 81-82 and 82-83, and is now coming to grips with the vigorous demands of Senior division cricket.

The club is determined

Calling all cricketers that 1986/87 will be the year of the Devil.

North Caulfield Glenhuntingly has six senior men's sides, three on turf, affiliated with the VVCA and three on mats affiliated with the CMCA.

The club also has junior sides catering for boys in the Under 12, Under 14 and Under 16 age group.

Practice is on every Sunday morning during September and, from mid September, every Tuesday and Thursday afternoon at Glenhuntingly Reserve on the Neerim road side of Caulfield Racecourse.

The club is big and friendly with a good social side.

Inquiries to President Bernie Drinan (523 6625 home, 647 3450 work) or Secretary Martin McCaffrey (523 8145 home).

Or just turn up at practice in your tracksuit and introduce yourself.

Try your hand at croquet!

The Caulfield Park Croquet Club would welcome enquiries from anyone who would like to come along and learn how to play this historic game.

The new season starts on September 1st at 10.30am at the Club, on the corner of Hawthorn and Balaclava Roads. Beginners are welcome, with free tuition and equipment provided.

If you'd like to find out more about croquet in general, and the Club in particular, just ring either 572 1682 or 509 8603.

New season for bowling club

Murrumbeena Park Bowling Club celebrated the end of the winter season with a bus trip to Barroga, to enable members to enjoy a fling at the poker machines!

The opening of the current season was held on August 29, with entertainment provided by "Mo's Music Hall".

The Ladies Section Opening Day, and President's Day will be held at the Club, Gerald Street, Murrumbeena, on Tuesday, September 2.

Long Service awards were presented to Club Members: Mesdames D. Allen, I. Beatty, I. Carr, H. Fletcher, L. Painter and M. Roberts by the Victorian Ladies Bowling Association.

The winter recess saw many improvements being made to club facilities particularly the replacement of old shelter sheds with new brick ones.

COMMITTEES OF MANAGEMENT

Because of the retirement of Crs Blair, and McPhee from the council the following councillors, been elected to represent the council on the Parks Committees of Management.

Caulfield Park — Cr Bloom, East Caulfield Park — Cr Andersen, Duncan McKinnon Park — Cr Martens.

The Deed of Delegation adopted in October 1985 provides as follows:

"The Committee of Management shall consist of:

(a) the President who shall be a Councillor of the City of Caulfield;

(b) one representative of each organisation which is granted use of any portion of the sporting facilities of the park on a licensed, annual or seasonal basis;

(c) a maximum of five other persons, two of whom shall be residents of the City of Caulfield; provided that no tenant body shall be permitted to have more than two financial members of the organisation on the Committee of Management."

As some Committees of Management had appointed their executive officers prior to amendment of the Deed, those who were operating with a Councillor as Chairman, have continued on that basis for 1985/86.

The Chairman/President of the other Committees of Management are:

E.E. Gunn Park — Cr Gillard
Princes Park — Cr G. Patience
Glenhuntingly Park — Cr Gillard
Koorang/Lord Parks — Cr D. Ford
Packer Park — Cr D. Spencer
Murrumbeena Park — Cr J. Robinson.

Students from the Heather Scott School of Ballet have been spending time each Sunday, visiting many elderly residents in the Caulfield area.

Both the youngsters, and their appreciative audience, have gained much from these visits: the children, in the knowledge of the pleasure and colour they bring; the senior citizens, from both the companionship and skills the youngsters offer.

YOUTH CENTRE

The development of the Youth Resources Centre at the newly renovated recreation centre is nearing completion.

Pictured are the renovations team, adding the final touches to the kitchen area that will service the resource centre.

A comprehensive range of youth activities will commence in the near future.
