THE OPENING NIGHT MASQUERADE

You've maybe seen or even been to the great carnivals of the world — the themes of puppets, masks, revellers and mummies — the excitement of flickering lights and exotic sounds.

Well this is our night.

A Real MASQUERADE — to open our Festival.

Together we can invent the mystery, the fantasy and the excitement.

The theatrical will be there — spotlights and magic lights on the foods from many countries, dancers and singers from the five continents, and jugglers, magicians and artists of all kinds.

Will you be there — with your friends and family, in masks and costume?

YOU COULDN'T MISS IT COULD YOU?

From 7.00 p.m. - 11.30 p.m. at Caulfield City Hall environs.

OFFICIAL OPENING by Kooka and Shirley Strachan 7.30 p.m.

From daylight to twilight to fantasy lights.

See Ricki Ozimo Magician Xtraordinaire and dance to the sounds of Lisa Young and her Band.

COMMUNITY DAY

IN CAULFIELD PARK. SUN. DEC. 7

WHAT A DAY IN STORE FOR YOU

A great time that brings the Festival to its close — enjoyable, relaxing, entertaining, educational, easy and for all.

On the stages

Rick E. Vengeance hosts Fat Bob's Cafe stage with a fantastic range of acoustic/folk musicians.

Community Stage features Lisa Young's Band, Keep West, a Caribbean trio, Koori Youth Band, folk dancers, Heather Scott Ballet School to name but a few.

Around the Table

*For children a feast of things to do — Hands Across the Park, mural paintings, Jolly Jumbuk theatre clowns, tumbling, Great Max, games.

*Don't forget to bring:

- your decorated bike for the zany bike contest
- your dog for the happy canine show
- a T shirt and let the Cubs and Scouts design a print for you.

*Puppetry, dance, masks, martial arts, poetry, song, arts, crafts, buskers and buffoons.

*See community group displays, Mounted Police, State Emergency Service, Vintage cycles, roller derby, netball competition, book sale, toyathon, ambulance, native plants — and that's not all!

*Eat well — from sausages to devonshire teas. Sit in comfort, rest on the grass. Try your hand at croquet, lacrosse or squash.

In short come along, relax and enjoy yourselves. We're going to!

CAULFIELD CONTACT

A monthly publication produced by Caulfield Council for the residents of the City

Volume 13, No. 9,
Thursday 13 November, 1986.

When you're at a picnic you have to eat. Sara Sappleton and Ebony Holder, both 3 years, were spending the day at a Teddy Bears' Picnic conducted by the Children Services Section of the Council. It was a part of the Children's Week celebrations and over 300 children (it seemed like 3000) joined with mums and dads to laugh at the clowns, run in the Teddy Bear Olympics, have their face painted and generally have fun.

Swimmers, children the big winners in '87 budget

Swimmers and children are among the winners in the budget just released by the Caulfield Council.

The budget details a number of major new projects which vary from a supermarket and commercial development in Elsternwick to a boost for the council's beautification program.

Releasing the budget Mayor, Cr Jack Campbell said the budget was responsible and would let Caulfield continue its extensive program of service to the community while building some resources for equipment replacement.

"Both councillors and staff have worked together for long hours to ensure it is realistic and prudent," he said.

The budget, which is a public document, is not without controversy. It includes details of the relocation of the arts centre to city hall.

The move will enhance the facilities available to the community arts program and better utilise the civic complex, said Cr Campbell.

The rate that has been struck for Caulfield amounts to 8.6508 cents in the dollar on net annual value of each property.

This represents an increase of 8.9% over the 1985-86 figure that compares favourably with similar municipalities using the same rate base.

Just as homemakers must carefully spread their earnings, so too must the Council wisely allocate the use of its scarce resources.

The 1986/87 Budget for the City of Caulfield has been prepared to ensure that funds are directed to the areas of greatest need.

Not only has Council focused on the immediate future, but has paid attention to the financial commitments facing the City in the long term.

INITIATIVES

Subject to approval, a number of new projects will be introduced in the new Council year. Many of them are not a direct result of the 1986/87 Budget, but will be implemented in the next 12 months. They include:

- The relocation of the Arts Centre to the City Hall.
- Solar heating is to be installed at the swimming pool. This will extend the season and make its use a little more pleasurable.
- A supermarket and commercial development will be established in Elsternwick.
- A garbage equipment reserve will be established to accommodate the ongoing costs of maintenance and replacement of bins and trucks.
- The Council-owned property at 342-346 Hawthorn Road will be re-developed as an office complex.
- A variety of playground equipment, barbecues, shelters and seating will be installed at Packer Park, Hopetoun Gardens and a number of other parks in the City.
- Traffic management studies and treatments will continue to gather momentum.
- The street beautification and self-help tree planting scheme will receive greater emphasis.
- A building maintenance reserve will be funded to allow for a continuing program of repairs and refurbishments to Council and community assets.

RATES

The Council is gradually working towards one minimum rate figure and the following will apply.

	1985/86	1986/87	% Increase
Commercial and Industrial Properties	$351.00	$351.00	Nil
Residential Properties	$216.00	$235.00	8.9
Flats and Units	$146.00	$175.00	19.9
Apartments and Kiosks	$84.00	$100.00	19.0

To cover the start of the Garbage Equipment Reserve the garbage charge has been increased from $72 in 1985/86 to $79.50 in 1986/87.

Arts centre move a better deal all round

The Council is still facing criticism from a small pressure group in its decision to relocate the Arts Centre to the City Hall.

Cr. Veronika Martens recently expressed the feelings of the whole Council when she said that the issue had grown completely out of proportion.

"To bring the whole issue into its proper perspective it should be remembered that ten years ago the citizens of Caulfield voted overwhelmingly to retain the City Hall, to modify and renovate it so that it could become a useful venue once more," she said.

Cr. Martens continued, "I have frequently visited the Inkerman Road centre and have come to the conclusion that it would be a waste of ratepayers' money to further repair this building.

"The only decent proposition would be to rebuild it and then it is questionable whether Caulfield residents would be willing to bear the additional cost of such a facility that is, after all, on the outskirts of the city."

OPPOSITION

There was heated objection and raised voices when friends of the Arts Centre objected to the Council's loan programme.

It was the cause of much debate because it included funding for the relocation of the Arts Centre.

"But," said Caulfield's Mayor, Cr. Jack Campbell, "I believe that we have to meet our obligations to the city as a whole.

"The new Arts Centre will offer a number of improvements in terms of flexibility, air-conditioning, security and storage.

"It is a more central location for such a facility and makes the best use of available assets."

DEMOCRACY

These decisions have not been reached without a great deal of public scrutiny including the preparation of special reports to answer questions raised as well as several meetings with the objecting parties.

Cr. Veronika Martens: Arts centre row is now out of all proportion.

"Public discussion on these issues is healthy and constructive comment is always welcomed by the Council," said the Mayor.

"But a small pressure group, of people with special interest in the Inkerman Road centre, has made continuous demands on the Council since the project was launched in February.

"This has placed pressures on Council resources. Several hundred objections were raised to the proposed sale of residential land adjacent to the Arts Centre and to the loan programme.

"This is a legitimate process but when the majority of objections are on standard form letters, duplicated for easy signature, one cannot help questioning their sincerity.

"Handling and responding individually to each of these objections is a costly affair — in time and resources.

"The process of participative democracy has a cost which eventually has to be borne by the general ratepayers.

"The value of Councillors and officers time spent, along with other resources, on objections to this programme alone, has been estimated at $50,000, and includes several major reports to answer criticism and demands from the group.

"One cannot help wondering what else these resources could have been devoted to."

The Council has now had to consider the future of the Inkerman Road site.

A number of alternatives were considered but the Council was unable to identify any particular use for it.

The council has therefore proposed that the property be sold by public tender and all proposals be assessed on their merit.

Objections to the proposal will be considered later this month.

Hockey plans are studied

The TEM Caulfield Hockey Club has submitted a proposal for the construction of an artificial playing surface for hockey and tennis at the Lord Park Reserve.

The hockey club will pay for the development itself. However it has asked council to act as guarantor on any loans it takes out, to relocate two turf cricket wickets and assist with the technical planning where appropriate.

The club has told council the project would generate a greater use of the sporting area.

The proposal is based on a synthetic playing surface and the club believes this would lower annual maintenance costs as well.

The new facility would help the club develop and generate additional income for the club, especially by the use of tennis courts in the off-season.

However a report before council has urged the scheme be studied more closely.

Council officers point out that the proposal would permanently alienate the eastern end of Lord Park because the new ground would be protected by a high mesh fence.

The cost of relocating the turf wickets would be in the region of $44,000.

The complex would have to be open for extended hours to break even.

There are also car parking and traffic flow problems to be studied, say council officers.

Caulfield Mayor, Cr Jack Campbell, was among the hundreds of people who observed Remembrance Day at the cenotaph in Caulfield Park.

HELP LIONS TO HELP OTHERS

Too quiet for signals

There just aren't enough pedestrians to warrant a signal crossing in Glen Eira Rd, near Lumeah Rd.

That's the opinion of the Road Traffic Authority which was asked by the council to study the proposal.

Residents in and near Lumeah Rd had petitioned council for a crossing and council officers had reported that pedestrian numbers were too low to warrant a signal crossing.

The RTA guidelines state that a crossing should be used by at least 350 pedestrians an hour for at least three hours.

Numbers in Lumeah Rd fell short of this figure.

However the RTA agrees with council that a compromise is possible and that pedestrian operated signals should be put in Glen Eira Rd, west of Hood Crescent.

These signals could serve pedestrians and students attending nearby schools.

The RTA has put the proposal on its list of future traffic facilities program but has given no indication of when the signals are likely to go ahead.

Changes at brothel

A brothel in Glenhuntly Road is under new management and has asked for council permission to carry out minor alterations and additions to the existing buildings.

The council has passed the application, providing that the new owners continue to meet all the conditions set down in the town planning permit.

The brothel, at 859 Glenhuntly Road, South Caulfield, was opposed by council when it was first brought to council attention in July 1985.

However the owners appealed against council's decision to refuse to grant a permit and in January of this year won the appeal at the Planning Appeals' Board hearing.

Conditions set by council include restrictions on hours of operation to 11am until 12 midnight, that no more than three prostitutes work at the brothel and that no advertising be displayed on the front of the building.

Liquor licence

Oakdale Angling Club, based at Murrumbena Park, has asked council to support the renewal of its liquor licence.

The main hours of the licence are Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings, from 6pm to 12 midnight.

The club has told council the Monday and Friday evening sessions are to cover special functions. The club meets on Wednesdays.

Council has told the club it supports the licence to cover Wednesday evenings, from 6 to 11pm only.

Write to Santa, and he'll write to you

Father Christmas has appointed Carnegie Lions Club as his local agent.

Why not let your little boy or girl have the thrill of writing to Father Christmas and allow them to experience the enjoyment of receiving a letter by return mail direct from the grand old gentleman's North Pole workshop?

If your child is too young to write to Santa, write a letter for him or her and tell them what you have written.

Or if you would like your grand children, niece or nephew to receive a letter from Father Christmas, just send their name and address and the club will see that he writes before Christmas Day.

It's easy. Here is all you do.

Write to "Father Christmas", C/- Lions Club of Carnegie, P.O. Box 192, Carnegie, 3163.

Be sure that your child's full name and address is written legibly in the letter.

Enclose a minimum donation of $2 per child; two children for $1.50 each; four children for $1.25 each. Cheques should be made out to the Carnegie Lions Club.

Lions Christmas Seals are sold in sheets of 25, at $2 a sheet.

The Lions Club of Carnegie is taking part in the campaign.

Of the two dollars charged, half is retained by the Lions Club for funding its own local activities. Twenty cents is used for state-wide Lions' projects and the rest of the profits (80 cents) will go to support the National Drug Awareness and Prevention campaign.

Operating costs for the Lions Christmas Seals project have been guaranteed by Nilfisk of Australia Pty Ltd.

Seals are available during business hours from Lion Bob Sigmont at 115 Koornang Road, Carnegie (211 4634 W) or by sending a cheque with self addressed envelope to Carnegie Lions Club, P.O. Box 192, Carnegie, 3163.

CHRISTMAS SEALS

The Christmas spirit of giving will receive a big bonus this year when 1300 Lions Clubs across Australia start their charity fundraising drive through Lions Christmas Seals.

Lions Christmas Seals are Australian-designed pictorial seals for use on Christmas mail — alongside the regular postage stamp.

The seals can be used on both private mail and also letters from business houses.

Hospital row may hit Caulfield

The award for Registered Nurses currently under dispute in the hospital system has had a flow-on effect for local government infant welfare sisters.

This award prescribes quite hefty increases in salaries and includes two classifications which could be applied to infant welfare sisters, depending on the complexity of their environment.

The City Manager was visited by Caulfield's Sisters who placed before him a submission that they receive the higher of the two salary rates available on the basis that they work independently in a complex environment.

Advice from the Victorian Employers Federation indicated that the higher grade was only appropriate for supervisors and in most cases the lower classification was applicable for local government work.

Accordingly, the low rate which is known as Grade 3, Sub-Grade B Maternal and Child Health Nurses Classification was selected and the sisters were advised of the decision.

They have now advised the Council of the likelihood of industrial action if their claim for the higher grade is not met.

But the majority of Councils have selected the lower rate.

Christmas luncheon

News from Council

Lift for Heathdale

The Department of Community Services has agreed to finance the installation of a lift at the Heathlands Hostel.

The grant will be $66,000 and the Council is waiting for written confirmation of the good news.

More skills for staff

Staff from various departments of the council are taking advantage of the in-service training programs.

Child care staff, family day care workers, home helps, recreation and art and craft tutors are among the latest to complete training programs.

These cover everything from language development, hearing impairment and visual impairment.

Speakers came from the office of Intellectual Disability Services, The School for the Deaf and the Royal Victorian Institute for the Blind.

1393 get booked

Traffic and by-laws officers issued 1393 infringement notices during August according to the latest report before the council.

These included 638 for excess parking, 99 for parking on a nature strip and 56 for parking within nine metres of an intersection.

The officers also report they issued 45 notices in respect of overhanging shrubs, 15 for derelict vehicles and impounded 31 shopping trolleys.

Board ruled that the proposal meets all major requirements and areas of non-compliance are insignificant.

Gordon St upgrade

The Council has agreed to upgrade the footpaths along Gordon St adjacent to the commercial premises which line the street.

The upgrading will be similar to that carried out in Glenhuntly and will prove an economic and practical addition to the area.

Traders from the Gordon Street Commercial Action Committee had asked for the upgrading, which will cost about $12,000.

The traders have agreed to spend $6000 towards the total costs.

Packer Park cricket nets

The boom in cricket's popularity has put a strain on practice facilities in many clubs — including Washington Cricket Club.

The club now fields six senior teams, four junior sides and a women's team. The result is that the two nets at Packer Park cannot cope with practice sessions.

The club has asked council to extend the nets to include two more, at a cost of $4900. The club has indicated it will meet half the costs.

Council has no objection to the proposal and has told the club it will refund half the costs if the project receives funding in its 1987-88 budget.

Help with the disabled

If you are a parent or guardian of a disabled child or adult the Caulfield City Council's Specific Home Help Service can help you with part time assistance.

This service provides the opportunity to make shopping trips, visit friends, attend meetings or keep appointments, knowing that your special child is being well looked after.

The service is heavily used and several of the regular Home Help staff have been trained to care for disabled people.

They perform this task in addition to their normal duties and can help with all practical aspects of looking after the person.

The program is subsidised by the State Government but there are a significant number of administrative costs that are borne by Council.

Council's assessment officers can explain eligibility and also discuss which service would best suit each situation.

If you would like to know more about Caulfield's Specific Home Help program telephone the city offices on 524 3333.

Oops, Sorry About That

The Old Elsternwick Post Office was recently occupied by squatters who were under the impression that it was still Commonwealth Government property.

They had come to save it from extinction and were unaware that the building had already been registered with the Historic Buildings Council and had a National Trust classification.

The Post Office building is in need of minor repairs. The roof is leaking in several places and water has damaged some of the ceiling. So that the situation does not worsen the Council has authorised repairs to the roof at an estimated cost of $3500.

The squatters are seen leaving in a hurry.

Wanted, more home helpers

The Caulfield Council, like many others, has difficulty in attracting suitable home help staff.

It seems there just aren't enough caring, sensitive people around to fill the many vacancies.

Demand for home help services in Caulfield have risen and now 41 residents are on the waiting list for home help.

A total of 7500 hours of help were provided in the last two months with a total of 2928 visits. Specific home help accounted for 634 hours and 165 of these visits.

MEALS ON WHEELS PRAISED

The Caulfield Council meals on wheels service is certainly proving popular.

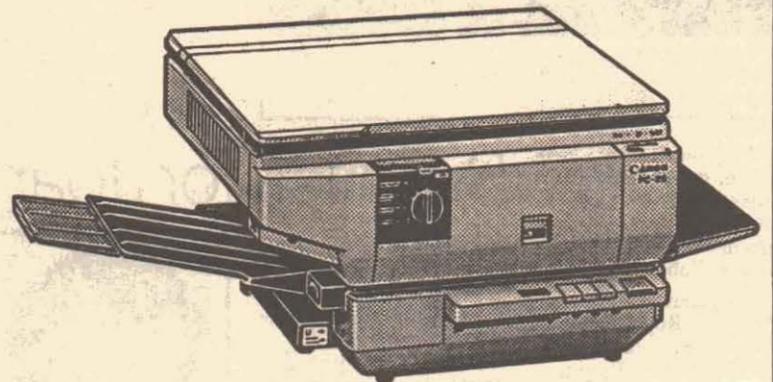

The service now handles more than 900 meals each day with up to 1000 on Thursdays and Fridays. That's a massive 40 per cent increase in two months.

And little wonder the service is so popular. The Caulfield service is the envy of many other councils.

Brighton councillors recently praised the service for its quality meals and standard of service.

The Caulfield system revolves around the cook chill system and an appetising menu.

Praise for hospital

The Shadow Minister for Health, Mr Mark Birrell, has praised the work of the Royal Southern Memorial Hospital and the Caulfield Community Care Centre.

He recently visited the hospital to study the hospital's unique role in health care which centres around a close relationship with 150 local doctors.

The Royal Southern Memorial Hospital and the participating GPs appear to be providing the most efficient area health care service in Australia, said Mr Birrell.

He said the RSMH service could serve as a model for the Liberal Party's health care policy.

New kit for road safety

Schools in Oakleigh and Caulfield have been urged to obtain copies of a new road safety kit aimed at year seven students.

The kit "Survival Trails" is a must for teachers of year 7 students.

The kit is designed to help children cope with the more complex travel arrangements which happen when they move from primary to secondary schools.

The kit deals with journeys to and from school by walking and cycling and teaches children to identify potential hazards.

It will let students pick the safest route to school — and hopefully ease the Victorian road toll.

In 1985, 60 children were killed and 2474 were injured on Victorian roads.

Two copies of the kit will be sent to all local schools and the Road Traffic Authority hopes that road safety will be taught to all Victorian children.

Copies of the kit can be obtained from the Road Traffic Authority, 854 Glenferrie Rd, Hawthorn or telephone 810 2613.

The hunt is on!

The Council's Animal Control Section is to conduct random street checks to locate unregistered dogs and their owners.

Persons who have failed to register their dog(s) will be issued with on the spot fines, which are in addition to the normal registration fees.

If you are looking after a dog, ie. housing, feeding etc, the Dog Act deems you the owner and as such you will be held responsible for not only such things as registration but also all the dog's actions.

If you have any doubts or queries on your dog's status, please ring the Animal Control Section on 524 3275 during normal working hours.

Pension rises on the way

Good news for pensioners is that promised pension rises, announced in the Federal Budget, take effect on December 25. They will be paid on December 18.

The rises mean a single, aged pensioner will get $106.20 a week. Married couples will receive $88.55 a week each.

Where applicable supplementary assistance of $15 a week will be provided.

Fees for home help will rise to a maximum of $7 an hour with the minimum staying at $1.50 an hour.

There will be an increase of 10 cents in the charge for meals on wheels, to $2.60.

Charges for home maintenance will rise to $10 an hour maximum, with materials and parts still at cost.

As from January 5, 1987 new rates will apply for rental of independent flats in council hostels.

A single pensioner will pay $28 a week; a couple, $37.50 a week. Hostel charges will increase to $95 a week.

Pensioners, new deal rail fares

Pensioners can now travel by rail and receive full pensioner benefits in both Victoria and New South Wales.

The new deal started in October. Previously Victorian pensioners received a 50 per cent discount on V/Line services throughout the State.

Now Victorian pensioners on holiday in NSW will be able to travel on half fare.

The over 60s age group are among the biggest V/Line customers and the government is keen to keep their business.

Nursing home benefits will increase this month.

The increase will be $5.10 a day or $35.70 a week as of Thursday November 13.

The size of the increase varies from state to state and will cost the Federal Government $52 million a year said Ms Child.

An impromptu Messiah

An impromptu performance of Handel's Messiah will take place at Toorak Uniting Church on Saturday, November 22 at 8 pm.

All members of the public are welcome to come along and join in the singing.

Peter Ross will conduct the orchestra and the evening features soloists Ruth Shand (soprano), Christine McGowan (contralto), Julian Bailey (tenor), and David Smith (bass).

The evening is being run by the Communicating Arts Centre, based at the church, 603 Toorak Rd, Toorak.

Tickets for singers and audience are $5 and there is an additional charge of $1 for use of score.

Group bookings are welcome and for further details contact organisers on 240 0366 business hours, or 531 8196 after hours.

Chisholm search is over

The 14 month search for a new Director of Chisholm Institute of Technology has ended.

Dr Geoffrey Vaughan, dean and director of the Victorian College of Pharmacy has been offered the position.

The decision was announced by President of the Council of Chisholm, Dr Clive Coogan.

Dr Vaughan, 53, will take up the post in February 1987. He has a distinguished academic background having lectured throughout the world including the United Kingdom, United States, Malaysia and New Guinea.

He is an author in the fields of pharmacy and education and more recently travelled to China to study and lecture on medicinal plants.

Caulfield dancer in the community Janice Burgess and students from Murrumbena High School.

MP for Henty, Joan Child, got a pleasant surprise when she attended the official opening of the greens at the Carnegie Bowls Club.

She received a presentation from Royal Victorian Bowling Association Vice-President Max Wright.

Presentations to non-bowlers are rare events, but Mr Wright explained that Mrs Child had been a great friend of bowling clubs in her electorate and had earned recognition from the bowling community.

Mrs Child expressed

Surprise for Joan

her thanks to the Royal Victorian Bowling Association and to members of the Carnegie Club in particular.

"Bowls Clubs provide a tremendous opportunity for people, in particular our senior citizens, to make friends and enjoy social activities and a healthy outdoors pastime," she said.

"I take a keen interest in all their activities and am always happy to assist them in any way I can."

MP for Henty, Joan Child.

Shoppers see student dance on show

Murrumbena High School drama students recently performed at the Chadstone Shopping Centre as part of their H.S.C. exam.

They staged a dance and three plays, written and directed by the students. The performance counted for 20 per cent of the students' final year assessment.

M.H.S. drama teacher, Annie Duncan and Caulfield City Council's Dancer in the Community, Janice Burgess, have worked with the students in developing their skills.

Ms Duncan said the idea of performing in the shopping centre came from the students themselves.

"They felt that a true examination of the piece would be to perform it in a public setting," she said.

The performance was based on a pre and post nuclear bomb theme and the student's research and work was well received.

The evening is being run by the Communicating Arts Centre, based at the church, 603 Toorak Rd, Toorak.

Tickets for singers and audience are $5 and there is an additional charge of $1 for use of score.

Group bookings are welcome and for further details contact organisers on 240 0366 business hours, or 531 8196 after hours.

Kindergarten changes no threat to grants

New State Government regulations to cover child care centres and kindergartens pose no threats to funding arrangements, the Member for Oakleigh, Mr Race Mathews said this week.

The new rules, which come into force in January 1988, are simpler and will streamline the day to day management and operation of kindergartens, he said.

Mr Mathews said there was growing confusion about kindergarten funding.

"During a recent visit to Hughesdale Kindergarten I was presented with a petition from concerned parents and staff who believed the State Government's maintenance grant of $2600 was under threat.

"There is no threat to the grant at all," he said.

The most significant change will require child centres to employ qualified staff for the first time, Mr Mathews said.

However centres will have to five years to bring in the required levels of qualified staff, he said.

Other important changes will make centres provide much more information and access to parents.

"These members are an important safeguard for parents to reassure themselves that their children are being cared for in the best possible way," he said.

"The whole approach on these new regulations has been to seek the co-operation and good faith of everyone involved in child care," Mr Mathews said.

Students try out the lunch they prepared for visiting writer Georgia Savage.

Students meet author

Year 11 students at Caulfield High School recently invited author Georgia Savage to visit and discuss her life as a writer.

Georgia wrote "Slate &

Me and Blanche McBride", which has been studied this year by year 11 students.

Apart from talking with students Georgia also enjoyed a lunch prepared by students.

Most students agreed that Georgia's visit had proved one of the highlights of the school year.

Council's hands are tied

The Melbourne Metropolitan Planning Scheme allows dual occupancy of many residential blocks as a right. When buildings that are proposed comply with these regulations a town planning permit is not required.

Dual occupancy allows adjoining units or even two storey houses to be built on the same site.

It is only when variations to the scheme are being incorporated in the buildings that applications need to come to the Council for town planning approval.

These applications are then advertised in accordance with Council practice.

Neighbouring residents then become aware of the projects and have the right to object.

The dilemma facing the Council is that where there has already been a dense development of the area residents object to an even greater density. There are similar objections to two storey buildings being built next door to single dwellings.

But the Council is only able to pass judgement on the application where it does not comply with the Metropolitan Planning Scheme.

Once they comply there is no right of objection or appeal by neighbouring residents.

Similarly, if the variations themselves fit within the Council's own multi-unit development code it is difficult to justify refusal.

Unfortunately the Council is seen in a bad light when it allows unpopular building developments.

But its hands are tied and residents need to be aware of the problems involved.

Buffer zones will ease planning

The Melbourne Metropolitan Planning Scheme controls land use throughout the City and problems often occur along the boundaries of zones.

It is easy to understand that people living in residential areas are not particularly happy living next door to a light industrial zone. But the factory has just as much right to be there.

The Council is mindful of these problems and in hearing objections to such developments must observe the rights of both parties.

It has become clear that 'buffer zones' need to be included in future developments.

In a recent meeting of the Executive Services Committee it was recommended that a substantially planted strip between the two areas be included in the conditions applying to the permit.

In future decisions of this nature the Council will need to consider the application of similar conditions and so alleviate some of the problems facing the many residents who abut commercial or residential zones.

At the same time the Council must consider the rights of the developer.

Developing a sense of community

Caulfield Community Service (CCS) will carry on its work — but needs more local residents to help out.

The group decided at its recent annual general meeting to keep on going despite a poor response from the Caulfield community.

Organisers are hoping for more people at its next meeting, scheduled for Monday 24 November at Caulfield Town Hall, starting 7.30 pm.

CCS is a voluntary organisation which has been working in Caulfield since 1974.

It aims to encourage and co-ordinate the development of health, welfare and social services within Caulfield.

It works closely with Caulfield Citizens Advice Bureau and has started a number of services in the municipality, including the free legal advice service.

Membership of CCS is open to any citizen of Caulfield and any representative of club or service group in Caulfield.

The main aim is to seek out gaps in community services and set up new organisations to meet those needs.

For further details about the group and its work contact Lorraine Le Clerc on 524 3333.

Pictured is Simon Elisha (15) inspecting his prize. With him are the Mayor (seated left) and Mrs Elisha, Simon's mother. Simon won a computer in a competition run by Caulfield Library Service.

The Caulfield City Hall features in a new book which looks at town halls and shire buildings throughout Australia.

The book, Civic Palaces, a tableau of Australian town halls, was written by author Marc Fiddian and looks at every aspect of a town hall.

It focuses on far more than the architecture, and dwells on everything from the costs and opening ceremonies to the politics behind building the halls.

Caulfield is included in the chapter on art deco and the '30s.

Despite the economic restraints of the 1930s

Caulfield's own palace features in book

some fine town halls, Caulfield included, were built around Australia. The depressed economy usually meant the municipality usually got good value for its money as well.

Here's what the author had to say about Caulfield City Hall:

"Caulfield City Hall, which opened on February 25, 1931, was the result of efforts to remodel the previous building. This included construction of the main hall and foyer with its portico and columns facing Glen Eira Rd.

"Work on the demolition of the western section of the old building began in January, 1930 after which reconstruction and extensions were carried out.

"The project, costing approximately £30,000 ($60,000) was a smooth one compared to the procrastination surrounding the 19th century building of the hall.

"In 1884 builders Upton and Smith had won the contract for the Caulfield Shire Hall with a bid of £8026/5- ($16,000) but work was slow and it wasn't opened until the early 1890s.

"In January 1889 the Caulfield and Elsternwick Star reflected the local discontent when it said: 'Because they cannot get another £3000 ($6000) to squander over a useless mass of bricks, honored by the name of a Shire Hall, they turn around and try to prevent highly important sanitary improvements being made. If this is protecting their constituents then God help those constituents'."

The book retails for $12.95 and makes fascinating reading for those interested in Australian, local history or local government.

Getting the balance of trade right

Alice Sfakiannos

With Christmas just around the corner, many people are going to buy — or receive — unwanted or shoddy goods and services.

Disputes between customers and traders are common — and often need a neutral party to offer advice and achieve a "fair trade".

There is someone who can help when a trading dispute occurs, the claims division of the Department of Consumer Affairs.

Alice Sfakiannos is one of a group of Customer Information Officers in the Complaints and Claims Division of the Department of Consumer Affairs.

It is her job to listen to your complaints and, believe it or not, she enjoys her work.

She's an ordinary young woman who enjoys ordinary things like going out to dinner, listening to bands and shopping for antiques. She knows what it is like to be a frustrated consumer.

"It's a full day and it's fun," she said. "I love working with people."

"Basically we're a front of house sixteen lines," Alice said, "but you really do have to persist all day. I hope most people are satisfied."

"I think they are, because we give people a more direct number to ring back if they need to and not many call."

On Wednesday mornings the workers meet in the phone room to exchange support, information, and, of course, stories.

"We had a guy come in the other day and complain that he'd hired strippers and they weren't worth what he'd paid for them," Alice said. "I thought it was a joke at first. He said he paid $300 for one girl and she was an hour late, stayed for ten minutes and she was drugged. Fair enough," she said dubiously. "It's a complaint."

"Basically you've got to keep calm. We tell people to go back and try to negotiate with the trader."

"Often it's a matter of give and take. And we have a lot of referral centres. A complaint against a solicitor would be referred to the Law Institute, and an insurance complaint to the Insurance Council of Australia."

"If it's a matter of urgency, or it's not going to be resolved through one of us, a conciliator may be called in to contact the trader and get their side of the story. You have to take the trader's side into consideration."

"It's all based on what we regard as 'fair trading in the market place'."

Dog fees have to rise

The first increase in dog registration fees since 1983 for Caulfield residents was approved by Council recently.

The increase which is approximately 7% overall, has been brought about by rapidly increasing costs.

Council's Animal Control Section has been able to absorb most cost of living increases for the past three to four years.

However the point has now been reached where the costs must now be passed on to the dog owner.

As stated, the increase is in the order of 7% which is still less than the present cost of living increase.

Council has determined that the dog registration fees for year beginning April 10, 1987 will be as follows:

Unsterilised Animal	$25.00
Sterilised Animal	$7.50
Working dog* or dog registered with the Kennel Control Council	$19.00
Sterilised dog owned by aged pensioner (maximum of one, remainder at normal fees)	$2.50

*Working dog is defined as kept exclusively for droving or drafting cattle or a dog registered with the National Coursing Association of Victoria, or a dog who participates in races held pursuant to the Racing Act 1958.

Women are bowled over by cricket

Women's cricket is proving so popular that South Caulfield Cricket Club has formed a second team to play in the C grade competition.

The club is on the lookout for more women players, no experience is necessary, just lots of enthusiasm.

For details contact Laurel Phelan on 598 5954.

The club itself will be holding a past and present players' night on Thursday, November 27.

Present club members will entertain past members at a dinner and the function is the perfect occasion to exchange old cricketing stories.

Former members of the club are asked to contact David Southam on 578 8721 for further details.

Off the Shelf

From the Caulfield Library Service

Caulfield '86 Photographic Competition

Entry forms are available from the sponsors, libraries or by phoning Barry Scott on 524 3357.

Drawing and Painting Competition

Kids, you can win cash prizes courtesy of RESI-Statewide, Koornang Road, Carnegie. All you have to do is draw a picture of your house, family, school, or suburb and drop it in to one of the libraries.

Entry forms are available from RESI-Statewide, the libraries, arts centre, Council reception area, recreation centre, or by phoning Barry Scott on 524 3357.

Entries close on Friday, November 21.

We Apologise

Mistakenly, tickets for the bus trip to the Rhododendron Gardens on October were distributed before the advertised time.

We apologise for any inconvenience and disappointment this caused to our patrons.

Plans are in hand to ensure a smooth and fair distribution of tickets for future library trips.

Volunteering in Caulfield — A Seminar

Tuesday, November 18, Elsternwick Library, 1-3 pm.

If you are already a volunteer or are thinking about volunteering, come along to this informative two hour seminar.

Speakers will include Susan Hearst, from Volunteer Action Centre, on rights and responsibilities, a representative from the Caulfield Citizens Advice Bureau on volunteer opportunities and a speaker from Do Care.

Plenty of places are still available but please ring Barry Scott on 524 3357 or Leonie Peters on 523 6682 to book in.

Origami for Adults

Wednesday, November 26, Caulfield Library, 10.30 am.

Mr Neil Anderson is an expert in this Japanese art of paper folding and has demonstrated the craft to many thousands of people.

There will be opportunities for participation and special morning tea will be served. Places are still available but please ring Peta Humphreys on 528 6301 to indicate that you will be attending.

Don't forget our free night of music and reading by top Melbourne and local writers on Thursday, December 4, at 7.30pm at the Caulfield Library. Enquiries Barry Scott, 524 3357.

Writers Workshop

Writers Workshop Group: Meets the second Thursday in the month at the Caulfield Library at 7.30 pm. Enquiries Barry Scott on 524 3357.

Favourite Books by Peter Globan

Peter is one of our regular borrowers at the Caulfield Library and has recommended the following books.

The B.F.G. by Roald Dahl; Dirty Beasts by Roald Dahl; Revolting Rhymes by Roald Dahl; The Black Island by Herge.

Red Rackhams by Herge; Tin Tin in America by Herge; Tin Tin in Tibet by Herge; House of Danger by R.A. Montgomery; Journey under the Sea by A.A. Montgomery.

Writer Georgia Savage, one of the guests at Caulfield Library's evening of music and readings.

A night of music and readings

Georgia Savage is just one of the artists appearing at the Caulfield Library, Maple St, South Caulfield, as part of a free night of music and readings on Thursday, December 4 at 7.30 pm.

In 1983 Georgia's novel, "The Tournament" was published followed by "Slate and Me and Blanche McBride" which is currently being made into a movie.

Like many writers, Georgia has worked at lots of different things, from picking grapes to being a tax consultant. She has just bought a house in Murrumbidgee and in December will be a 'local' writer.

Other writers appearing are interesting poet, Adrian D'Ambra and the 'lively' Kerry Scuffins.

Original music, featuring a range of instruments, will be provided by professional musicians, Eric Engelbogen and friends.

The night promises to be a spectacular mix of music and readings and should not be missed.

Enquiries: Barry Scott, Community Services Librarian on 524 3357.

Children always love the tale of The Three Bears, and even parents took time out to enjoy the story at Caulfield's teddy bear's picnic.

Picnic a teddy-rific success

Caulfield's teddy-bears' picnic proved a teddy-rific success with the youngsters — and the mums and dads.

Children brought along their parents to join in the fun at the Caulfield Arts Centre, which was part of the city's children's week activities.

There were clowns, balloons, pots of honey to hunt in the garden as well as other activities.

The day proved a success for all the families who attended. Caulfield Council extends its appreciation to Arnotts Biscuits and Barnes Honey who provided the goodies.

Rusty the clown gives some children some advice before one of the races at the teddy-bear's picnic.

At Christmas, remember your grand-parents

Dear editor,

There is a thought expressed by many grandparents today that many grand-children "couldn't care less" about their grandparents.

One does not necessarily apply this to one's own grand-children — it is probable that they are so busy living their own lives — which I grant are very full, as the wives all work to pay for the purchase of their houses.

This in itself is very commendable, but would it be too much to ask for an occasional phone call, say even once a month, to say "Hello". It would help us to feel we were not entirely forgotten.

If a grand-parent happens to be hard of hearing, then to say: "Oh, he or she is deaf, why bother?" is not only unkind, it is untrue. Most people hard of hearing are able to hear on the phone.

Also grand-parents do not relish being told, if they are in a crowd: "Oh that is what grand-parents just do, sit and watch."

In my case, I must say, I am not prepared to play this role, nor is a friend of mine. She told me that at a recent family gathering to celebrate her birthday, normally a case for congratulations, only two people spoke to her. She assured me that she could not leave quickly enough.

As Christmas approaches, could I ask all you young people who are fortunate enough to belong to an extended family, to see that your parents and grand-parents also enjoy themselves.

After all, they do love you and have done so since you were born.

Yours sincerely,
Lorna Smiley.

Fete with Xmas theme

Ripponlea Primary School will hold a fete with a Christmas theme on Saturday, November 29 in its grounds, at Carrington Grove, East St Kilda.

Attractions include a decorated cake competition, pavement art, egg throwing, giant musical chairs and a kite decorating competition.

Stalls include hand-crafts, cakes, books, records, plants, white elephant and a good quality second-hand clothing stall.

Refreshments on sale include a barbecue menu, an international food stall and tempting devonshire teas.

For details about the fete contact the school on 527 5728.

Over 50s dancing

Old time and modern dancing for the over 50s is held every Monday at Murrumbidgee Hall, Murrumbidgee Rd, between 1.15pm and 4pm.

Dress is casual, cost is $1, which includes afternoon tea.

For details contact Laurie Harty on 570 1068.

Hints on shopping from home

Mr Jim Badger, co-ordinator of the Caulfield Library Service, is guest speaker at the annual general meeting of the advisory committee for persons with disabilities in Caulfield.

The meeting is in the staff house, Caulfield Town Hall, at 8pm on Tuesday, November 25.

Jim will speak on shopping from home and will offer sound advice for any house-bound resident.

All are welcome to attend. For further details contact Loreen Chivell on 528 6333 or Betty Snowball on 523 9412.

Neighbourhood watch

Local Neighbourhood Watch zone leaders are asked to attend the next area H61 meeting on Monday, November 24.

Venue is Carnegie Primary School, corner Graceburn and Truganini Rds, starting at 7.30 pm.

HISTORICAL COLLECTOR & HOBBYIST

I am seeking to buy all and any historical items relevant to Caulfield and general area. Posters, adverts, of all types, old bottles, pottery, tools, boxes, letters, 1/2-pint or quart milk bottles, household goods, etc.

I am also seeking to buy anything that's old and interesting from anywhere and in any condition.

To you, your attic or garden shed might be full of junk, but it could contain a treasure for me.

Please phone Tony on 523 6349 any time.

Fire service once rested on "Finger's" shoulders

Today's fire fighting service is fast, efficient and reliable. Most emergency calls are answered in minutes thanks to modern technology.

However, it wasn't always the case. In the good old days, firemen very often had to coax their horses to the scene of a fire — not always an easy job.

The Elsternwick Fire Brigade, which was started and financed by the Caulfield Council, was launched in 1890.

The council provided equipment, including horses and fire alarms. It also agreed to pay for all the water used by the Brigade.

This arrangement worked quite well until the Metropolitan Fire Brigade was established about a year later and the voluntary fire brigade was disbanded.

The new board was responsible for all equipment and fire protection in the shire.

However relations between the two bodies, council and the new fire brigade were seldom cordial. Both were critical of each other's activities. It's worth noting that what had begun as a donation by council had now become a levy on council which had to support the new brigade.

Criticism was levelled at the council in 1905 because a fire brigade wagon was held up at the railway gates for 10 minutes on its way to a fire.

The criticism wasn't all one way though. Shortly afterwards there were complaints about "Finger" the Elsternwick Fire Brigade's horse, which was one of the most well-known "characters" in the area in those days.

Apparently Finger did not realise what an important position he held in the community and was inclined to jib at the least provocation.

However the horse carried out his duties stoutly enough during many years of service. Finger was retired in February, 1905.

Caulfield Contact is grateful for this information, published recently in the City of Caulfield Historical Society's newsletter.

Finger the fire horse, on his errand of mercy.

Pool goes solar

In 1985, Council agreed to consider the heating of the Caulfield Outdoor Pool complex.

The recommendation made was for solar heating, and application was made to both the Victorian Solar Energy Commission and the Department of Sport and Recreation for financial assistance.

In July 1986, the Victoria Solar Energy Commission announced its grant of $7,000 to the City of Caulfield.

September 1986 the Minister for Sport and Recreation allocated a grant of $209,000 on a dollar for dollar basis to the City of Caulfield.

Council went to tender in September for the design, supply and installation of solar heating system.

The successful tenderer is A.B. & S. Solar Industries from East Brighton to install solar collectors and associated pipework.

It is anticipated that the heating system will be operational for the first week of December.

The Caulfield Swimming Pool is an outdoor complex, consisting of a 50m Olympic pool, a diving pool, a water slide pool and a toddlers pool with associated play equipment.

Barbecue facilities available for families to use are free.

For further information on activities at the pool, contact the manager, Bill Crossley on 211 8143.

It was almost like old times at October's Council meeting when Caulfield's retiring Councillors came for a visit. They were longing to say something and it was as much as they could do to stop themselves from voting on the issues at hand. From left, ex-Councillors Pat McPhee, Max Blair and Geoff Doolan received illuminated addresses as reminders of their years of service and dedication to the City of Caulfield. They are pictured with the Mayor, Cr. Jack Campbell.

Glass recycling can save resources

The Caulfield Council has urged residents to keep supporting the glass recycling program which has been a major success so far.

All glass bottles and jars can be recycled and by doing so, residents are doing their bit to help care for the environment.

The door to door glass collection services operates on normal rubbish collection days.

Residents are asked to leave beer, wine and soft drink bottles, flagons and jars on the nature strip, alongside their household rubbish on collection day before 6 am.

The glass bottles and jars will be collected separately from the normal rubbish during the day.

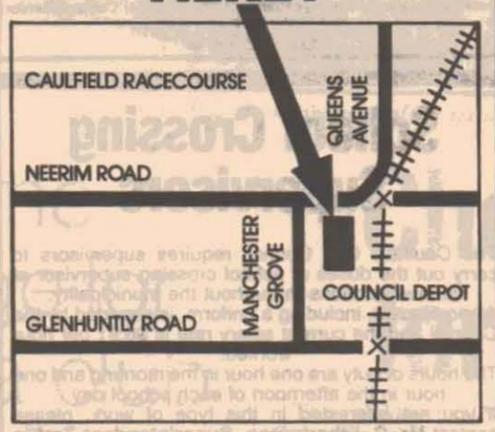

There is also a glass recycling plant open 24 hours a day, seven days a week at the council depot in Neerim Rd.

For further details about the recycling program, telephone 524 3240.

The benefits of glass recycling include: Litter reduction and a better environment, conservation of energy and valuable resources, reduction in rubbish cartage and tipping costs.

Carparking at Chisholm

Parking problems near the Chisholm Institute of Technology will be eased with the development of a new 88 space carpark on land owned by the institute.

The Council has approved of the scheme, providing that the institute liaise with council engineers during construction.

The council has also asked for some minor improvements to the plant which include improved landscaping and maintenance of the area.

The sites involved are 878 and 880 Dandenong Rd and 9 Princes Av.

Some salty sayings

With everyone enjoying the battle for the America's Cup, it's interesting to hear the language of the mariner on everyone's lips.

Caulfield Historical Society's recent newsletter has an interesting article on the origin of some of the words used by mariners.

The article quotes a speech made by Stanley Baldwin, the Prime Minister of England in 1923, when he spoke to the Master Mariners' Association: "The word anchor came to England from the Romans, via the Angles and the Saxons. 'The Vikings came along to waken them up and they left behind such words as 'keel', 'reef', 'stern' and the expression 'wake of a ship'.

"This was the phrase used for the track made through the ice when Viking ships sailed from Norway to Greenland. "From the Byzantine Greeks the sailors brought back the word 'Pilot' which took the place of the old English word 'Lodesman'.

"From Italy came 'brig' and 'brigantine' and the Dutch gave us the words 'skipper', 'lugger' and 'smack'.

"From the Spaniards we obtained 'cargo' and 'binnacle'.

Get some Sound Advice

The Department of Industry, Technology and Commerce produces a superb range of booklets, videos and courses for people running a small business — or thinking of setting up shop.

The booklets and other material cover everything from importing and control records to evaluating a franchise and credit management.

In fact the material covers every aspect of running a business, from starting out, finding finance to developing markets and even exporting.

To help business people find the booklet or material that suits them best, the department has produced "Sound Advice", a guide to its small business booklets, films and videos and courses.

The information should appeal to everyone from a stall holder to senior management in larger companies.

For further details about the small business material, contact the Small Business Development Corporation, 100 Exhibition Street, Melbourne, 3000, or telephone 654 3166.

The Planning Appeals Board has ruled in favour of objectors who opposed the building of two-storey flats on land in Madden Avenue, Glenhuntly.

Council had approved the construction of nine flats in a two-storey building at 35-37 Madden Avenue.

However objectors took the matter to the Board which ruled in their favour.

The Board gave detailed reasons for its decision.

These included: The erection of two-storey flats in an area which has a number of flat developments will dominate rather than harmonise with the environment.

Objectors win appeal

The approval of this development would create an undesirable precedent for flat development in the immediate vicinity.

FOR PROMPT & FRIENDLY SERVICE

When you have worked for the Council for 15 years you are invited to join a select club — a club that meets once a year for lunch with the Mayor. Even though many members are now retired they enjoy coming back to meet with old workmates and reminisce over old times. This year around 45 members got together again. Pictured are this year's recruits (from left): David Powell (Town Planning Inspector), Cr. Jack Campbell (Mayor), Nadine Vandenbroucke (Supervisor Library Technical Services), John Troy (Parks and Gardens), Frank Schibeci (Depot) and Colin Lilly (Traffic Officer). Each received a memento of their entry to the club — Caulfield must be a good place to work.

That grand property, Rippon Lea, has received glowing praise from the National Trust of Australia, which knows a good property when it sees one.

In its official journal, Trust News, it urges members — and the public — to visit the home and step back to a grander time.

Here's what the National Trust had to say:

When next you visit Rippon Lea, spare time to visit the newly restored Fernery. It has been replanted with 256 varieties of ferns.

When you walk between the side verandahs of the mansion residence and the colorful swimming pool, continue on, veering slightly left and the wide fernery entrance is waiting for you.

Trust praises Rippon Lea,

After that, leave by the side or back entrance and go left again to the apple orchard — then on to the furthest boundary path on the Elsternwick side, walk towards the Hotham Street side till you come to the Lookout Tower and view the whole locality from there.

Descend and walk through a tunnel grotto, then walk across the lacy iron fenced bridge over the lakes and on to the large central lawn and the swimming pool vicinity again. All the promise of coming Spring in the Rippon Lea garden will delight you.

Our gardening manager and staff have had a diligent time during the restricted visiting hours to Rippon Lea — each year from mid-June to mid-August — but full visiting hours of 10am to 5pm for the general public seven days a week, are current again.

Entrance is at the large Entrance Gates at 192 Hotham Street, Elsternwick, by showing National Trust membership card, otherwise the entrance charge.

A choice of names

A child born in Victoria can be registered in the family name of either parent or in the joint family name of both parents as of this month.

The provision is one of a number contained in the Registration of Births, Deaths and Marriages (Amendment) Act 1985 which comes into effect in November.

Other provisions include new procedures to document a change of name.

The Legislation would give Victorian parents an option they did not previously have when naming their children.

Until now if the father was acknowledged on the birth certificate the child could only be registered in the father's family name.

Such a provision was restrictive and obsolete and the change effectively brings the Legislation into line with current social realities.

There has been an increasing demand from parents for an opportunity to exercise freedom of choice when naming their children and the Government has acted to accommodate that demand.

The Act provides for disagreements to be resolved between parents over the naming of the child.

Aggrieved parties can appeal to the Administrative Appeals Tribunal against administrative decisions taken by the Registrar of Births, Deaths and Marriages.

Caulfield buys Aussie

The Caulfield Council is joining with many other municipalities in a campaign to buy Australian goods wherever possible.

This campaign is a move towards strengthening Australia's economy and supports the Federal Government initiatives in this area.

Given the buying power of all the Councils in Australia such an action by a large number of municipalities could have a significant impact on Australian industry.

In supporting this philosophy the Council has elected appropriate officers to consciously seek out locally made materials.

Imported goods will only be purchased if there is no suitable Australian product or if the cost difference is beyond the capacity of the Council to absorb it.

An exhibition of textile wall hangings by Caulfield artist, Eva Marks, will take place at the Elsternwick Library, 4 Staniland Grove, Elsternwick from Tuesday, 25 November to Tuesday, 9 December.

Eva is well known as a Council of Adult Education tutor and as a maker of a diversity of unusual-looking animals.

Eva began drawing as a child. Her equipment was a stick and the dust of a Siberian slave labour camp. She believes firmly, however, that "you can't live in the past".

The vibrant colours and skill involved in each wall hanging is testimony to this philosophy.

Name change for camera club

St Anthony's Camera Club in Glenhuntly has changed its name to the Caulfield Amateur Photographic Society.

The club is on a membership drive at the moment and is keen to become one of the leading clubs in Melbourne.

Meetings are held on the first and third Tuesday of the month at the St Anthony's Church Hall, corner of Neerim and Grange Rds, Glenhuntly.

Regular competitions are held for both slides, black and white prints and color prints.

Weekend trips are also organised and the club has its own darkroom.

Anyone interested in the club and who wants to know more about its activities should contact the president Paul Robinson on 211 3969.

Potters put on annual show

Until November 16 the Victorian Ceramics Group is holding its annual exhibition.

This will be the sixteenth annual exhibition by this group which represents more than 600 potters.

Works are selected on the basis of originality and skill, falling into two categories, functional and sculptural. All works will be for sale.

On opening night two prizes are awarded: the Karmel Kiln Award for the final year ceramics student who shows the most promise, and the H. R. Huen Award which is made to a potter chosen by Mr Huen, patron of the group.

CAULFIELD FESTIVAL

The Arts Centre will be one of the main venues for the Caulfield Festival which runs from November 28 until December 7.

A full programme of activities is available in this issue of Contact.

The following are details of some of the highlights.

INSTALLATIONS

This year's Festival exhibition brings together three artists who although working with different materials and methods make strong statements about the cycle of human life.

Marie Sierra-Hughes uses unfired clay, wire mesh thinly coated with hand made paper or moulded canvas, and found organic materials to create her sculptures.

They remind us of primitive icons/monuments... familiar yet mysterious forms from our origins or the world of dreams.

Ann-Maree Reaney's work called From the Margins, documents the gender and political colonization of the Aboriginal women on Mornington Island.

She lived there for four months this year.

Entering a huge tunnel the viewer is assailed by a soundtrack of the women's voices describing their lives, myths, fears and hopes for their culture.

The tunnel walls are covered with writings, Batik-dyed.

A sculpture by Marie Sierra-Hughes, on display as part of the Caulfield Festival.

Dusty red material is stretched into figures and hangings tied by string of wallaby grass.

The string is part of the central theme - the human network, the traditions... the ties that bind us.

Carole Marlowe writes the epitaph with his work, called Telemetric Signals.

It comprises 19 floor pieces constructed from polyurethane and polystyrene covered with fluorescent materials that glow in ultra-violet light tubes.

A soundtrack of defence and satellite signals creates an eerie environment in which a human element has been removed.

The cycle is complete, we have returned to our origins.

GALA OPENING

Although the exhibition will be on view from November 21, the opening is at 6.30 pm on Fri-

Janice Burgess of Da Da Dancers at work in Prahran Market, entertaining the crowds.

Da Da Dancers taking it to the streets

Da Da Dancers are gearing up for an exciting month as November is a busy time for dance antics.

The dancers will be working with Greg Temple, a famous puppeteer and Caulfield's latest artist to assist in the festival moves. The puppets and dancers promise to tangle themselves into your hearts.

Dancers will be seen in the spring weather. Watch out for the billowing parachute, flapping flippers and dilly dancers as Janice Burgess and Da Da Dancers take to the streets, the racetrack, the parks and the shopping centres.

Janice Burgess, Caulfield dancer in the community is holding workshops for Da Da Dancers on Mondays and Saturdays. Anyone interested in joining a fun troupe should ring Kerry Taylor on 524 3277.

Carols by candlelight

Caulfield Council's carols by candlelight will be held on Sunday 14 December in Caulfield Park. More details next Contact issue.

Choir in mood for Christmas

The Caulfield City Choir is getting into the Christmas Spirit early and will hold its popular annual Christmas concert during the Caulfield Festival.

The evening promises to be a memorable event with the major themes being community togetherness and audience participation.

The concert is on Saturday 6 December at 8pm at the St John's Uniting Church, Glenhuntly Rd, Elsternwick.

Admission is $8 and concessions are $5. A family ticket (two adults, two children) is $20.

Among the items will be the performance of Benjamin Britten's "Ceremony of Carols".

Another attraction will be the "Nine Lesson Carol Service". This will involve nine local churches who will have a representative read one of the lessons from this latter work.

As in past years the concert is bound to prove popular and early bookings are advised. For details contact Mrs Marjorie Sneddon on 523 7956 or Norma Nicholas on 523 6736.

The Caulfield City Choir recently celebrated its fortieth anniversary with a special reunion concert to mark its important milestone of performing.

The nostalgic program was held in the St Stephen's Uniting Church Hall and consisted of melodies and choral items from the choir's comprehensive repertoire.

Of the four conductors who have led the choir since its launch three were present at the anniversary concert.

Volunteers who care

Caulfield Community Care Centre is looking for friendly volunteers who care enough to spend a little time with the elderly and frail.

The centre needs volunteers who are able to give one or two hours each week to help someone shop or do the shopping for them.

The greatest need is in Carnegie, Glenhuntly and East St Kilda.

Volunteers will be working with staff from CARES, the community and resource extension services, based at the Royal Southern Memorial Hospital.

The service offers support to members of the community by providing help such as gardening, transport, shopping and cooking.

For further details contact CARES co-ordinator, Jo Kelly, on 528 4031 or 523 6666.

The Steiner way

A playgroup based on the teachings of Rudolf Steiner will start in Carnegie in February 1987.

The group will be for children from three years old and will offer two sessions each week.

A trained kindergarten teacher with experience in Rudolf Steiner education will lead the children at the sessions.

For further details contact Kate Holden on 569 4972.

Playgroup vacancies

The Caulfield Montessori Playgroup meets every Wednesday, from 9.30 to 11.30am at the Uniting Church Hall, corner North and Booran Rds, South Caulfield.

Children between 18 months and four years old are catered for with a wide range of activities which help the child's self-confidence, co-ordination and independence.

Parents and siblings are also welcome. For further information contact Marjorie Bennett on 527 8030.

History for sale

The history of Victoria's first registered scout group comes alive in the book: "Seventy-Five Years of the 1st Caulfield Scout Group".

The book took five years to put together and was written and researched by a former member of the troop, Scott Gallop.

The book is available at the milk bar, 605 Hawthorn Rd, East Brighton or direct from Scott on 596 5835, after 4pm.

New auxiliary

Wanted: People with time on their hands who want to put something into the Caulfield community.

Caulfield Community Care Centre wants to start an auxiliary to help it raise money for its welfare work.

The centre, based at the Southern Memorial Hospital, is facing problems in making ends meet on its limited budget.

The centre would like to hear from anyone who likes meeting people and helping a good cause.

For further details contact Mrs Joslyn Kaye at the centre on 523 6666.

Vacancies in music

Vacancies now exist for new members of the "Descanters Choir". Formerly a subsidy of Descant Music Society, further particulars are available from Frank Ph. 578 8046, Dianne Ph. 578 2268 or Jan Ph. 25 7650.

Thomson (flute) will present a programme of duets, solos and contemporary pieces.

In some items they will be joined by guitarist/composer Andrew Stenford and drummer Alexander Rigo for contemporary jazz pieces.

The programme will cover diverse aspects of twentieth century music.

YOUNG MUSICIANS
This concert will feature an orchestra of students taught by internationally acclaimed musician Nehama Patkin.

Conductor Doug Heywood will lead Nehama and the orchestra performing "Baba the Elephant".

The Yavneh College Primary School choir will also be featured.

This concert is at 6 pm on Wednesday December 3.

STUDENT CONCERT
Music students at the Art Centre will give a concert on Sunday December 7 at 2.30 pm.

Day care team in need of members

The Caulfield Council is on the lookout for caring people to join its family day care team.

Caulfield needs more people to take part in its family day care scheme. The work involves caring for children from tiny babies to school-aged youngsters.

If you believe you would like to greet a youngster or two arriving home from school, or cuddle a baby, while supplementing your income then family day care staff would love to hear from you.

To discuss becoming part of this caring team contact Bernadette Allan on 524 3333.

Bronti Merrett has been appointed as Caulfield Council's senior family day care officer.

Bronti has many years experience in children's services and can be contacted at the council's community development department, on 524 3333.

This month sees the launch of a new group aimed at young women who have become parents at an early age.

If you, or anyone you know, is a very young mum, and would like to get together with others, contact Lorraine, Lynne or Laurel on 524 3333.

All the children's services available in the City of Caulfield are listed in a new pamphlet available from the Community Development Department.

Anyone who would like a copy can telephone 524 3333.

Parents who want places for their children in one of the four municipal child care centres should act quickly.

Enrolments for places in January and February 1987 close on Saturday 15 November.

More details on 524 3333.

Ski team takes to the air

Australia's number one freestyle skiing team, Team Bulla, will put on a dazzling display at this month's Carnegie Traders' Association carnival.

The team will demonstrate the latest skiing craze, aerial skiing, on a trampoline.

The skiing display is one of the highlights of the carnival, which takes place on Saturday 15 November.

The carnival kicks off with a sidewalk sale on Friday 14 November but Saturday will provide the major attractions.

These include a visit by Father Christmas, the Air League Drum and Bugle Band, a rock band and games for adults and children.

There will also be a monster raffle with first prize being a video recorder.

Second prize is a year's membership of the Golden Lion Academy (fitness centre), third is a $100 gift voucher and fourth is a $50 voucher.

The action takes place between Ross-town and Neerim Rds, which will be turned into a pedestrian mall for the day.

The fun starts at 8am and lasts until 3.30pm. Refreshments will be on sale.

Cr Martens to head committee

Cr Veronica Martens was elected chairperson of the Duncan McKinnon Park committee of management at its recent annual general meeting.

Other office-bearers elected were secretary, Mr R. Foley and treasurer, Mr E. Briggs.

The annual general meeting was attended by Caulfield Mayor, Cr Jack Campbell.

One of the major items raised at the meeting was the repayments on the $25,000 loan taken by the committee to meet the costs of resurfacing the athletic track.

Interest payments come to $6000 a year for the duration of the eight-year loan.

The committee expressed some concern at meeting this debt, given that it is not allowed to seek permanent sponsorship.

The committee also noted that the athletic and other sporting clubs associated with the park had enjoyed successful seasons.

Music lovers to hold recital

The Music Lovers' Society will hold a recital on Saturday 6 December at the St Paul's Anglican Church, Dandenong Rd, starting 8pm.

The program features the OK Chorale and other artistes and will be followed by a Christmas supper.

All are welcome. Admission is $5, pensioners and students $3 and children $1.

For further details contact organisers on 211 0850 or 509 6601.

Stepping back in time

The Elwood Theatre Company is stepping back in time with its latest production "Remember".

It is the company's last major production for 1986 and is directed by Colin Pratt with musical direction by Les Patching.

The show features song, dance and comedy and is set in the 1920s.

Performances are at St Columba's, corner Glenhuntly and Normandy Rds, Elwood on November 14, 15, 20, 21 and 22 at 8.15pm. Tickets are $6.

Tickets for gala night, Saturday 15 November are $9.

There are celebrations planned for opening night, which include meeting the cast and company members after the show.

Apart from meeting its own running costs the company donates part of its revenue to several charities.

For further details about tickets and concessions contact the ticket secretary on 578 1386.

Survivors for peace

The Federal Member for Goldstein, Mr Ian McPhee, will open the third temporary exhibition to be held at the Jewish Holocaust Centre, 13 Selwyn St, Elsternwick.

Titled "The Survivors Amongst Us Work For Peace", the exhibition deals with the experience of 28 survivors of the holocaust between 1939-45.

Organisers say the exhibition will interest not only survivors but also schools, service organisations and everyone connected with the worldwide struggle for peace.

For details contact the centre on 523 9817.

The winner of last year's pavement art contest organised by the Glenhuntly Traders' Association. The artist was Mrs D. Gilbert.

BEDVAC can help search

Finding a suitable special accommodation home for an ageing parent, relative or friend can often present many problems.

A computerised service, called BEDVAC, may be the answer.

The service is free of charge to anyone seeking a vacancy in a special accommodation home. All homes in the metropolitan area are on the BEDVAC list.

The service aims to save time by providing up-to-the-minute information on vacancies based on area, cost and services available at the home.

BEDVAC's telephone number is 428 2520.

RECREATION AND LEISURE

Festive fun run

Murrumbeena Primary School is holding a fun run on Sunday, December 7 as part of the Caulfield Festival.

The fun run will start at 9.30am at the school and continue to Caulfield Park. Children will start from the E.E. Gunn Reserve at 10am.

More than 1000 runners are expected to take part and St Johns Ambulance and Caulfield Police will be on hand to see things run smoothly.

Croquet anyone?

Caulfield Croquet Club is always on the lookout for new members.

The club offers free tuition and equipment at its rooms, corner Hawthorn and Balacava Rds.

The 1986-87 season has started but the club still has vacancies for players each Monday at 10.30am.

For details call the club on 509 8603.

Talks on water safety

With summer almost here, many parents — and schools — are keen to have their children learn more about water safety.

Elwood Life Saving Club is doing its bit to teach youngsters about water safety by offering free talks to local schools.

Instructors are available five days a week at any school — and the club is also prepared to give talks to other services and sporting clubs.

The talks cover water safety and resuscitation and offer practical, easy to follow advice to restore breathing and blood circulation.

The water safety program started in 1984 with a grant under the CEP scheme. It proved so successful that the life saving club was again financed by CEP in 1985.

The instructors are selected from the long-term unemployment and study life-saving techniques for two months before they give talks to other groups.

As more groups become aware of water safety, the club hopes to expand its service.

For details about the program, contact the club on 531 5755 or write to P.O. Box 43, Elwood, 3184.

CHAMPAGNE BREAKFAST TRADITION CONTINUES

The City of Caulfield will be celebrating Australia Day on Friday, January 23rd, 1987 with the traditional champagne breakfast.

One of the best features of this function will be the presentation of awards to the Citizen of the Year and the Young Citizen of the Year.

The object of these awards is to recognise outstanding contributions by Caulfield citizens to the welfare of the local community.

All residents of the municipality are eligible although contributions to the community from non-residents should not be rejected.

The Young Citizen Award is for persons aged up to 25 years as at 26 January next year and the Citizen Award is for persons over 25 years of age.

Guidelines and application forms are available from the Mayoral Secretary, Norma Polglase, telephone 524 3333. These should be returned by Friday, December 5th, 1986.

Scout leader is needed

The 5th Caulfield Scout Group is in urgent need of a group leader.

Scouting offers a real challenge and the chance to teach young people the skills to lead a rewarding life.

For further details contact Mrs Gray on 578 6452.

Elsternwick playgroup

The Elsternwick playgroup meets every Tuesday between 1 and 3pm at the hall in Kings St, Elsternwick.

There are vacancies and for further details contact Chris on 528 4213.

Bowled Over

Caulfield Central RSL

Unsuitable weather has often made bowling difficult but this has not dampened the enthusiasm of members in both penant and social games.

No 1 team is still finding its feet in the much more difficult Division One competition, but No 2 team is on top of Division Five after four games.

Nos 3 and 4 teams are in there slugging it out with both opponents and the rain.

On the social side, the Mazda Open Fours on Show Day were won by C. Short, J. Ironmonger, W. Brown and P. Carkeek. A Mixed Fours tournament on September 28 went to those regular winners Ivy Fagan, Max Wright, Phil Stanford and Geo Fagan.

Club Championship contests begin on November 9 with the second round on November 16. Visitors are welcome to watch all these events.

If interested in trying their hand later, free coaching is available. Contact either Secretary Max Wright (592 5773) or Chairman, Geo Murie (569 8095).

Life member (and a foundation member as well), Bert Morris, has moved to Canberra and the club has said a reluctant farewell to this stalwart.

Carnegie

The Pennant season is now in full swing with five teams involved and the club is looking forward to some good bowling on the excellent greens.

Improvements costing $15,000 are being carried out to the kitchen, bar, internal heating and green surrounds, so may help to increase the already robust membership.

There is still time to join in the fun on 'Gala Day' when the two fills will start at 9.30am and many stalls will be in operation.

On Sunday, November 16, at 1.30pm, the draw will be 'Out of the Hat' finishing with a 'High Tea' at a very nominal cost and the 'Caulfield Festival Bowls Display' will be held at the Club on Sunday December 7 at 1.30pm.

Visitors are always welcome and free tuition with bowls provided is available for those interested, just ring the Club on 578 7131.

Caulfield South

Our two free coaching days have been most successful. The flowers, catering and presentation made our first official guest day, held on October 9, one to be remembered.

We were pleased to have Mayoress Mrs Felicitie Campbell attend this function along with other invited clubs and members.

Ladies triples are held on the first Wednesday of the month — lunch provided — $3 per head.

November 21 will be Gala Day. Mixed or Ladies Teams (Lady Skips) $12 per team — lunch provided, good trophies and well stocked stalls.

Please phone your entry no later than November 13 to Dulcie Murn on 211 3127 or Kath Robinson (Hon. Sec.) 596 5046.

Murrumbeena Park

Program for November and December will include: Inter-Club Mixed Fours — 12.30pm Wednesday, November 12; Mixed Fours — 1.00pm — Smorgasbord Tea Sunday November 16; R.V.B.A. Veteran's 10.15am-1.15pm Wednesday November 19.

Electric Light Mixed Fours — 7.00pm Wednesday November 19; Mixed Triples 12.30pm Friday November 28; Caulfield Festival Ltd — Invitation Men's & Ladies Fours — 10.00am Sunday Nov. 30.

Electric Light Mixed Fours — 7.00pm Wednesday December 3; Mixed Fours (single entries) — 1.30pm Sunday December 7; Interclub Mixed Fours — 12.30pm Wednesday December 10; Annual Clubs GALA DAY — Friday December 12.

Christmas Party — 7.00pm Saturday December 13; Ladies-Christmas Social Day and Charity Day (for the Arthritis Foundation of Victoria) — 12.30pm Thursday December 18.

Caulfield RSL Ladies

Twilight games commence this month, and continue through the season, on the following dates, all Fridays, Nov. 14, Dec. 5, Jan. 9, Feb. 6, Feb. 27, March 13.

These nights are most enjoyable, with play commencing at 5pm followed by tea.

Inquiries to Mrs Peg Biggart on (H) 523 6524, (C) 523 9894.

WE'RE A HOUSEBOUND HELPER

CITY OF CAULFIELD SHOPPING FROM HOME BUYING GUIDE

Shopping from home guide

The Advisory Committee for Persons with Disabilities in the City of Caulfield have produced, with the help of the Council, a shopping from home buying guide.

A number of Caulfield retailers have agreed to help with the project and this enables housebound residents to do their shopping over the telephone.

The guide is specifically designed to help the elderly and disabled in their everyday living.

But it is not intended that they be discouraged from shopping with family and friends so only essential services have been included.

Retailers who are providing this service have been issued with an identification sticker which will be displayed in their window. In this way the public will be made aware of their contribution to the community.

All enquiries concerning the guide should be directed to Jim Badger, tel. 524 3245.

This is our eighth test transmission since founded in late 1982, and a full-time broadcasting licence is now not too far away. Programming has improved over the year, and the results will be evident during this test transmission.

We invite listeners' calls on signal strength, program quality and community announcements during the test, on 553 3413.

Appeals not on

Objectors to two separate decisions made by the Caulfield Council have withdrawn their opposition and the matters will no longer go before the Planning Appeals Board.

Council had granted permission for a two storey extension to go ahead at a property in McHenry St, East St Kilda, to which residents objected.

However the property owner has decided on a single storey extension only, to which there are no objections.

At 15-17 Booran Rd council had granted permission for five single-storey units to be built, to which there were a number of objections.

However the applicant has now told council they have no longer any interest in the scheme.
