Council watch over hospital issue

"As leader of the community, Council has a responsibility to act as a 'watchdog' ... and when the need arises, provide the facts, clear the matter up and put things in the right perspective".

Mayor, Cr Veronika Martens

THIS response by Caulfield's Mayor, Cr Veronika Martens, was sparked off by the current issue relating to developments and future plans for the Caulfield General Medical Centre.

Mounting concern over the type of information being channelled out to the community and the needless worry and confusion it has caused residents, prompted Council to take affirmative action.

Council's involvement in the issue was fuelled by rumours about the hospital's immediate future causing, as Mayor, Cr Martens expressed, "a great deal of anxiety in the local community especially the more elderly citizens who are the ones that are the real victims in this situation as they do not know the facts and have been confused about what is happening".

Discussions have been held between Cr Martens, Council's chief executive officer, Doug Ayleen and Mr Kricker, chief executive of the Alfred Group of Hospitals.

As a result of the initial talks, a consultative program to schedule bi-monthly meetings between Council's Mayor and chief executive and Mr Kricker, on behalf of the Board of the Alfred Group was adopted

Council's chief executive officer, Doug Ayleen confirmed "that in order to represent community interests, we will hold regular meetings with Mr Kricker, so that we can be kept informed about any developments. Mr Kricker has given an undertaking that if any substantial changes impacting on local residents were to take place, these would be discussed with Council well in advance of any implementation".

In response to the forthcoming public meeting being held to discuss the issue later this month, Cr Martens stated "while we commend the organisers of the public meeting for their concern about the facility, we must ensure that the public is aware of all the facts and that rumour and innuendo will not be allowed to cause unfounded concern among residents".

Sharing Council's views on public consultation is Opposition Whip and Member for Caulfield Ted Tanner, who stated he "welcomed" the public statement from the Alfred Group Board on the hospital's current position. "I welcome the statement because it (cont. page 2)

Senior citizen's week '92

THE theme for the 1992 Senior Citizen's Week is Take Advantage of Your Age.

The proposed program, which in Caulfield runs from March 29 to April 12 includes:

- Historic bus tour of Caulfield
- Exhibition of Senior Citizens Treasures
- Concerts
- Free interest groups
- Open days
- Croquet

For enquiries regarding Senior Citizen's Week, please contact the Council's coordinator recreational services, Pamela McKimm on 524 3367.

Senior Citizen's Treasures is a celebration of Art and Craft works created by older adults. This exhibition will be held in the Caulfield Community Gallery from March 23-29, 1992.

gives the public an opportunity to express opinion on what is occurring and what is being proposed", Mr Tanner said.

What's the real story?

While it is true that budget cuts at the hospital, in line with general reduction in health funding at both State and Commonwealth levels, have to be put in place, Mr Kricker assured Cr Martens that there were no plans to reduce the effectiveness of the hospital as a local health care facility.

From information provided by Mr Kricker it has been ascertained that inpatient activity levels will be maintained and if possible increased. This will be achieved by changing health care procedures that have seen the average stay in hospital reduced in recent years, as new health care methods are introduced.

RE Ross Centre & Pathology

The RE Ross Centre and Pathology have been subject to rumours which are not based on facts.

Currently the Ross Centre has been subsidised by the Hospital to the tune of $100,000, which under current budget reductions can no longer be sustained.

There is no move to close the Centre and the Hospital has guaranteed $35,000 for 1992 and has asked management to prepare a plan to make the workshop financially viable.

In the area of Pathology services, there has been ongoing concern about the current expense of providing pathology services at the Caulfield General Medical Centre and the Alfred.

An internal review has recommended a move towards one Pathology Service to serve both campuses. A plan for the formation of a single pathology service is being prepared for Board consideration.

Radiology

The Radiology department at the Centre has not been closed. It did, however, advertise to appoint new contract radiologists last year following the death of Dr Kotzmann. The department operated continuously during this time and after seeking approval from the Board, a new appointment to the Radiology Department was made on January 2, 1992.

Proposed action for '91/92

Given the hospital's objective of maintaining or even increasing service levels and the substantially reduced financing, there was obviously a need for the Board to take action to reduce costs. It was decided that the main expenditure thrust reduction would be:

- Better management of beds
- Review various service and activity programs
- Expenditure reduction
- Staff reduction
- Undertake productivity reviews to increase the hospital's efficiency and effectiveness

Initial productivity reviews, will occur on both campuses in the following areas:

- Occupational therapy
- Physiotherapy
- Medical records
- Food/Hospital services
- Central sterile services/supplies.

Ultimately these reviews will extend right across the hospital to all areas. Objectives include:

- To develop a process which achieves real, viable implemented productivity improvements generating cash savings in short term
- To identify all services provided by each area and agree to the priority of those services
- To identify 'bottlenecks' in provision of those services
- To establish an analytical basis for a comprehensive review of the organisation at a later date

For the review to be the basis for establishing the process of continuous improvement in the quality of patient services and effective operation of the specific departments.

Citizens honored in Caulfield

(from Page 1)

Lucy Adeney, 17 years, was awarded Young Citizen of the Year. Lucy, a member of the Girl Guides, was last year the South Eastern Region Guiding Movement representative on the State Guide Council. She has also been involved with the Salvation Army and Red Cross for many years. Lucy, has just completed her VCE at Corowa and she hopes to study music and become a music teacher.

Jack Campbell, MBE, JP was Mayor of Caulfield in 1986-87 and has served as a Councillor with Caulfield for many years. He has been involved with many community and service organisations including; the Caulfield Community Education Group, the Early Planning for Retirement Group, the National Heart Foundation, Red Cross and the Salvation Army.

● The winner of Caulfield Council's Most Outstanding Residential Development Award was Beltani, 225 Orrong Rd, Caulfield, designed and developed by Gabor E Hubay. (see page 3)

Community caravan visits

THE Caulfield Community Caravan is up and running again in '92. On its last visit, the caravan visited the Elsternwick shopping district where Council's community relations staff distributed information on Council services and facilities.

The objective of visiting shopping districts is to meet people in the area and be available to answer any queries they may have on Council services.

'Question time' sessions were also held where Council officers from several specialist areas such as building, town planning and health and legislation, were present to respond to any questions put to them about their relevant areas. The caravan will be visiting Carnegie shopping district in March and the date for the visit will be published in the next issue of Caulfield Contact.

Gaming machines lack planning control

THE State Government has recently approved the Gaming Machine Control Act which provides the opportunity for certain premises throughout Victoria to operate gaming machines.

The Victorian Gaming Commission has been established where persons may apply for a Gaming Venue Operators Licence.

Only premises which already have a restricted club, full club, general or residential liquor licence can be granted a gaming venue licence.

The Government has licenced Tattersalls and the TAB as gaming operators. They will own the machines and will enter into contracts with venue operators to allow them to operate the machines.

In Caulfield, several premises now hold liquor licences which would be suitable for gaming venue licences. These include social clubs, sporting clubs, hotels and Caulfield Racecourse. Some of these premises are located in parkland.

The Gaming Machine Control Act has seemingly avoided controls over planning matters and because of this, Caulfield Council is currently preparing an amendment to the Caulfield Planning Scheme which will require a planning permit for more than five gaming machines.

Through issuing a planning permit, Council will be able to specify the maximum number of machines, hours of use, carparking and other considerations which are important in preserving the amenity of residential areas.

Discussion is also taking place with neighbouring municipalities to see if they share a similar concern.

The Caulfield Planning Scheme Amendment will be on display at the Town Planning Counter, Caulfield Municipal Offices.

If the Government doesn't approve the Planning Scheme Amendment, then there will be no Planning control to protect the amenity of residents.

'Beltani' award winner

THE City of Caulfield Outstanding Residential Development of 1991 has been awarded to a development at 225 Orrong Road, Caulfield.

The design, by architect Gabor Hubay incorporates 15 apartments, a caretakers flat, undercover parking and an indoor swimming pool.

Caulfield's Mayor, Councillor Veronika Martens presented the award to the successful designer at Council's Australia Day Breakfast.

The award, in its second year, is aimed at recognising and promoting excellence in the field of multi-dwelling design in Caulfield.

1991 saw a more moderate response to Council's call for nominations, which probably reflected the economic downturn being experienced.

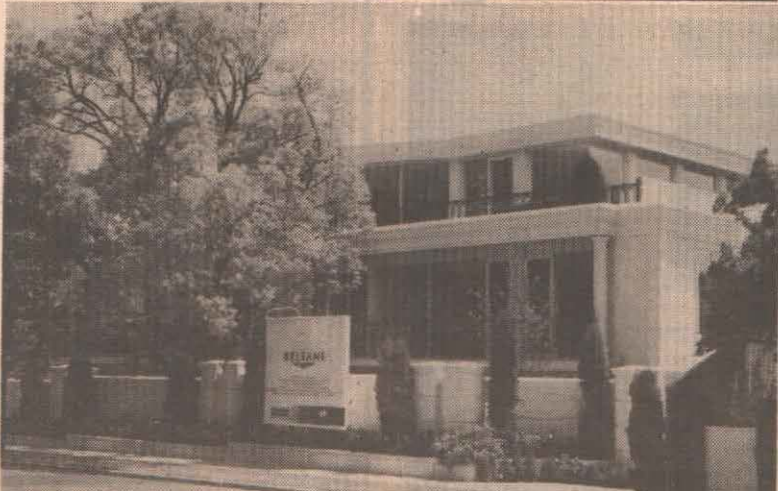

Nonetheless, the judging panel, comprising representatives from Council, the Housing Industry Association, the Department of Planning and Housing and the Australian Institute of Architects, found the task of selecting a winner a difficult one.

The winning design was judged for its excellence and innovation in multi-dwelling design, particularly:

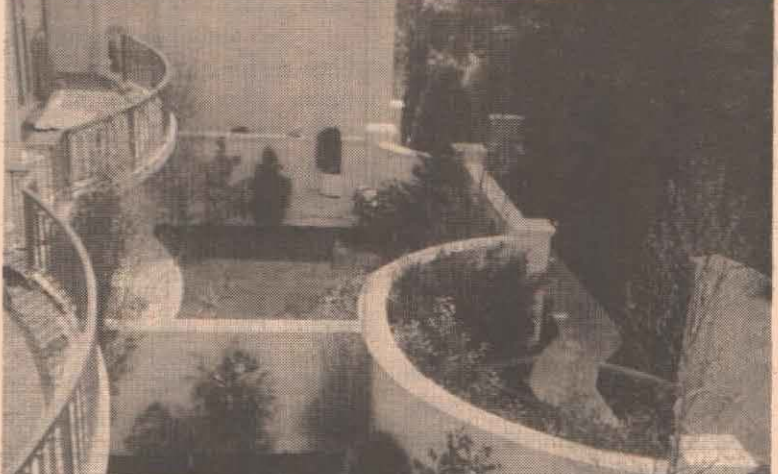

- the high quality landscaping
- the outstanding finish and overall presentation
- successful use of higher residential densities
- enhancing the streetscape character.

Two certificates of commendation were awarded.

Four townhouses at 37 Toolambool Road, Carnegie, designed and built by RR Long were

- commended for:
 - providing an attractive infill development on an awkward site
 - successful use of higher residential densities
 - affordability
 - enhancement of the streetscape character
- Two double storey dwellings at 9 Acacia Street, Elsternwick, designed by Gary George and built by Archcon were commended for:
 - compatibility with the character of buildings in the area, their architectural style and scale
 - providing an attractive infill development of a narrow site
 - successful use of higher residential densities

Bus excursions cut

DUE to cuts in the level of State Government funding to public libraries in 1991/92, the City of Caulfield has been forced to re-evaluate a range of extension services previously offered as part of its public library services, in order to continue to provide adequate core library services.

In the case of bus excursions, it has been decided not to offer any further trips from the start of 1992. In taking this decision, it was noted that the trips depleted staff from the circulation and reference facilities of the Library, and although their popularity with both patrons and staff was acknowledged, this use of resources could no longer be borne.

However, the Library is at present negotiating with other bodies who have links with Caulfield Council to see if it is possible for them to continue to offer this service.

Neerim Road reconstruction

CAULFIELD Council recently awarded the contract to reconstruct Neerim Rd, between Hobart and Poath Rds, to Centro Constructions Pty Ltd at a cost of $211,381.

Eight of the eleven tenders received, were below the Council engineer's estimate and reflects the present competitive economic environment.

The project is fully funded by the Federal Government allocation of funds to Local Roads and is expected to be completed by April 1992.

The works include: 1400 metres of concrete kerb and channel, 207 metres of stormwater drain, and 880 tonnes of bituminous concrete.

Kerb extensions into the road pavement have been included in the design in order to slow traffic speeds and link the parkland that exists on either side of Neerim Rd.

Assault & abuse, it doesn't pay!

LAST year, a female Caulfield Traffic Officer was verbally and physically assaulted while on duty in Glen Huntly Rd.

The Officer was merely doing her job of issuing a parking infringement notice to a vehicle which was parked in a No Standing area.

The very irate owner of the vehicle approached the Officer, yelling abuse and snatched the parking infringement notice from her and pushed it into her chest. The blow was painful and frightening to the Officer.

"Traffic officers have the most difficult job in Local Government, with few if any of the public appreciating the need for parking supervision. This results in officers having to endure attitudes from people they encounter, ranging from hostility, threats and physical violence," said the Council Superintendent Traffic and Local Law,

Bob Hannah.

"What most people tend to forget is that these officers are just doing their job and anyone who uses abusive language or assaults an officer will be confronted by the full force of the law."

The courts recognise the difficulties that traffic officers have to encounter and supports them with effective penalties where offences have been proven.

In this particular case, the defendant, who would only have had to pay a $40 parking fine, is now up for $1,133.

The total fine is made up as follows:

- unlawful assault - fined $500 plus $33 costs
- indecent language - $250
- offensive behavior - $250
- leave a vehicle in a No Standing area - $100

Revised conditions to council permits

MOST applications for building permits for works on private properties need to be accompanied by an approval of ancillary works within the road.

These extra works can include erection of hoarding or scaffolding, excavating an opening in the road, naturestrip or footpath to install or meet services such as gas, water or sewer; constructing a new vehicle crossing; installing a new temporary crossing to protect the footway during cartage of materials placement of a waste container in the road reserve to store and cart away building and other wastes.

The Council requires that all of the above activities be subject to the issue of a permit and the payment of a fee and deposit.

This is necessary so that control can be exercised through an inspection system to ensure the safety and convenience of motorists and pedestrians and to preserve the condition of the road and footway through proper reinstatement of any damage from the works.

The Council sets conditions that are to apply to any permits and these specify the requirements that Council has in regard to the activities.

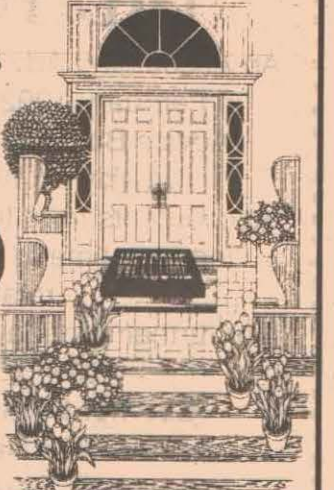

These conditions have recently been revised and a set will be provided to all future permit applicants.

They are also available to other interested persons and may be obtained from the building department at Caulfield City Hall.

Red Cross Needs YOU

IT'S that time of year again when Red Cross calls for community assistance in the collection of money for the Red Cross Calling Appeal.

Appeal Day this year is March 10 and more than ever, the Red Cross needs volunteer support.

Caulfield has always been a stronghold for the Red Cross and our City's support has included among other things, the use of the Caulfield Race Track during World War Two as a respite abode for returned soldiers and their immediate family to meet, rest and feed before returning home.

The track accommodated hundreds of soldiers from all over the country in temporary barracks who had returned from the war via Melbourne.

Alice Campbell has chaired the Caulfield Red Cross Committee for many years and has been a Red Cross voluntary worker since 1939!

Alice has many memories of her years with the Red Cross and has assisted many unfortunate families and individuals in need.

"People ask me 'what type of work have you done for the Red Cross over the years?' I can tell you that I've done everything from helping victims of bushfires, cyclones and other natural disasters, assisting returned soldiers and their families and possibly the most frightening experience, was working in a Kew mental asylum when the hospital staff strike occurred", recalls Alice. "Usually they would send two Red Cross volunteers in these circumstances, but volunteer numbers were down and I was sent on my own ... well I can tell you that it was horrific ... I knew where nothing was kept, medication, clean linen ... all these things I had to find on my own while patients in the hospital were screaming out helplessly."

Individuals like Alice are hard to come by nowadays and it takes a very special, caring person to do what Alice has done for so many people in our local community.

"I'm not as young as I used to be but that doesn't stop me from doing as much as I possibly can for this community ... I run Telecross in Caulfield which is a phone service for those people living alone. The aim of this service is to telephone these individuals once a day at the same time to ensure that they're well ... if by chance they do not pick up the phone then I ring the neighbour or pop around to see them. I've always enjoyed working for the Red Cross and I hope that more people will experience the feeling of achievement that I've always felt in helping those who are less fortunate than myself".

There are many ways of raising money for the Red Cross. The most prominent and effective method has been through yearly appeal.

Local resident Graham Blythe and friend John Shaw did something a little different this year in an effort to raise money for the Red Cross.

Both Graham and John attempted their very first parachute jump. These two high-flyers jumped on February 2, 1992 at the Meredith Parachute Club, Meredith.

On asking Graham why he decided to jump he simply replied, "it's a good way to raise money for a worthwhile cause."

Caulfield Mayor Cr Veronika Martens is a strong supporter of the Red Cross and the Appeal and keenly collects for the Appeal every year along with other Caulfield Councillors. Cr Martens believes that the generosity of many individuals in the Caulfield community is always highlighted when charity, volunteer assistance is required. However, she urges sporting and bowling clubs and organisations to get involved and be more supportive. "It would be wonderful to see some clubs and organisations put in the effort that many individuals in our community do ... it's a matter of give and take ... unfortunately the latter is more prominent than the former with some groups. It only takes two hours of one's time to help Red Cross on collection day", Cr Martens stated.

You can assist the Red Cross on Appeal Day by:

- participating in the doorknock in your area, in a group or individually
- manning an intersection for collections (Red Cross arranges the necessary permits and safety equipment)
- organising skills to help with the Appeal (eg sorting kits, transporting collectors, counting money etc).

If you would like to volunteer please call Alice Campbell on 568 0275.

Short story competition winner

THE winner of this year's competition is a 32 year old Western Australian writer, Glyn Parry.

A prize of $500 was awarded to Glyn for his story titled "The River". Those judging the competition were, Kristen Henry, Janine Burke and Kris Hemen-sley.

Glyn began writing short fiction for adults in 1983 and established a reputation with various literary magazines such as Westerly, Overland, Southerly who all published some of his short stories.

Glyn's adult short fiction has been anthologised, won competitions, been read over the airwaves and finally collected up into the manuscript, Small Boy Falling.

This collection was shortlisted in last year's TAG Hungerford Award through Fremantle Arts Centre Press and will be published in the near future.

Since 1988, Glyn has been concentrating on developing novels and short stories for young adults. Glyn's first YA novel LA Postcards will be published in March 1993 and will head Random Century's children's list that year.

Last year Glyn was writer in residence at the Katherine Susannah Pritchard Writer's Centre where for five weeks he sat in the same cottage where Pritchard wrote her highly successful works and he is hoping her influence will rub off on him!

Glyn is currently working on his first adult novel and planning his second YA novel. He has also applied to go to the United States in 1993 to spend a year of writing at California State University.

Glyn is delighted to have won the Caulfield Festival Short Story Competition and would like to thank all involved for making this competition available to writers and so encouraging them to keep writing.

Details on the 1992 competition will be available later in the year from Liz Jesty on 524 3264.

Become a Foster Family

FOSTER Care South East is an agency which organises alternate care for children (0-16 years) who are temporarily unable to live with their own families. Placements can be for a day or two to several weeks or months, sometimes years.

Care is needed for a variety of reasons - parental illness, family breakdown, severe stress, child abuse and neglect.

Two examples of children needing care are:

A little girl of seven - She has been taken away from her mother and step-father because there is a strong suspicion of child abuse. She needs a warm and caring home where she can stay while her future is decided.

An active toddler who is three years old - His mother is soon to go into hospital to have another baby and his father works long hours.

The family have no relatives in Australia and no friends able to care for him while his mother is not there. He needs foster care for a week or two, until his mother is back home and able to cope.

There will be a series of three training sessions from February 20 for those who would like to share their time and family with some of our community's needy children.

If you are interested in becoming a foster family or finding out more about foster care, please call Foster Care South East on 562 9966. Every family can help!

Greek Celebrations

ONE of the recent successful innovations at Caulfield General Medical Centre has been the formulation of a socialisation group for Greek residents in the extended care wards.

While these people are the primary participants in the group, interest has come from many other residents interested to learn about Greek culture and customs.

The group is coordinated by an enthusiastic ward clerk with the support of therapy staff. Many other members of staff also contribute to the activities.

Disability committee 'maps' the way in Caulfield

THE Caulfield Advisory Committee for People With Disabilities was set up in the Year of the Disabled to:

- Act as a representative body for persons with disabilities to the City of Caulfield and;

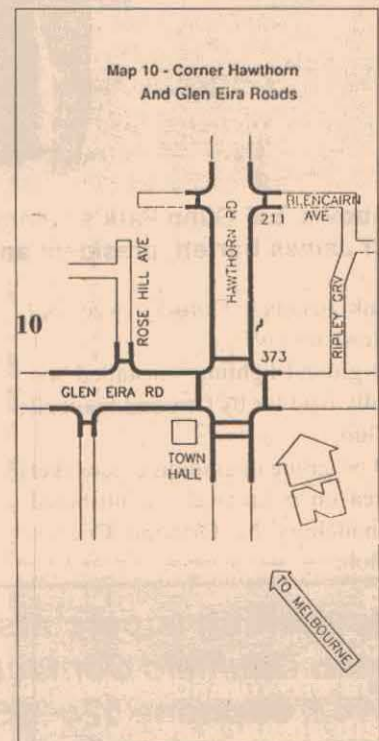

- Seek to further the recognition and integration of persons with disabilities by and within the City of Caulfield on such issues as:

- community attitudes
- public awareness
- education
- accommodation
- mobility and access
- employment
- income and security
- legislation
- recreation
- community-based services

Committee's Achievements

SINCE 1982, the Advisory Committee has investigated and highlighted major access problems within Caulfield; advised on improvements to access in public and private buildings; issued a Resource Guide; issued a Shopping From Home Guide; received a grant to investigate access to recreation and community services and won their second National Award in the 1988 Bicentennial Access Awards to set up the Home Computer Access Project, Good Access Award Scheme, issue the Access Map of Caulfield and fund general publicity projects.

The 1989/90 project for the Caulfield Advisory Committee is the Footpath Clutter Campaign which aims to increase public awareness of the problems caused by display units, builder's materials, sandwich boards and street furniture which is increasingly a part of the streetscape today.

The Mobility Maps

This series of ten strip maps, covering the main Caulfield shopping centres, indicates continuous access routes noting:

- accessible parking
- seating
- accessible toilets
- railway stations
- automatic teller machines
- telephones

Street numbers are shown and the Northern direction of Melbourne is indicated. The ten maps were produced for the Caulfield Advisory Committee for People with Disabilities by Ken Ravensdale and will be updated annually. The maps are also available as a separate booklet.

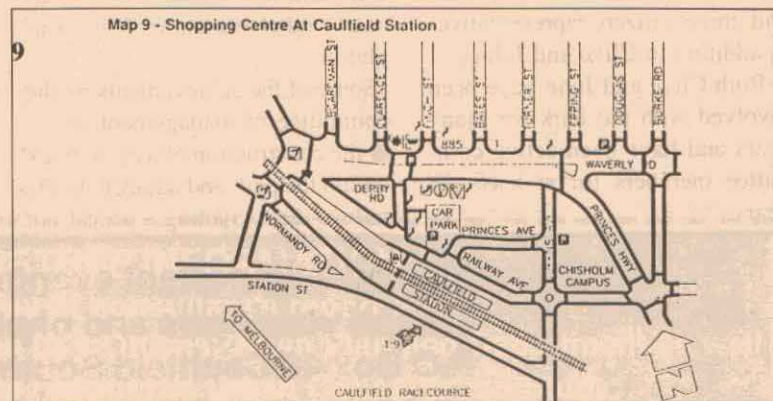

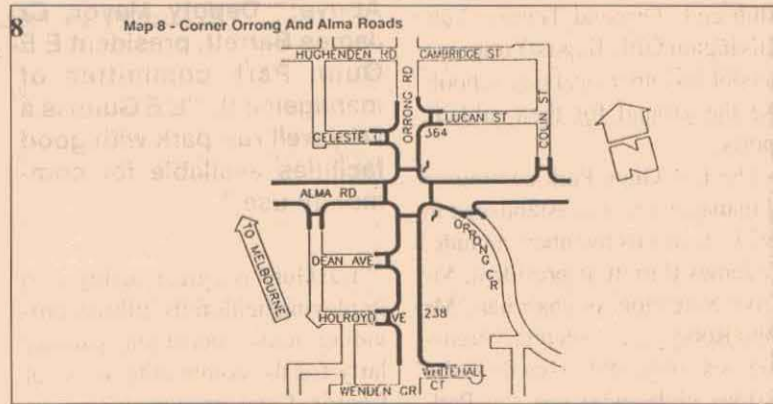

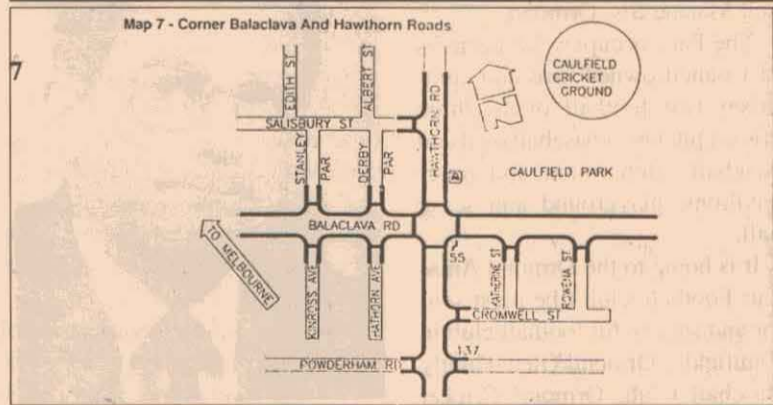

The maps are dedicated to Margaret Quinn.

Using the mobility maps

The mobility maps provide information about access and facilities for people of limited mobility, such as those in wheelchairs or prams. The solid black line on the maps denote accessible paths which are free of barriers. Obstacles such as steps are indicated by a break in the line.

Featuring Caulfield's parks and gardens

GLEN HUNTLY Park and E E Gunn Park are just two of nine sporting venues within the City of Caulfield. Like all the other parks, Glen Huntly and E E Gunn are used all year round by football and cricket clubs.

■ Glen Huntly Park

GLEN HUNTLY Park, situated in Caulfield's north ward was originally located on a large area of temporary reserve which was to become the Caulfield Racecourse.

In 1927, an area on the southern section of the racecourse reserve, bordered by Neerim and Booran Rds, was permanently set aside for recreation.

Some 40 years later in 1968, the reserve passed under formal Council management to become the Glen Huntly Sports Ground.

Like all Caulfield's sporting venues, Glen Huntly has its own committee of management, which is responsible for the general upkeep and management of the park.

The committee of management, which was first formed in 1963, is made up of 10 members. Cr Nicholas Gold is chairman/president and Mr Victor Townsend is the secretary/treasurer.

■ E E Gunn Park

E E GUNN Park, formerly known as Ormond Park, is situated in Caulfield's south ward, cnr Foch and Malane Sts, Ormond.

The Park occupies 3.5 hectares of Council-owned land and comprises two football ovals, three cricket pitches, a baseball oval and baseball pitch, main and outer pavilions, playground and scout hall.

It is home to the Ormond Amateur Football Club (the most senior and successful football club in Caulfield), Ormond/Glen Huntly Baseball Club, Ormond Cricket Club and Ormond Tennis Club. Kilvington Girls Baptist Grammar School and other local state schools use the ground for their athletic sports.

The E E Gunn Park committee of management was established in 1975. Today its members include; Cr James Barrett as president, Mr Clive Singleton as chairman, Mr John Robertson as secretary/treasurer, six representatives from the various clubs who use the Park and three citizen representatives in addition to Clive and John.

Both Clive and John have been involved with the Park for many years and have been active committee members for at least ten years.

Above: Cr Nicholas Gold, chairman and president Glen Huntly Park committee of management. "As the person responsible through Clyde Holding MP for assisting in obtaining funding for the pavilion, it has been a great thrill to become chairperson of a dedicated committee with a great facility."

Mr Townsend, who has been a dedicated member since 1973, said "we are very proud of our facility and we would like to take this opportunity to invite people from our community to come along on February 23, between 2 and 4pm to view this wonderful new pavilion."

The pavilion, which celebrates its first birthday in April this year, has already been used for weddings, birthdays and anniversaries.

Seating 120 people it comprises a main function room, kitchen, bar facilities and toilets.

Other attractions include barbecue facilities, playground, tennis courts and a tennis wall.

The Park is home to the North Caulfield/Glen Huntly Cricket Club, Glen Huntly Amateur Football Club and The Bloods Football Club.

For further enquiries about any of the Park's facilities, or people interested in hiring the pavilion, please contact Mr Townsend on 528 6943.

Above: Deputy Mayor, Cr James Barrett, president E E Gunn Park committee of management. "E E Gunn is a very well run park with good facilities available for community use."

"E E Gunn is a great facility with its playing fields fully utilised, providing active recreation, particularly for the community youth of Caulfield and its surrounding areas," said chairman Mr Clive Singleton.

Some of the achievements by the committee of management are:

- the construction of a cycle track within the park and adjacent to the railway line, creating a pedestrian link between Dorothy Ave and Newham Gve;

- ground lighting - installed and fully paid for by Ormond Football Club;

- on-going upgrading of a wicket area on main oval - contributed financially by Ormond Cricket Club;

- the redesign and construction of safer entrance to the Park from Dorothy Ave;

- paving and lighting of carpark
- new clubhouse for Ormond Tennis Club;

- upgrading and upkeep of pavilion and other buildings within the Park - contributed to financially by the football and cricket club, extension to north east pavilion - fully paid for by Ormond/Glen Huntly Baseball Club.

E E Gunn Park was named after Cr Ernest Edwin Gunn, foundation president of the Ormond Park Trust which administered the area on Council's behalf. Cr Gunn served on Caulfield Council from 1949 to 1975 and was Mayor of the City in 1952-53 and 1964-65. Cr Gunn remained closely identified with the Park until he passed away in 1982.

Caulfield Urban Conservation Study

About the Study

THE City of Caulfield has recently commissioned a preliminary urban conservation study.

The study has provided a background history to Caulfield's built environment, looking at Caulfield's development from its beginnings until World War II.

It also included a survey which has given a preliminary indication of the heritage importance of each building in the municipality. The study also identifies four "historic areas".

Study Recommendations

The study proposed more detail investigation of the areas and buildings identified as important to Caulfield's Heritage. With the background history, this information would be used to develop a Heritage Management Plan for Caulfield.

This plan will draw on the following sources of information:

- the outline environmental history
- assessments of the historic areas identified and;
- assessments of sites ranked at levels A,B, and C+.

It will consist of a range of measures, prepared after consultation with the affected groups, which will assist Council to encourage the protection and enhancement of the City's built heritage.

These measures may include both statutory and non-statutory initiatives and will be responsive to the special characteristics of Caulfield's built heritage.

Heritage At Risk

The preliminary survey has shown that some of the City's heritage has already been lost. Only 8 buildings in Caulfield are now covered by controls aimed at retaining heritage. These are the buildings registered under the Historic Buildings Act. A permit from the Historic Buildings Council is needed for demolition, alterations, or other development of these properties.

Most other existing buildings, for example houses in residential zones, can be altered, added to or demolished as long as a building permit is issued. Council cannot consider the effect on building heritage when granting building permits.

A building's heritage quality as seen from the street can be degraded by:

- demolition
- construction of fences, carports or other outbuildings not in keeping with the building style;

- altering the building facade so as to remove or cover heritage features;

- painting or putting up an advertising sign that is not in keeping with the building style;

- adding extensions not in keeping with the building style.

How Can Heritage Be Managed?

Council could ultimately manage the built heritage of the City by statutory Town Planning controls, conservation guidelines or a combination of the two, over privately owned land.

Statutory

Council could list the four "historic areas" as Urban Conservation Areas under the Caulfield Planning scheme. It could also identify significant buildings outside the "historic areas" under the scheme. It could then require town planning permission to be given for all or some of the following changes.

- demolition
- alterations
- additions
- new buildings
- advertising signs

Council could then take the design of these building works and how they affect heritage value, into account.

Council could also decide on lesser degrees of control, by allowing some types of development without planning permission, for example:

- alterations not visible from the street;
- alterations not to the street facade and not including parts of the building of importance to its design:

- alterations that are for maintenance or repair such as painting, gutter replacement, roof tile replacement.

Non-Statutory

Council could provide design guidelines for property owners, giving a practical guide to what building works are in keeping with the heritage character of the area or building.

Your Views

The following survey is designed to seek your views on broad heritage issues which will help decide how and to what extent heritage controls will be introduced. Please return survey to Planning Dept, City Hall or post to: City Offices, PO Box 42, Caulfield, 3162.

This special feature on the Urban Conservation Study previously appeared in the November '91 issue of Contact. It has been run again due to popular demand, giving you the opportunity to have your say...

Boyd collection for Caulfield

Above: Caulfield Mayor, Cr Veronika Martens and Arts Complex Curator, Tim Rollason have donated two pieces to the Guy Boyd collection.

CAULFIELD Mayor Cr Veronika Martens and Arts Complex Curator, Tim Rollason have started an art collection of works by Caulfield's well-known artist, Guy Boyd.

Throughout his life, Boyd devoted himself to the study of art, in particular pottery and sculpture.

In 1952, Boyd and wife Phyllis, set up Guy Boyd Pottery in Murrumbena.

It was during this phase in his life that the recently donated pottery plates were created.

The Caulfield Arts Complex is seeking donations of Boyd pottery to become part of Caulfield's Permanent Art Collection.

For further information, please contact Arts Centre Curator, Tim Rollason on 524 3402.

Caulfield Lions help the needy

THE Caulfield Lions Ladies Auxiliary would like to take this opportunity to thank all those who participated in the Christmas Hamper. The winner of the Hamper was Mrs G Mann, a Caulfield resident. Proceeds from the Hamper are to be used in helping needy families in the Caulfield municipality. Pictured is Lions Club member, Gordon Giles presenting Mrs Mann with the Hamper.

Disabled Persons Parking Scheme

THE Road Safety (Disabled Persons) Regulations 1990 and the Code for the Disabled Persons Parking Scheme came into effect in December 1990.

The Statewide Disabled Persons Parking Scheme was developed by a Working Party comprising representatives of the Municipal Association of Victoria, Metropolitan Municipal Association, Local Government, people with intellectual and physical disabilities, Australian Medical Association, Victoria Police and VIC ROADS.

Following advice from Council representatives on the Working Party, it was agreed that Council would have 12 months to phase in the new Scheme.

Purpose of the Scheme

The purpose of the Statewide Disabled Persons Parking Scheme is to provide people with significant ambulatory or intellectual disabilities with equal opportunity to access facilities and services throughout the State.

Types of Permits

The following types of permits will be issued for use under the Disabled Persons Parking Scheme:

- Code A for a disabled passenger/driver
- Code B for passenger
- Code C for an organisation providing a transport service for people with disabilities and;
- Code D for a temporary permit

Eligibility

1. A person will be eligible for a disabled persons parking permit if a medical practitioner determines that he/she has a significantly ambulatory disability such that he/she is incapable of walking:

- unaided or unassisted and;
- up or down a slope of 1.14 (ie. a wheelchair ramp) and;
- up or down steps or gutters

OR

If a specialist medical practitioner or a clinical psychologist determines that he/

she has a significant intellectual disability such that he/she is an extreme danger to himself/herself and others in a public place without continuous attendance by a caregiver.

2. An organisation will be eligible for a disabled persons parking permit if it is recognised by a Council as providing a transport service for people with significant ambulatory or intellectual disabilities.

New Parking Permit

As of December 31, 1991, the above parking permit will be recognised by police and Council traffic officers.

If a disabled person has an old style permit, they should make an application at City Offices, corner Glen Eira and Hawthorn Rds, Caulfield South to obtain a new one. Action should be taken soon as both police and Council traffic officers are issuing parking infringements on vehicles displaying the old style permits.

Conditions applying to Permits

■ A permit is valid up to and including the expiry date, provided that the expiry date and permit number are legible;

■ The parking entitlements applicable to the permit apply anywhere in Victoria. Reciprocal arrangements between states which have been agreed to be the Australian Transport Advisory Council also apply;

■ The permit must be clearly displayed at the left side of the front windscreen, with the expiry date and permit number visible from the outside of the vehicle;

When requested by an authorised officer, a driver using the permit must:

- state his/her name and address
- produce his/her driver's licence
- produce the relevant valid

- disabled persons' permit
- show proof that he/she or a passenger in the vehicle is the permit holder
- move the vehicle from the reserved place, if the officer deems that the permit is invalid or
- that there is insufficient proof that the driver or a passenger in the vehicle is the permit holder

■ A driver using the permit must either be the permit holder or must be parking the vehicle for the convenience of the permit holder who needs to leave the vehicle.

■ The permit remains the property of the issuing council and must be returned within seven days of notification of such return being required.

■ A person may only hold one permit.

■ An organisation may hold more than one permit but must justify in writing to the Council the number of permits required.

■ Provided no other restrictions on parking are breached, a vehicle correctly displaying a valid disabled persons parking permit may be parked either:

■ in a parking area or bay designated for use by people with disabilities for the time and parking fee specified for that area or bay, if applicable or;

■ for twice the specified time for any parking area or bay not designated for use by classes of people or classes of vehicles, upon payment of any initial parking fee, if applicable.

Australian landscapes by Polish artist

ANDREW Bartosz was born in Poland in 1946. As a painter he specialises mostly in modern landscapes, nudes in oil and watercolours, acrylics and pastels.

Bartosz studied at the National College of Fine Arts from 1960 to 1965 and undertook private studies with Professor Marian Turwid from 1965 to 1966. He then attended the Mikolaj Kopernik University, Torun, Poland from 1971 to 1981.

Andrew is well known to European audiences, with his works being displayed in prominent galleries and private collections. Since 1982, Andrew has been working and painting in Melbourne and this exhibition will be his first major one showing in Australia.

Andrew's large scale works depict the Australian landscape as seen through the eyes of a Polish trained artist who has had the opportunity to take advantage of lessons learned from two vastly different cultures. His works are in oil, watercolor, gouache, pastel and pencil and incorporate themes of landscapes, still lifes and nudes.

The landscapes in particular are not easy to categorise because they are an interesting mixture of abstract forms of biomorphic shapes on two picture planes. The bush is reduced to a series of powerful images, textures and contrasts.

The figurative nudes are closely related to the landscapes, through an emphasis on simplified forms, balanced composition and sublimated painter lines. The bodies are transformed and reduced to basic characteristics - almost sculpturesque in nature, flexible and translucent. An overall feeling of passion and sexuality is exposed in the poses.

Additionally an interesting and exciting part of the exhibition are his works on paper, including watercolors and pencil drawings.

This is however, an exhibition that should be experienced rather than explained.

The exhibition will be held at the Caulfield Arts Complex from February 9 to February 23, 1992.

Artist's "references" from art history

ARTIST Raffaella Torresan was born in romantic Venice and came to Australia as a young child. A show of her works will be held at the Caulfield Arts Complex from February 26 through to March 8, 1992.

Raffaella has a BA in Fine Art and a graduate diploma from Philip Institute of Technology and a BA in Humanities from La Trobe University.

Since 1983, Raffaella has been continuously involved in either group or solo shows. Her mediums are generally oil on canvas and screenpainting.

The works exhibited are from the artist's "references" in art history selection.

Raffaella said that "although my approach has been a bit tongue-in-cheek my intent is also a kind of homage to an activity that takes an idea and does something with it".

References used by Raffaella include:

- The Greek love of perfected form
- The Renaissance excitement and concern with perspective
- The turbulent rhythms of the Mannerists
- The sublime skies of the Flemish masters
- The cosy interiors of the Dutch 'genre' paintings etc.

Lost treasures at City Hall

A LONG time ago, Pirate Pete buried his treasure at Caulfield City Hall.

Pete is a cultured, but forgetful pirate and his treasure is to be found near one of the many art works that belong to the City of Caulfield Permanent Art Collection.

Pirate Pete invites children between the ages of five and twelve years to help him find his treasure, while discovering the range of art works at City Hall.

Pete's first Discovery Tour is to be held at the Caulfield Arts Complex on Sunday, March 9 at 2pm. Each tour lasts approximately an hour and a half and ends with a children's art activity.

Tour cost is $5 per child.

For bookings and further information, call the Caulfield Arts Complex on 524 3263 or 524 3287.

"Transitional" exhibition

PAUL Robinson's exhibition "Transitions" will be held at the Caulfield Arts Complex from February 26 to March 8, 1992.

Paul is Melbourne born and grew up on a farm. His mother was a potter and Paul has been painting at home since 1965.

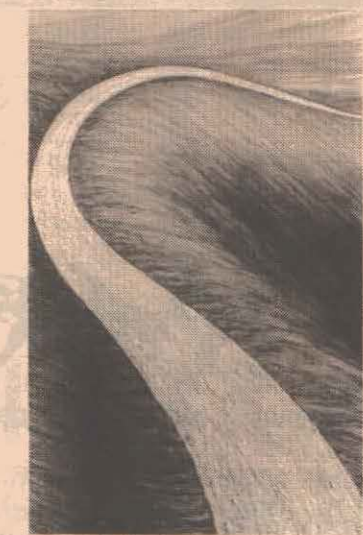

Paul has a BA, Fine Arts degree a diploma of education and studied painting at the Art Institute of Chicago. A show of his works was held at Pinacotheca in 1988.

Paul says, "I've been driving fifty kilometres into and out of the city for decades.

All that time on the road, the same road, looking out of the car window I have thought about the nature of travelling.

I have looked at the transition of the landscape from expansive to contained. I wonder about the impact of the swarming humans on the patient land and the impact of the patient land on the swarming humans.

Despite the construction of roads and buildings, there is great pleasure to be had in observing the colors of the landscape, the atmosphere and the larger forms".

Writers rally for library

LIKE many other organisations, the Caulfield Library Service has suffered cuts to funding for programs during 1992. A host of Caulfield writers will rally together to protest these cuts and will hold a benefit reading to be held at the Caulfield Arts Complex theatre, City Hall on Thursday, March 5 at 7.30pm. Writers, reading and performing from their works will include Serge Liberman, Alex Skovron, Doris Brett, Rosa Saffransky, Javant Biarujia, Gina Louis, Margot Escott and musician and poet, James Griffin. All writers have kindly donated their services while proceeds from what promises to be a highly varied and entertaining evening will be used to support writing programs organised by the libraries. "It's a great chance for the public to hear from some acclaimed writers while also supporting the library", said community services librarian, Barry Scott. Tickets are $5 and for Caulfield library members on $4. Refreshments are provided. For any further information please call 524 3357.

Community Education Group

THE Caulfield Community Education Group is a group of interested citizens from all avenues of the community who meet regularly to further community education projects in Caulfield. The group receives an annual grant from Council and with this money helps fund community-inspired projects which will further understanding between schools, social development centres and the community. Last year the group supported major projects from Caulfield Musicians, Ripponlea Primary School, the Caulfield Parent Education Group and the Caulfield Adult Literacy Group. New faces and interests are vital to this group if we are to reach as many concerns of the community as possible. In fact, one of the most valuable outcomes of the Group's existence has been the cross fertilisation of ideas between disparate groups who have suddenly become aware of services they can offer each other. All ideas and sections of the community are welcome to the next meeting which is on Monday, February 24, 1992 at 7.30pm in the Conference Room, City Hall, corner Glen Eira and Hawthorn Rds, Caulfield. For further information please contact Liz Jesty on 524 3264.

Alma brings magic to library

RECENTLY awarded the Order of Australia, Caulfield magician William Alma, will appear at the Elsternwick library, 4 Staniland Grove, Elsternwick, on Wednesday, February 26 at 7.30pm. In a special appearance he'll be paying tribute to Houdini, the legendary Jewish magician renowned for his escapology. Born in 1904, William Alma is the ideal person to provide a tribute to the skills and talents of Houdini. Alma has toured the country with the Great Levante and was the only Australian magician to top the bill at the 2000 seat Melbourne State Theatre. "That was one of the highlights of my life", he says. Anyone who is interested in attending the free session should book by phoning the library on 523 6682.

BOWLED OVER

MURRUMBEENA Bowls Club recently held their 17th Annual Ladies Gala Day. Back in 1975, there were many who thought that a small club with only one green would not be able to successfully conduct a Gala Day. Joan Watson, in her first year as President, thought otherwise and set out proving the doubters wrong. That first Gala Day success has been repeated every year since then, raising many thousands of dollars for the Club. The Over Fifties Friendly Society who was the sponsor, provided trophies for each of the two fills. The winner of the first fill was J Matthews' team from Oakleigh, the runner-up was L Keeling's team from Murrumbena Park. Second fill was won by J Bailey's team from South Oakleigh with S Gregson's team from Murrumbena Park being runner-up.

CAULFIELD South Bowls Club recently held their STARS Invitation Mixed Fours Day. Bowlers from metropolitan and country clubs filled 14 rinks, providing a most attractive spectacle in ideal weather conditions. The gathering, which included RVBA Council representatives, Max Wright and Bob Keast, was welcomed by Caulfield South President Vic Samuel. Verna Fox and her team of helpers provided an excellent luncheon and afternoon tea. The three game competition which ran from 10am to 5pm was keenly contested. Winners were: 1st - Owen Crabb's team (Beaumaris) 2nd - Gordon Miller's team (Yarra Junction) 3rd - Bill Glibert's team (Frankston RSL)

CARNEGIE Bowls Club welcome any new members and are pleased to see younger people participating in the game. Popular events on the agenda for February include 'Billy Guyatt Day' of men's invitation fours (BYO lunch) on the 17th at 11am and the always popular barbecue on the 23rd at noon. On Sunday March 1 the first "Bob & Belle Kurrle" mixed triples will commence at 1pm and Monday March 9 is a Fun Roll Day with a barbecue tea commencing at 3pm. Saturday, March 12, is the everpopular Mini Gala Day commencing at 10.30am. Single entries or teams are always welcome, just ring the secretaries, Elwood Davey on 578 1531 or Joan Bainbridge on 569 5749 for details, preferably after 6pm.

GLEN HUNTLY Bowls Club saw a number of events take place during the holiday break. Jack Cudmore and Don Campbell monopolised the Glen Huntly green recently. Playing the final match of the two events which rank amongst the most prized in the Club's syllabus. Firstly, Jack defeated Don to become club singles champion for the season and next day was again successful against Don in the Harry Swann Memorial mixed pairs. Both events produced excellent bowling and extremely close results. In the final of the club singles championship, of which Don was the current holder of the title, he trailed Jack 5-21 after 15 ends before staging a recovery to win 12 of the next 14 ends to leave Jack leading 23-21 on the 30th end on which Jack drew two shots to take the title 25-21.

The next day in the final of the prestigious "Swann Pairs", two the Club's top lady bowlers were involved. Joan Cudmore partnering husband Jack and Mary Judd with Don Campbell. Once again spectators witnessed first class bowling and an exciting match with Mary and Don being defeated by one shot.

The Swann Pairs was introduced as an annual event in 1957 and in 35 years of competition many names of the Club's better bowlers appear on the honor board in the clubhouse as winners. Jack and Joan Cudmore are only the seventh husband and wife pair to win the event in those 35 years!

MURRUMBEENA Park Bowls Club Inc. reserved January 19 for the playing of the Men's Single Club Championship Final between John Forrest and David Harkness. The game was played in 30 heat with lovely draw-shot bowling by both players. They both played exceptionally well with David finishing on the 29th end with three shots to give him the Championship with scores at 25-24.

HEALTH WISE

Development of Health Plan for Caulfield

Caulfield is currently in the process of developing its Municipal Health Plan to improve community health services.

The Municipal Health Plan

The 1988 Health General Amendment Act required every municipality in Victoria to prepare, at three year intervals, a Municipal Health Plan. The objectives of such a Plan include:

- the identification and assessment of actual and potential public health dangers affecting the municipal district and;
- the outlining of programs and strategies which Council intends to pursue.

Health Plan implementation

As an initial part of the planning process, a working party was established to consider requirements necessitated by the Act. Consequently, the working party has prepared a discussion paper to define projects and describe current health service provisions and facilities in the municipality.

One of the key concerns of the working party has been to ensure that a 'community needs' based approach to the project is taken, allowing for a high level of emphasis on public consultation processes.

Project Steering Committee

The development of the Municipal Public Health Plan will be managed by a Project Steering Committee who will be involved in all aspects of the planning process.

The Committee is made up of:

- one Councillor
- two Environmental Health officers from the Health & Legislation Department
- two representatives from Human Services
- two representatives from the Community Health Service
- two representatives from the public.

Members of the community who are interested in nominating as representatives are invited to complete a nomination form available from the Council Health Department. Enquiries may be directed to Heather Reynolds or Valda Bawden, City of Caulfield on 524 3333.

Hard times - help is here

CHADSTONE Community Health Centre's role is to consult with the community so that coordinated and accessible health and welfare services can be provided to meet its needs.

Last year was not an easy year and many people have had to turn to community agencies for material assistance. Chadstone Community Health Centre has adopted a coordinating role in providing financial and material aid to many in the local community.

The staff at the Centre could not have assisted these people without the generous support of many local and other organisations. Direct financial assistance has been made possible from Commonwealth funds, Philanthropic Trust Funds and local Court monies.

Although the everyday costs of the Centre are met by funding from the State Government via the Health Department of Victoria, funds for special projects and equipment has to be obtained from other sources. The Centre is always pleased to accept any donations, large or small.

The Centre is located at 568 Neerim Rd, Hughesdale, phone 568 2599.

Caulfield's healthy library

CAULFIELD chiropractor, Dr Peter Elsner will speak on understanding chiropractic on Thursday, February 13, 7.30pm at the Caulfield Library, Maple St, Caulfield South.
