

Concern over new residential zones

CAULFIELD Mayor, Cr Nicholas Gold said that the proposed new residential zones which aim to rationalise the plethora of residential zones in Victoria will have a detrimental effect on the City of Caulfield.

"Council generally agrees that the number of residential zones in Victoria needs to be reduced, however it disagrees with imposing a number of zones in Caulfield, which currently only has one Residential C Zone," said Cr Gold.

Of the eight new zones proposed to replace all existing zones (some 160 throughout metropolitan Melbourne), Caulfield is particularly concerned about the Urban Residential Zone which states that for single and multi dwellings, a planning permit is not required. This means that third parties (the community), will be deprived of their right to oppose a dwelling development.

The second concern Council has is with the Residential Enterprise Zone which will give high density developments as-of-right if they comply with VicCode 2.

"Council is not prepared to use the Residential Enterprise Zone as it is currently defined," said Cr Gold. "It's just as likely to become regarded as a 'second class' residential zone."

"If the new standardised zones are introduced, local government will also have little influence on planning of specialised areas," said Cr Gold. It is not clear how or when the new zones will be introduced, whether by public exhibition or by Ministerial amendment. However, Council is eager to meet with the Minister to discuss its concerns with a hope that detached single dwelling zones will be introduced to support the development of family residences within Caulfield.

Meet council's staff

THIS is the first article in our Meet council's staff series. Each month, Caulfield Contact will introduce you to three or four staff members who you've probably spoken to over the phone or seen on your visits to City Hall. The idea is to put a face to the voice on the other end of the phone.

To begin with, it seems appropriate that I should introduce myself as editor, writer and photographer for Caulfield Contact, Jane Fletcher.

Name: Jane Fletcher
Department: Community Relations

Title: Communications Officer.
My job is: to produce Caulfield Contact, to produce the Resource Guide (with assistance from the Caulfield Citizens' Advice Bureau), mail out Community Resource Guides, New Residents' Kits, Students' Kits, maps etc, research and prepare press releases for local papers, assist with, and attend mayoral functions, and be Council's official photographer at a wide range of functions and events. I'm the person you should speak to if you have any items of interest or issues you may want covered in Caulfield Contact, or if you simply want to obtain general information relating to Caulfield. My phone number is 524 3259.

Name: Patrick O'Sullivan
Department: Administration
Title: Committee Clerk

My job is: primarily concerned with the preparation of Council and Committee meeting Agendas. This also involves attending to correspondence and follow up action emanating from these meetings.

My role as an administrator makes me responsible for the coordination and execution of various statutory procedures under the provisions of the Local Government Act. An example of this is the requirement to act as deputy returning officer for Council elections.

Other responsibilities include the implementation of the necessary statutory requirements for the discontinuance and sale of unused roads and reserves.

I find my role particularly rewarding as I enjoy dealing with people.

I can be contacted on 524 3325.

Name: Sally Munkittrick
Department: Main Reception
Title: Receptionist

My job is: to maintain good customer relations with the residents and ratepayers of the City of Caulfield.

I answer enquiries at the Main Reception counter, direct people to our various departments and call staff to reception to deal with enquiries when necessary.

I issue replacement bottle bags, maps of the City, resource guides, garbage bin application forms and various other information pamphlets on request. I am also required to answer the switchboard when the telephonist is away from her area. At reception we provide a free facsimile service for unemployed residents to send away job applications. In addition, the mail which comes through the external mailbox outside reception is collected here also.

The numbers I can be contacted on are 524 3333 or 524 3323.

Thank you

AN Appeal organised by the Caulfield/Elsternwick Ecumenical Network throughout December saw a constant flow of deliveries of non-perishable food to Caulfield City Hall. The purpose of the Appeal was to supplement food vouchers in an attempt to meet a continuing high level of need in the community.

The source of the food supply was the various church communities in Caulfield who collected items of food during their Advent period. Many people included in their donations items of Christmas fare such as puddings and cakes, shortbread and sweets. The food was distributed through the CAB and other agencies.

The Appeal was supported by Council's human services department who provided storage in this the Appeal's third year.

Engineering update

Caulfield Park pavilion

CAULFIELD Council has appointed a contractor to carry out extensions and alterations to the main pavilion in Caulfield Park.

The resident cricket and lacrosse clubs are contributing to the cost of the work.

The bulk of the internal work includes the complete rebuilding of the kitchen, enlarging the lounge area and providing full length windows to face the playing field. A steel fabricated shelter will also be erected in front of the pavilion to provide a protected outside viewing area for spectators.

Local area traffic management

CAULFIELD Council recently called tenders for the implementation of various mid-street and intersection treatments approved for local area scheme

No. 31.

Local area traffic management number 31 is bounded by Glen Huntly Rd, Kooyong Rd, Clarence St and Riddell Pde, Elsternwick.

This project involves the construction of raised pavement slow points, roundabouts, splitter islands, as well as improved delineation works at specific intersections.

Works are due to commence late this month and should be completed early in June.

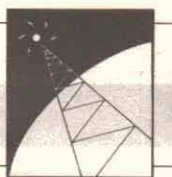

Such road works are expected to significantly improve the various aspects of traffic volume, speed and safety record of this area.

If you wish to know about any engineering works happening in your area, contact Council's engineering department on 524 3240.

End of an era for Caulfield's garbos

TWENTY seven garbage employees from Caulfield Council were made redundant last week to make way for Pacific Waste Management's 'one armed bandit'.

Four of the redundant garbos, Barry McAlister, Jack Behan, Jim Porima and Anthony Scarcella had worked for Caulfield's garbage service for over 20 years. At a farewell function attended by Council's manager engineering, Peter Onley, works engineer, Kerry Martin and the MEU's Jane Price, the four were presented with gratuities from the Council in recognition of their many years of service.

After carrying out an extensive review of garbage collection services last year, Council found that savings of around $580,000 would be made by replacing its three man operated trucks with one man operated vehicles. Pacific Waste Management won the tender from a number of other outside tenders and also from Council's own in-house tender.

The new service, which got underway just two weeks ago, requires a higher level of resident cooperation in ensuring that bins are facing and close to the kerb with adequate clearance from trees, light poles and parked cars.

If you have any queries about the new service, contact Council's works depot on 524 3266.

Glen Huntly Post Office relocates

THE Glen Huntly Post Office has recently relocated to 1179 Glen Huntly Rd, Glen Huntly. The relocated premises is situated on the north side of Glen Huntly Rd between the railway line and Grange Rd.

The new Post Office offers a full range of postal services and various account payment facilities including Gas and Fuel, SEC and Telecom. Public fax and photocopying services are also available, and more private boxes are now available.

As an added service, the Post Office is open from 8.30am-12noon on Saturdays with all normal services available. This has been introduced by the new management.

For further information, contact the Post Office on 571 5009.

Do you KNOW...

how much mail is received by the Council each month?? Well, for the entire month of February, an incredible 1064 pieces of correspondence were registered by the records department!!

Council saves on loan restructure

RATEPAYERS will benefit substantially as a result of a major restructure of Council's long term debt.

At its last meeting, Council agreed to consolidate its previous 37 loans into one loan with the National Australia Bank. The bank also was re-appointed as Council's bankers in the competitive tendering process.

The new loan is at a very favourable interest rate of 6.62% which compares with the rates of up to 17.5% on the previous loans.

Council's director corporate services, Brian Hoban, stated that "The Council will save about $770,000 based upon a full Net Present Value analysis."

The new loan is for a period of six years and the Council has raised no new loans for the past three years.

Caulfield Mayor, Cr Nicholas Gold, said "It is very pleasing to note that the Council will now be debt free in the year 2000."

In consolidating its loans, Council also took the opportunity to reduce its debt from the previous figure of $8.9 million to $7.35 million.

Council has reduced debt from $15.7 million over the past three years to $7.35 million.

Another successful Caulfield/Ogaki exchange

CAULFIELD students Timothy and Adrian Witham and Fiona Morris recently returned home after spending three weeks in Ogaki, Japan on an exchange visit. The three were selected by the A.F.S. for the Monbusho Sister City Exchange from Caulfield to Ogaki. Pictured with the students is Caulfield Mayor, Cr Nicholas Gold.

Walk against Want on March 20

ON March 20, in every capital city in the country and in over 80 regional centres, Australians will take to the streets to join Community Aid Abroad's Walk against Want.

By walking approximately five, 10 or 20 kilometres just once, Australians can help people from all over the world by raising money for clean water, health care, education and seeds for food crops.

This year, Community Aid Abroad hopes to raise $1.5 million for community projects in over 30 countries, but they can't do it without your help.

In capital cities, the Walk against Want is followed by a festival of international food and world music. A little exercise followed by music and food is a recipe for a great day out. It's good for you and it's an opportunity to do something worthwhile. So why not join in and help Community Aid Abroad work with communities to make a fairer world?

Walkers get sponsorship from families and friends and can choose to walk the distance they choose. If you don't feel like walking, there's a Cycle against Want happening on the same day.

The idea for the Walk against Want came from the fact that in many poor communities, people walk over 10 kilometres every day to fetch clean water. One walk, one day in Australia could release women and children all over the world from hours of back breaking work.

To find out more about the Walk against Want, phone 008 034 034 or register at your local Community Aid Abroad shop or office, The Body Shop, Just Jeans or Australia Post.

Back pain sufferers needed

CAULFIELD Community Care Centre's Physiotherapy Department recently commenced a research project looking at the effect of hydrotherapy treatment on lower back pain.

The Centre needs 100 patients to complete the research. Patients must be referred by their doctor or physiotherapist and must have had lower back pain for at least three months and have not received hydrotherapy treatment for it during this time.

The study is being completed as part of a Masters in Manipulative Therapy Degree. Ethical approval has been obtained from the Alfred Hospital Ethics Committee. If you can help, contact Bronwyn McIlveen, physiotherapist and senior clinician in hydrotherapy at the Caulfield General Medical Centre, on 276 6000.

Volunteers needed

VOLUNTEER-AID is a social support, community based service and part of the home and community care program. It provides assistance in a one-to-one situation to frail aged, confused elderly and/or people with disabilities living independently in their own homes.

Are you interested in volunteering and have some time to share with others in the community? If so, this information may be of interest to you.

Volunteers are required to assist with shopping, transport and friendly visiting to lonely clients. A car is necessary for shopping and transport tasks.

For further information, contact Jean Bannister at the Caulfield Citizens' Advice Bureau on 524 3314 on Monday, Tuesday or Thursday, or leave a message at the CAB on 524 3200.

Community Grants scheme

CAULFIELD Council invites applications from community groups for its Community Grants Scheme which provides financial assistance for projects/services which:

- improve quality of life in Caulfield;
- benefit Caulfield residents;
- are innovative and sensitive to community needs;
- meet needs for which funding has not been forthcoming or available from other sources.

Grants are intended to assist with:

- operational costs;
- special events;
- once-off projects;
- new initiatives.

Funding guidelines and application forms are available from Council's human services division, City of Caulfield. Telephone: 524 3228.

Applications must be lodged by Friday, April 15, 1994 with: D.R. Aylen, Chief Executive Officer, P O Box 42, Caulfield South, 3162.

Kindergarten enrolments

CAULFIELD kindergartens have their own committees of management, so parents wanting to make enrolments for 1994 and 1995, should contact the kindergarten of their choice directly. They are listed on pages 79-80 of the 1994 Caulfield Resource Guide. Kindergartens will be very happy to provide information about their sessions, times, fees and answer any queries about kindergarten services.

Four year old kindergarten groups are subsidised by the State Government and fees are set by each committee of management. Many kindergartens in Caulfield offer sessions for three year olds, however, there is no subsidy for these groups. A number of kindergartens have vacancies for this year.

General information about kindergarten services in Caulfield can be obtained by phoning Council's family and recreation services on 524 3311.

Hospital auxiliary 15 years old

THE Helmsmen Kiosk Auxiliary at the Caulfield General Medical Centre celebrated its 15th birthday on February 18.

The Kiosk was founded when the Hospital was known as the Royal Southern Memorial Hospital. It sells magazines, drinks, snacks, personal care items and flowers.

The Kiosk not only provides a service for patients, staff and visitors, but also has raised over $275,000 which has been used to purchase specialised equipment. An example of which is the laparoscopic equipment which allows surgeons to investigate, and in some cases, treat abdominal conditions without surgery.

Among the members of the Auxiliary who celebrated the 15 years were president, Mrs Ada Short, past president, Mrs Louise Penman, vice president, Mrs Monica Sheffield, treasurer, Mrs Lillian Frecker and secretary, Mrs Beryl Conn who has been associated with the Hospital's auxiliaries for 25 years.

Caulfield's senior citizens' week celebrations

LIFTOUT

THE City of Caulfield Senior Citizens' Week committee has planned a two week program full of events that will keep residents entertained and busy this Senior Citizens Week. And what's more, all events are free! Here's what's on offer:

Tuesday, March 15

Waltzes, Wheelchairs & Walking Frames, 1-4pm, Caulfield City Hall auditorium, cnr Glen Eira and Hawthorn Rds, Caulfield.

This genteel tea dance for the not so fit will open Senior Citizens' Week in Caulfield. Caulfield deputy mayor, Cr David Spencer will officially open the celebrations at 1.30pm.

'Mick Stewart and Friends', an old time band well known for their delightful music, will provide the entertainment for the afternoon between 1-4pm. This is sure to be a very special day for all who attend. Wheelchair access is available at the Oval and Caulfield Arts Complex entrances. Bookings essential.

March 16-18

Art & Craft Display, 2-4pm, John Pierce Centre, 169 Glen Eira Rd, Rippon Lea
Caulfield Mayor, Cr Nicholas Gold will open this exhibition on Wednesday, March 16 at 3pm.

With works by many of the talented older members of the community on display, this exhibition is certainly well worth a visit. In addition, special live displays of some of the following: pottery, spinning and weaving, poetry and prose and calligraphy can be seen on Thursday and Friday afternoon between 1-3pm.

Wheelchair access is available.

Friday, March 18

Exercise in the Park, 10am, EE Gunn Reserve, cnr Foch and Malane Sts, Ormond (activities to be held near playground).

This has proved to be a popular event for many years with Caulfield residents. This year the day has taken on a dancing theme.

Gentle exercises to music and a walk around the park and adjacent parklands will start the morning. Ms Melka Goldstat of the Nirkoda Israeli Folk Dancing Club will lead participants through some Israeli dance steps. This will be followed by The Children of Greek Democritos. The children, who have given of their school time, will give a colorful and entertaining display of Greek dancing and will then ask participants to join them in the dance.

Bookings are required only for the light and healthy lunch available following the activities.

Sunday, March 20

An Afternoon at the Classic, 1pm, Classic Cinema, 9 Gordon St, Elsternwick

The Classic Cinema is the oldest independent cinema in Victoria and to celebrate Senior Citizens' Week, the Cinema will offer a special afternoon's viewing of Schindler's List, followed by afternoon tea. Please note: a seniors card is required to attend this free showing. Public transport to the Cinema is a good idea as parking is limited to two hours in the area.

The City of Caulfield also has a variety of information available during Senior Citizens' Week about health and community services. If you require any information about this or about Senior Citizens' Week in general, contact Council's recreation officer for older adults, Cheryl Kennedy, on 524 3356.

Caulfield's older adults keep active

OVER the last nine years, the City of Caulfield has offered a range of programs to encourage the involvement of older members of our community in a safe enjoyable atmosphere.

Programs offered include: keep fit classes, tai-chi, yoga, pryme ball, tennis, swimming, social dancing, walking and drama workshops.

If you are interested in participating in any of these groups, contact Council's recreation officer for older adults, Cheryl Kennedy, on 524 3356.

Here is a brief description of some of the classes available:

● Keep fit group

THE Over 50s Keep Fit Program has proved very popular with local residents in recent years with classes continually growing.

The classes are designed by qualified instructors to offer both men and women a safe and fun workout. Workouts include standing and floor-based exercises with stretching and relaxation included in each session.

Classes are available in the Carnegie area on Monday and Wednesday mornings and at the Caulfield Recreation Centre Monday to Thursday mornings.

If you are looking for something more gentle, Council also offers chair-based exercise classes in the Carnegie area on Monday and Wednesday mornings. Participants join in a series of standing and sitting exercises with the support of a chair throughout the entire class. These classes are particularly suitable for participants with arthritis, back problems, hip replacements and other complaints that may result in restricted movement.

● Drama group

'UNDER the Clocks' is the most recent work by the City of Caulfield drama workshop for older adults group, under guidance of drama coach, Anne O'Keefe.

The play has been developed by all members of the group, with many reflecting on their own life experiences.

The story behind the play focuses on a group of friends who met under the clocks at Flinders St Station between 1933 and 1945. After developing the story during 1993, it was then filmed on video for preservation.

These drama workshops offer older adults of all abilities the chance to learn about many aspects of drama including improvisation, storytelling, song and movement. Participants work towards an end of year production which reflects the skills and enjoyment they have gained throughout the year.

These free weekly workshops have just commenced and are held at the Caulfield Arts Complex.

● Pryme Ball

Is a modified combination game of netball and basketball. Caulfield Pryme Ball group meet on Fridays 3.30-4.30pm at the Caulfield Recreation Centre, Maple St, Caulfield South. For details, phone Audrey on 569 7254.

Caulfield needs to address drainage problems

SPECIAL FEATURE

MOST people believe that pollution in our bays and waterways is caused solely by sewage and industry. In actual fact, stormwater drains are also a major contributor to pollution in our bays and waterways.

The entire City of Caulfield west of Murrumbeena Rd, together with the cities of Moorabbin, Brighton and St Kilda belong to the Elster Creek catchment. This means Elster Creek drains all the water from these areas, therefore everyone living in the region is responsible for the quality of water in Elster Creek.

Melbourne Water is currently working with these municipalities in an effort to improve flooding problems and the quality of stormwater, which in turn will improve the quality of our bayside beaches and waterways.

The Elster Creek Catchment Advisory Committee, consulting with Melbourne Water comprises councillors, council staff representatives from these municipalities and members of the community. Representing the City of Caulfield on the Committee is Cr Veronika Martens and Council's deputy chief executive officer/director technical services, Noel Wootten.

"The Committee is currently involved in a four month pilot program, which, on completion in April, will have tested alternative models for the Elster Creek Catchment," said Cr Martens. "Our objective as a regional group is to identify drainage problems and look at a range of solutions which local councils and Melbourne Water can undertake cooperatively. If there is no cooperation from residents and commercial users, a user pay system will have to be looked at by Melbourne Water," she said.

What Caulfield is doing

Caulfield Council and its residents, along with the other three municipalities need to take responsibility for cleaning up Elster Creek on a regional basis.

Council is already seeking a

research grant to test litter traps in local shopping centres, because, as stated in Melbourne Water's Tagged Litter Report, much of the litter that enters the stormwater system comes from shopping strips and supermarkets. Often this is from overflowing bins from people (shopkeepers and shoppers) trying to 'do the right thing'. In a situation such as this, instead of piling rubbish onto an already overflowing bin, commonsense tells us that we should dispose of it in an emptier bin or even dispose of it in our home rubbish bin.

Litter traps are designed to trap litter that's washed from shopping centres into the drainage system.

Council no longer uses a street flusher which use to wash rubbish down the drain through side entry pits. Now it relies on a street sweeper to pick up as much rubbish as possible before it can enter the waterways.

Council has over 660 litter bins located through its streets and paths which are serviced on a regular basis.

Facts on our drainage network Melbourne's drainage system comprises a network of underground drains, open channels and modified natural waterways. The responsibility of these drains is shared by Melbourne Water and municipal councils. There are approximately 25,000kms of Council owned street drains, 1100kms of main drains and drainage channels and 5000kms of waterways.

Stormwater drains carry contaminants such as litter, animal faeces, lead and oil from vehicles, fertilizers, detergents and sediment directly into our waterways. Unlike sewage and industry wastes which are only discharged after treatment at either the Werribee or Carrum Treatment Plants, under license from the Environment Protection Authority (EPA). Stormwater generally receives no treatment and enters our bays and waterways without undergoing any treatment. This means that stormwater can be dirtier than sewage.

"While councils can continue to do their part in cleaning up the shopping centres and streets, it's up to individuals to make a concerted effort to be aware of the pollution situation and try to prevent it," said Cr Martens.

Here are some points to follow:

- check that your rainwater downpipe is properly connected to the stormwater drain and not to the sewer;

- choose water efficient appliances and practice water conservation;

- select consumables with a minimum amount of packaging;

- pick up dog faeces and dispose of them properly as below; (Note: Doggy scoopers are available for $2.50 for Council's traffic and local law counter located on the first floor, City Hall);

- maintain cars and boats to minimise oil spills and recycle used oil;

- minimise use of products

- containing phosphorus, ammonia or chlorine;

- dispose of unwanted chemicals in a responsible way;

- reduce consumption by reusing and recycling;

- place rubbish in bins - don't throw it into lanes or gutters, or leave it in parks etc. - don't litter;

- reduce energy consumption - gas and electricity in the home, petrol in the car

Improve gardening and outdoor practices by:

- sweep and clean-up hard surfaces - don't hose them down;
- compost all organic material including lawn clippings and leaves;

- wash cars and boats on lawn - not on hard surfaces; below is the correct way:

- reduce use of garden chemicals like pesticides and herbicides.

REDUCE, REUSE, RECYCLE

As people have become more conscious of environmental issues, 'reduce', 'reuse', 'recycle' has become a household expression. And it's the best thing households and workplaces can do for the environment.

'Objects of desire' exhibition

POT (Power of Two) curators and art consultants, a new and exciting company designed to promote the visual arts through exhibition and display, will present their inaugural exhibition "Objects of Desire" at the Caulfield Arts Complex (cnr Glen Eira and Hawthorn Rds, Caulfield) from March 25-April 10, 1994.

Formed in response to the needs of Australian Artists, POT plays the role of agent or consultant to both the artist and the art appreciator.

"Objects of Desire" is an exhibition designed to simultaneously promote the work of contemporary Australian artists and craftspeople, and generate interest and appreciation of their talents to people beyond the realms of the commercial gallery circuit.

With over 20 artists (both urban and rural) represented in the exhibition "Objects of Desire" includes approximately 150 works in various media - predominantly furniture and sculpture with related objects such as clocks and ceramics. The combination of artists working from an environmentally sound aesthetic using recycled materials with other busy working with brightly painted acrylics on ceramics and furniture works well. The result is an exhibition of quality artworks with panache and creative impact.

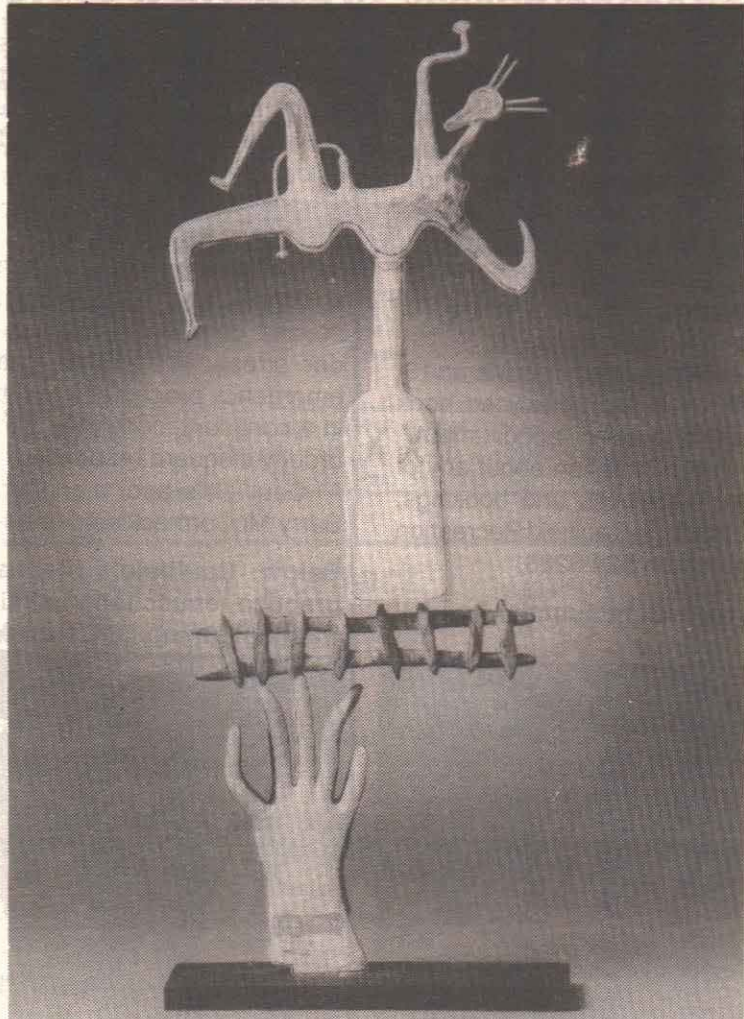

The juxtaposition of older established craftspeople with younger, unknown artists although a curatorial risk, has worked successfully. Here is a show diverse in nature and style but still in unison with the theme "Objects of Desire". A broad concept in itself, the meaning interpreted for the exhibition is of objects that are artistic and creative in their design, and also

Simpson J 202

MOST Australians are familiar with the image of Simpson and his donkey.

Richard Beynon's new play 'Simpson, J. 202' reveals the man behind the myth and allows us to share in his all too brief life, his troubles at school, his sense of fun, his love for his family and his affinity with animals, his relationship with Australia and finally, Gallipoli. 'Simpson J. 202.' confirms Richard Beynon as one of our foremost dramatists.

Adelphi Players Theatre Company will present this production on March 18, 8.15pm, Ormond Uniting Church Hall, cnr Booran and North Rds, Ormond. Bookings phone 578 1553. Also, on March 18 and 19 at Labassa National Trust Home, 2 Manor Gve, Caulfield. Bookings; phone 528 1476.

conducive to incorporation with a domestic setting. A sense of the whimsical as seen in the work of Michael Doolan's painted ceramic sculpture could, for example, sit comfortably on a table made from metal and glass by Phil Sonneveld. Both Melbourne-based artists whose work wouldn't usually be exhibited together, now find themselves in a situation of artistic interaction and discourse.

According to the POT curators, such interaction is an important part of the show. "We not only want the viewers to react to the juxtaposition of style and medium, but also to generate positive, creative thought amongst the artists themselves...there isn't enough of this because of the isolation that comes from working mostly in the studio and trying to market on an individual level. POT aims to bring artists and art appreciators out of their own environments and create a more collaborative approach to living in a post recession climate. It sounds terribly ambitious but we believe that despite the polarities that come from diversity and collaboration are the essential ingredients needed to take the art from the studio or workshop and place it in a creative public arena. That's our aim."

For further details about this exhibition, contact the Caulfield Arts Complex, on 524 3287.

Lunchtime talks at Rippon Lea

RIPPON LEA is one of Melbourne's oldest Victorian mansions and the gardens are always included in any botanical 'top list'. The 33 roomed Romanesque mansion is a grand survivor of the Marvellous Melbourne of the 80s and was bequeathed to the National Trust by its last owner, Mrs Louisa Jones, who had lived there since early childhood until her death in 1972.

There are two good reasons to combine with a visit to Rippon Lea when you next think about going. On the fourth Thursday of each month, 12.30pm, Friends of Rippon Lea hold a basket luncheon in the ballroom, always with an interesting speaker. Many of the guests have been coming for years, why not join them? Cost $12.

Guest speaker for the March 24 luncheon is Mr Alan Behrends, former curator of the James Cook Museum in Whitby, Cook's birthplace. On April 22, Mrs Lorna Lippmann, writer and lecturer and author of several books on Aboriginal issues "So What About Mabo?"

Everyone is welcome. For bookings (at least one week ahead), contact Joan Hare, Monday-Friday, 9-10am on 523 8839 or Lynette Dobson, on 555 8382.

Have a ball these school holidays

Caulfield Recreation Centre offers an exciting school holiday program from April 6-15. Book now!

CAULFIELD Recreation Centre offers an ideal solution for children who need something to do during the fast approaching school holidays. The Centre runs a holiday program from April 6-15, 1994 which caters for children aged 4-14, with a variety of fun and exciting activities that are sure to keep any child entertained. Children enrolled in the program can participate in a range of activities at the Centre, or embark on one of many exciting excursions. The Caulfield Recreation Centre program is the largest funded holiday program in Victoria and caters for around 150 children each day.

The Centre-based program has a fantastic selection of activities for children to choose from. The program regularly features sporting activities such as archery, trampolining, soccer, cricket, orienteering, basketball, indoor hockey and softball. For those who prefer something quieter, there are activities like clay modelling, treasure hunts, painting, plaster modelling, cooking, collage and the famous TV station.

As well as all of this, the Caulfield Recreation Centre also hosts its very popular theme days.

Carnival day gives children an opportunity to invent and build their own carnival stall. When the fun of making their creation is completed, children experience all the fun of the fair with stalls they have built themselves.

Juggling, acrobatics, trapeze, clowning and lion taming are all part of the fun on Circus Day. After spending the day learning all the circus skills they can handle, children put it all into practice at the big performance.

Go to the social event of the year, The Big Birthday Party. Guests at the party celebrate the birthday of a 'mystery person' by playing all their favourite party games like 'pin the tail on the donkey', the chocolate game, races, a lolly hunt, the 'limbo' and 'pass the parcel'. They can also send video messages to the birthday person or help to make some delicious party food.

Caulfield Rec. Olympics is an extravaganza to rival the real thing. Competitors participate in exciting events such as indoor hockey, paper aeroplane competitions, team hide and seek, softball, relays and the great trampoline challenge.

Excursions:

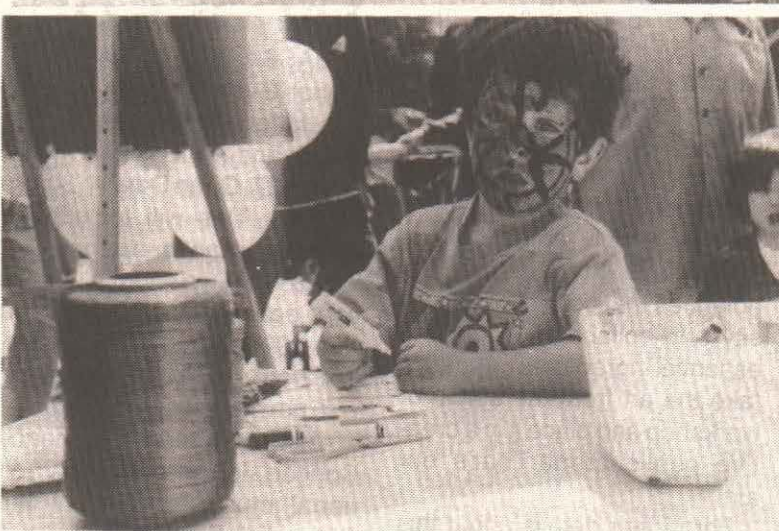

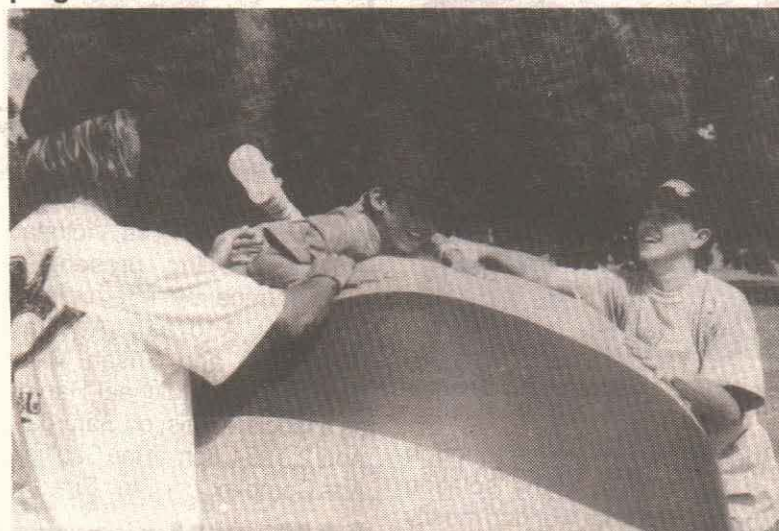

Children enrolled in the school holiday program can also take part in one of the daily excursions.

Buses depart from the Caulfield Recreation Centre each day to a variety of fun and exciting excursions. These holidays, there will be excursions to Luna Park, a trout fishing farm, Sam's Video Cafe, theatre productions, films, the Alpine Toboggan Park and more.

Bookings open from March 16. Places fill up quickly so book early to avoid disappointment!

For information about any of these activities and bookings, contact the Caulfield Recreation Centre on 524 3288.

Trampoline facilities for hire

YOU no longer have to be enrolled in a gymnastics class to use the trampoline facilities at the Caulfield Recreation Centre.

The Centre has three in-ground trampolines for public use. They are available to children aged 4-14 years on Fridays, 4-5pm and Saturdays, 10.30-11.30am. Cost is $3.20 per session. All sessions are supervised by experienced staff.

For details, call the Caulfield Recreation Centre on 524 3288.

Emergency procedures well rehearsed by pool staff

THE expectation that accidents happen in spite of their best efforts to prevent them, motivates Caulfield's lifeguards and office staff to continually practice and update emergency procedures at Caulfield Pool.

Real emergencies happen suddenly and require split second decision making under stress. Well rehearsed emergency procedures result in a confident, controlled and orderly lifeguard response.

Caulfield's pool manager, Barry McCormack said practice sessions for real emergencies help develop team work.

"The ultimate goal in an emergency is the efficient functioning of the staff," said Mr McCormack. "Simulated training provides opportunity to keep the senses and response skills sharp. Demonstrating concern for people is essential in achieving good public relations. The lifeguard's challenge is to maximise users fun while minimising their risk of injury," he said.

Below: Caulfield's lifeguards and administration staff practice resuscitation skills using oxygen equipment on training dummy at Caulfield Pool.

BOWLED OVER

ELSTERNWICK District Bowling Club's forthcoming social events include mixed triples on the first Sunday of each month, 1pm, mixed fours on the third Sunday, 1pm - nominated teams or single entries welcome for both events.
