Glen Eira opens one stop shop

Glen Eira City Council has opened a 'one stop shop' where ratepayers and residents may have their enquiries resolved, questions answered and concerns recorded without trooping all over the City's offices.

The new Glen Eira Service Centre is located on the ground floor, Glen Eira City Council, cnr Glen Eira and Hawthorn Rds, Caulfield. The telephone number is 9524 3333.

Commissioner's column

In my last column I expressed a view that Councillors elected to run a large organisation like Glen Eira City Council, need to deal with matters such as the longer term plans for the City, and set objectives for the Corporate Team and monitor its performance. Councillors also need time to communicate with their constituents and community groups. And they need advice from well informed residents on specialised issues.

The Council has therefore established advisory committees, comprising Commissioners, Council officers and community representatives. The seven new committees were established to promote more effective decision making at Council level, enable Councillors to concentrate on broader strategic matters while being able to adequately represent local issues, and importantly, involve the community in the decision making process.

Committees will act in an advisory capacity only and make recommendations to Council. Their roles and powers will incorporate the establishment of policy and strategic directions, setting objectives and reviewing performance, advising on policy matters, setting the standard, level and quality of services, reviewing and monitoring services against the Corporate Plan and specific issues as they arise

These functions will be restricted to broad strategic issues. Day-to-day service delivery issues will remain in the hands of the Chief Executive and staff.

Management of sporting grounds

Over the past eight months, a review of the management and occupancy arrangements of the Glen Eira City Council sporting reserves has been undertaken.

The former Cities of Moorabbin and Caulfield had different systems for the management of their sporting reserves. After Council amalgamation an integrated system for the efficient and effective management of the Glen Eira City Council facilities needed to be developed.

A task group with representatives of all the sporting reserves was formed to assist in the preparation of the new management system.

The review has highlighted the tremendous skill and community service that the committees have provided over a number of years, and the thousands of voluntary hours that have been provided by them.

The new system which was adopted at the 1 July 1996 Council meeting is a more centralised and coordinated system for the management of sporting reserves. The Recreation Services Department will coordinate the management of reserves with the assistance of Reserve Committees formed by a combination of Reserve user groups and community representatives.

Ground allocations for the 1996/97 summer season are currently being advertised. All current users will receive an application form for ground allocations. It is then proposed to begin negotiations with user groups to establish their occupancy agreements.

For further information or an application form, please contact Linda Smith, recreation development coordinator, on 9524 3333.

Leash free areas for dogs

Glen Eira City Council has recognised the need to identify open space areas where dogs can be exercised off leads.

Over the past eight months an extensive consultation process was undertaken in order to develop a balanced strategy for Leash Free areas for Dogs. As a result, a set of criteria were developed to determine appropriate Leash Free areas in open space.

The criteria were:

- Dogs should not be off a lead within 50 metres of playground equipment.
- Dogs should not be off a lead within 50 metres of Barbecue areas.

Sporting Grounds:

- Dogs must be on a lead during times which are allocated training sessions and competition days and days allocated to schools.
- Dogs must be on a lead during the hours of 8.30 am-4.00 pm on Reserves which are adjacent to schools.
- Dogs should not be permitted with 50 metres of schools.
- Dogs should not be permitted on Turf wickets.
- Dogs should not be off a leash within 50 metres of significant Garden Displays.
- Dogs should not be off a leash within 50 metres of areas which wildlife habitats, e.g. lakes.
- Dogs should not be off leash within 50 metres of the velodrome (Packer Park), Duncan MacKinnon Athletics Track and Netball Facilities.
- Dogs should be on a leash in areas when designated for use by other activities. For example: Pony Club uses Packer Park one Sunday per month.

The need to create an understanding between dog owners and other users of parks and reserves is extremely important. Although the community relies on dog owners taking responsibility for their dogs a set of conditions of use have also been developed for Leash Free areas.

When using Leash Free areas the following conditions must be complied with:

- All dogs must be on a leash with the exception of designated "Leash Free Areas".
- Dog Owners must maintain effective control of dogs even when off a leash.
- Dog Owners must carry a leash at all times.
- Dog Owners must maintain visual contact when dogs are off a leash.
- Dog Owners must remove all faecal deposits of their dogs in open space areas.

Education

Communication and education will be the key to the successful implementation of this policy. An information brochure will be developed and provided to all households. The brochure will contain the following:

- Areas designated as "Leash Free" - including a Map.
- Information in relation to care of domestic animals in open space.
- Petcare information.
- Penalties for non compliance.

Magazines can be recycled with your newspapers....

Who wants your old newspapers and magazines? We do!

With your help, Kerbside Papers will collect around 200,000 tonnes of old newspapers and magazines this year for recycling into new newspapers. By placing your old magazines in the newspaper pile for recycling, you're helping to fully utilise the paper recycling collection service in your area. That's good for you, good for the environment.

For further details contact the Glen Eira Service Centre, 9524 3333 or Kerbside Papers on 9867 7722

Did you know the Boyd family?

Murrumbeena resident, Colin Smith is researching the Boyd family of Murrumbeena and is keen to hear from anyone who knew the family or knew of them.

The Boyds lived in Murrumbeena for nearly 50 years and their involvement in the area represents an important chapter in Glen Eira's history.

Merric Boyd came to Murrumbeena in 1912. He established a home with a pottery studio in Wahroonga Crescent which he called "Open Country".

At "Open Country", Merric created beautiful and original pottery, many pieces featuring representations of Australian flora and fauna such as gum trees and koalas. Now acknowledged as being Australia's first and most original art potter, the shapes and forms he created, along with beautiful glazes, are testimony to his creative abilities and spirit.

Merric and his wife Doris, also an artist, raised five remarkably talented children: Lucy, Arthur, Guy, David and Mary. They have all made major contributions to the arts in Australia, and in doing so, continue their family's rich, artistic tradition.

Merric and Doris lived in Murrumbeena until they died in 1959 and 1960 respectively. The Boyd family are remembered by many of Murrumbeena's longer established residents, many of whom recall Merric drawing and sketching around the area in his latter years.

Colin Smith is keen to talk to anyone who had an association with the family, and have memories they would be willing to share, however small.

If you can help Colin with his valuable historical project, please contact him on 9569 0554.

Clean sweep to outside contractor

The contract for keeping the streets of Glen Eira clean has been awarded to an external contractor. On Monday 1 July 1996, the Glen Eira City Council appointed P&O Berkely Challenge to undertake street sweeping and pick up litter for the entire municipality. Three tenders, including one from Council staff were evaluated.

"Glen Eira is committed to high levels of service delivery," said Chief Executive, Margaret Douglas. "The P&O Berkely bid was impressive in its approach to quality, performance measurement and customer feedback. It was also a lower cost than the in-house bid."

P&O Berkely, which has more than 1750 staff in Australia alone, started cleaning Glen Eira streets on 8 July 1996. Two of Council's sweeper drivers have taken up positions with P&O Berkely.

The Centre will handle enquiries ranging from waste management, rates, pensioner rebates, maintenance requests to information about health services, local laws, animal registrations, infringements and Council meetings.

The Service Centre is supported by an integrated customer tracking system to record requests, concerns and complaints and to follow them through quickly to ensure nothing is lost in the 'system'. Any resident will be able to follow the progress of a request with one telephone call. Council will also be able to monitor service delivery levels.

Glen Eira Chief Executive, Margaret Douglas, said at the opening of the Service Centre that the City is improving its service delivery in every way. "This is just one of the efficient, central and non-bureaucratic initiatives planned to help residents. It will be followed shortly by the new Community Information System that will enable residents to get the inside story on just about everything that's happening in the City at local libraries and via the Internet."

The Glen Eira Service Centre was launched on Monday 1 July 1996 at a light and lively breakfast in the City offices. Over 60 guests, including local Members of Parliament, enjoyed healthy food and the energy of local band, Bobsy-Die.

Congratulations - Glen Eira wins 1996 Best Local Government Healthy Nutrition award

From left: Sir Rupert Hamer, Chairman, Cancer and Heart Offensive, Phil Tucker, State Manager, Hong Kong Bank, Jane Price, Health Advancement Program Leader, Glen Eira City Council and John Grigg, Chairman, National Heart Foundation.

"A best practice which should inspire other councils to implement a comprehensive food award scheme," was what the judges of the Healthy Nutrition Program said at the 1996 State Healthy Hearts Local Government Awards.

They went on to say that Glen Eira City Council and its TASTE 4 HEALTH program was an excellent example of drawing together a wide range of expertise to create a thorough, well thought out and supported program.

TASTE 4 HEALTH is a food award scheme which encourages local restaurants, cafes and takeaway outlets to provide excellence in hygiene, healthy choices and smokefree dining. In return for reaching standards in these areas food outlets receive an award, tablecards, menu stickers and extensive local publicity.

Jane Price, Glen Eira's health advancement program leader said the program exploits the increasing consumer demand for healthy food and smoke free dining.

"Customers are encouraged to ask why a food shop doesn't have the awards and stickers. They should ask for a table in a smoke free area when they book."

"The development of this project was a group effort and many thanks go to all those local individuals and groups involved - they should all feel very proud of their achievement."

TASTE 4 HEALTH is strongly focussed on taste to prove that nutritious food doesn't have to be boring. The nutrition criteria were developed by Kathy McConell, a local dietitian who said, "food outlet owners will know how to prepare and serve food in a more nutritious way, and customers will know that the outlet is working to achieve excellence in food preparation. Also customers will be able to recognise the most nutritious menu items instantly: they'll be distinctly labelled healthier and healthiest."

TASTE 4 HEALTH now enters the National Healthy Hearts Local Government Awards to be announced in Sydney this month.

New youth services promotions team

Glen Eira City Council's Youth Services department has established a new media and promotions team. The new team, comprising young people between the ages of 12-25 will be responsible for developing youth services publicity material including a regular newspaper.

The objectives of the team is to develop young people's communication, creative and promotional skills, to inform young people and the general community about local youth facilities, programs, services, activities and issues, to raise the profile of young people in the municipality and to develop a medium through which youth information can be disseminated.

Team members will attain invaluable experience by participating in journalism, graphic design, advertising, law, accounting and marketing.

Local students succeed

Caulfield Secondary College students have once again made headlines. Earlier this year, Ebony-Jo Gamble entered the 'class clown' competition, organised as part of Melbourne's International Comedy Festival and walked off with the first prize of $5,000. Ebony-Jo's academic ability matches her acting skills. In spite of numerous job offers, she intends to complete her VCE and is taking her studies very seriously.

Bree Atkins, another VCE student has been selected by the Southern Cross Cultural Exchange to participate in their student exchange program and will be studying in Japan for 12 months.

Council's on-going support for active older adults

With the increasing interest from people over 50 to keep fit and active, Glen Eira City Council continues to offer a wide range of activities including: walking, swimming, fit-active exercises, chair-based exercises, prymeball, table tennis, card games and outings.

Council now provides a community bus for residents without their own transport or for those who are unable to use public transport to travel to the swimming and chair-based exercise programs.

The swimming program gives participants the opportunity to enjoy swimming (as a relaxing form of exercise) in a heated indoor pool. Swimming is available on Monday mornings at the Waves Leisure Centre and Tuesday afternoons at the Harold Holt Swim Centre. Bookings essential.

The chair-based exercises are ideal for people who may suffer from arthritis, heart conditions or other complaints that may result in limited movement. Classes are held on Wednesday mornings in Carnegie and Thursday mornings in East Bentleigh.

Members of the Caulfield Grammar School cricket and tennis teams tour of England 1996.

School's successful sporting tour of England

Members of Caulfield Grammar School's cricket and tennis teams are currently enjoying an exciting 25 day tour of England. Thirty four girls and boys from years 10-12 are representing the School against a number of schools throughout England.

Caulfield Grammar School has a long history as a touring school. This recent tour follows three successful tours of England in 1986, 1990 and 1993.

This tour, however, marks an important evolution in the School's sporting tradition as it is the first time that tennis players have been involved in international competition.

Caulfield Grammar School has a proud reputation for sporting success and sportsmanship, and both cricket and tennis are a major part of the School's sporting programs. Girls and boys are regular competitors in the Associated Public Schools competition.

"Sport is an integral part of the School's education program and our students are encouraged to participate in competitive, individual and team sport at School and House Level," said Principal, Mr Stephen Newton.

At the time of going to print, the teams had not completed the tour, but our most up-to-date news saw the boys tennis team undefeated, cricket captain, Damon Rowan made 84 not out, Adam Reed and Suneil Mangalore both took four wickets, all helping to convincingly defeat the opposition school, Bruton. The team also defeated Dulwich College, London, 215 runs to 176. The girls tennis team convincingly defeated Bruton School for Girls in Somerset and Heathfield School in Berkshire and the boys tennis team easily defeated Wellington College in Berkshire and Bryanston School in Dorset.
