

He has identified himself with most of Ballarat public institutions and associations and is a warm supporter and of anything intended for the public benefit.