REFLECTIONS

Way back in the sixties, some minstrels black and white,
 Came to dear old Melbourne, and brightened up each night.
 They sang songs like "Allabamy". and "Little Girls in Blue",
 And one of the performers, is known to me and you.
 For I speak of Wendy Faulkner, who without the slightest pause,
 Left the glitter of the footlights, to help us with our cause.

Wendy's departure from the stage door, may well have been frustration,
 For acting as a golliwog, can give rise to irritation.
 But there was no sign of irritation, way back in sixty-five,
 On 13th of September, on which day she did arrive.
 We've since been grateful for her presence, her amazing self control,
 Offering Legatees assistance, when they're in a hole.

But Wendy needs our help now, for although it does not show,
 Her morale has had a bashing, and she is feeling rather low.
 She recalls that when she started, she was but five and twenty,
 And the years now past since "65", they add up to plenty.
 That alone is not sufficient, to shatter her aplomb,
 She can't forget she was a golliwog, and what's worse she's still a "Pom".
