Saturday, Jaugary 21st, was a great day ir Central Village, in the State of Connecticut, in America. On that day Mrs Jonathan Gorton was 100 years old and formally received her friends, of whom hundreds were present, She wore her best black silk gown, with a rose in the bodice. The venerable lady was seated in a comfortable armchair on a platform in the best room of her house. Then the train of callers filed through, each and all shaking hands with "Granny Gorton," as she is called, is a her. trim little body and very nimble on her feet. There was never anything ailed her, she says, and except that her eyesight isn't quite so good as it used to be, she is as active as any woman of 50. Why has Granny Gorton lived so long? Why is she so active now? She lets out the screet herself when she says, "There was never anything ailed me." That's it, and all of it.

People who live 100 years are not so very are. The deaths of 45 such were reported last rare. year in England-22 men and 23 women. Yet, subsidy should be allocated. Their human laws, nor determine by human nothing-nothing. Can we not keep things from ailing us, and so live long as Mrs Gorton? Yes, if we will take the trouble to do it ! Men and women 100 years old, still vigorous and clear-headed, should be a sight so common as not to be remarked, and will be yet in the future. Why not so now ? "Ask yourself the question." as the boatmen say down on Deal beach.

Here's how it is: A woman's tale, She says she fell ill when a girl of about 15. She lost her appetite, had pains in the sides and chest. frequent headaches, and was often obliged to lie down on the couch and rest. All this didn't promise long life, did it? No, it was a bad

Here she suffered deputation might console itself with the preserved." Also the duty to oneself is of nature is stigmatised as a crime. The chest pains were so bad as to bend her two double. No position that she could take relieved her. Her stomach was so tender and sore that everything she atc pained and distressed her. For months and months she only took liquid f.od-milk and beaten eggs, and so on.

She got weaker and weaker every day, so she says, Of course; how else could it be ? A doctor at Rugby told her she had "ulceration of the chest," which she didn't at all. "What is "ulceration of the chest ?"

He gave her medicines and advice, but she grew no better on that account. This young lady was now about 20 years old, with a poor outlook for ever being much older. She didn't expect it, nor did her friends. Then another dector, being consulted, sald "ul cration of the chest," like his medical brother at Rugby. Both

THE GOVERNMENT SCHEME. SAVING OF OVER HALF A MILLION. The Premier has finished his consideration of the report of the retrenchment committee, which has been a matter of considerable labor. It is considered a total saving can be made of L560,000, including L100,000 in the nervousness, weakness, debility, liver and seizes by force the municipal subsidy, and it is expected complaint, dropsy, and chronic indigesthe finances will be squared next year. tion. The savings will be from the Postal Department L61,000, of which L33,000 will come from salaries, while a considerable saving will be made from the increase of the price of letter cards, the new charge for the delivery of telegrams over a mile, increase of the minimum price for telegrams, and the curtailment of mail services. A saving of L42,000 is recommended in defence, L19,500 law, L16,000 Customs, L13,390 agricultural, health L2000, water supply L4500, Chief Secretary, L41,500; total, L200,500. The Departments yet to be gone over are expected to vield as follows: - L100,000. Railway economies are expected to yield L120,000. There will be a saving in special appropriation of L40,000, making a grand total of L460,000, in subsidy. Some police magistrates over 60 years of age are to be retained, but instructions have been sent out to the various Departments in regard to men who will reach 60 years during the next financial vear, that they should be allowed to retire on reaching the statutory age, as the policy of the Government is that all such officers should go unless there are special reasons to justify their retention. With a view to reducing the number of Departments and the number of permanent heads, the Departments of Mines and Water Supply are to be amalgamated under Mr Howitt, and the present Secretary for Water Supply, Mr. H. Meekin, is to become Under-Treasurer. The Health Department is to be amalgamated with the Public Works. Mr Cuthbert will resign his portfolio as

The President invited the deputation to lunch with the council at 1 o'clock.

Cr Leadbeater thanked the President for his courtesy. He maintained that accepted. Riponshire was morally responsible, and said that under the circumstance-Lextonshire would not remove the obstruction by themselves. It devolved on the council to bring the matter under the notice of the Minister of Public Works with a view to his sending an officer up to see if it is an obstruction and whether Riponshire has to remove it. Whatever is done will be done in a friendly way.

The deputation then withdrew. Subsequently at lunch the President surfaceman should be given him. proposed the health of "The Lextonshire Council and its Engineer." Cr Leadbeater and Mr Nichol responded.

To Dr. Mahomed Baklish.

Dear Sir,-I hereby certify that I have been unable to read without glasses for ten years. I have been under your treatment for six weeks, and now I am able to read without spectacles. I am over 90 years of age, and I am glad to recommend anyone to go under your treatment. God bless you and give you good health for curing me without charge. Wishing you every success,

T. WISON. Mount Gambier (S.A.), 20th August, 1894.

To Dr. Mahomed Bakhsh, Indian Eye and Pile Doctor. Sir,—Permit me to add testimony to your skill in relieving sufferers from piles. I have suffered from piles for a considerable time, and have tried medical aid, but only got temporary relief. After fourteen days of your treatment I believe purefit to be completed wards

There is nothing a woman will not allow herself, nothing she holds disgraceful, when she has encircled her neck with emeralds, and insert eas-rings of great value in her the women of Old Rome? Juvenal, remember, was born in a small town of the Volsei, about the year of Christ 38, yet his satires are almost as applicable to the end of the nineteenth century as they were to the terrible trenchant and biting Sixth Satire .

Let us glance for a moment at the frequently discussed union of George Eliot and George Henry Lewes.

They were brought together through the eighteen, and, as you will observe, she is correspondence, they became everything to terrible concusion that the young lidy is not a margin bloude as nossible each other. They could not legally marry. It all suited to his notions of what a helpmate each other. They could not legally marry, inasmuch as Mr Lewes's wile was living. Mr J. W. Cross, who, less than two years atter the death of Lewes, was married to George Eliot at the fashionable lane in Hanover-square, says :- "In forming a judgement on so momentous a question, it is above all things necessary to understand what was actually undertaken and what was actually achieved , and, in my opinion. this can be best arrived at, not from outside Lewes's true character, as well as that of George Eliot, unfoldea itself. George Eliot line of conduct, declared, "If there is any one action or relation in my life which is and always has been profoundly serious, it is my relation to Mr Lewes." In order to allay any prejudice which her friends may have had against her mode of life (says one of her biographers), she argues the possiopinions on momentous subjects with equal in tead of bedizening them with jewel ery, sincerity, with an equally earnest conviction tricking them out in purple and fine linen, and ject of marriage laws." says George Eliot, you cleave to what you believe to be good ; and I don't know anything in the nature of your views that should prevent you believing the same of me. . . . One thing I can tell you in a few words: Lightly and easily broken ties are what I neither desire theoretically nor could live for practically. Women who are satisfied with ties do not act as I have done. That any unwordly, acquainted with the realities of life, can pronounce my relation with Mr Lewes immoral, I can only understand by remembering how subtle and complex are the induences which mould opinion. From the majority of persons, of course, we never looked for anything but condemnation. We are leading no life of self-indulgence, except, indeed, that, being happy in each other, we character which will make her husband and me to point out what is perfectly well-known which be elevated, purified, and developed-children happy, but for one passessed with provide the transfer to point out what is perfectly well-known unions in which both husband and wife can and accurately when he wrote :--

This is well, for remembe.

A man no sooner endeavours to fathom the ideas, capabilities, and general character of a girl to whom he has been drawn more than to another, than his evident partiality for her is misinterpreted, and he is asked by the eager match-making mother what his "intentions" are. Thus he is too often hamb-ozled into what is called "making a declaration," and he finds himself "engaged" before he knows whether he is standing on his head or on his heeis! When, ov some chance or other, he arrives at the should be, it is too late for him to retract, the least symptom of his wish to do so being greeted by a hint that the matter will have to be referred to the family solicitor. Fearful of such a denouncement as a breach of promise action, he holds to his written or spoken word, and goes to the altar with the knowledge that he is entering upon a marriage which can but end in dire humiliating failure. Is it not a crying shame and scandal that the church and law should sauction such unholy alliances, ending as so many of them inevitably must and do end, in the divorce court, or worse ? Surely a woman who offers herself for money n the street is a lesser offender than one who sells herself at the altar for a fortune or a title The former, indeed, does less positive harm to the community than the latter, who is guilty of bringing into the world children for whom she has no real affection, and who are too often the fruit of a tran-cient animal passion.

Even wors are the marriages of ignorance, which, alast only too often become criminal marriages. When mothers take less trouble over the accomplishments and appearance of their children, and more over the early formation of their characters and dispositions; when, rushing them in o marriage, for no other reason than to get rid of them becau e there are others growing up, and because th y are cruzy to ecure for their offspring big incomes and what s fatuously termed "social position;" when nothers steadfistly and determinedly impress upon their progene the absolute necessity of deep consideration and reflection before taking a tep which can never be retraced, and which. I hastily and thoughtlessly taken, may embitted and perhaps rulu several lives; when mothers ecome the true grides, teachers, and loving advisers of their children, instead of being, as ow, their covert enemies ; when they impresupon them that a passing fancy or a spasmodic passion must not be mistaken for love, and that love which is not based on mutual respect will never serve as the foundation of married happi news; and when they teach them that marries mess; and when they teach them that marries was not instituted for the simple purpose of getting them "well provided for"—in other words, of enabling them to use the lives of drones; when, in short, mothers will no longer think it "wrong" to discuss marriage and its attendant responsibilities with their daugaters, but will initiate them into the duties and requirements of wedded life, and look upon them as their best friends instead of as burdens and iguorant beings, from whom everything relating to the innermost life of a woman-or of manmust be jealously hidden, waile girls must only be permitted to see the artificial side of life, and be callously left to find out the rest for themseives-then, and not until then, shall we have moral marriages, unions of hearts and souls, in which the characters of both men and women truly say-not only at the altar, but every day of their lives-that they will "love, honour, and respect" each other. ONE BOX OF CLARKE'S B 41 PULLS is
