Give your orders for JOB PRINTING to the newspaper in your district, because it prints thousands of reports and notifications for which it receives no payment whatever. It is always spending its time and money to benefit and improve the prospects of the place through which it publishes. It gives you value in return for your printing order.

An advertisement is a paper man's marketable commodity, and it is quite as much so as a side of bacon, a pound of butter, or a ton of flour. No man can afford to give away the things he sells for a livelihood, and the man who does so in order to get business is generally in a bad way. Don't try to put the paper man "in a bad way." But exercise a little human nature. Support him; he needs encouragement and support; but do it in the legitimate way. If the printer gets a few pounds worth of printing orders from you, he is not in a position to give you a pound's worth of advertising for nothing. And you have had value for the printing already. Go into a grocer's or draper's for £5 worth of goods, and the grocer's man or draper will not throw in gratis £1 worth of something else that you may ask for. Try him; you don't believe us.

SUPPORT LOCAL INDUSTRY,
AND
SUBSCRIBE TO THE LOCAL PAPER,
THE RIPONSHIRE ADVOCATE.

We ask that our efforts for the district's good shall be recognized. An increased circulation means still greater usefulness on our part. When a neighbour or friend asks for the loan of the local paper, tell him or her that for the small sum of

3s per Quarter

It is obtainable direct from the office regularly.

In addition to complete and impartial reports of all local meetings, an interesting

14-Column Supplement

Is presented to Regular Subscribers.

ORDERS FOR Plain and Ornamental JOB PRINTING

Executed with Neatness and Dispatch.

Bear in mind that

ADVERTISING ALWAYS PAYS.

Business men should note that as the Local Paper is extensively read in the district, it therefore affords a splendid advertising medium.

A Safe Remedy for all Skin and Blood Diseases.

If you suffer from any disease due to an impure state of the Blood, from whatever cause, you should test the value of Clarke's Blood Mixture, the world-famous Blood Purifier and Restorer. This mixture is so generally known, and is so widely popular, that even the reason of this being undoubtedly because this wonderful remedy does what it professes to do—it cures skin and blood diseases permanently.

Clarke's Blood Mixture
IS THE FINEST BLOOD PURIFIER EVER DISCOVERED.

It is essential to cleanse the blood from all impurities. For SCORFID, BAD LEGS, BLOTCHES, ECZEMA, BLOOD POISON, SPOTS, RINGWORM, ULCERS, SKIN AND BLOOD DISEASES, OF ALL KINDS.

NOTE.—This mixture is pleasant to the taste and does not contain any injurious ingredients. It is the most delicate constitution of either, from infancy to old age, and the Proprietors solicit customers to give it a trial to test its value. Thousands of wonderful cures have been effected by it.

THIRD MANY THINGS WITHOUT BENEFIT UNTIL I TOOK CLARKE'S BLOOD MIXTURE.
Mr P. E. Lewis, 48 Bridge Street, How, Chester, writes:—I feel it my duty to inform you of the great benefit I have derived through taking your "Clarke's Blood Mixture." I have been suffering from eczema and an itching skin from the age of thirteen. While an out-patient at one of the big London hospitals a doctor informed me that my disease was the result of looking after foreign horses. I have been a horse dealer for many years, and my father being a horse dealer and joiner. He (my father) was speaking one day to a friend of mine who mentioned that he was being cured of eczema by a medicine called "Clarke's Blood Mixture." I was then, however, to suffer until April 4 last, when my friend told me it was a completely cured. This mixture is quite well known to myself, and I am now completely cured, after suffering and being disgusted for several years. I am able to follow my employment, and am very pleased to think there is such a valuable remedy obtainable for such a small sum. I should be pleased to answer any inquiries concerning my case.—July 17, 1905.

ECZEMA AND IRRITATING SKIN TROUBLE CURED.
Mr W. G. Weston, care of Messrs Knott, of 49, Keop-street, Kingsland-road, N.E., writes:—"Gentlemen,—I feel it my duty to inform you of the great benefit I have derived through taking your 'Clarke's Blood Mixture.' I have been suffering from eczema and an itching skin from the age of thirteen. While an out-patient at one of the big London hospitals a doctor informed me that my disease was the result of looking after foreign horses. I have been a horse dealer for many years, and my father being a horse dealer and joiner. He (my father) was speaking one day to a friend of mine who mentioned that he was being cured of eczema by a medicine called 'Clarke's Blood Mixture.' I was then, however, to suffer until April 4 last, when my friend told me it was a completely cured. This mixture is quite well known to myself, and I am now completely cured, after suffering and being disgusted for several years. I am able to follow my employment, and am very pleased to think there is such a valuable remedy obtainable for such a small sum. I should be pleased to answer any inquiries concerning my case.—July 17, 1905.

ANOTHER PERMANENT CURE OF BAD LEGS AND ABSCESSSES
Mr James Waring, of Clay Cotons Lodge, near Rugby, writes:—"It is with great pleasure that I write to tell you of the benefit I have derived from taking 'Clarke's Blood Mixture.' For a long time I suffered with bad legs and abscesses. I was under a doctor for five months, and not getting any benefit, and was sent to the local hospital for six weeks. The doctor then told me I should have to go into London for further treatment. I went in and stayed for thirteen weeks, and underwent two operations I got a little better. Before I had been out of hospital a week I became worse than ever, so my wife told me to try 'Clarke's Blood Mixture.' I bought a bottle after taking five bottles and taking four pots of your 'Clarke's Blood Mixture.' I was completely cured, and I have written twice to you to tell you of the benefit I have derived from taking 'Clarke's Blood Mixture.' I am now completely cured, and I have never been in my life. You can make what ever use you like of this letter."—Oct. 15, 1905.

IMPERIES IN THE BLOOD.—We have seen hosts of letters from all sorts and conditions of people, in which the writers acknowledge the benefit they have received from Clarke's Blood Mixture, which as a curative agent cannot be too highly estimated, since it cleanses and clears the blood from all impurities, and restores it to its normal condition. This is a good testimonial in the Family Doctor, the popular medical weekly, which goes on further to say:—"It is certainly the finest blood purifier that science and skill have brought to light, and we can with the utmost confidence recommend it to our subscribers and the public generally."

RE MINING LEASES.
It is notified for general information that applications for Mining Leases are required; within seven days previous to lodging the application, to insert in a newspaper published in the district where the land is situated, or if no such newspaper, then in one published nearest the district, an advertisement or notice in the form marked "A" in the schedule relating to Mining Leases.

Justices' Fixtures.
The local J.P. have arranged to attend the Beaufort Courts of Petty Sessions as under:—Second Tuesday, Messrs F. Begg, J. R. Wotherspoon, and Rear-Admiral Bridge. Fourth Tuesday, Messrs M. Flynn, G. Topper, and T. Begg.

THROAT AFFECTION AND HOARSENESS.—All suffering from irritation of the throat and hoarseness will be greatly benefited at the almost immediate relief afforded by the use of "Brown's Bronchial Trochoc." These famous "lozenges" are now sold by most respectable chemists in the country. People troubled with a "hoarse cough," "stiff" voice, or hoarseness, cannot try them too soon, as similar troubles, if allowed to progress, result in serious Pulmonary and Asthmatic affections. See that the words "Brown's Bronchial Trochoc" are on the Government Stamp around each box. Prepared by JOHN I. BROWN & SONS, London, U.S.A., Avenue Levee, 35, Farringdon Road, London, E.C.4.

The Man Who Doesn't Advertise
Breathes there a man with soul so dead
That to himself he hath not said,
"My trade is late in getting bad,
I'll try another trade."

Business man.—"You remember that 'ad.' I had in your paper, and took out two months ago? Well, I want to have it put back again." Editor.—"Why, I thought you said no one noticed it while it was in." Business man (humbly).—"They didn't seem to until I took it out." The mere fact of your advertising lets people know you are still in business; also that your business is sufficiently important to stand advertising. If you are in business you cannot afford to do without advertising, as it is too much of an admission to the world at large. Extract from an interview with a man who has profited by newspaper advertising.

THE GREATEST AD YOU CAN GIVE YOUR NEWSPAPER IS YOUR JOB PRINTING. If you do not feel able to run and advertise, surely you can afford to give the newspaper your cards, dodgers, bill-heads, letter-heads, envelopes, and all business printing to execute. The newspaper man needs it, and it helps him to pay his printers for setting up the thousand and one free notices he gives you and your town; but don't give it to the printer or job printing office that can give you no return, and is spending neither time, money, nor brains in helping you to build up your town. The time may come when a newspaper can live simply upon the revenue derived from advertising and subscriptions, but no ordinary newspaper in an ordinary town can exist without the auxiliary support derived from job printing. Therefore, if you want a good newspaper—one that can still further help you and your town—give it your job printing.

ADVICE TO BROTHERS.—Are you broken in your rest by a sick child suffering with the pain of cutting teeth? Go at once to a chemist and get a bottle of Mrs. Winslow's SOOTHING SYRUP. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup is sold by Medicine Dealers everywhere.

YOU CAN AFFORD IT.
Very few are too poor now-a-days to take their country paper, and it is false economy to try and get along without it. Hardly a week passes that something or other does not appear in its columns that will be of financial benefit to the subscriber, and by the end of the year he had made or saved or won twenty times the subscription paid for it. The city papers don't take the place of the country ones, though some people appear to think they do. The city papers are all right in their way, but they do not give you that in which you are most interested—your country news. You cannot learn from them when and where your country meetings are to be held, who are dying or who are marrying, who are moving in or who are moving out, court proceedings, who wants to buy or sell farm or land produce, in fact hundreds of things of which it might be of particular importance to you to know. If you can afford to take only one paper, by all means take the one that is published in the country or district where you live. It will cost you less, and thereby you will be getting yourself and keeping the money in the district.

NEWSPAPER LAW.
1. Subscribers who do not give express notice to the contrary, in writing, are considered as wishing to continue their subscriptions.
2. If subscribers order the discontinuance of their newspapers, the publisher may continue to send them until arrears are paid.
3. If subscribers neglect or refuse to take their newspapers from the post-office to which they are directed, they are held responsible until they settle their bills, and ordered the newspapers to be discontinued.
4. If subscribers move to other places without informing the publishers, and the papers are sent to the former direction, the subscribers are responsible.
5. The court has decided that in refusing to take periodicals from the post-office or leaving them uncalled for, "prima facie" evidence of intentional fraud."
6. Any person who receives a newspaper and makes use of it, whether he has ordered it or not, is held in law to be a subscriber.

HINTS TO FRIENDLY READERS
You want to see the local paper a successful institution.
Talk about it wherever you go.
Mention it to the tradespeople with whom you do business.
If they don't advertise in it, try and induce them to do so.
If you are induced to buy anything from what you have read in its advertising columns mention the fact to the tradesman.
Don't lend your paper to any person who can afford to become a subscriber but is too mean to support local enterprise and ignore advertising.

A country paper kindly supplies this beautiful simile—"You might as well try to shoo an elephant with a thimbleful of soap suds as attempt to do business and ignore advertising."

FLORINE.—FOR THE THROAT AND BREATH.—A few drops of the liquid "Florine" sprinkled on a wet tooth-brush produces a pleasant lather, which thoroughly cleanses the teeth from all parasites or impurities, hardens the gums, prevents tartar, stops decay, gives the teeth a peculiar pearly whiteness, and a delightful fragrance to the breath. It removes all unpleasant odour arising from decayed teeth or tobacco smoke. "The Fragrant Florine," being composed of parts of Honey and sweet herbs, is delicious to the taste, and a perfect toilet article for the age. Of all Chemists and Perfumers. Wholesale depot 33 Farringdon Road, London, England.

To our Readers and Patrons.
THE PROSPERITY OF A DISTRICT DEPENDS chiefly upon the support and encouragement that is given by the population to local enterprise and industry. Every venture is to a more or less extent speculative, but each, whilst aiming at the success of a promoter, must offer certain returns to those whose support is necessary to achieve certain advantageous results on both sides. Therefore, Support Local Industry and Local Enterprise.

The law of exchange was never satisfactory in its working; thus it was that the custom of buying and selling, using a standard currency, was introduced. One form of that currency, known as "paper money," and of paper money there is more than one kind. All kinds are useful, but not every kind retains its original value. The "paper" money most valuable to a newspaper proprietor is that which is sent him by "Subscribers and Advertisers."

He will do his utmost to entice him to a good share of it.

"The Riponshire Advocate" is the Advertising Medium for all Contract and Notifications of the Shire of Ripon and is the ONLY NEWSPAPER That is Printed and Published within the boundaries of the Shire, and as the advocate of the interests and of the welfare of this district it has a claim for a considerably greater amount of support, and has a greater scope for extending usefulness than any other journal or journal within a given radius of the Shire Office.

The Circulation of the Riponshire Advocate is Steadily Increasing, and the Proprietor, recognizing the increased support in this direction, will use his utmost endeavors to merit and sustain the patronage accorded him by giving the Latest POSTAL, Local and News, "our Middle Creek, Shirley, Traralgon, Skipton, and Caranah. With every issue of the Paper is given A FOURTEEN-COLUMN SUPPLEMENT, Containing an Interesting Serial Tale, Amusing Anecdotes, Pastoral News, Poultry Farming Receipts, Gardening Items, Etc., Etc., Etc.

Business Men, Read It was Benjamin Franklin who wrote—"What steam is to machinery, advertising is to business."

And another wiser has said that—"He who in his 'biz' would rise, Must either 'bust' or advertise."

And advertisers cannot do better than make Riponshire Advocate the medium for their announcements.

THINGS THAT NEVER DIE.

The pure, the bright, the beautiful That stirred our hearts in youth...

Let nothing pass, for every hand Must find some work to do...

ALICE WHITTELEY.

A PLEA FOR THE USELESS.

One of the most delightful articles it has been our lot to find in the magazine...

Amongst all the useless matters which clutter up our lives...

This, it is admitted, is a humiliating view for those, like the writer, whose lives are spent in the school-room...

But of all the useless nations which ever numbered the earth...

After passing in review several "useless" things...

In case you have chickens, get on friendly terms with your neighbours...

FACED DEATH FOUR TIMES IN TWO MINUTES.

A most remarkable escape from death is reported from Ohio...

According to a Chicago paper, what happened to Madden was this...

Whether he dropped into a half-dose or not Madden does not remember...

As he reached the centre of the bridge...

Underhill's quick brain envisaged the man's whole life...

While he hesitated, while he searched for it, Garve repeated his proposition...

The hats worn by Korean State functionaries have brims of enormous dimensions...

HOW THE MORNING COMES.

Cherry, cherry, Out of the dreary night...

Through the window to see where lies The little girl with the sleepy eyes...

With every joy to find the place Where lies her dreaming face.

Turns on its pillow, yawns, and blinks...

THE STORY OF A STRANGE AVENGER.

BY JAMES GRAY WADDELL.

A few years back, residence at the Australian gold-diggings was by no means the best passport to an extended sojourn upon the earth...

As he reached the centre of the bridge...

Underhill's quick brain envisaged the man's whole life...

While he hesitated, while he searched for it, Garve repeated his proposition...

The hats worn by Korean State functionaries have brims of enormous dimensions...

like a live coal, and streaked for the open door...

He dashed from the room and vanished in pursuit...

When mid-day arrived without any sign of Morton...

Morton lay on the floor—lifeless, a red-dyed knife clutched in his hand...

From that day we viewed the snaky tribe with considerable increased respect...

TWO QUARRELSOME IRISHMEN.

The Irish Christmas party has become famous the world over...

THE WEIGHT OF A CROWD.

Attention is called by the "Scientific American" to experiments at Harvard University...

DOGGER BANK THE LAST REFUGE FROM THE NORTH SEA.

Here the wild animals would naturally congregate...

Indeed, the skeletons of the Dogger Bank that scarcely a trawl is brought up...

BEEHIVE AS INCUBATOR.

An Ohio bee farmer has reported tests demonstrated that a setting of eggs may be successfully hatched within an ordinary beehive...

TAKING DESPERATE CHANGES. It is true that many contract colds and recover from them without taking any pre-ventive or remedial, and a knowledge of this fact leads others to take their chances instead of giving their colds the needed attention. It should be borne in mind that every cold weakens the lungs, lowers the vitality, makes the system less able to withstand each succeeding cold and paves the way for more serious diseases. Can you afford to take such desperate chances when Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, famous for its cures of colds, may be had for a trifle? For sale by Womerspoon & Co., Merchants, Beaufort.

Beaufort Police Court. THURSDAY, 5th OCTOBER, 1905. (Before Mr W. Dickson, P.M.) John McDougall, junr, was charged with being drunk and disorderly in Livingstone-street, Beaufort, on 26th September. Defendant said he was ill and had taken too much whisky. It was the first time he had been looked up.

The P.M. remarked that from his own observation it should not have been. Defendant had been arrested after leaving the court on 26th Sept., and was admitted to bail at 11 o'clock next morning. The P.M. said he would treat him as a first offender and give him the chance that most people get. He would be discharged, but not come before him again.

McDougall was then summoned to show cause why he should not pay his arrears (£26) of contributions at the rate of 6s per week towards his father's old-age pension, or receive a sentence of imprisonment. He said he could not pay anything. The P.M. said the last time McDougall was here, he was sober in the witness-box, but before he (the P.M.) left the town he saw him (McDougall) down the street as drunk as he could be. He would reduce the arrears to £5, and ordered that sum to be paid in 14 days; in default, to be imprisoned for one month.

McDougall—Thank you; I will do my best to pay it. Those Sands v. Jno. Phillips.—Goods sold and delivered, £2 13s 4d. As defendant had not given 48 hours' notice of his defence, and plaintiff was not present, Mr S. Young applied for an adjournment till 24th inst., which was granted; the P.M. advising defendant (who said he did not owe all the money, and that Mr Sands would not come out to him when he went to see him) to see Mr Young in the meantime and effect a settlement.

William Welch was summoned by the clerk of petty sessions to show cause why he should not pay his arrears of £6 10s (at the rate of 2s 6d per week) towards his mother's pension. He said he had paid £6, and that when the order was made against him he did not expect to have to pay it if he were out of work. He found a house for his father and mother. He had been out of work since 1st Sept. last year (when he left the Sons of Freedom Central at Raglan) till the week before Easter. He was now getting 8s 4d a day, and averaged 24s a week. He was married and had two young children. He had ceased paying on 8th Sept., 1904, and paid up to 26th Sept., 1904. He could not possibly pay any thing in the last six months, as he had just got out of debt, and could not say for a fortnight whether he would be able to keep his present job, as men were to be put off if the jobs did not improve. He paid 6s a week house rent. The house his parents were living in in Ballarat was his wife's, which he gave to her when they were married six years ago. It was on Crown lands, and was worth about £40. His father's pension was paid by a son-in-law. He had come from Swallow.

The P.M. told him it was a pity he hadn't sent £1 instead, with an explanation. Witness said a policeman had advised him to attend. He was £4 or £5 in debt when he got into work again. He had paid the rates (£3 6s) on the house. His parents were living in. The P.M. said that was for defendant's wife. He had paid everything but his country, having been six months in work and doing nothing. He asked defendant to make some offer. Defendant asked why he should be the one out of nine in a family that was called upon to pay. The P.M. said these things often happened.

Defendant said it would be better for him to have the pension withdrawn, and let his parents come and live with him. Would he then have to pay the arrears? The P.M. said he expected so. It was a very small sum. Defendant replied that it was a lot when one had not got it. The P.M. said he would adjourn the case for a month, and defendant could consider it. Defendant said in his present position he could not see his way clear to pay the arrears, and if he got out of work in a fortnight he would not be able to pay any of it. The P.M. adjourned the case till the 24th inst., remarking that if word came that the pension was withdrawn, and defendant would also be withdrawn, and defendant need not attend. He would say 2 or 3 months—and if he paid any of the money no proceedings would be taken against him in the meantime. Mrs. Mather, widow of the late licensee of the Farmers' Hotel, Beaufort, who has been carrying on the business since the death of her husband, applied for a renewal of the license. The P.M., on receiving that the will had been proved at £450, said that if the estate had only been £200, the widow would have been entitled to a renewal of the old license. She had obtained permission to carry on for six months, and should get a transfer application through from the executor (Mr F. W. Rogers) on herself on the 24th inst.

The newly-constituted Board of Advice for the School District of the North Riding of the Shire of Ripon held a meeting at the Shire Hall, Beaufort, on Saturday afternoon, Messrs G. Topper, R. A. D. Sinclair, D. D. Emerson (acting correspondent), and A. Parker being present. The acting-correspondent stated that he had received a letter from the Education Department, notifying the election of Messrs Topper, Cameron, Parker, Sinclair and Cogle as members of the board, and asking him to convene a meeting for the appointment of a chairman and a correspondent. Mr. Sinclair proposed that Mr. Parker be re-elected chairman, and Mr. Parker declined, stating that he had held the position for several years, and thought the honor should go round. Mr. Topper was then elected in the position, on the motion of Messrs Sinclair and Parker. Mr. Topper moved, and Mr. Sinclair seconded, that Mr. Parker be re-elected correspondent. Carrying for the wishes of the board, the matter of the board was referred to the matter of the board, and the matter of the board was referred to the matter of the board.

THE DEALER KNOWS HIS VALUE.
A merchant always able to please his customers and when he finds that an article has genuine merit, he never hesitates to recommend it. Mr. M. Links, a storekeeper at Carleton, says: "I never fail to recommend Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, because I know it is good. You make no mistake when you buy this medicine. Dealers all over the world will tell you the same thing. I have used it for thirty-five years and it is undoubtedly the safest and best medicine on the market for pain in the stomach, diarrhoea and dysentery. For sale by Womerspoon & Co., Merchants, Beaufort."

RHEUMATIC AND GOUTY AFFECTIONS.
(By "Origin.")
The unnatural retention of uric acid and other urinary and biliary poisons in the blood produces a group of complaints which inflict upon humanity long continued suffering and intense pain. The most common of these complaints are rheumatism, gout, lumbago, sciatica and neuralgia. The kidneys and liver are the organs upon which nature has imposed the task of extracting from the blood certain matters which, being continuously manufactured in the body, owing to the wear and tear of the tissues, it is as necessary to life that the wasting of the tissues must proceed uninterruptedly as it is that the substance of the body should be regularly renewed by the food we eat, the water we drink, and the air we breathe. It is equally necessary that the waste matter should be expelled from the body continuously, for its presence in the blood entails disease or death.

WITHERSPOON'S PILLS.
The treatment of rheumatic and gouty affections by the outward application of liniments, ointments and embrocations is seldom productive of much lasting benefit. They may afford temporary relief in some cases, but they do not remove the cause of the disease. The only way in which health can be permanently restored, and pain permanently removed, is to take medicine which ensures the regular action of the kidneys and the liver, and thus the organs are performing their allotted task naturally and freely, the uric acid and other urinary and biliary poisons pass from the system through the kidneys and the liver, and the retention in the system of urinary and biliary poisons, speedily yield to the influence of the medicine, simply because of its healing and stimulating influence upon the kidneys and the liver. Cure thus effected are permanent, simply because they are natural.

WITHERSPOON'S PILLS.
A simple test to make as to whether the kidneys are healthy is to place some urine passed the first thing in the morning in a covered glass, and let it stand until next morning. If it is then cloudy, shows a sediment like brickdust, is of an unnatural colour, or has particles floating about in it, the kidneys are weak or diseased, and steps must immediately be taken to restore their vigour, or Bright's Disease, Diabetes, or some of the many manifestations of uric poisoning will result.

A State of Misery and a Happy Release.

The Case of Mr. WALTER WILMOT.

A disease is none the less to be dreaded because it is not immediately fatal. If it seizes the organs, undermines the strength, leaving the mind prey to the most miserable and morbid feelings, so making life a misery and a torment, is not that as bad as death itself?

A man was too stingy to pay for a local newspaper, and he could not get along without it he sent his little boy to borrow a paper from his neighbor. In his haste he ran over a 16-oz box of beer, and in ten minutes looked like a warty-scurvy squab. His cries reached his father, who ran to his assistance, and, falling to notice a barbed wire fence, ran into it, breaking it down, cutting a handful of flesh from his anatomy, and ruining a quince pair of pants. The old cow took advantage of the gap in the fence, and got into the cornfield and killed herself eating green corn.

In his haste he ran over a 16-oz box of beer, and in ten minutes looked like a warty-scurvy squab. His cries reached his father, who ran to his assistance, and, falling to notice a barbed wire fence, ran into it, breaking it down, cutting a handful of flesh from his anatomy, and ruining a quince pair of pants. The old cow took advantage of the gap in the fence, and got into the cornfield and killed herself eating green corn.

HEARNE'S BRONCHITIS CURE

THE FAMOUS REMEDY FOR COUGHS, BRONCHITIS, ASTHMA, AND CONSUMPTION. HAS THE LARGEST SALE OF ANY CHEST MEDICINE IN THE WORLD.

Those who have taken this medicine are amazed at its wonderful influence. Sufferers from any form of Bronchitis, Cough, Difficulty of Breathing, Hoarseness, Pain or Soreness in the Chest, experience delightful and immediate relief; and to those who are subject to Colds on the Chest it is invaluable, as it effects a Complete Cure. It is most comforting in allaying irritation in the throat and giving strength to the voice, and it neither allows a Cough or Asthma to become chronic, nor Consumption to develop. Consumption has never been known to exist where "Coughs" have been properly treated with this medicine. No house should be without it, as, taken at the beginning, a dose is generally sufficient, and a Complete Cure is certain.

BEWARE OF COUGHS! REMEMBER THAT EVERY DISEASE HAS ITS COMMENCEMENT, AND CONSUMPTION IS NO EXCEPTION TO THIS RULE.

Capital invested, because I feel pretty sure it must be nearly paid up by this time, and it was clearly understood at the time the double pan system was introduced that no profit was to be made out of it; and a though I have allowed 13s per pan for cleaning, dusting, keeping in repair, etc., I am pretty sure that if tenders were called the job would be taken for considerably less, because no contractor would open for the lowest price he was prepared to take a job at.

In the afternoon the Presbytery meeting was held in the vestry. The moderator, Rev. F. McQueen, occupied the chair...

The quarterly reports from the Raglan and Waterloo Home Missions were read and received. The reports of the deacons were also read...

The Rev. T. R. Cairns urged on delegates the necessity of the various charges relating themselves actively in supporting the movement for the purpose of collecting funds to erect a memorial to the late Mr. Margaret Whitcomb...

Mr. McKenzie mentioned that news had arrived in Ballarat of the death in New Zealand of the Rev. William Campbell, who had formerly been well known in the Ballarat district...

When the business had been concluded the members adjourned to the church, where the visitation was made. The proceedings commenced with a hymn, sung by the congregation...

The Moderator then shortly addressed the congregation on the object of the visitation, which he explained, was made in accordance with the traditions of the church, which required that the members of the governing bodies should go to all the charges, and make themselves acquainted with the needs and position of the latter...

The Rev. T. R. Cairns put the usual questions, which were satisfactorily answered by the Rev. R. Robertson, the minister in charge, and also by Mr. Clarke, on behalf of the session, and Mr. J. A. Douglas, representing the board of management...

Mr. Cairns then delivered an address. He congratulated the congregation on the prosperity of the charge. It was very pleasing to find that the congregation was free from debt. This state of things was greatly due to the generosity of the residents of the district, and particularly that of the late Hon. Philip Russell...

After the visitation the meeting of the Presbytery resembled in the vestry and appointed the Ballarat ministers and the Rev. J. Smiley a sub-committee to draft a pleading with regard to the visitation. Abridged from "Star."

TAKING DESPERATE CHANCES. It is true that many contract colds and recover from them without taking any precaution or treatment, and a knowledge of this fact leads them to take their chances instead of giving their colds the needed attention. It would be borne in mind that every cold weakens the lungs, lowers the vitality, makes the system less able to withstand such succeeding colds and paves the way for more serious diseases. Can you afford to take such desperate chances when Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, famous for the cures of colds, may be had for a trifle? For sale by WOTHERSPOON & CO., Merchants, Beaufort.

The appointment of Mr. J. B. Box to the vacancy on the County Court bench is a popular one with members of the legal profession.

Beaufort Police Court.

Friday, 10th October, 1905.

John Baker, a swagman, was charged by Constable Starkey with making use of insulting words in a public place, Neill street, Beaufort, on 9th inst.

Defendant said he did not remember it, as he was the worse of drink. Constable Starkey deposed that at about 8.20 o'clock last night he arrested the prisoner, who was in company with three other men, and made use of very strong language to him; the words complained of being written on a slip of paper and handed to the Bench.

Defendant pleaded for leniency, stating he had a job to go to to-morrow at Maxwell's shearing. Senior-constable Nicholson read three previous convictions against defendant for drunkenness this year at Beaufort, and stated that this man was a complete nuisance; that he came to Beaufort and thought he had nothing to do but to get drunk.

Upon the chairman (Near-Admiral Bridges) stating that it was a bad record, defendant asked to be given a change and he would clear out to the work he had to go to.

In reply to the Bench, Constable Starkey said that the insulting words were used in Neill-street in a public place, and that there were people about at the time.

The chairman announced that the Court had decided, in view of the three previous convictions, it was really no good to give Baker a chance. He would be fined £4; in default one month's imprisonment. The Bench refused to grant him time in which to pay the money.

George Richards (alias John Viney) and William M. Kerr were then charged by Constable Starkey with being drunk and disorderly in a public place, Neill-street, Beaufort, on 9th inst. Both pleaded guilty; Kerr hoping the Bench would overlook it and give him a chance, as he had work to go to, and was very sorry for what had happened.

Constable Starkey said these men were together at about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when he gave them half-an-hour to clear out of the town. He saw them again at about 8 o'clock, and arrested them. These two were not noisy and language.

Senior-constable Nicholson said that one of them had been convicted at another place, but as it was some time ago he did not wish to bring it against him.

A fine of 5s, each, or 12 hours' imprisonment, was inflicted; an appeal for time being refused.

William Peter Schlicht sought to recover from George Grant Harrison the sum of £9.10s, that amount being due on a promissory note. Mr. S. Young appeared for plaintiff.

Defendant admitted the debt, but said he could not pay it in a lump sum. He was willing to pay so much per month. He had no money in hand.

Mr. Young stated that Mr. Schlicht objected to defendant having any further time. The original summons had been issued on 25th July for rent, and defendant came to him and promised to pay in a month, but he had let it go on till now without paying anything. He asked for a verdict, with costs.

Defendant said he called at Mr. Young's office and made an offer, which was not accepted; Mr. Young wanting £3 down, all he had.

Mr. Young said the offer was only 2s 6d a week. The debt had been owing for months before July, and the Court had no option but to give a verdict.

The Bench thought it would be serious to sell defendant up. Mr. Young replied that they could not sell him up unless he was worth a certain amount, and he was entitled to his tools of trade and furniture.

The chairman asked defendant if he could give some security that would be satisfactory to Mr. Young.

Defendant said only that he was entitled to £100 from his father's estate in March next, and when asked if he would be willing to assign the amount of the debt from his share of the estate, said he did not see his way clear to do so, having written to the Executors Company at Melbourne about it, and receiving no reply.

The chairman said the Bench were hesitating to give an order, with distress, to see if defendant could not make some offer that would be agreeable to Mr. Young.

Defendant said he could not pay more than 2s 6d a week.

The Bench did not see how they could do anything else but give an order for the amount claimed, with costs, in default of distress; defendant being advised to arrange terms of settlement with Mr. Young.

Mr. Young's application for 28s. 6d. costs was granted.

LIFE

(By "Viva.")

No living thing, from man to a microbe, can exist unless it is continually dying. It is not merely necessary for it to absorb nutriment in order to live; it is equally necessary that it should continually be getting rid of its waste matter...

Of course everyone knows that an adequate supply of suitable food, pure water and fresh air is requisite to build up the body, but, unfortunately, most people are not so aware of the complicated action of the mechanism with which nature has endowed man for dealing with the used-up, dead and waste material always being produced within us...

Upon the skin, lungs, kidneys and liver rests the main responsibility of removing waste matter from the body. The skin usually requires little attention beyond regular washing with good soap and water, and it will, in the form of perspiration, get rid of a quantity of dead matter...

It will therefore be seen how important it is that the vigorous health and activity of the kidneys and liver should be maintained. A person suffering from one or more of the many complaints mentioned should regard them as diseases to be cured, and not as a mere ailment to be tolerated...

WOMAN'S WORLD.

WOMEN AND HOME.

Whenever a true wife comes, home is always around her. The stars may be overcast, the glowworm in the night's cold grass may be the fire at her feet; but home is where she is and for a noble woman it stretches far around her better than houses called with cedar or painted with vermilion.

HER HUSBAND'S WILL. It is not an uncommon thing for a wife to be entirely ignorant of the contents of her husband's will; it is only in the case of a man who has disposed of his estate that she is made aware of it.

With the legal aspect of the matter she had nothing to do; he was not bound to consult her, and on her side, she knew that if she had possessed money in her own right, she could dispose of it as she pleased.

It was true that the money had been saved out of the husband's earnings and had been banked and invested in his name, but the wife declared that the extent of the saving had been considerably increased since her husband's death.

The STRANGER AND THE PRINCESS.

By Seward W. Hopkins.

CHAPTER X Continued.

"Ah!" he said bitterly. "I have fallen among thieves again. This rascal of an innkeeper has robbed me. Now, how shall I get out of this scrape with no money and my enemies in the very house?"

"How far is Trolle from here?" Robello was asking. "When will we arrive there?"

"How old is a goose? It all depends on the horse the innkeeper sold him. If it was a good one, he can do it in two days! And we are a day behind him!"

"Well, we will get the best horses to be had and try to overtake him. I saw some horses in the stable today—no handsome beasts, but strong, and they looked speedy."

"The stable? Did you find a stable? This inn is the only stable I saw."

"Well, there is a stable for horses in the rear."

The conversation now ceased, and Buckford went back to his room. He was now in a thrill of excitement. He had lost his sense of illness. His mind was alert and quick. His eagerness to find a way to escape had overcome the effect of the drug.

He had taken off his clothes before retiring and now dressed himself. He then made an examination of his room. He remembered that the window looked out toward a large building, for he had seen it at the twilight hour when he had entered. This must be the stable spoken of by Vandal. He next cautiously opened the window, making as little noise as possible.

It was a dark night, there being no moon and but few stars to be seen. The great peak of the barn rose like a black mountain a short distance away. He knew that he was on the ground floor of the inn. There seemed to be the roof of a shed under him.

He was about to let himself down from the window when a key turned in the lock of his door, and he heard the voices of Robard and his son.

At the same moment he heard the rustling voices of three or four half-drunken fellows under his window.

He was caught between two forces. To drop from the window at that moment was to drop into their hands. Robard would at once call out, and he would be taken.

While he was debating what to do Robard and his son entered.

"Ah, my friend, you have slept long," said Robard. "We feared you were ill."

"No, I was only very weary," said Buckford.

The younger Robard carried a lamp. By the light of this Buckford saw a knife sticking from the pocket of the elder rascal's coat.

With a leap like that of a panther, he was on the old man and tore the knife from the pocket. In another instant its point had found a soft spot between the robber's ribs.

Then, with a blow from his fist that sent the younger Robard reeling and the lamp flying against the wall, Buckford ran to the window and leaped to the roof of the stable below. From this he jumped down to the ground and came plump upon the roasting party of four, who were startled at this sudden lighting of a rare bird among them.

"Ho, ho! What's this? A robber! Call Robard! Call Robard! Seize this fellow! Hold him till Robard comes!"

"Fools!" cried Buckford as he saw the window of his room lighted with a red glare. "I am a guest of the inn. My lamp upset, and the house took fire. This was the only escape. Do you see?"

"Fire, fire! Robard's inn is on fire!" they shouted, and, sobred by the terrible catastrophe, they released Buckford and ran to the front of the building to gain an entrance.

"Fire, fire!" Buckford could hear the alarm ringing from one end of the house to the other.

Then from the window of the room he had left came screams and yells of wild rage and despair.

"Murder! Robbery! He has gone! After him, you Frenchmen! The thief!"

They rode like the wind over the hills. You want has just set the house on fire, you said Robard and leaped from the window after him!"

Buckford ran as he had never run before. Every eye was upon him as he neared the stable and rushed to the inn to fight the fire. He had no time to select a horse. He took the one nearest the door. Without saddle or bridle he led it forth, leaped upon its back and as the glare from the burning building sent a gleam of light around him he dashed away, followed by the cries of rage and the pistol shots of the enraged Frenchmen and Robard's son.

Vandal, quick to grasp this opportunity, left the Denelians to fight their own fire and, calling Reber and Robello, ran to the stable and got out horses. "This time that rascal's life!" he grewled. "This time, by heaven, I'll kill him!"

The three, mounted much as Buckford was, dashed after him.

Buckford had probably three to five miles to start and that started had carried him out of the sight of his pursuers. But they could hear the sullen pounding of his horse's hoofs on the hard road. They followed the sound.

It was not long before Ontro and its burning inn were left far behind. Mile after mile the horses carried their angry riders. Buckford, seeing for his life, spared not his horse. The others, less skilled horsemen, bobbed and pounded painfully on the bare backs, but clung to the flying steeds with a tenacity that showed how eager they were to overtake and finish this American who balked them at every step.

Vandal alone controlled his horse. The other merely clung round their horses' necks and let the beasts forgo in stampede the leader ridden by Vandal.

They went through little villages, all peacefully asleep. They rode like the wind through farming regions, through valleys and over hills till their overriden beasts nearly fell to the ground.

And now at last it was simply a question of the staying qualities of the horses. Had Buckford in his quick selection of the nearest horse to the door, obtained a good one, or had the others, taking horses from more protected places, chanced to get hold of animals of better speed or less weariness than the one he rode?

Buckford's horse was showing signs of exhaustion. He had hoped to gain enough headway to escape from his horse and find a hiding place. But instead the steady and thunderous hoof beats of the pursuing horses grew louder and nearer.

He was now in a rough and hilly country. The road was bad, and the weary horse stumbled constantly.

A pistol shot rang out behind him. The Frenchmen were near enough to shoot at him.

He knew that cruelty would not make his horse go faster.

Before him, rose trees that obscured the way. He could not see the ground ten feet from his horse.

Three pistol shots rang out together. With a cry almost like that of a human being his horse dropped to the ground.

For an instant he himself was conscious of a stinging sensation in the side. But this was lost in a greater shock as his horse, as he fell, sent the rider headlong from his back over the brink of a yawning ravine, along which the rough country road had been laid.

CHAPTER XI SHEEP AND WOLVES.

THOSE pistol shots were heard by three men who were walking slowly along a bypath which led from the main road through a well-tilled farm that skirted the opposite side of the ravine from that on which his horse had fallen.

He had taken the pursuit of Buckford had taken place. His wild ride, had ended just too soon, for not more than a hundred yards farther there was a turn in the road and a bridge which would have carried him almost into the very presence of these men and within sight of the lighted windows of the large and comfortable farmhouse where they dwelt.

"Hark!" said one, an elderly appearing man of solid build and undoubted strength of arm. "Shine across the gorge! A cry! What do you make of that?"

"Something wrong, I think," replied the younger man, but one no less muscular. They ran to the edge of the ravine and listened.

"Something crashing through the trees," said the elder. "A man or a horse has fallen. And hear the voices opposite! There seems quite a party together!"

"The ravine was not wide, and the voices of the Frenchmen could be plainly heard."

"I am sure I shot the devil," Vandal was saying. "He fell at once."

"Well, he found a nice deep place to fall into," said Robello, with a laugh. "How are you ever going to be sure of the result of your shot?"

"Especially when we all fired together," added Reber.

"Oh, as to that, it makes little difference who shot him. The thing is to make certain there is no failure this time."

"What! Go down into that beastly hole?" queried Robello.

"Go down! Of course. Do you think the fool will come up and tell us how hard he is hit?"

"Well, the elderly man across the ravine said to his companions, 'Three against one and the one down in the ditch. Come! Light your lantern. Debbsk and we will join the search. I mistake not, those fellows are Frenchmen. I trust few of those fellows I can tell you.'"

What, therefore, was the surprise of Vandal and his companions to see a bright light not more than 40 feet away from him on the opposite side of the ravine.

"Ho, there!" came the voice of the farmer, "who are you, and what do you want of my premises?"

"Your premises? Do you call a nest like this a premises?" laughed Vandal. "Well, then, tell you the truth, we are three traveling gentlemen, and we want a thief. In fact, we want him very much."

"Oh, a thief! What sort of thief? From Frussia?"

"We have found a sheep and a wolf!"

"What do you mean, Sester?" now came an anxious voice from the doorway as a woman appeared and stood by the girl's side.

"Have the wolves ventured forth from the Green forest again?"

"And whether they came from the Green forest, or the haunts of vice in cities I know not."

As the farmer ended his speech he stepped within the circle of light that streamed from the doorway.

"A young man, father?"

"And what is this? Our Debbsk wounded?" cried Mme. Volner.

"Two beds at once. We must attend to these things, your curiosity, I feel the farmer's, your curiosity, Mme. Volner and her daughter at once sprang to do the bidding of the farmer. The wounded men were placed upon two snowy beds.

"It is far to the surgeon, though he might be got at by daylight," said Volner. "However, the priest is skilled in surgery, and he can tell if we need another."

A man was at once dispatched for the cure of the village, which village was some three miles away.

While waiting for the cure the farmer worked over his two wards.

Debbsk, he found, was shot through the jaw. His wound, though terrible to look at and disgusting in its progress, was not necessarily fatal.

The other, who had his wife and daughter attending the man, he then applied himself to Buckford.

He found that a pistol ball had entered the young man's side from behind, had glanced on a rib, gone in an upward direction and was now lodged somewhere in, or near the chest cavity. By a miracle it had not touched the heart.

There were also severe bruises on the white forehead, which had bled considerably.

"Here, Adria," called Volner. "Come to me. This one needs your tender hand much more than Debbsk."

And in an instant the pretty Adria was bending over Buckford.

The cure came. It was a gentle old man, skilled not only in what comforted the soul, but in what soothed the aching brow or healed the crimson wound.

"This man, my son," he said to Volner as he stood over Debbsk, "is not in danger. His wound will be painful, but there is no danger. It is strange that he is so slow in recovering consciousness—ah, he moves his eyelids now. Yes, in a short time he will be awake. But believe me, an Englishman or American, is surely near to death. I think we had need of the surgeon in this. Send for him at once."

"I will, father. And now I will leave these two in your hands while I take some men to the ravine. The rascals who did the work are there."

"No, no!" cried Mme. Volner and Adria together, throwing their arms around the farmer's bulky neck. "You shall not risk your life. You have not told us who the rascals are, but we know they must be formidable foes, for they have wounded our powerful Debbsk."

"Formidable foes!" growled the farmer as he gently pushed them away. "Formidable foes! Three skulking wolves that dare not strike except at a man's back! Formidable foes!"

He was disappointed, however, on one point. As he was getting a bit despondent, in fact, he had so far forgotten his own salary and the material allowance (which, by the way, was as large as Mrs. Ferris could afford), that nothing short of a miracle, or a many of them, could have had been so long seeking, could have him from getting into very deep water.

And thus it came to pass that this winter found him engaged to Miss Bernice Field, who was visiting in New York, and who had, like the dutiful son he was, sent the gratifying news at once.

He was disappointed, however, on one point. As he was getting a bit despondent, in fact, he had so far forgotten his own salary and the material allowance (which, by the way, was as large as Mrs. Ferris could afford), that nothing short of a miracle, or a many of them, could have had been so long seeking, could have him from getting into very deep water.

And thus it came to pass that this winter found him engaged to Miss Bernice Field, who was visiting in New York, and who had, like the dutiful son he was, sent the gratifying news at once.

"We have found a sheep and a wolf!"

"What do you mean, Sester?" now came an anxious voice from the doorway as a woman appeared and stood by the girl's side.

"Have the wolves ventured forth from the Green forest again?"

"And whether they came from the Green forest, or the haunts of vice in cities I know not."

As the farmer ended his speech he stepped within the circle of light that streamed from the doorway.

"A young man, father?"

"And what is this? Our Debbsk wounded?" cried Mme. Volner.

"Two beds at once. We must attend to these things, your curiosity, I feel the farmer's, your curiosity, Mme. Volner and her daughter at once sprang to do the bidding of the farmer. The wounded men were placed upon two snowy beds.

"It is far to the surgeon, though he might be got at by daylight," said Volner. "However, the priest is skilled in surgery, and he can tell if we need another."

A man was at once dispatched for the cure of the village, which village was some three miles away.

While waiting for the cure the farmer worked over his two wards.

Debbsk, he found, was shot through the jaw. His wound, though terrible to look at and disgusting in its progress, was not necessarily fatal.

The other, who had his wife and daughter attending the man, he then applied himself to Buckford.

He found that a pistol ball had entered the young man's side from behind, had glanced on a rib, gone in an upward direction and was now lodged somewhere in, or near the chest cavity. By a miracle it had not touched the heart.

There were also severe bruises on the white forehead, which had bled considerably.

"Here, Adria," called Volner. "Come to me. This one needs your tender hand much more than Debbsk."

And in an instant the pretty Adria was bending over Buckford.

The cure came. It was a gentle old man, skilled not only in what comforted the soul, but in what soothed the aching brow or healed the crimson wound.
