Autumn Exhibit.

THE MILLINERY OPENING * * * IS NOW OCCURRING.

We have long since established an enviable reputation for Trimmed and Untrimmed Millinery by constantly showing the Latest and Newest Effects, and by anticipating the wants of our clients.

BUT... This year's showing relegates the best efforts of preceding years to honorable obscurity.

MARVELS IN MILLINERY.

If you ever had occasion to make comparisons between this Millinery Store and the best that exists elsewhere, you are of course buying your Millinery HERE.

CALL and INSPECT, That's all.

These days of Easter preparations are making our Drapery and Millinery Dept. the Mecca towards which many pilgrims are delightedly directing their steps.

JUST WHAT EVERYONE SHOULD DO. Mr. S. G. Mether, proprietor "Chronicle," Normanton (Q.), always keeps a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera, and Diarrhoea Remedy at hand, ready for emergency, for there is no time when it may be needed. He says:—"I have completely cured me of chronic dysentery, from which I had suffered for years. I feel confident that Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera, and Diarrhoea Remedy saved the life of my infant daughter, who, when teething, was severely attacked with diarrhoea, and was given up by the doctors." For sale by WOTHERSPOON & CO., Merchants, Beaufort.

The Show Concert.

The concert in connection with the Beaufort Agricultural Society's annual show was held on Wednesday evening in the Societies' Hall, and although some time before the doors opened rain had begun to fall, this seemed to have little or no effect upon the attendance, for the hall was filled, after the evening accommodation proving hardly adequate for the number present. The receipts totalled the very satisfactory sum of £21 12s. Mr. D. R. Hannah, president of the society, acted as chairman. The concert opened with piano-forte overture, brilliantly played by Miss B. Williams, who also supplied the accompaniments. Mr. Edgar Middlein followed with "A May Morning," which displayed his very pleasing tenor voice and his artistic method of great advantage, the song being encored. In the absence of Miss Queenie Burrows (due to the postponement of the show), Miss Mina Webber gave a very amusing recitation, "The pit of the party," which was highly appreciated. Miss Eva Legg created a very favorable impression by her rendering of "The Kerry Dance," the varied emotional phases which make its composition such a difficult one, being interspersed with adequate intelligence and feeling. Miss Rose Williams sang "The Moorish Maid" in a most pleasing manner, her light clear soprano and winning smile putting her on the best terms with the audience at once. In response to an encore, she sang a piquant serio-comic song, "You Naughty Man," very prettily. Mr. G. Cole gave a couple of clever comic songs, which were well received. The concert was concluded with a most pleasingly rendered "The Merry Widow" by Misses Eva Legg and Rose Williams. Mr. Hannah, on behalf of the society, thanked the performers for their part, and said that as the concert had proved so successful it would, in all probability, become an annual event in connection with the show. The second part opened with a piano solo by Miss B. Williams, who concluded the first part with "Lady Maud's Oath" with much tragic force. Mr. Middlein again greatly pleased his audience, his song, "To-night," being encored. The added number, "When Other Lips," was given with feeling and refinement. The song "At My Window," gave Miss Rose Williams an opportunity of displaying the capabilities of her flexible voice, and in response to an encore, she gave "I Couldn't, Couldn't I" with the requisite earnestness of expression. Miss Eva Legg's rendition of "To-night" was a most pleasing one, her thoughtful study and executive skill. This was really one of the gems of the evening, though it did not seem to appeal in any high degree to the happy and irresponsible spirits who crowded the seats. Perhaps the number most thoroughly enjoyed was the duet, "A Night in Venice," sung in finished and sympathetic style by Mr. Middlein and Miss Rose Williams. This melodious and romantic piece is rarely always sure of a good reception, and sung as it was by two conscientious artists, the effect was very pleasing. A couple of comic songs by Mr. G. Cole concluded a very good evening's entertainment. The expenses of the concert amounted to £12 6s 6d, leaving a profit of £9 5s 6d.

The Beaufort cricketers beat the Civil Service players on Saturday by five runs—106 to 101. Particulars next issue.

Burglary at Beaufort.

A GENERAL STORE ENTERED. The premises of Messrs Wotherspoon and Co., grocers, drapers, wine and spirit merchant, etc., were burglariously entered after closing up time on Saturday night, or in the early hours of Sunday morning. The window of a small back office was opened, and two iron bars forced open. There were four iron bars screwed on the inside of the window. The room was evidently entered with the intention of getting at the safe, but the thief was disappointed in this respect. The door of the office gave access to the grocery department, and the premises being opened on Monday morning it was discovered that an entrance had been effected, and that 160lb weight of tobacco of various brands was missing. There is a big iron door communicating with the drapery department, and an axe had been used to force the lock. The stock of boots was disarranged, and a large portmanteau and tin hat box were missing. At present the firm do not know what else has been stolen, as it will be necessary to take stock to find out. Upon information being given to the police, a stranger who was observed watching the premises from under the verandah, and on the road in front of the store, on Saturday night, was suspected. This person is said to have taken a ticket to Ballarat by the Adelaide express on Sunday morning, and as a good description of him was obtained, his arrest was expected. From enquiries made by Senior-constable A. Nicholson, it was ascertained that a man had come to Beaufort from Stawell by the 6.30 a.m. train on Saturday morning on a ticket to Melbourne, and stayed at the Commercial hotel. The only luggage he brought was a small black bag. When he left by the express on Sunday morning he took a ticket to Ballarat, and had "luggage" in a new portmanteau, a new tin hat box, and a sugar bag. Information was telephoned to Ballarat, and Detective Armstrong found that this luggage had been left in the premises of Messrs Wotherspoon and Co. on Sunday by a man answering the description given, and that he took it away with him by the Ballarat express to Melbourne on Monday morning. A warrant was taken out for the man's arrest, and the Criminal Investigation Branch was at once communicated with. The train had reached Melbourne on Sunday morning before the detectives arrived. The property, which was valued at £30, has not been recovered. Detective Hawkins as soon as he read the description forwarded from Beaufort suspected a man named James Roberts. On Wednesday Detectives Hawkins and Cahill arrested Roberts on the charge of having broken into the store. Roberts admitted that he had been in Beaufort, and had left by the Sunday morning express for Ballarat, but he denied that he had anything to do with the tobacco robbery. Roberts was brought before the City Court on Thursday, and remanded to appear at Beaufort on the 10th inst.

Beaufort Thistle Club.

A committee meeting of the Thistle Club was held at the Mechanics' Institute on Monday evening. Present—Mr. A. Nicholson (chair), Mrs. D. McDonald, Miss McRae, Dr. G. A. Eadie; Messrs J. E. W. J. Stevenson, J. J. Cochran, H. H. Menzies, D. McDonald, J. J. Nicol (secretary), P. Grant, J. Smith, and J. R. Wotherpoon.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed. A letter was received from G. Pringle, secretary Progress Yacht Club, conveying a resolution passed by the other club not to be allowed at the club's sports meeting on Easter Monday.

Several letters of a routine nature were also received. The tenders of J. R. Hughes for luncheon booth at 10s and Mrs. A. J. Martin for the fruit and soft drink booth at 2s were accepted. It was decided to make all events post-entrance.

The secretary stated that several pipers and dancers of Melbourne had signified their intention of being present at the sports on Easter Monday. Amongst the number is the well-known piper and comic singer, Mr. H. W. Skinner, to whom it was decided to send requisitions for Melbourne tickets to be used by Melbourne competitors.

Progressive reports were given, showing that a capital day's amusement was assured, as a number of well-known Highland competitors and dancers had been secured. The concert programme is one of the best, first-class Melbourne artists having been engaged. Both the sports and concert should attract a large attendance.

Beaufort Town Brass Band.

A general meeting of the subscribers to the Beaufort Town Brass Band was held in the Mechanics' Institute on Wednesday night. Mr. J. Eastwood, in the chair, and 25 present. The chairman regretted the absence of Mr. Wotherpoon, who had been closely associated with the old band and also with the new one.

The secretary (Mr. D. E. Troy) read the minutes of the previous meeting, which were approved. It was decided to have a committee of five (three non-players and two bandmen, the latter to be elected by the band at their first meeting) to be formed to be called the Beaufort Town Band, which was seconded by Mr. Sands, and carried. Mr. Jones offered the use of the Golden Age Hall as a practice room free of charge, and his generous offer was accepted and a hearty vote of thanks accorded him.

Wedding.

A wedding was celebrated at the Mane on 7th March by the Rev. R. McDowall between Mr. Hugh Charles Dunn, second son of Mr. James Dunn, of Trawalla, and Miss Hannah Boyd, third daughter of the late Mr. James Boyd, of Waterloo. The bride was prettily dressed in cream satin, trimmed with overall lace and ribbon, with insertion and with hat to match. She was attended by Miss M. Boyd, who was seated in cream cashmere with lace and ribbon. Mr. James Dunn acted as best man.

QUITE DIFFERENT.

The ordinary cough medicine may soothe the throat, but it has no power to heal; recovery is not complete, and a second attack is more liable to follow. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is quite different, because it not only soothes, but also heals, so that the affected parts are restored to a healthy condition, and the danger of a future attack is removed. For sale by WOTHERSPOON & CO., Merchants, Beaufort.

Farmers' Association.

LECTURE BY MR. G. F. DOUGLAS.
Mr. G. F. Douglas, organizing lecturer of the Farmers' Producers and Property Owners' Association, visited Beaufort on Monday night and delivered a lecture in the Scotch Hall under the auspices of the Middle Creek branch of the Women's National League. About 120 people attended, including a good many ladies.

Mr. Douglas, who is a fluent and able speaker, dealt with considerable length with the aims and objects of the association, repeating much of what he had previously said at Middle Creek. The league was organized about two years ago in the Oranbourne district, its object being to procure for the farmers the same facility to get their wares and wishes attended to as was possessed by every other class in the community.

Whistling a truck of bone-dust a young man named Albert Anderson, of Snake Valley, met with a painful accident. He had a 2cwt. sack on his back, when he made a misstep, and falling to the ground with the burden on top of him, had several ribs fractured.

HEARNE'S BRONCHITIS CURE

THE FAMOUS REMEDY FOR COUGHS, BRONCHITIS, ASTHMA, AND CONSUMPTION, HAS THE LARGEST SALE OF ANY CHEST MEDICINE IN THE WORLD.

Those who have taken this medicine are amazed at its wonderful influence. Sufferers from any form of Bronchitis, Cough, Difficulty of Breathing, Hoarseness, Pain or Soreness in the Chest, experience delightful and immediate relief; and to those who are subject to Colds on the Chest it is invaluable, as it effects a Complicated Cure. It is most comforting in allaying irritation in the throat and giving strength. Consumption has never been known to exist where "Coughs" have been properly treated with this medicine. No house should be without it, as taken at the beginning, a dose is generally sufficient, and a Complete Cure is certain.

BEWARE OF COUGHS!

Remember that every disease has its commencement, and consumption is no exception to this rule. I have used Hearne's Bronchitis Cure with splendid results. Always keep it in the house for use. I feel truly grateful to you for your invaluable medicine. It is marvelous the good it did me. I have used your Bronchitis Cure myself, and have recommended it to others, with the most beneficial results. I have used your Bronchitis Cure, and am pleased to say that it is without doubt, absolutely the best medicine on the market for coughs and colds. Most Convincing Evidence.

The Case of Mr. W. DAVIDSON.

(By a Special Reporter.) The colours were evidently fresh upon memory's tablet when our representative saw Mr. William Davidson, of 605 Drummond-street, North Carlton, for he said, in answer to a question: 'I remember quite distinctly, as ago it is since I got better after being so long. It is just on a year, and yet it seems to me that I was set free from my misery. You see, I had a good few of my teeth, and could not masticate my food properly, consequently, indigestion set in, and for a terribly long time I suffered severely, but I can safely say that I would have been out of my trouble long before if I had known about Clements Tonic at the start. "Was that the medicine which ultimately cured you?" interrogated the scribe. "Nothing else had anything to do with my recovery," said Mr. Davidson, "and ever since I came out to the colonies from Aberdeenshire forty years ago, I have never met a medicine to equal it. I do not think I had any other medicine, but I would have been out of my trouble long before if I had known about Clements Tonic at the start. The greatest aid you can give you newspaper is your job printing; if you do not feel able to run an advertisement, surely you can afford to give the newspaper your cards, doggers, bill-headers, letter-headers, envelopes, and business printing to execute. The newspaper man needs it, and it helps him to pay his printers for setting up the thousand and one free notices he gives you and your town; but don't give it to the printer or job printing office that can give you no such return, and is spending neither time, money, nor brains in helping you to build up your town. The time may come when a newspaper can live simply upon the revenue derived from advertising and subscriptions; but no ordinary news paper in any ordinary town can exist without the auxiliary support derived from job printing. Therefore, if you want a good newspaper—one that can still further help you and your town—give it your job printing.

LIFE.

By "Viva."

No living thing, from man to a microbe, can exist unless it is continuously dying. It is not merely necessary for man to absorb nutriment in order to live; it is equally necessary that, simultaneously, some portion of his body, bone, blood, or tissue, must also waste away and die. It is essential, also, that a balance be preserved in the two processes of nourishing the body and the removal of the waste or dead material which is constantly accumulating within it. An uneven action of either means disease. A total suspension of either means death.

BEAUFORT v. TRAWALLA.

This match, which was played last Saturday in the Park, was very one-sided, the scores being—Beaufort, 230; Trawalla, 17. Trawalla batted first, and were soon disposed of, two of their men being absent. N. Davey took 4 wickets for 6 runs, E. Lilly 2 for 10, and T. Schlicht 1 for 0. Six of the Beaufort bats made double-figure scores, and 20 strokes helped to swell the total. McCracken and McDonald all divided the bowling honors, the former taking 3 wickets for 45 runs, and the latter 2 for 30; G. Backhouse took 1 for 45, and four others were tried. Details:—

CHAPTER XIX.

A BASE BARGAIN.

"There's a person - perhaps to see the master," said the paragonist at the Nook, looking at her mistress. Dinner was just over, and Edmund Haigh was seated in the drawing room reading the papers, while his wife was huddled in her bed. His wife was seldom at work in her hands. She was either making or mending for her children, and if she had a few minutes to spare from the necessary sewing she would do a little work at home.

"A person! What do you mean? A gentleman or lady?" "He doesn't look quite a gentleman, sir," said the maid timidly. "What name did he give?" "He said you'd tell me his name. He said you'd tell me his name. He said your business was important."

"I'm glad to hear that because I like money," said Edmund in a non-committal tone. If it was to his interest to receive it, he would be polite to him, then he would be polite. On the other hand if he had nothing to gain he would make short work of him.

"Perhaps before I go into the matter that has brought me here, I had better tell you that I am the one at Hillcrest who has an estate. He'll give you to expect a different lot, and it'll be all right," said Burton, trying to convince himself that he was not injuring the child.

"But he was Mark's grandfather, too, and Mark's father was the old man," inquired Lottie. Edmund Haigh declares that his grandfather was not married to the lady, who was supposed to be his first wife, said the doctor.

"What are you going to do, uncle, about it?" asked Lottie, who was intensely interested, and very much excited. "You shall fight them, my dear. I as poor Mark's executor will refuse to yield anything until Edmund Haigh has paid me what you will pay us," said Burton.

"I'll give you a thousand pounds down when I get the box containing the certificate, and another thousand when I come into Hillcrest." "The box, don't you take the thousand down, but we must have five thousand when you come into Hillcrest."

"All right," and Edmund Haigh went with his visitor to the door, and on his return he indulged in pleasant anticipations of the day when he would see Burton was present at the Nook, but his errand had been somewhat of a failure.

"I don't think it is wicked to establish my claim," said Lottie. "I have no objection to your going to see the doctor," said Lottie. "I'll go to see the doctor, but I don't want you to go."

"I'm not going to the matter just now; it's time I went to business. But the evidence is conclusive," he said, shortly. "Edmund's mind you don't repeat the action you are taking. I firmly believe the marriage was legal, and I distrust this evidence."

CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE.

In what a fearful position the most innocent may find themselves is shown by a Dublin case which occurred some time ago in Dublin. A man who was accustomed to visit the house of a bachelor friend very frequently used to do so in an unceremonious manner by the back door, waited on by a woman, who came in at certain times, and then left him to his own devices, the only other person in the house being a medical student. One day, having slipped into the house one day by the back door, he and the tenant became engaged in a discussion respecting some juggling trick, which the bachelor declared they were easy and proceeded to give practical illustration of the fact. As an unlucky accident, he inflicted a terrible wound on himself. The friend, afraid to leave him to call assistance, strove to do his best. All was vain, and the wound proved fatal, and the visitor became filled with horror lest he should be accused with being the cause of the death of his friend. He stole quietly from the house and actually took a passage to New York, and hastened to hide himself in one of the wildest parts of the States. In the meantime suspicion had centred on the second innocent man, the lodger. A lady who lived in a house opposite and who occupied a window in her room, was one day sitting at an open window, and observing what went on in the street, swore positively that no one had entered the door. A Haigh could not do what was not right," said Lottie, with a smile.

"The old lady looked at her with interest. Then she said: "You are young, my dear, but you are young, my dear. Nevertheless, if a Haigh had not crossed my path I should have been a better woman to-day. The Haighs and the Nevilles are like fire and water." "Are you a Neville?" exclaimed Lottie, eagerly. "I am Dorothy Neville, the last of my name. But what do you know of them?" asked the old lady. "My husband's grandmother was called Margaret Neville, and a cousin because he says that Geoffrey Haigh was not legally married to his first wife. But if you are a Neville you must be related to her - she came from this village - and you may be able to help me establish my boy's rights. Surely you must have read about it in the papers?" and he assured her he had read it.

"I don't read the papers, but some time ago a man came here asking questions, but he was sent away long before he came," replied Miss Neville. "But you will not send me away the same? You will do what you can to help me for my baby's sake?" implored Lottie. "I don't know what you ask. I cannot break the silence of nearly a lifetime." "Not if by speaking you will prevent an injustice being done? Think what it will mean to my boy if he is robbed of his inheritance?" "The Nevilles and the Haighs can have no dealings. I was only thirty when my niece Margaret Neville left her home. She was warned to keep clear of Geoffrey Haigh, or she would suffer for it; but she wouldn't listen to any warnings, and it seems that her descendants are going to pay the price," said Miss Neville. "Why do you dislike the Haighs?" asked Lottie. "Why do I dislike them? The hatred was born in me," said the old lady. "Lottie looked at her in surprise, then she said: "If in the past a Haigh injured

At last, the living lamp! The discovery, which mankind has looked forward hopefully for so many years, has at length been made by a learned professor of the University of Freiburg, Dr. Molesch.

So he made a mixture of gelatine and "peptone," the latter being added to supply the requisite amount of food for the microbe from the dead fish.

It was a dead fish shining in the night that first led him to investigate the subject. He had been told that he had never proved by the experiments of other scientists that the luminescence in question was produced by the fish, but by minute bacteria feeding upon the latter.

Now, it happens that the microbe which causes the brightest of them all, according to having discovered this fact, Dr. Molesch was anxious to obtain artificial "cultures" of it on gelatine.

Thereupon it occurred to Dr. Molesch to make an experiment with a piece of chemical apparatus consisting simply of a glass tube expanded at one end so as to form a hollow bulb.

As a result of his investigations, he is of the opinion that each of these microbes (which is a single cell) contains within itself a particle of a substance which has the property of emitting light.

AN EFFECTUAL EXIT.

Mr. Rutland Barrington, who was interviewed in "The World" recently, tells a good story.

While some of the recent discoveries of supreme importance to mankind and the steps of progress which science promises in the near future are told from day to day.

For the farm the newest thing in the way of an invention is the automobile. When the engine which is of only twenty-horse power and costs £300.

Such a result is obtained by a machine which consists of a cylinder of steel, which, placed inside in contact with each other, are made to revolve slowly in opposite directions.

Another invention, which seems likely to be of great importance to the soldier, is the "fireless cooker."

There is a story in the "Tatler," which, adds fresh laurels to the Bertillon system.

When Michael Burke joined his brother James in America, the money he took over, added to James' savings, enabled them to go into the fish business.

WHAT WE FOUND OUT IN 1906.

By Rene Bache.

There are five things to remember if you want to rest an overworked brain: A healthy indifference to "wakenings," concentration of mind on simple things.

RUSSIANS LOYAL TO CZAR-EVEN IN REVOLUTION.

"During all the exciting times of the past year in Russia, the great mass of the people have remained remarkably loyal to the Czar," said Louis-Nixon, discussing the events of the recent revolution.

He then succeeded in obtaining from the girl a description of an anterior life, during which her name was "Lina" and she was the daughter of a British nobleman.

THE JURY.

A certain excellent but loud-voiced member of the Bar was addressing the jury. Finally in a perfect hurricane of sound, he closed his argument and sat down.

The barrister opposite had a sad, watery eye, and a hatchet-like face. He sat patiently through the tumultuous gusts of his friend, and after the reverberations of the closing crash he rose quietly from his seat.

"As I listened to the thunderous appeals of my learned friend," he said, addressing the jury in a drawling tone, "I recalled an old fable. You will remember, gentlemen, how the lion and the ass agreed to slay the beasts of the field and divide the spoil."

The last authorized book-keeping in Great Britain was in 1779, when "The Commercial Restraint of Ireland Considered," by the Hon. Henry Hutchinson, was given to the flames.

REUMATISM CURED.

From Mr. Wm. Milnes, Palmet Street, New Chum, Bendigo, Victoria.

"About eight years ago I was for a considerable time a great sufferer from rheumatism. Acting on the advice given me by several people, I took Warner's Safe Cure. I am pleased to say that, when I had taken the contents of two bottles, I was cured."

"When living in Bogabie, about 18 months ago, I was laid up for nearly a month with Rheumatism. I tried many of the usual remedies I took, and could not obtain any relief from any of the several medicines used. One day I saw a pamphlet issued by Warner's Safe Cure, and I decided to try it for myself, and I decided to try it for myself, and I decided to try it for myself."

"I am pleased to report that I have taken five bottles of Warner's Safe Cure, and I am now in good health. I am now in good health. I am now in good health. I am now in good health. I am now in good health."

"From Mr. R. A. Thompson, Mining Engineer, 148 Adelaide Terrace, Perth, W.A."

"When writing you some time back as to the efficacy of Warner's Safe Cure in biliousness, I mentioned being about to try a course of Warner's Safe Cure for Gout. The result was that the medicine was simply wonderful, and I speak freely in Perth can testify, and I speak freely of the benefit I received."

THE YOUNG MOTHER.

Always remember when carrying a baby that for the first few months after birth the spine is soft, and will bend very easily; therefore in carrying a young child support the back of the neck, or the spine is likely to be injured.

Children require very little meat till they reach the age of nine or ten. Too much meat in the little ones' diet makes them fretful and irritable. Give them plenty of milk, oatmeal, simple puddings, soup, fruit, vegetables, lightly boiled, and a very little meat occasionally.

Children, if allowed to use scissors or needles, are sure to have misfortunes, and sometimes cut or scratch themselves. Keep a supply of lint and some boracic ointment in your emergency cupboard. Spread a little of the ointment on the lint, and lay on the injured part, after washing in hot water. Cover the lint with soft gauze, and tie it. Boracic ointment can be bought at any chemist's.

Children's skins often get rough and chafed during winter weather. The best plan is to apply a little cold-cream after washing as soon as the first signs of roughness appears. Rub it well in, and wipe off all superfluous grease with a soft rag.

A point often overlooked by mothers and nurses who have charge of tiny babies is the fact that often the result of their pure cold water never does a baby any harm, if no more than a teaspoonful be given three or four times in the day.

"Muddy weather is always a sore trial to a woman wearing a nice skirt, but with care she can do much to save it from being prematurely ruined. In the first place, she should avoid coming in from the street and hang it before a fire, but not too close, for the mud to dry. When dry, caked mud may be rubbed off, and dust should then be brushed off with a fairly stiff brush. Then a brush must not be used, for it would be likely to spoil the surface of the cloth."

QUITE DIFFERENT.

The ordinary cough medicine may soothe the throat, but it has no power to heal. Recovery is not complete, and a second attack is more liable to follow. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a different matter. It not only soothes, but also heals, so that the affected parts are restored to a healthy condition, and the danger of a future attack is removed.

From Mrs. Elizabeth Bosher, 77 Henderson Road, Alexandria, N.S.W.

"I was laid up for nearly a month with Rheumatism. I tried many of the usual remedies I took, and could not obtain any relief from any of the several medicines used. One day I saw a pamphlet issued by Warner's Safe Cure, and I decided to try it for myself, and I decided to try it for myself."

St. John's Sunday School. OPENING AND DEDICATION BY THE LORD BISHOP OF BALLARAT.

The fine brick Sunday school just built as an annex to St. John's Church of England, Beaufort, was solemnly opened on Tuesday evening, when the dedication ceremony was performed by Dr. Green, Bishop of Ballarat, assisted by the Rev. R. Yeo, the Rev. J. E. Loft, and the Rev. J. E. Loft.

The Bishop, in the course of a very interesting address, said the opening of this school was a very timely and important step in the religious life of the parish. He had been Archbishop of Ballarat in 1880, and the first place he visited was Beaufort, where he was invited to give a series of lectures on the life of Christ.

During the evening a number of very enjoyable musical items were given. Mr. J. E. Loft, who acted as organist, was particularly successful in his rendering of "The Barndoor" and "In Response to an Offering."

Mr. R. A. D. Sinclair moved a vote of thanks to the Bishop for his presence (and, as president of Riponshire, welcomed him to Beaufort), to the ladies who had collected for the Sunday school, to those who arranged the supper, and to the musical performers. The vote was seconded by Mr. J. Eastwood, and carried by acclamation.

Mr. Green briefly replied, and a very pleasant function terminated. The ordinary good medicine may soothe the throat, but it has no power to heal. Recovery is not complete, and a second attack is more liable to follow.

Mission Services, conducted by the Rev. W. Fraser, B.A., were commenced in the Baptist Church on Thursday evening, when there was a good attendance. The choir sang a number of hymns, and the congregation assembled. After devotional exercises, Miss Edwards, of Ballarat, effected a splendid work in the effort.

Another Lease Forfeited. THE SAM SLICK MINE. NON-FULFILLMENT OF LABOR COVENANTS.

The Minister of Mines has decided to forfeit the lease of the Sam Slick Gold Mining Company, Beaufort. The directors of the company called on Mr. McLeod on Wednesday and said that they assumed from letters that they had received from the department that something in the nature of forfeiture was contemplated.

They claimed that they had done some work towards developing the deep ground, and they offered it in time to get better machinery. The minister said that he considered the lease had expired, and he let the trustees without the authority of the department, and had charged the trustees in each case the heavy royalty of ten per cent, while providing no plant.

THE MINISTER ORTHOXICED. The half-yearly meeting of the Sam Slick Company was held at the Geelong hotel on Wednesday morning, the 24th of April, when Mr. A. J. Hare, president, presided.

Director's Report.—A satisfactory report was obtained after several hours had been put down for a mine engine shaft, which is on the west side of the main gully, and it is anticipated that another 70 ft will be deep enough to open up the main gully in the channel. The shaft will be transferred to this shaft, and the directors are called for its re-erection there.

Mr. Fraser spoke on the call of Matthew. Everybody knew what kind of man as a class taxgatherer were. They were looked upon as disloyal to God, and disloyal to their country. They were communists and deprivers of religious and social privileges. One such was Matthew. He was following his occupation when he observed the crowd going towards the Lake. The first he took no notice, but he afterwards enquired, and was told it was Jesus the prophet of Nazareth.

EARLY SMOKING.

The present vices have not only ruined the virtuous, and treated by millions daily necessity, but occasional luxury, things that will not be realized that less ago it was quite civilized world. Its kind has been as to collect.

When we consider habit smoking, especially being neither a pleasure nor a duty, but a habit which is naturally prohibited, and the people, came a distinguished gallant, whose type of character was gradually formed, silver and the well-tinted himself, but without him, open up the veins, but a century ago, the habit of smoking was not only a pleasure, but a duty.

THE ROMANCE OF A GIPSY GIRL'S CURSE.

By HEDLEY RICHARDS, Author of "Time, the Avenger," "Diana's Inheritance," etc.

PART 8. CHAPTER XXII.

THE STORY TOLD BY THE DIARY.

It was the afternoon after Lottie's walk to Carston, and her mother, Mrs. Rhodes, called her to her room...

"What a gulf there is between us! More than the difference of us! More than the difference of us! More than the difference of us!"

"I'm afraid his words didn't do me much good, as I was indignant at hearing myself called a child, and hastened to assure him that I was seventeen years old."

Margaret who was his only child, had died many years ago. "What a gulf there is between us! More than the difference of us! More than the difference of us!"

"I'm afraid his words didn't do me much good, as I was indignant at hearing myself called a child, and hastened to assure him that I was seventeen years old."

"I'm afraid his words didn't do me much good, as I was indignant at hearing myself called a child, and hastened to assure him that I was seventeen years old."

CHAPTER XXIII. JENNY'S BOY. When Lottie laid the diary down, she took up the parchment envelope, and broke the seal; then she drew out a faded piece of paper...

"I'm afraid his words didn't do me much good, as I was indignant at hearing myself called a child, and hastened to assure him that I was seventeen years old."

"I'm afraid his words didn't do me much good, as I was indignant at hearing myself called a child, and hastened to assure him that I was seventeen years old."

CHAPTER XXIV. "But why should I sit in judgment on her? I, too have been doing my best to wrong the innocent, and my prayer should be, 'God be merciful to me, a sinner!'"

"I'm afraid his words didn't do me much good, as I was indignant at hearing myself called a child, and hastened to assure him that I was seventeen years old."

"I'm afraid his words didn't do me much good, as I was indignant at hearing myself called a child, and hastened to assure him that I was seventeen years old."

CHAPTER XXV. "There was a sudden gasp and Mary went out of the room, leaving the sentence unfinished and Jack undisturbed control over what she left behind her."

"I'm afraid his words didn't do me much good, as I was indignant at hearing myself called a child, and hastened to assure him that I was seventeen years old."

"I'm afraid his words didn't do me much good, as I was indignant at hearing myself called a child, and hastened to assure him that I was seventeen years old."

CHAPTER XXVI. "The following narrative is from an Indian soldier. Some time ago I was stationed in Madras, and during a brief period of my morning's work, our captain always marched us down to the sea, and he generally took a rifle, on the order of every morning."

"I'm afraid his words didn't do me much good, as I was indignant at hearing myself called a child, and hastened to assure him that I was seventeen years old."

CHAPTER XXVIII. "The following narrative is from a man in a menagerie. David Crockett once visited a menagerie at Washington, and passing a moment before a particularly hideous monkey, he remarked to the attendant, 'What a resemblance to the lion!'"

"I'm afraid his words didn't do me much good, as I was indignant at hearing myself called a child, and hastened to assure him that I was seventeen years old."

Troubles of a Freak.

THE WORRIES AND ANXIETIES OF A CARDIFF GIANT.

Strange as it may seem, the freak of a show is envied by many people. The reason is, of course, that the person is forced to earn his livelihood by hard and unaccustomed toil. The freak's greatest excitement is to walk about and be gazed at. The ordinary freak-winner, whose work is necessary to society, receives only a miserly compensation. The person who newly enters to live curiosity and a love of the abnormal, is highly paid. The bread-winner is taken as a matter of course; the freak receives a substantial honorarium.

Any one, however, who talks with one of the unusual beings connected with the circus and the freaks, and is convinced of being unlike the general run of people that he does of the advantages of his position, the individual who is travelling with a show. The absence of anything like real privacy is very wearing on the nerves and mind. To be continually stared at, for instance, is a disadvantage. The freak, however, while carrying on the ordinary exercises of life—such as walking, driving or shopping—is anything but pleased.

"I'm afraid his words didn't do me much good, as I was indignant at hearing myself called a child, and hastened to assure him that I was seventeen years old."

A Soldier's Adventure in India.

The following narrative is from an Indian soldier. Some time ago I was stationed in Madras, and during a brief period of my morning's work, our captain always marched us down to the sea, and he generally took a rifle, on the order of every morning."

"I'm afraid his words didn't do me much good, as I was indignant at hearing myself called a child, and hastened to assure him that I was seventeen years old."

MORE LETTERS FROM WOMEN.

From Mrs. Elizabeth Sweet, 184 Gouger Street, Adelaide, S.A., 2nd Dec. 1904. "It affords me great pleasure to testify as to the great and lasting benefit I derived from taking Warner's Safe Cure, after suffering for many years from constitutional breakdown and nervous prostration, brought on by mental worry and family troubles...

good health. From Miss Edith Newman, 68 Grosvenor Street, Balaclava, Vic., 21st Jan. 1904. "For the benefit of ladies who may be suffering as I did, I wish to state, in a few words, my experience. In taking Warner's Safe Cure and Warner's Safe Pills, for more than two years I was suffering from very acute headache, accompanied by fainting fits, extreme weakness, and general debility. At that time, on the advice of a friend, I commenced to take Warner's Safe Cure and Warner's Safe Pills. I continued to take these medicines for a few weeks, when the nervousness entirely disappeared, and the headaches and fainting feelings left me. I am pleased to state that I have enjoyed better health since taking Warner's Safe medicines than for years previous to that time."

In America war is being waged on lions and tigers, which some people have deemed a joke. All the trouble they are having is due to a lack of a leading medicinal paper directed at the handkerchief is "quite a dangerous bacteria carrier and preserver, chiefly on account of being so frequent in use, and being so often used in a dry, humid and secluded from air and light contribute to increase and spread bacteria. The handkerchief, it is asserted, deposits bacteria in the clothes and pockets and spreads them broadcast."

A LOCAL CASE HERE IN CARLTON.

The Case of Mr. W. ZEVENBOOM. (By a Local Reporter.)

A statement as earnestly as the strength of a strong criticism can be made in regard to the case of Mr. Zevenboom, a special reporter by Mr. Wynand Zevenboom, of No. 291 Drummond-street, Carlton. It is as follows:—"I have carried on brush-manufacturing business in this city for about forty-five years. Mr. Zevenboom began by saying, 'so you may well imagine that I have seen many a thing in my life, but nothing so distressing as your condition, recommended a trial of Warner's Safe Cure. The advice was adopted, and, after taking a few bottles of the medicine, the most favourable change took place. Continuing the treatment I continuously improved in health, until now all previous troubles have left me and I am in good health.'"

"I have suffered as many other women have from the effect of rearing a family of children, complicated by disorders of the liver, constipation, headaches and depression of spirits. I frequently, whilst worried about the house, I would have to sit down and rest until faintness passed. About a year ago I suffered almost torture from pain in my back and head, and, knowing a moment's peace. A friend, knowing my condition, recommended a trial of Warner's Safe Cure. The advice was adopted, and, after taking a few bottles of the medicine, the most favourable change took place. Continuing the treatment I continuously improved in health, until now all previous troubles have left me and I am in good health."

THE CARE OF CANARIES.

A pair of canaries I give you to care. Don't blind them with sunshine, or starve them with cold. Or leave them out late in the cold of the day. And then be surprised if they suffer from cramp. Or open the window in all kinds of weather. The birds that are free fly to bush and to get to the top of the tree. But these pretty captives depend on you. In winter for warmth and in summer for shade. When they chirp and ceaselessly hop to and fro. Some want to be entertained by trying to show; when they scrape their bills sharply on perch or wire. They're asking for something they greatly desire; when they set every feather on end in a twinkling. With musical rattle like water-sprinkling in rain or sunshine, with sharp call-like notes. They're begging for water to freshen their throats. Cages, perches and vessels, keep all very clean. For fear of small insects you know what I mean. They breed in their feathers, and leave them no rest. In buying them, choose the cleanest and best. If you feed canaries (examine me the hint) on hemp and canary, rape, millet, and linseed. I try them with all, till I find out their tastes. The food they don't care for they scatter and waste. About their bright cages I hang a gay flower. Of albatross's quills, chickweed and groundsel in flower. At a roost of ripe grass they will pick with much zest. For small pebbles their food to digest. But all should be ripe, and well seeded, and brown. For the groundsel, but plenty of down. In summer I hang them out in the shade. About our hall door by a window; in autumn, winter, a portico where they share. Where the blind is drawn down to the afternoon glare. This window, if open, beneath them we loathe. Let the cramp should seize hold of their poor little toes. A bath about noon on every warm day. Will keep your small favourites healthy and gay. In hot summer sunshine some calico cloth is best. As a roof to their cage, makes a very good screen. On winter nights cover from lamp light and they'll sing in all weathers, and live to be old."

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Sherry Blancange. Make rather more than a pint of blancange by putting an ounce of lingasse into one pint of boiling water, and leaving it to boil for five minutes. Lay some pork chops in a braising pan, with three half pints of hot water thickened with a tablespoonful of browned flour. Put the cover on and cook for an hour. Put a pint of good melted butter, salt, pepper, and chopped and put on the cover for half-an-hour, removing it then for ten minutes to brown the dish slightly. Egg of Chicken. Melted butter. Put some butter, enough to cover your joint, on to boil, and have it ready well floured and four rubbed well at the top. As soon as the butter boils add a little salt. Take six or seven spring onions, and make a pint of good melted butter. Put on to the chopped vegetables. Let all boil up gently, and pour the sauce over the mutton before serving. Ginger Fuff. One half-pint of ginger, four eggs, one teaspoonful of sugar, a little nutmeg, a tablespoonful of sugar, half a glass of white wine. Add the ginger to the sugar, and mix together with four eggs well beaten and the wine. Bake them in cups in a quick oven, and pour a little melted butter over them before they are sent to table. If cups are made the day before they are to be used, the sediment and the fat should be separated before they are warmed up. Shoemaker's Wax. Mix by melting together the best Swedish pitch and tallow in a vessel over a fire. The quantity of the tallow must be determined by experiment. Roll into balls. The right kind of pitch is of a brown colour when fractured. To drive worms from foyer-poles, prepare some lime water, and use the lime water instead of clear water the next time the plants are dry. It will bring the worms to the surface, and will do no harm to plants. The edges of books are gilded by sponging with white dry and laying on gold leaf; when dry, burnish with an agate burnisher. Concrete stains on table linen may be removed with oxalic acid when boiling water falls. Spread the stained part on a plate, and pour on it a little hot acid. Wash gently with a soft brush. When the stain disappears, rinse the article in plenty of cold water, and then in ammonia water. A teaspoonful of ammonia to two quarts of water will be about the right proportion.

REHEMATISM SUFFERERS.

Many sufferers from rheumatism have been surprised and delighted at the prompt relief obtained by applying Chamberlain's Pain Balm for Rheumatism, and we know it will give you perfect satisfaction, as the first application will relieve the pain and its continued use for a short time will effect a cure. HEARNE'S BRONCHITIS CURE

THE FAMOUS REMEDY FOR COUGHS, BRONCHITIS, ASTHMA, AND CONSUMPTION, HAD THE LARGEST SALE OF ANY CHEST MEDICINE IN THE WORLD.

Those who have taken this medicine are amazed at its wonderful influence. Sufferers from any form of Bronchitis, Cough, Difficulty of Breathing, Hoarseness, Pain of the Chest, Soreness in the Throat, and Irritation in the Throat and giving strength to the voice, and it neither allows a Cough or Asthma to become chronic, nor Consumption to develop. Consumption has never been known to exist where "Coughs" have been properly treated with this medicine. No house should be without it, as taken at the beginning, a dose is generally sufficient, and a Complete Cure is certain.

BEWARE OF COUGHS!

"I have used Hearne's Bronchitis Cure with splendid results. Always keep it in the house for use. It acts like magic." JAMES SMITH, Methodist Parsonage, Dunedin, New Zealand. "I was a bronchial sufferer for nearly 40 years, but have found Hearne's Bronchitis Cure a perfect remedy." H. EDHOUSE, J.P., 100, St. Andrew's Street, Swallow, Victoria. "Your Bronchitis Cure is a splendid medicine. It is the best medicine I have ever used for Cough, Colds on the Chest, and other ailments." JOHN MCKENZIE, Warrana, Victoria. "I suffered very much from Asthma for four years and tried lots of so-called cures, without deriving any benefit. I got Hearne's Bronchitis Cure, No. 1, and a bottle of your No. 2, and after taking them for a few days, I have not had the wheezing at all." V. CAMERON, "Langshill" Riverside Road, Hawthorn, Melbourne. "I try them with all, till I find out their tastes. The food they don't care for they scatter and waste. About their bright cages I hang a gay flower. Of albatross's quills, chickweed and groundsel in flower. At a roost of ripe grass they will pick with much zest. For small pebbles their food to digest. NOTICE.

We have resolved to amend the Subscription to "THE RIPONSHIRE ADVOCATE" (which is published a 14-column supplement containing well-selected reading matter) to 3s per quarter, and trust that this concession will be largely taken advantage of. The Advertising Rates have also been considerably reduced, and advertisers will find it to their benefit to avail themselves of the columns of "The Riponshire Advocate," which is the only newspaper that is printed and published within the boundaries of the shire. As the advocate of the interests and for the welfare of this district, it has a claim for a considerable amount of support, and has a greater scope for extended usefulness than any other journal or newspaper within a given radius of Beaufort. Job Printing, plain and ornamental, every description, is executed with neatness, accuracy and despatch, and on the most reasonable terms. We take this opportunity of thanking our patrons for past favors, and while respectfully soliciting a renewal of support, desire to state that increased attention will be given to all matters of local and general interest. As a record of news we will always endeavour to make our columns as comprehensive as possible. In all departments, in fact, we will aim at improvement, and, therefore, confidently appeal to the public for increased support.

W. M. C. PEDDER, Wholesale and Retail.

Whealsbrough and Blacksmith, begs to state the public of Beaufort and surrounding district for their patronage during the last 15 years, and to intimate that he is still carrying on business at the same old address, NEILL STREET, BEAUFORT, with a staff of skilled mechanics and up-to-date machinery, and is prepared to execute and deliver to him with promptness and despatch. Prices as low as possible, consistent with good workmanship. Horses as usual a specialty.
