STOCK ON ROADS.

At the August meeting of the Riponshire Council on Monday, a letter was read from Cr. Peck and 10 stockowners of Skipton, applying for permission to graze cattle, not exceeding six for each ratepayer, public lawns and roads adjacent to the town, excepting the main street and main roads; cattle to be grazed at council risk; common managers of the town to hold responsible for any accident or loss through such grazing on roads, with a promise to paddock all cattle between 6 p.m. and 6 a.m.

Cr. Stewart suggested that the matter should be referred to the public health committee, and that the council should be kept advised of the progress of the matter. Cr. RETIRING COUNCILLORS.

A REMARKABLE RECORD. The three retiring members of the Riponshire Council this year have a rather remarkable record; the duration of their service being 10, 11 and 12 years respectively. Cr. R. A. A. (North riding) has been a member for 10 years, and was elected president. Cr. Donald Stewart (South riding) has also represented the ratepayers for 11 years and has attended 40 meetings. He was president six occasions, and is likely to fill the position again next year.

Cr. A. C. Roddis (East riding) has been a member of the council for nearly 30 years, and has attended 100 meetings. All three councillors are seeking re-election, and so far as is known, are not likely to be opposed.

At the monthly meeting of the council, Cr. Russell moved a hearty vote of thanks to the retiring councillors, and hoped they would all be back again when they met in September.

Cr. Troy supported the vote of thanks, and suggested that the council should be kept advised of the progress of the matter.

There had been observed. Four other children did not attend school until that day, and were taken to the hospital. Water supply was obtained from tanks which appeared to be clean, and milk obtained from cows kept on the property. Bread and groceries were obtained from Ballarat, and diphtheria was fairly prevalent there. Infection might have been transmitted in that way. He was informed that the patient was well on the way to recovery, and was expected home early next week from 22nd July. — Received.

BEAUFORT DISTRICT COMPETITION FOR LISTON TROPHY.

FIRST SEMI-FINAL.

WATERLOO DEFEATS MIDDLE CREEK-BUANGOR.

Cold, wet weather conditions militated against a good attendance at the first semi-final of the Beaufort district football competition, played at the local Park on Saturday, between Waterloo and Middle Creek-Buangor, the teams occupying third and fourth positions on the preliminary list. Although Waterloo won by 35 points, the game was very keenly contested up to half-time, when the scores were even. Middle Creek-Buangor failed to score in the second half of the match. The ground was very sloppy, and the ball soon became both greasy and sooty—factors which made good football almost impossible. Calvin gave an excellent exhibition of umpiring under difficult conditions. The other officials were: Goalkeepers, Messrs J. Cole and J. Cutbush; boundary umpires, Messrs J. Cheeseman and Ted Tiley; timekeepers, Messrs W. O'Sullivan and J. Irvine.

Bowd passed to Fitzpatrick in position, and his shot was nullified by Dunn in the sticks. At this stage the scores were even. Rutherford essayed a "grubber," which was rendered fruitless by R. Phillips a foot in front of the sticks. Lynch forwarded the ball close to the opening, but Waterloo did not score; a free to Jess relieving the strain. Smith sent the ball up from a free, and Clark marked, and prevented any scoring. Half-time scores—Waterloo, 14; Middle Creek-Buangor, 11.

LITERARY AND DEBATING SOCIETY.

The president of the Beaufort Literary and Debating Society (Dr. S. R. Humphreys) was in the chair at the fortnightly meeting on Tuesday night at the Mechanics' Institute; 17 members being present. Apologies were received for the absence of several others. In answer to Mr. Crouch, the president said no further work had been received from the University Extension Board, in regard to tutorial classes, but Dr. Hamilton had indicated that a class of 40 would be required. The majority of those present expressed their willingness to join such a class. It was eventually decided to put the matter before those present at the next University Extension lecture, and to discuss it further at next meeting. The president welcomed a couple of visitors, Messrs Bochevaine and W. Ashley. It was proposed to have one invitation night in the year for ladies, and the matter was deferred till next meeting, as three members who were to take part in the speeches on authors were absent. The committee of criticism gave their report on the speeches on poets, given at last meeting. As the organisers of that evening, Mr. J. Jenkin gave an intensely interesting sketch of the lives of four great musicians of the 19th century—Edward Grieg, Joseph Verdi, Frederic Chopin, and Franz Liszt. He also touched on the nature and merits of poetic compositions, in a manner which showed considerable practical and theoretical knowledge of his subject, and was both informative and entertaining to his hearers. The lecturer was accorded a hearty and appreciative vote of thanks, on the motion of the Rev. A. Talbot and Mr. L. R. Dawson; Dr. Humphreys speaking in support. The syllabus item for next meeting is a debate, "Protection v. Free Trade." Dr. Humphreys agreed to give his promised lecture on a future occasion.

BEAUFORT DISTRICT COMPETITION FOR LISTON TROPHY.

SECOND SEMI-FINAL.

RAGLAN V. BEAUFORT.

The second semi-final of the Beaufort district football competition, played in the Beaufort Park on Saturday between the local team and Raglan, proved to be the most interesting and closely-contested game of the season. Throughout the match there were only a few points difference between the scores, and the game was in doubt until a few minutes before the final bell. The match was satisfactorily umpired by game was reported 10 points lead. Raglan, who were the alleged kicking team, were checked by striking Grant. The goal was scored by Messrs. W. Clark and A. Smith, the goal umpire. Messrs. W. Cheeseman, J. Boyle, E. Lilley, R. Holdsworth, L. Lilley, M. Tyrrell, and J. Cheeseman; and for Middle Creek, Messrs. J. O'Brien, F. Beaufort, H. McDonald, and Mitchell. Mr. Thos. Kenny, sent., died at 1854, and was a colonel of 50 years standing.

THE TEAMS.

Beaufort.—N. Lardner (captain), R. Phillips, K. Hyde, L. Fitzpatrick, C. Bates, R. Hancock, I. Cheeseman, J. Lawkins, H. Coffey, G. Maher, E. Day, J. Duke, 19th man, A. Wainger.

Raglan.—J. Grant (captain), J. Wilkinson, G. Grant, E. Drew, M. Kelly, E. Hopkins, J. Cuthbertson, L. Walsh, commoner, Jack Wilkinson, J. Irving, C. Irving, G. E. Bendish, S. Mair, 19th man, E. G. Gillingham.

Raglan attacked from the bounce, and took play. J. Wilkinson forwarded the ball, and in attempting to effect a "save," Hyde ran through the opening with the ball, but it had been first whisked up by the central umpire, and Raglan did not benefit. E. Drew marked, and got a single for Beaufort. Then G. Grant snatched a goal with a smart angle shot over his head, and Raglan opened their account in earnest. E. Day passed to L. Welsh in front, but he could only manage a single for Beaufort. Fitzpatrick nullified Welsh's next shot. Beaufort took a hand, and N. Lardner sent the ball out of bounds. E. Day kicked it back, and scored a single for Beaufort. M. Kelly frustrated the next Beaufort thrust. Raglan came forward, and G. Grant secured a behind for them. Lardner and Yawkins forwarded the ball, but Beaufort did not score. Grant drove the ball into position for Raglan, and L. Fitzpatrick relieved with a good mark. Raglan kept attacking, and Grant got a behind for them. Raglan again came forward with a dash, and Drew secured a behind for them with a superb shot. A few seconds later, he and Gray got a free, and Gray got a free, and scored a goal for Beaufort. Beaufort then forced the ball out of bounds near goal. Yawkins and Hancock sent the ball into position, but the Raglan back men checked them. Soon after, Welsh got a single for Raglan. Raglan attacked, and Hyde relieved. Fisher then got another single for Beaufort. Hancock passed to E. Day in front of the Beaufort objective, but he did not score. Quarter-time scores—Raglan, 1; Beaufort, 1.

Raglan started the second term forward at once, and J. Irving relieved. A little later, N. Lardner got a goal for Beaufort. This made the scores even. Raglan took the ball to their end, but a free to Beaufort back man checked them. Cheeseman, Yawkins, and Hancock forwarded play near Beaufort's goal. Raglan kicked, without result, and Beaufort relieved the pressure on the Raglan defence. A free was given to Yawkins at an angle, and he had a shot, but M. Drew relieved. Later, Gray snatched a behind for Beaufort. G. Grant and J. Irving passed to Maher, who got a goal for Raglan with a "scrubber." Beaufort then forced the ball out of bounds near goal. N. Lardner passed to R. Pringle in front, but Fisher marked and stopped any scoring. Cheeseman passed to Yawkins, and a minor point was rushed for Beaufort. Hancock forwarded the ball, and E. Day snatched a goal for Beaufort. Raglan again attacked, and Hyde administered the check. Beaufort came forward more without result, owing to the weak link with the forward line. A free to Hopkins held up the next thrust. Duke Yawkins, and Lord relieved. N. Lardner drove the ball into position, and Gray got a behind for Beaufort at the bell ring. Half-time scores—Beaufort, 3; Raglan, 2.

Beaufort had a lead of three points at the outset of the third term. G. Grant placed E. Drew in possession early in the quarter, and a single for Raglan was the outcome. Raglan came forward again, and the ball was forced out of bounds near goal twice. Beaufort took the leather to their end, but did not score.

"NATURAL SOURCES OF POWER."

There was a good attendance at the last of the successful series of University Extension lectures, held at the G.W.A. rooms, Beaufort, on Friday night, 19th inst., under the auspices of the local Literary and Debating Society. The lecturer was Professor E. J. Hartung, D.Sc., and Mr W. Pascoe acted as lanternist.

Dr. S. E. Humphreys (president of the Literary and Debating Society) presided, and said he was glad to see such an excellent crowd, and so many young people, who, after all, from nature's point of view, were the really important members of the community. They were particularly honoured in having the professor of chemistry in the Melbourne University here to lecture them.

In the course of a very interesting address, Professor Hartung said the subject, "Natural Sources of Power" was a very important one, as they needed power in their modern civilization. When men were emerging from the days of barbarism, they did not need any sources of power. When they began to live as communities, they had to look to natural sources of power. They wanted power for heating and lighting, for industry, and transport. By natural sources of power he meant natural sources of energy. Energy was something which a body might possess which enabled it to perform a certain amount of work, and power simply measured the rate at which the work was done. They not only wanted supplies of energy, but they also wanted a means of converting it into energy of position. Energy of motion could also be turned into energy of heat. Sound was another form of energy. Scientists were concerned with the amount of energy made and the amount lost.

The two always balanced one another if measured in the right way. It would always be there, though perhaps in a different form. They could not create or destroy energy, but could only turn it from one source to another. They had to look to nature where for energy—they could not make it out of nothing. The more electricity they took out of a dynamo the harder it was to turn. If any one willing a radiator said it was better than others, they could be quite certain that it used more current than any other. They could return electrical energy into light and heat, into energy of motion again, or into sound, as in a wireless set or electric motor horn. Nearly the whole of energy used was got by the burning of coal, a certain amount by the combustion of oil, and a smaller amount by the combustion of wood. In burning coal, the difference between power lost was found in heat and light. The energy of coal had a vegetable origin; this being in the first place derived from what was known as solar energy. The energy they got out of wood burned was really lost in regard to oil, which was formed in the past from animal material, and particularly from sea animals. These sea animals got their energy from the sun, by eating sea plants or other animals which ate sea plants. They could trace the whole thing back to the sun. Heat energy was different from all other forms of energy. They could turn energy of motion into heat, and could turn energy of light into heat. When a lighted electric globe was removed from a box, the light was absorbed by the material of the box and turned into heat. They could turn all other forms of energy into heat, but could not change heat into other forms. They could only change a small proportion of heat energy into other forms of energy, because the universe was built that way. It was a most difficult problem to try and get the energy of coal out of it, without first turning it into heat. Scientists had never been able to devise any other method of utilizing coal without first turning heat out of it. At Yallourn they considered it extremely fortunate if they could get one-fifth of the heat energy of the coal on to the wireless. Many other engines, there was a far greater loss than that. The reason was that the coal of the earth was limited. It was not being made at all. The supply of coal was being continually exhausted unless some other means of supplying energy was found; and then the civilized race would find itself in an extremely awkward position. Coal was therefore being used as economically as possible. Engineers were always striving to make the initial conversion at which an engine worked as high as possible. The higher they could start, the bigger drop it gave, the bigger the amount of heat energy that could be converted.

The lecturer showed a number of interesting slides, demonstrating that coal was not distributed equally between all the countries. U.S.A. had 50 per cent., which meant that that nation was never going to be interested in importing Germany, for the same reason, could hold out longer than any of the European countries. The total the British Empire had equalled one-fourth of the world's supply of coal. Canada had the most in the Empire, which meant that she was the last dominion the Empire must quarrel with, because the future of the Empire lay in that coal. China was going to do big things in the future, because she had big supplies of coal, and that was one taken a great interest in. China was a number of slides were shown, showing the vast undertakings of the Electricity Commission at Yallourn, the way in which brown coal was treated, and the immense plant at that there. Electrical energy was work to distribute, and it was estimated that there was enough coal for 1000 years at Yallourn. A matter of great importance was the fact that the coal was very close to the surface, and they had the river Laod.

OBITUARY.

MR. JAMES CRAIG.

We regret to record the death of Mr James Craig; the sad event taking place at South Yarra on 19th June. Deceased was 84 years of age, and was formerly the head teacher of a number of State schools in Victoria. He was highly esteemed by all who knew him. Deceased was the father of Mrs T. M. Bowe, of the St. & A. Bank, Beaufort, and leaves two other daughters.

MRS. AGNES CLOUGH.

Mrs Agnes Clough, the wife of Mr Joseph H. Clough, a very old and respected resident of Buaugor, died on Friday, 19th inst., at her home. The deceased, who was of a kindly disposition and well liked, was a daughter of the late Mr and Mrs Todd, and was born at Linton. For the past 50 years, she had lived at Buaugor. She had been failing in health for several months. Besides her husband she leaves a family of three sons and three daughters to mourn their loss. The sons are Messrs William Clough (Waurol), Joseph and John Clough (Buaugor), and the daughters, Mrs W. J. Roberts (Middle Creek), Mrs C. J. Tilley (Ballarat), and Miss Clough (Buaugor). The interment in the Buaugor Cemetery on Saturday afternoon, a number of relatives and friends joined the cortege, which left her late residence, and many beautiful wreaths were placed on the coffin, which was carried to the grave by Messrs W. H. J. R. and J. E. Clough (sons of deceased). W. Todd (son-in-law), C. J. Tilley, and W. J. Roberts (sons-in-law). The pall-bearers were Messrs W. Lewis, E. Osborne, T. Matthews, A. J. Felmingham, H. K. Parker, B. Bourke, and W. Edson. The funeral service of the Church of England was read at the house and hurried. Mr J. Dunn, of Ararat, had charge of the obsequies.

SIMULTANEOUS METHODIST MESSIAH.

In connection with the Methodist State-wide simultaneous evangelistic campaign, Mr H. H. Janetzki has been conducting mission services at the Beaufort Methodist Church throughout the week, and they will continue to 23th August. The services have created a great deal of interest, and are being well attended.

A PROLIFIC EVE.

The "Ararat Advertiser" has received photographs of a prolific ewe and her family of five lambs, born on the property of Messrs P. M. H. and L. Mook, of Stratham. The photographs show the lambs at birth and when a day old. The mother is a fine robust cross-bred, and the five lambs are being reared by her, and are as lively and strong as any other in the flock on the property.

There was another source of power possible. H. G. Wells thought that in future the human race would have power from windmills. They would need to have an enormous number of windmills, and they were very costly and liable to damage, and they had the misfortune that the wind did not always blow. It was also enormous expense to store any electric energy. They could get a certain amount of energy from water power in favoured countries. Then they used the energy of the tides, but there were difficulties in the way of the tides came from the energy of the rotation of the earth, and if they turned, they would make the day get slightly longer—but that need not worry them much, as the earth was large and heavy and had enormous energy of rotation. (Laughter.) There was only one way he thought possible, and that was to invent some method of utilizing the heat and light from the sun, as the plants did. Some people suggested the growing of a lot of plants and getting alcohol from them; but if the people of the earth increased as they were doing, the difficulty would be to grow enough food for them; let alone alcohol. They must try and invent some means of taking heat and light from the sun, and turning it into electricity. Those parts of the Sahara, Palestine, and Central Australia, would be important parts of the world in the future. Then it would be very important for Great Britain to hold Australia always, because when the sources of coal which those parts were exhausted, it would be interrupted and intense sunshine from which the energy obtained from the sun would be distributed to rest of the world.

After the lecture had answered a number of questions, he was accorded a hearty vote of thanks by acclamation, on the motion of Messrs A. R. Baggis and H. J. Buchanan. Professor Hartung briefly responded.
