COUNTRY PARTY IS PROUD OF ITS POLICY SAYS MR. A. E. HOCKING

Before a large audience—the biggest political audience in that hall since 1935 -Mr. A. E. Hocking, the endorsed United Country Party candidate for Allandale opened his campaign at Creswick town hall on Monday night.

Invited by branches of the U.C.P. within the electorate, he said he hoped to win the seat and increase the party's representation in parliament.

It was a meeting which gave him a good hearing with some good questioning

It was particularly noticeable that after the meeting, people stood around in many little groups, talking over the situation to a greater extent than has been seen

Cr E. A. Mizzeni was chairman and offered Mr Hocking a welcome to Creswick.

"At the request of the branches of the United Country Party within the electorate of Allandale and with the unanimous endorsement of its Electorar Council, I stand before you this evening as a standard bearer of our great organisation in this election. am deeply sensible of the honor of contesting the seat for the Country Party especially when it is remembered that Allandale gave to Victoria one of its most distinguished Premiers in the person of the late Sir Alexander Peacock," said Mr Hocking. The Country Party had no pact or alliance with the Labor Party in exercising its undeniable right in endeavoring to win the seat in the same way as the Labor Party in other electorates is doing its best to wrest seats from the Country Party at this elec-

These problems have to some extent been laid aside by the emergency war conditions in which the nation finds itself but they still exist, modified somewhat by a partial improvement and somewhat by a partial improvement and experiment expenditure. They remain unsolved and will be manifested probably in an intensified form at a later stage. This will require an equal to a conclusion of the war to compare an education. (Hear, hear.)

Electors, by increasing the strength of the Country Party, can plainly indicate that they expect unremitting action from our party in connection with this defect in the body politic.

The efforts of his party to absorb unemployed by State assistance in re-afforestation, sewerage in country towns, water conservation and irrigation and mining development does not by any means exhaust the avenue of reproductive employment.

Labor sceks another redistribution of seats but conveniently forgets that five years after the last redistribution of seats in 1925 the Labor Party in this State experienced its peak period and occupied the Treasury benches under Premier Mr E. J. Hogan. It is not therefore the redistribution of seats to which State Labor owes its shrunken ranks of today but rather its failure to hold the estimation of the estimation of the evils of centralisation.

Editor "Riponshire Advocate." Sir.—A few years ago, when I was president of the local band. I gave them the use of my garage for their rehearsals free. This I did willingly, because I felt they ching them how to become good musicians. And no doubt it is to their credit, one and all, that they have done well and are still doing well: a d it is safe to say that this little band has done a lot for many causes in the past, and the great majority of the people of Beaufort and surrounding districts, who have so loyally helped and patronised them; but as the old saving goes, "there are narks in heaven."
