BEST SUPPORT.

The best support you can give your newspaper is your job printing. If you do not feel able to run an advertisement, surely you can afford to give the newspaper your cards, dodgers, billheads, letterheads, envelopes, and all business printing to execute. The newspaper man needs it, and it helps him to pay his printers for setting up the thousand and one free notices he gives you and your town. The time may come when the local newspaper can live simply upon the revenue obtained from advertising and subpaper in any ordinary town can exist without the auxiliary support derived from job printing. scriptions, but no ordinary news-

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH ...

INDUCTION SERVICE.

St. Andrew's Church. Beaufort. contained a large congregation representative of all denomina. ions, on Wednesday night, when S. CHILDS, WAMURAN, the Rev. A. T. Cottrell, of South Australia, was inducted as minister of the local Presbyterian Charge, at a very impressive ser. vice. Miss H. Wotherspoon presided at the organ.

The service was conducted by the Rev. A. C. Karamouche (Moderator of the Ballarat Presbytery. Rev. Dr. C. N. Button St. Andrew's, Ballarat, delivered the addresses to the minister and congregation. Suitable hymns were sung, and Scripture nassage read.

In the afternoon the Ballarat Presbytery held its meeting here. Owing to the absence of the Interim Moderator (Rev. N. T. McDonald), Rev A. T. Kelly narrated the steps leading up to the call to the Rev. A. T. Cot. trell, following the retirement of the Rev. J. P. MacDougall

The members of the Presbytery then formally inducted the Rev. A. T. Cottrell into the charge. In the course of an address to the minister, Rev. Dr. Button said if he were to choose. he would rather talk to him by the fireside of some of the heartaches and disillusionments and the satisfactions of the modern minister. He had been a minister long enough to be aware of his mistakes, to have acquired a certain degree of humility and to be prepared to profit by his mistakes. He was no doubt glad f the opportunity to make a fresh start in a new charge. He also offered the minister a word of felicitation. Let the new beginning be a new dedication to God. The real success of his ministry depended on his relation. ship in the secret places of his own heart to God. He would rejoice because the new start gave him a certain ministeria momentum, and sooner or later he would come down to earth. Most of his ministerial pilgrimage he would be walking on solid earth, with very little ap plause, and a great deal of criticism. One great theological professor used to say to the students. "Gentlemen, remembe you joined the ministry to be shot at." He would gradually have to get things and people sorted out but he would find a few in the congregation-he hoped more than a few-for whose loval support he would be thankful. The man who saw a little further than large congre gations and popularity would b able to take all the discouragement and difficulties. Every minister had another judgement to face. If he knew in his heat that he had done that solid work that would stand the tes judgement day, all would k

Addressing the congregation in the absence of Rev. Dr. Fin ey Fraser, Rev. Dr. Button said all things were as nothing to that sense of loyalty in th congregation to God. The ministry was a joint one of people and minister. They were called to serve the people of this district in the ministry of Christ and the things of Christ. Let them say "our congregation," and let the minister see they were fellow workers with him They could show an ancient al their modern amenities, and he would have had most of them in his time, but if they showed him a Christian congregation that would be unique. The Church was needed to-day more than ever. Leading men in secular callings outside the ministry had said they were in for a ter. rible time in this country unless there was a return to religion. They, as a congregation, had promised the minister respect. incouragement, and obedience in the law. They should give the inister that encouragement he needed. If he had helped them they should tell him so-it would help him in his work. So many people thought their little bit of help would not be missed, that the minister got no assistance at all, like the old story of the priest and the cask of wine his parishioners were supposed o have given him by each con. tributing his flagon, and most of which turned out to be water. He concluded with a story of hi own experience in the back country in N.S.W. 30 years ago, where an old minister who was well liked but did not get big congregations was given a wonderful fnneral. The people there showed post-mortem appreciation. May God grant them a new vision of the cause in which they worked, and bless them and their minister. After the service, the Rev. J. MacDougall and Mr .T. McNaughton (clerk of the Kirk Session) introduced the minister to the congregation in the British law still will not allow a man to be deprived of the tools of trade or the equipment by means of which he makes a living. Distraint for debt cannot be taken beyond the boundary line of personal need, and the law thus recognises the essential personal possession represented by tools of trade. Good work, however, cannot be ensured merely by that have in his kit, tools of the right kind for the work to be done; they have in his kit, tools of the right kind for the work to be done; they must be kept in good order and the worker must be able to use them efficiently. Money is a tool of trade for every-body. It enables the most complicated

It changes the effort of a tradesman into the housing, clothes, food, edu-cation and amusement required for himself and his family and, when goods and services are available, money does this job smoothly and with the least fuss or effort. But like any other tools, pound notes or pennies must be used efficiently. Also, they must be efficient for the job. Just as a chisel must be sharp, so a chisel that can be blunted, and it can be blunted by clumsy use.

Wait till the scale tips YOUR way_

If you want value for your money, now is not the time to spend it. The reason? Putting it briefly, there is more spending money in Australian pockets to-day than ever before . . . and industry has not yet been able to produce sufficient goods to absorb that pent-up buying power. If we prices will go sky-rocketingthey could not be controlled. The only sensible plan to-day is to limit our spending, save all we can and hold our savings in Commonwealth Bonds or Savings Certificates.

Savings Certificates may be purchased at any Bank or Money Order Post Office, and advance subscriptions to the next Commonwealth Cash Loan may be made through any Bank or stockbroker.

THIS IS HOW YOU CAN HELP TO KEEP PRICES DOWN 1. Buy only what you really need. Save all you can. Hold all your Bonds and Savings Cer-tificates. 2. Share and share alike the goods available. Don't pay more than the maximum prices. 3. Don't take advantage of shortages to ask more for your own goods or services. 4. Pay your way-settle your debts-make no new ones.

Be a Saver; Not a Spender-
