

Be ready steady

Be prepared. Have your myki at the ready before you board. Grab a rail or a pole and hold on while you touch on.

Sit tight

It's always safer to be seated. Plant your feet on the floor, push your hips back as far as possible and you're locked in.

Grip right

Standing room only? Here's how to handle stops and starts. Grab a strap, handle or pole and hold on tight.

Riding the tram is a must do experience for anyone visiting Melbourne.

And there are no greater tram techniques to master than getting on safely, sitting tight and gripping right. Let us show you how to master your tram safety skills so you have a great time while you're here. This is how we tram.

BE READY STEADY

If you've just landed in town, it's good to know how to board safely. Have your myki out and ready before you board. Wait until the tram has fully stopped and disembarking passengers are clear. Grip a handrail for safety as you board. Touch on with your myki and find your way to a seat, or grab a pole or strap. Be mindful, the tram could take off at any time.

SIT TIGHT

There's nothing magic about avoiding slips, trips or falls. Trams can start and stop quickly in Melbourne traffic, so it's always safer to be seated. Once you've boarded, scan for a seat. Hold tight as you make your way over. Plant your feet on the floor, push your hips back as far as possible and you're locked in.

GRIP RIGHT

Traffic can cause unpredictable stops, so a good grip is the best way to shield yourself from an unexpected stop. If you can't find a seat, here's how to handle it. Get your tram stance on. Hold a pole or handle to steady yourself. Stand facing the window with feet apart and stand strong. Here we go!
