Deprive a ratepayer of one of his (or her) two garbage collections a week, and what does he (or she) do?

Rubbishes Warrandyte, that's what!

Since Doncaster-Templestowe Council halved the frequency of their collections — thereby saving citizens a considerable rate increase — the receptacles along Yarra Street and the riverfront have never had it so bad.

What the householder can't dispose of in one pick-up (despite no limit on the number of bins he can leave out), he's dumping all over the place and hoping the day-trippers will cop the blame.

It's selfish and not very nice.

It is also illegal.

Warrandyte's very own version of "The Brady Bunch" comes to pass on December 11.

On that day, the lovely Ann Hilton and the ruggedly-handsome Gordon Ley will be married.

You all know how the Brady marriage brought two adults and six kids together on the TV screen.

Well, the new Ley family can match 'em child for child.

Ann (particularly) and Gordon will probably hate me for telling you this.

But it's a real storybook romance and, therefore, should be told.

Ripley would never believe it . . . but sometimes there is not a spare bus during peak hour at the Doncaster depot.

Smokey knows it's true because he was on the memorable eight-ay-emmer that didn't make it to town. Started to play up about Pound Road and limped into the depot only because the driver refused to admit defeat.

"We'll have to get another bus," he apologised as he leapt from his seat and dashed into the office.

"Sorry," he said a couple of minutes later.

"We don't seem to have a spare."

The good driver then nursed us all around to the depot garage, said some very forceful words to people in overalls, who within a matter of 10-or-so long minutes presented us with what was obviously an out-patient.

And this is where the story really starts . . .

The driver (by this time an awesome figure to his passengers) made only one other stop on the way to town.

That was to tell the inspector (they're the uniformed people who are supposed to be in control):

"I'm running express to town — these people have to get to work."

It is fair to say that the inspector said "go"; fractionally later our driver took off.

Got us to the city only seven minutes behind schedule.

We'd love to have that driver forever on the Warrandyte run.

But he shows far too much initiative to be a long-term proposition at the Melbourne and Metropolitan Tramways Board.

And I can't sign off without telling you that Margaret Bourke won a cool grand the other week. Second-divvie in Tattslotto.

Sorry, Kev.

—Smokey Joe

JUST FOR KICKS

It's probably just a case of the wrong ball being in the wrong court.

But it has certainly given Doncaster-Templestowe City Council an unusual problem.

It all started when our footballers were putting too much effort behind their drop punts for goal at the Kooyong (tennis courts) end of the Recreation Reserve.

No matter how accurate our forwards were, their kicks landed slap bang in the middle of the tennis courts.

This obviously disturbed many an attempted lob or backhand — so the council has been appointed referee.

The tennis club wrote to council complaining of constant bombardment from footballs and requested an extension of the existing fence or the installation of a catching net.

However, as Warrandyte ward councillor John Scott pointed out, these don't come cheaply — about $3050 for the fence to be extended and $5000 for a catching net.

"It's a bit upsetting because all this was considered when the courts were first sited," Cr. Scott said.

The situation is locked at deuce and the final points will be decided at a meeting between tennis and football club officials and Warrandyte ward councillors.

However, there could be merit in one councillor's suggestion:

Considering some of Warrandyte's low football scores, why don't they come to an agreement with opposing clubs and kick to the tennis club end all day? —

MICHAEL LOVETT.

FIRE CHIEFS' PLEA: OBEY THE RULES

Warrandyte firefighters are preparing for what threatens to be one of their worst-ever summers.

They appeal to residents to obey the rules and keep Warrandyte out of the headlines in what has been officially predicted as a season of exceptionally high bushfire danger.

A brigade veteran told the Diary: "There are three major causes of fires — men, women and children."

"Each year the fire services issue warnings.

"Each year they are ignored because there has not been a fire in the area for some time.

"But in this area, two things are certain.

"Every drought year is extremely dangerous, and the longer it has been since there has been a serious fire, the closer it is to the next one."

The local brigades say:

Each resident has a responsibility to himself, his family, his neighbours and the community to ensure that he does not cause a fire by carelessness, apathy or ignorance.

And he should ensure that he does not contribute to the spread of a fire because he has not taken sensible precautions to protect his own property.

He must know and observe the restrictions on the lighting and use of fire, not only on total fire ban days, but throughout the declared fire danger period.

If he does not know the rules, he should get a copy of the booklet "Summer Peril" from his local brigade.

Prohibition notices warning of fire bans and restrictions will go up in this area on December 16.

The brigades urge residents to clean up their properties NOW.

Their advice:

- Get rid of all rubbish, dead grass and leaves, paper and the like from around the property.

- Make sure your garden hoses are in good condition — that you have enough of them to reach all parts of the buildings and that all hoses fit all taps.

- Keep all spoutings, roof valleys and down-pipes clear of dead leaves.

- Cover all ventilators and open eaves with fine wire mesh.

- Keep shrubs and trees well clear of walls.

- Keep the area around the house mown for a distance of at least 20 ft. and keep the grass green if possible.

- Keep water storages full and preplan how to get the water out; the electricity supply is unlikely to be available during a serious fire. A knapsack spray pump is a good investment.

XMAS SHOW ON - WEATHER OR NOT

Warrandyte's annual "Carols by Candlelight" moves indoors this year.

The traditional Christmas spectacular has previously been held at Stiggart Reserve.

But the organisers have too often been caught by bad weather.

This year they have made sure that the show goes on without a hitch by hiring the Mechanics Institute Hall.

The service will be held there from 7.30 to 8.30 p.m. on Sunday, December 11.

It is a combined effort by the local Anglican, Catholic and Uniting Churches — and the bigger the attendance the more meaningful the occasion.

The event has always had a particular appeal for children.

Several local groups are assisting this year and a variety of local talent has been offered.

There will be no admission charge, but a collection will be taken up for a donation to a charity.

Enquiries should be directed to Anne Martin (844-3313), Lady Dorothy Reid (844-3265) or John Hanson (844-3906).

I SAY, I SAY, I SAY...

The music hall era returns to Warrandyte this month.

It will be resurrected by Terry Gill and his theatrical company at the "Gold-Digger Room" (formerly the "Bali Hai" Room) at Bourke's Hotel.

Terry, his wife Carol-Ann, Irene Hewitt and Renee Martini will present "Old Time Music Hall" every Friday night.

The Gold-Digger Room will also be open each Thursday and Saturday night for dining and dancing, from 6 p.m. to midnight, starting November 24.

"We've been working on the re-opening of this room for quite some time," hotel director Kevin Bourke told the Diary.

Protection body for '100 Acres'

An advisory committee has been formed to protect the 100 acres of land behind Domney Reserve, Park Orchards.

The land, at one time in danger of being subdivided, was bought for more than $1 million by Doncaster-Templestowe City Council through State and Federal Government contributions and a Board of Works loan.

The advisory committee, which comprises six local residents and three Warrandyte Ward councillors, met earlier this month to consider immediate needs for the land.

These include clearing rubbish and noxious weeds, repairing fences and restoring areas damaged by trail bikes.

The committee also decided the area will be known as "100 Acres".

The six local residents on the committee are K. Smythe, B. Bard-Brucher, W. Larkin, F. Gibbons, M. Bouchier and D. Mayor.

FOUR IN RACE FOR STRATEGY PLAN JOB

Doncaster-Templestowe City Council has invited four consultants to submit proposals for the Warrandyte strategy plan by the end of this month.

Earlier this month, council adopted a brief prepared by its own officers suggesting a short list of consultants.

ON THE RIGHT TRACK

Motorists should have no excuses for getting lost in Warrandyte and Park Orchards in future.

Doncaster-Templestowe City Council has agreed to a Park Orchards Ratepayers Association request that signs be posted showing preferred routes.

This is being done to divert through traffic in both Warrandyte and Park Orchards.

The signs will be erected at the following intersections: Reynolds-Tindals Roads (indicating the direction of Warrandyte and Park Orchard), Ringwood-Warrandyte-Milne Roads (indicating Warrandyte and Ringwood), Heidelberg-Warrandyte-Tindals Rds. (indicating Park Orchards), Ringwood-Warrandyte-Falconer Roads (indicating Warrandyte, Ringwood and Park Orchards) and Falconer-Knees Roads (indicating Park Orchards).

DEADLINE

• Copy for the December Diary closes Monday, November 28.

Advertisers and contributors are reminded that because of the holidays break, there will be no January issue.

All events in January and early February should, therefore, be covered in the December issue.

The four consultants were invited to prepare and submit the strategy plan proposals for council to consider later this month.

Warrandyte ward representative Cr. John Scott said council would choose one proposal and work would start as soon as possible — probably before Christmas.

Local councillor Peter Mulcahy discussed the brief for the strategy plan at last month's annual general meeting of the Warrandyte Environment League.

Its objectives and requirements, he said, were to:

- Prepare a plan to reconcile conflicting aims of the Warrandyte town plan and assign priorities.

- Assess the effectiveness of existing plans of other authorities with jurisdiction over Warrandyte.

- Recognise the need for tourist and recreation facilities and the problems and needs of such areas.

- Plan for urban development of the town, preserving the rural environment while providing services.

- Provide for commercial needs with consideration to such things as traffic, car parking facilities and building standards.

- Assess needs for community education and health facilities.

- Assess the effects of transport proposals.

OBEY THE RULES

ment, particularly for people who have their own water tanks or water supplies.

If there is a major fire in the area:

- Fill all available receptacles with water and place them around the house.

- Connect the garden hose ready for use.

- Block the downpipes and fill the spoutings with water.

- Wet down around the house and buildings. Soaked bags are quite useful for putting out grass fires.

- Keep the ladder handy for possible use later.

- Block chimneys and any openings under the house.

- Turn off electricity and bottled gas.

- Clothe everyone adequately for protection against radiated heat.

On the approach of the fire:

- Close all doors and

windows tightly and stay inside the house near the door giving access on to the ground or concrete steps or patio.

- Block gaps under the external doors.

- As soon as the fire has passed, go out and check for any fire, sparks or embers. If clear outside check inside the roof.

- Keep patrolling the area while danger exists.

If you are caught by a fire while driving a vehicle: Pick the clearest area available and pull up on the side farthest from the fire; stop the engine; wind up all the windows and shut ventilators; shelter below the level of the windows; cover yourself with a blanket or rug from radiant heat; wait until the fire passes.

Your best chance of survival is in the car — not out of it.

The fruit of kindness . . .

It's a long way from here to Shepparton — but well within the range of the Warrandyte Uniting Church.

Early next year, the church will be selling pears to assist farmers affected by lean times in the Shepparton fruit-growing industry.

Top-quality fruit will be available in 25 lb. bags for $2.30.

They will be delivered early in February and orders can now be placed with John Hanson (844-3906).

Two World War I veterans were special members of the congregation at a Uniting Church Service late last month.

They are Mr. C. Hutton, of Everard Drive, and Mr. E. Smart, original members of the 22nd Battalion AIF. Several other battalion members attended the service.

Three speakers were guests at the church on Hospital Sunday, October 23.

Dr. Nola Maskell (from Queen Victoria Hospital), Mr. D. Bell (a Monash University medical student), and Mrs. Catalina Havea (a nurse from Tonga), each gave personal testimony.

On Sunday, November 27, two new members of the congregation will lead the service. They are Fred and Beverley Jungwirth, who recently returned from 10 years' teaching at Vila in the New Hebrides.

Details of special Christmas services will be posted on the church board.

Arno's in town

Celebrated French-born artist Arno Roger-Genersh is exhibiting this month at the Warrandyte Palette.

The much-travelled Arno, who has lived in Australia since 1960, has an international reputation as a portrait painter and sketcher.

Co-starring at the Palette is Betty Forbes, one of Melbourne's leading china painters.

Outback artist Max Manix returns to the Palette next month.

Also on display will be pewter and Australian timber jewellery by Ron Warne.

CRISIS FOLLOWS MEETING FIASCO

LOCAL NETBALL MAY BE DOOMED

Warrandyte Netball Club may be forced to disband.

The immediate future of the sport in this town goes on the line early next year.

Whether or not the club survives depends on players, parents and anyone else interested in the game.

The crisis has arisen in one of Warrandyte's biggest participator sports following last month's annual general meeting.

Those connected with the club have described it as not so much a meeting as a fiasco.

Only 14 people attended — seven parents, two umpires, three senior and two junior players.

The club's constitution requires a quorum of 12 voting members — parents of junior registered players, or senior financial members.

As a result, all positions in the club remain vacant.

The club's continued existence now hinges on a meeting called for February 13 next year at the North Warrandyte Community Centre.

"It is staggering that a club with 90 registered players can muster a roll-up of only 14 at its annual meeting," a club retiring official told the Diary.

"We have 60 registered juniors — so where were the parents?"

"February's meeting is the second and last chance.

"All committee positions must be filled and we also need coaches, umpires and team mothers.

"Unless we get the necessary support, we will have no alternative than to disband."

It would be a tragedy, the official said, if this happened.

"Such a lot of hard work has gone into making netball so strong and popular in this town," she said.

"It is a great pity that the enthusiasm shown on the court is nowhere near matched off-court."

Continuing a series on Warrandyte's wildflowers, by JAN McDONALD and DAVID CAMERON.

The first hot spells of summer with the colourful wildflower display which so characterises the box-stringybark forests of Warrandyte in September-October.

But the warmer weather also calls forth a second rainbow of wildflowers, including new members such as Blue Pincushion, Black Wattle, the magnificent but short-lived Sun-orchids, and an array of Daisies.

Many of the important native grasses also come to their flowering peak.

Of the 18 wattle varieties found in Warrandyte, only Black Wattle (Acacia mearnsii) is in full flower in November.

Most wattles are now at the end of their season, although the Lightwood (A. implexa) will not flower until mid-summer.

Black Wattle rarely forms more than a small tree or straggly, slender shrub in Warrandyte. It is often associated with the dense fire-regrowth thicket which can temporarily replace open forest or woodland after severe fire.

Wither thou goest...

In districts such as Gippsland, however, it can become a shapely forest tree 20 to 25m high when protected long enough from fire.

In South Africa, where it is cultivated in plantations for its excellent tan-bark, it reaches 33m.

It has hard, dark-brown bark and, as axemen know only too well, a tough, springy and resilient timber which blunts both axe and chainsaw. Foliage is dark green and finely divided and the flower-balls rather pale yellow.

READERS' LETTERS

IN A WORD: YUK!

SIR — How about writing an article about the disgusting way some people dump their empty bottles at the scout bottle recycling dump?

Can't they read — or don't they want to?

It only takes a few minutes to stack them properly.

There is not much point in the Warrandyte Environment League having a litter clean-up when you see the mess there.

The other week, someone left a dead cat in one of the 44-gallon drums.

The odour left a lot to be desired.

Disgusted,
Warrandyte.

GOLD PIONEER RECALLED . . .

Sir — Audrey Cahn's letter to the Editor (September Diary) clearly illustrates the importance of historical societies and their records of local history.

The land referred to was part of a cattle run established by Henry Frencham in 1854. He also became manager of the Magnet Gold Mining Company.

He died at the age of 81 in Richmond in 1897, leaving an estate of £460 to his three sons and five daughters, his wife Alicia having predeceased him.

The last of his daughters still attended the Anglican Church in the 1950's.

The Australian Dictionary of Biography Vol. 4 gives the story of his gold digging activities in the Plenty Ranges and Forest Creek (Castlemaine) where he claimed the government reward, but this was not granted.

Frencham also claimed to have taken part in the Bendigo demonstration against the £3 gold licence.

A Select Committee appointed by the government in 1890 was presented with 12 claims other than Frencham's.

Although his claim to be the discoverer of the Bendigo field was not sus-

Oops!

SIR — In the October issue of the Diary you state that at a WAA Informal Music Night one of the performers was Jenny Alder.

This is incorrect.

The performer was Jenni Alder.

I think we have lived long enough in this area and have participated in many public functions to expect that our name is quoted correctly, particularly by a local publication.

E. S. Alder,
"Graycourt",
Warrandyte.

• The contribution from which the offending item was taken was handwritten, which is often fraught with uncertainties. "Jenni" was written as "Jenny" and "Aldor" . . . well, we gambled and lost. We are only human (and, other disgruntled readers have suggested, only just).
— Ed.

. . . and that big flood

SIR — Gerard Osborne made a misquote in his memories of the 1934 flood (October Diary) in saying that the Gospel Hall was washed away.

A four-room house next to the present dairy was washed past our house in one piece.

The Gospel Hall was burnt in the 1939 fires.

Also, to save the bridge in the 1934 floods, the hand-rails were taken down by Bill Hull (then a council worker) and my husband.

Sylvia Hussey,

CRICKETERS BOUNCE BACK AND BAT ON

Warrandyte's A-grade cricketers have bounced right back into form after a run of outs.

The 'Dytes bowled themselves into a winning position against Johnson Park, dismissing them for 133 and responding with 21 without loss by the close of play.

P. Adams was the outstanding bowler, taking 6/33.

In their previous match, Warrandyte went on a run spree against South Croydon.

They hit up 7/344, captain-coach Stephen Pascoe leading the onslaught with 100.

Robert White was also in devastating form, with an unbeaten 85.

Warrandyte won by 114 runs.

It was a real tonic for the side following consecutive defeats by Olinda, Wantirna South and Knoxfield.

WARRANDYTE Diary SPORTS NEWS

The women's team have also been making big scores, but were dismissed for a disappointing 114 against Coolaroo.

The game is delicately poised, with Coolaroo 4/54 in reply.

The women were in great form in their previous two games, with the Chapman girls Jenny and Suzanne (Martin), and Sandra Jeffs dominant.

Sandra made 110 of Warrandyte's 8/294 declared against Donex, who could manage only 89 and 7/51.

Suzanne took 4/7 in the Donex first innings and 4/11 in the second.

Jenny chipped in with first-innings figures of 4/37.

Warrandyte declared at 8/228 against St. Andrews, Suzanne contributing 74 not out and taking three wickets without conceding a run as the Saints crumbled for 86.

Jenny was St. Andrews' main destroyer, with 6/36.

The men's A-Reserve team are thinking in terms of a pennant following an excellent start to the season.

They are in a strong position in their match against Johnson Park, with 197 on the board and Johnson 0/9 in response.

L. Bellinger's 87 was the backbone of the Warrandyte innings and B. Cleaves, S. Peake and I. World all made useful contributions.

The G-Grade put in one of their rare poor performances in the game against East Ringwood.

They are in a desperate situation — 5/33 in reply to Ringwood's 182.

The three junior teams continue to show the benefit of specialised coaching.

They have started the season well and all are in winning positions in their current matches.

Laurie does it again

Laurie Sloan has been reappointed president of the Warrandyte Football Club for his sixth term.

Laurie will be supported by a committee chockful of football experience.

John Knox, former Collingwood player and a successful country coach, has been appointed vice-president.

Brian Tomlinson is treasurer. He is a former South Melbourne player and has been an outstanding player and recent years.

coach for Warrandyte in Bill Manson, who has strong ties with Dandenong in the VFA, is secretary. Tom Kerkhof is assistant secretary.

Several top names in senior football ranks have applied for the club's senior coaching position. It is the best response the club has had for several years.

Applications close on November 25.

Four applications have been received for the coaching position in the seconds. Coaches are also being sought for the under-17 and under-15 sides.

The football club and the Warrandyte Fire Brigade are exploring the possibility of staging a Christmas carnival on the back oval at the Recreation Reserve.
