of his cartoons and one of his first "The True Story of Ned Kelly", won him recognition at the Victorian Amateur Film Festival and led to a government grant to make a feature cartoon.

That cartoon, "The Island of Nevawuz", went to the Cannes Film Festival under the wing of the Australian Film Commission and resulted in sales in the U.S., West Germany, Sweden, Ireland and South Africa.

It will be shown on Channel Seven in Victoria later this year.

"The Island of Neva-"The Island of Neva-wuz" was produced by Paul at home which reduced his budget to a mere $130,000. It would have cost a great deal more had he used a studio.

He is now working on another animated feature called "Black Planet" which should be finished March, 1982.

"Animation is a labourintensive art and an incredible amount of time is taken up by pre-pro-duction before the actual drawing starts," said Paul.

A NO-RACE ELECTIO

For the first time in many years, Warrandyte rate-payers will not be voting in this month's Victorian local government elections.

The two sitting councillors seeking re-election - Anne Martin (Warrandyte Ward) and Robert Allen (North Riding) - have been returned unopposed.

It is a departure from the trend of recnet years which has often seen intense and often bitter competition for the North Riding seat.

Last year, there were six candidates for the three Warrandyte Ward seats in the Doncaster-Templestowe City Council "spill" election and two candidates for the vacant North Riding seat.

Cr. Allen, who is entering his second three-year term, said there were a number of reasons for the absence of a challenge in the North Riding this

"I'd like to think of it as a tacit vote of con-fidence by ratepayers in my performance," he told the Diary.

"I also believe it is a result of a much-improved relationship between Eltham Shire Council and the ratepayers over the past couple of years.

"Council efficiency — particularly at staff level — has improved enor-mously and I'm sure ratepayers realise that and are much happier for it.

"I also think the interest shown in the Boundary Reviews Commission inquiry has contributed to the no-challenge situation."

Cr. Allen (31), is a theatre manager, of Briar Hill. He formerly lived in Bradleys Lane, North Warrandyte.

Cr. Martin, an educa-tionist, of Webb Street, told the Diary she would like to think her unopposed re-election to the Warran-dyte Ward was a com-munity expression of satis-faction in her performance.

"Unfortunately, it is probably just as much an expression of public apathy," she said.

"It is, after all, a demanding, time-consuming

"People are reluctant to take it on."

Cr. Martin said she did not see a councillor's role as one of forcing policies upon the ratepayers.

She said: "I see myself as a representative of the community trying to get people satisfaction for the money they pay in rates, a representative trying to fulfil community needs."

Council elections usually produce a spirited contest on at least one side of the Yarra.

This year, however, Warrandyte ratepayers will not be going to the polls.

The Diary offered space to the unopposed sitting councillors, Anne Martin and Robert Allen, to talk about the term past and the term ahead.

Their contributions are on Page 6.

It's snow place for amateurs!

We have it on good authority that local Apexian Denis Parker now answers to the name "Yeti".

Certainly, he's the abominabie most snowman his clubmates have seen!

Denis admits to being not the most experienced skier and, as he demon-strated vividly on a recent Apex trip to the snow, this is an under-statement of immense proportions.

His high-speed run down the slope may have come off O.K.— had he not become entangled in his ski stock.

Quite apart from his in-depth knowledge of the animal kingdom, local vet Derek Fairley has quite a grasp of human nature,

Warrandyte to get education officer

A community education officer is soon to be appointed to Warrandyte's four schools.

After applying unsuccessfully last year, Warrandyte has won one of eight positions recently created.

For two years the schools have been developing programs of after school activities to foster the integration of all age groups in the community, the sharing and learning of skills and talents and the

Thanks to them, the continuity of a unique community newspaper has been maintained.

Mr. Virtue, the new co-editor, looks forward to the challenge of maintain-ing the standard.

"My wife and I are relatively newcomers to Warrandyte," he said, "but the fact that the Diary is a community newspaper, produced voluntarily, appealled to us immediately.

"Lee and I are very happy to be part of it."

Mr. Virtue said he would rely heavily on volunteer reporters John Forster, Cheryl Crockett and Jenny Harkin.

"We will continue to rely heavily on the community — the councils, the clubs, the groups — to tell us what is happening," he said.

"The Diary will continue to be this town's newspaper.

"Its success has always depended on public response to it and response to it co-operation with it.

Sparks fly over SEC tree lops

The SEC is under fire for "over-doing" its tree-lopping in North Warrandyte.

Warrandyte Environment League believes the commission has gone much too far in its fire-prevention activity.

WEL says despite assurances that they would not be back for three years, SEC workers returned with chainsaws only a fortnight after a recent "assault" on trees under powerlines.

According to WEL, all eucalypts under the powerlines were to be taken to ground level because previous recent prunings had proved inadequate.

WEL co-president Rose-mary Tovey told the Diary:

Anne Martin

When I was elected to the Doncaster-Templestowe City Council a year ago, I said I had nothing to gain and only two things to lose - my friends and my sanity.

I am delighted to admit that I was mistaken.

The members of this community, as individuals, in groups and as organisations have supported me with overwhelming encouragement, stimulation, advice and assistance

My job as your ward representative has been a privilege and a pleasure.

rivilege and a pleasure.

The wheels of bureaucracy turn slowly and perhaps there is not a great deal to show for 12 months' hard labour, but already:

The people of Warrandyte have "Getsons".

The Yarra Street car park is only awaiting a transfer agreement on privately-owned land.

The elderly cits, kindergartens and the cemetery have been given some attention. There are problms with youth clubs and affairs ar currently under review.

The people of Park Orchards have their community house.

munity house.

The Outer Ring Road has been scrapped by the State Government but the Park Orchards township still needs protection from the effects of a future free-

• I have argued strongly against the retrospective clause relating to the farm rate and will continue to do so in conjunction with investigating possibilities for differential rating systems.

• Roads. Oh dear! Those roads, and their drainage.

Pressures are on but very little seems to happen.

The Private Streets Act, the CRB, RoSTA, differences of opinion between abutting owners . . . these are but some of the obstacles.

on the positive side there is a policy which discourages traffic from using residential streets.

Alternative construction standards of narrower, more sensitive and less expensive road treatment are considered, where possible, throughout the ward and very recently investigations have shown that variations in road and car park colour and texture may be possible in the future.

I look forward to the next three years during which I hope community-council co-operation and communication can continue to enhance our way of life.

If you have any business to discuss, drop a note to 24 Webb Street, Warrandyte 3113, or phone 844 3048.

During business hours a message can be left with the Town Clerk's secretary on 848 1611.

Robert Allen

Much has been achieved during my three years as a North Riding representative on Eltham Shire Council and I look forward to the challenge of the next three.

In general terms the outstanding achievement in the term past has been the greatly-improved performance by council staff.

As a result, we have seen more constructive action in the North Riding in the past year than for a long, long time.

There has been a huge improvement in the engineering field and road and other works are reaping the benefits.

Finance management has also developed much for the better.

The result of all this has been a great improvement in relationships between the shire and ratepayers.

I was an active campaigner in my first term for the preservation of the Koornong and Professor's Hill, the long-overdue reconstruction of the Research-KG Roads junction and joint council development of the Getson Motors site.

I have several priorities for my next term on council.

One is to see the Warrandyte community centre (Getson) come to life.

Another is the reconstruction of the shocking stretch of Research Road between Bradleys Lane and Banning Road.

I am also particularly concerned by drainage prob-lems in North Warrandyte. We have seen some improvements, but there i smuch to be done.

And I want to see a more rational system of fund-ing the day-to-day upkeep of shire facilities. While ratepayers provide the facilities, those who do not use them should not be asked to finance their maintenance.

We should next expect North Warrandyte rate-payers to pay for the upkeep of, say, a football ground in central Eltham.

The people who use the facilities should pay.

We must generate new sources of income in this regard to keep rates down.

THE KIDS AND OUR GOLDEN PAST

A day in the life of a...

Anderson's Creek Primary School has really taken its origins to heart. Thanks to Warrandyte Historical Society's exhibition commemorating the 130th anniversary of this town as Victoria's first goldfield.

Following a school visit to the display, the staffs set the "fifth-graders "The Warrandyte Story" as part of their social studies.

It included the shooting of an 8mm film re-enacting the goldmining era and indivival essays in the form of a diary entry from a character of that time.

Space obviously precludes us from publishing all the essays. We have chosen these two:

BUSHRANGER - by Damian Thwaites

Today there was a robbery and I got blamed so I shot a soldier and escaped. Then I joined a gang of outlaws. We planned to hold up a bank.

We rode off into town because we saw that the life on the goldfields was hard and I wouldn't work on it. We reached the outskirts of town.

We were all thinking if we'd come out alive. We rode in and started shooting and we tied up our horses and went in. I said "Hand over all the money you got".

He did, then we tied him up and rode away. When we got back me and another man counted the money in the bags. We counted £2000.

We planned to get more.

We rode up to a hill and waited for the stagecoach. I rode out and said "Stop". Then the others told the passengers to get out.

One man was the commissioner. He had a lot of money on him. We took the money from the people and put it on our horses and then we got the money from the coach.

We were about to leave when one of the pepole shot me in the back but I rode on.

They treated me but I soon died.

■ MINER'S WIFE – by Juliette Arnott

Today my husband and I went to a dance. It was really horrible because earlier on he found a few specs of gold near Anderson's Creek.

Instead of dancing with me, he went boasting about where he found it and what made it worse was he got drunk and he started saying he found five ounces, which, of course, was exaggerating.

Then when he at last started dancing he stepped on my toes and forgot what he was doing. I went home early at eight o'clock instead of midnight or later. He stayed at the dance. I was completely sick of my husband. I went next door to see Kathryn. She wasn't there.

She was probably at the dance. I got sick of waiting about so I went back to the dance. What a shock I got when I went into the hall. My husband was dancing with Mrs. Perkins.

I stormed out and went home. I am waiting for my husband to come home so I can tell him of our divorce.

I hate my husband's rough ways. I hate the way he drinks so much. I must've been crazy to marry him.

I don't like miners, especially him. They are too filthy and he hardly ever has a shower so he stinks.

I want to go back to England and I will. I'll get a booking as soon as ever I can.

But having been born here, he certainly qualifies as one of Warrandyte's truly long-time residents.

Ron's mother and father came to Warran-dyte in 1920 and he was born 10 years later.

He attended the local state school and was later a foundation student at Box Hill Technical School as an apprentice fitter and turner.

A stint picking fruit at Mildura interrupted his apprenticeship but he finished his time at McDonald's Disel Engineering at Richmond, and at Holeproof, Ringwood.

His first venture into business for himself was

...He later joined Viv Williams at Warrandyte Quarries, then Grahams, Kangaroo Ground.

These days, Ron carts mainly for big landscape gardeners and contractors, but still makes deliveries to local residents.

In his spare time, he snow skis, waterskis and rides trail bikes (not in Warrandyte, he is quick to add).

Ron and wife Jan have kon and wife Jan have three children — Kelly, Elisa and Jamie. All have attended Warrandyte Pri-mary School.

Come blow mind

blondes, lusty woman Dizzy bachelors, a marriage on her mind
— and lots of laughs.

— and lots of laughs.

They're the basic ingredients of "Come Blow Your Horn", Warrandyte Drama Group's production which runs for a six night season this month at the Mechanics Institute Hall.

Neil Simon's play is more than just a situation comedy. It provides some mind-stretching as well as enjoyment.

It is concerned with the issue of perpetuation of family characteristics and with the fact that we all tend to mirror personality traits of our parents.

Carefree bachelor Alan Baker (while helping his brother Buddy to become independent) succumbs to pressure from his parents to marry long-time girl-friend Connie.

As the play progresses and Alan grows older, he becomes steady, conscientious and somewhat patronising — just like his father. Brother Buddy develops in a similar way.

All this is set among elaborate charades, surprise visits and the family's wax fruit business in New York in the 1960s.

The play is produced by Tim Sherwood and the cast is David Crickett, John Golding, Martin Walker, Mandy Liddell, Lee Scott-Virtue and Roger Kibell. Bob Karl is in charge of the set.

"Come Blow Your Horn" opens on August 7, 8 and 13, 14, 15.

Tickets are available from Cheryl Crockett (844 3716) or Carol Keat-ing (844 2673).

Kids said it all

If we want to come to the heart of the Supermarket issue just remember what the local schoolchildren wrote in the last Diary.

To quote: "Having a Supermarket would be a sort of loss . . . we have enough shops . . . there will be a bigger traffic flow and more noise in the area . . . it's stupid because we already have the milk bar and the West End shopping centre . . . to put a Supermarket here would wreck Warrandyte . . . so why build more shops when we don't need them. . . ."

The kids have summed it up in a nutshell!

Diane Bullen, Reserve Road.

Learn from others

It seems that the people of Warrandyte have only to consider the experience of neighbouring towns to make a judgement on the Supermarket issue.

As an example Templestowe has a couple of retail developments that have contributed to the ruination of that once pleasant little town. Developments which are now up for sale. Does Warrandyte need vacant shops and unsuccessful shopkeepers?

As far as offering gifts, developers at Chirnside Park offered to construct a municipal library as part of their permit arrangements with Lilydale shire.

There is still no library; only more vac unsuccessful small traders and lots of ugliness vacant shops.

Most Eltham residents speak of similar problems. Do we want this to occur in Warrandyte or can we learn from the mistakes of others?

Support your local!

In all the many thousands of words written about the proposed Supermart so far, it has not once (to my knowledge) been mentioned that there already is a perfectly adequate supermarket and licenced grocer in Warrandyte.

I, and many others, have been shopping regularly at the Foodland Supermarket, and find that with the recent addition of a freezer case and delicatessen counter, it is possible to buy all the grocery articles on my shopping list right here, right now, in good old Warrandyte.

We do not need to trade

We do not need to trade any large fancy supermarts for the friendly service and individual attention avail-able to us already.

What is good for large supermarts and the subur-ban mentality surely need not necessarily apply to Warrandyte.

We may find we are the losers

Only recently, I had a conversation about the shopping facilities available in Warrandyte with a friend from Blackburn in Warrandyte with a friend from Blackburn who was surprised to learn of the number and variety of shopping services, facilities and recreational opportunities available here in Warrandyte.

If you take a mental trip own Yarra Street from Potters Cottage to Golden Gate, just consider all the goods and services available; add to this the businesses that are not actually in Yarra Street, and again add to this all the classes, sporting activities and community the classes, sporting activities and community activities.

If a supermart should appear amongst us it will drain the funds and incentive away from the many and varied small shops we now enjoy, until many will close or become drab parodies of their present lively selves.

The Warrandyte of the future will be what we make of it now.

Just ask the children who have commented so thoughtfully and clearly in the Diary recently. They are the ones who will have to live in that future.

Would we not be rather stupid to change this pleasant and varied shopping atmosphere for another tinsel superdupermart. Think about it.

Janet Foote, Magpie Lane.

What we need togetheness!

Recent discussion in your paper of the proposal to build a supermarket at the West End has prompted me to write to you, if somewhat belatedly, about this proposition.

Let me begin by saying that commercial develop-ment in Warrandyte over the last 10 years has had a significant impact on the unique character of the Local people deeply con-Local people deeply con-cerned with the future of the town and surrounding district have tried to lessen the impact of development by consulting and meeting the developers, council and State authorities con-cerned

Generally speaking these liaisons have been successful but in some cases they have not and we have ended up with developments which, to say the least, have been unsympathetic and quite out of keeping with the local environment.

However, I believe the impact of these develop-ments could pale into insignificance compared ments could pale into insignificance compared with that of a supermarket if sufficient care and interest is not shown by our community.

It is imperative that we work together, avoiding arguing among ourselves, to see that we get the development that is most suitable for Warrandyte.

Enough's enough!

The "Supermarket de-bate" has drifted away from the question of what we want for Warrandyte and now seems to be concen-trated on the accuracy of the reporting.

The question is do we The question is do we want a shopping centre, large or small — which is what has been proposed. It is not a supermarket, but a complex containing another supermarket (there is already one in Warrandyte) and a number of shops shops.

This has been proposed in both cases, in a small way by PISAG (Colin Avenue site) and on a larger scale by Davmark (the timberyard site).

The shops we have now, together with the rapidly-growing eyesore next to Folkart, are enough to serve local needs.

A proposal of the size of the Daymark develop-ment will need to draw on people outside the area to make it economically viable.

Is this what we want? Is it what we came here to enjoy?

Developments of large shopping areas can onl depersonalise Warrandyte.

This is a loss too many other communities have accepted in the name of progress.

Remember Jock?

For an architect, Jock McIntosh draws a very fine cartoon.

The Warrandyte Diary has a special regard for Jock because he was one of our original contributors.

His cartoons and other artwork became an essential part of the then - fledgling newspaper.

The Diary regretted it when Jock's chosen profession, architecture and design, took him elsewhere.

He's based in Sydney these days, but "commutes" between the harbour city and his Hawkes Road home.

On this page, we take you back several years to "Jock's War-randyte".

So you want to be a handyman?

Every hardware mer-chant dreams about them; every mothers' club boasts about them. But they're a nightmare for most trades-

"Oh yes, we love them," said the woman at the hardware cash register.

Those Do-It-Yourselfers are like a pack of lemmings every Saturday morning — you can tell 'em a mile off . . ."

And you can, too. You must have noticed the 30 to 50 age-group males in their working weekend corduroys, usually with an admiring young son in tow

You see them queueing up at McEwans with armloads of impossible gadgets, one hand on their Bankcard and an unshakeable faith in the House and Garden Guide To Simple Carpentry.

There was a time — and you can still do it at some places — when you could discreetly ask the advice of the silver-haired old gent at the local hard-ware shop.

You could pick a time when no-one was in ear-shot and whisper: "I want a bracket-type-thing to fix a sliding door to a plywood wall and I think it will need some left it will need some left-hand screws . . ."

If the chap was worth If the chap was worth his salt he'd smile knowingly, ask you for the measurements to the nearest foot and it would be all wrapped up without any ego-bruising.

Says KEN VIRTUE

I think that's how my father got to be such a whizz as a home handyman.

With some good drawings, the right tools and a lifetime of good advice from the old guy at the local hardware, Dad has managed to build the back decking, kitchen cupboards (with drawers that actually slide), a tiled shower recess and a very good bar. good bar.

He has made himself a very hard act to follow.

I've tried a few things, mind you, and I'm still getting flak from the wife about the built-in ward-robe that never really worked.

The doors jammed mercilessly and even the kids used to laugh at it.

It stood to constantly mock my pitiful toolbox and the self-service shop where I bought all the wrong brackets and odd-sized bits of timber.

A team of experts from Popular Mechanics could never have fixed it. My Dad just shook his head and suggested we spend and suggested we spend some time at his bar hav-ing a quiet beer.

So now I call a tradesman for anything more difficult than a nail in a soft timber wall.

The plumber arrived the other day to install our new pot belly stove. With the most stunning assortment of power tools, he had the job finished in a couple of hours.

The family is happy, my ego is O.K. — and it was worth every cent of the fifty dollars!

BLOODS GEAR UP

biggest test of the season on Sunday, August 9.

The Bloods are at home to league leaders Norwood.

A win would give War-randyte a first-rate chance of taking this season's premiership.

Sunday's game starts at 2.15 p.m. The reserves curtain-raiser kicks off at noon.

They finished the quarter with 4.12, butl ed by six goals atha If-time.

Warrandyte wrapped up the match with an eightgoal t hird term and although Sandown fought back in the final quarter, they were never going to make a gameof it.

The Bloods' best player was Simon Rogerson, who played a classic attacking defender's game at centre half-back.

half-back.

Outstanding full-forward

Ron Wilson, who was used on the ball in front of goal, finished with six goals to record his century for the season.

Warrandyte's other stars were Robin Golding, Wayne Cowell and Steve Harper.

Cowell and Steve Harper.

On the debit side, Warrandyte lost the valuable John Majoor with a broken jaw. Majoor is an important figure in the Bloods' premiership calculations.

The reserves held fourth spot with an easy win over Sandown.

Trevor Williams Wayne

Trevor Williams, Wayne Patterson and Lance Williams were best for Warrandyte as they coasted to a 20.21 to 4.15 victory.

Warrandyte also look like having the under-16s in the finals for the first time in many years.

AWarrandte's women's team will play their Nunawading counterparts at the Recreation Reserve on Sun-

Recreation Reserve on Sunday, August 16.

The game starts at 2 p.m. and will be preceded by the second annual fun-run and a barbecue.

The club's presentation ball will be held at Alfred's Homestead on Friday, September 25. For tickets, phone Anne Whitmore on 844 3411.

A few seats are still available on the club's trip to Echuca on October 3 and 4. Mrs. Whitmore will sup-
